The Orangemen are responsible for Mr. O'Brien being in Omemee and their efforts were appreciated as was shown by the large crowd of interested people and if everyone present would heed some of the remarks that Mr. O'Brien made, our churches would be overflowing before long A short programme followed the address closing with God Save the King.

CHRIST'S IMAGE CARVED IN BEAN BY A PRISONER.

Handed Curio to Jailor As He Passed to His Execution.

NEW YORK, March 24. — A carving of the head of the crucified Christ, executed with the utmost detail in the pith of a Florida bean, was exhibited at her home in East Fifty-fifth street, by Mrs. Oliver Harriman, whose friend, Mrs. H. Willis McFadden, had acquired the piece. It was made twenty five years ago in a prison of Spanish Honduras by a convict, who, as he passed to his execution, handed the carving to his jailer as a last message to his family.

Although the round bean pod is only an inch and a quarter in diameter, every feature of the face is faithfully reproduced and even the tears upon the cheeks, the swollen veins of the neck, and the upper chest, distorted with pain, can be seen. Comments upon the carving by prominent artists and clergymen, according to Mrs. McFadden, include the following:

Frederick Macmonnies, sculptor: "It is a beautiful thing. The little head is Godlike and infinitely tender and apepaling in its agony."

The late Bishop Burch: "This is the most satisfying portrayal of Christ's face that the world has ever known. It might well be called the 'Christus de profundis.'"

What disposition will be made of the "Christus de profundus," which name has been adopted for the carving, Mrs. Harriman and Mrs. McFadden have not decided. Although they want everyone to see it they hesitate to place it in a museum on account of its sacred quality. Whether it will be placed on view in some church or cathedral is yet to be decided.

Mrs. McFadden acquired the piece from a Swedish girl, Miss Sonia Nordstrum, an intimate friend, who received it as a gift from Senor Navia, a Spaniard. The name of the original Sculptor, whose family sold the carving to meet their debts, remains a mystery, but Mrs. McFadden intends, she says, to visit Honduras and search the prison records to learn his identity.

HOW MOTHERS' ALLOWANCE WORKS OUT IN PETERBORO

(By F. H. DOBBIN, Secretary of Local Board)

Let us take a look at this proposition named the Mother's Allowances Commission as it now practically shapes itself up, viewing it as a business transaction and one essentially as paternal. But if we extract the business out of it to pieces it goes. Finance and money are the backbone of the whole thing.

A genial gentleman comes to Peterborough. States that he is acting for himself and four others. All properly accredited, for he has the Act to back him up in what he says. He explains to the men at Peterborough, practically, as follows:

"You are to go into a deal with us, a business deal. You will find, through your municipality, half the capital. You will work for nothing —same as us. Do exactly as you are told, hear what applicants have to say, record their sayings, express opinions if you care so to do, and afterwards transmit the whole transaction to us. We will decide and take so long as we like to do so. Take possibly six months if we be so inclined. We will in turn inspect, explore, visit (by proxy), question, establish a family and hereditary inquisition and find out things. Eventually you'll hear from us.

"But don't forget that little matter of capital. In order that you shan't forget it, we will call for a cheque, or make a draft on your fifty-fifty allotment once each month. We are acting for the Province and the Province can't wait. We'll decide who will share and who not based on facts our views and limitations, which may be altered from time to time. Anyway, don't be despondent. We'll assume all the blame. If any one complains, just refer them to us."

That is exactly the position and perogative of the Mother's Provincial Allowances Commission to-day and as it has been for the past six months. Being our first really venture in paternal legislation, it has proved a school-of-training. Developments resulting from experience are coming to the surface. For to announce that mothers of children would receive an allowance for said children is one thing easy to proclaim. To disburse and discriminate, as must be done, is an entirely different matter. And this matter of discrimination really cuts a width swath in the proposal.

Results in Peterborough.

What have been the results in Peterborough? How much are we ahead over a half year ago? The question is not unreasonable, considering that we are partners in the venture. The following facts are stated because it is our own people who are to be benefitted, and the city pays half, and that brings the matter pretty close home:

Beginning of October last the local board advised that it would receive applications. While rules and regulations had not at that time been clearly defined, general instructions and limitations were communicated to the local board. As to period of residence in the city, number of children, available income, if any, resources etc. Based on the limitations many applications could not be entertained until a broadenjng out of the Act had been effected. Such may be the case at the present session of the local House. Following is a balance sheet, to date, covering six months' business:

Accepted and being paid	22
Declined	13
To be paid for April	5
Held for cost-of-living budget	6
Awaiting guardianship papers	1
Deserted wife, not as yet eligible	1
Held out (property and cash assets, etc.)	3
Awaiting change in Act	1
Further information	4
To be passed (possibly for April)	3
Getting Workman's Compensation	3

Explanation of Cases.

As to the reasons for cases not as yet accepted some explanation may be offered. "Cost-of-living budget" means that some time ago the Provincial board sent out a questionnaire to the several local boards asking that an estimate be made up of the cost of living for a mother and two, three and four children. From the replies received the Provincial board is now compiling a standard budget. When completed and passed cases where the earning power of members of the family over the age as required by the Act and who contribute to the maintaince of the family, as, for instance in board and such assistance as filial regard would warrant the allotment to the mother and children under age of fourteen years will be based on the cost of living, if such assistance be given.

The case awaiting guardianship papers explains itself.

Deserted wives are still subject to the condition that the period of desertion must be at least seven years. This will likely be reduced, for purposes of the Commission, to a period of five years in the near future.

Cases held out for property, cash assets, etc., means that there is such an assistance available from such sources that the Commision is doubtful if the benefits of the Act should apply.

Further information will imply that on points as effecting the case, or application, additional facts are to be ascertained.

Getting Workman's Compensation means that in no case will the Commission supplement an allowance being now paid from any other source. Even if the allowance from the Mother's Fund should prove to be larger of the two, it is doubtful if the Commission would permit one to be changed for the other.

Results Are Slow.

It will be understood that in the interval since the operation of the provision of the Act came into force that very many cases have developed presenting features, more or less complicated, and to cover which additional rules had to be made. Of course, in all cases there must be a widow and two or more children. The Act, originally devised to assist the woman who was left in circumstances of privation for herself and children, has roused up very many cases in which the privation is only partially contributary to the conditions of the home life. The opportunity to benefit is there, so why not make use of it! It is worth trying for at any rate. And when analyzed many cases develope that the apparent need is not so real as put forward. To determine calls for very patient and careful investigation, and therein lies the delay.

Many cases present the perplexing feature of the ownership of resources, a house, Victory bonds, or funds held for emergency. The desire is, and quite natural, to hold such assets for case of sickness, or other extraneous expense. But it seems that if such are recognized than the woman who has nothing except her own work. So, in an endeavor to solve the question, additional limitations have been issued. These may be summarized, but at the risk of wearying the reader:

As to residence. That applicants which reside on property, the estimate value of which is in excess of $2,000.00 in the country, $3,000.00 in a town and $4,000.00 in a city, shall not be granted allowances. Exception that in certain special circumstances this rule may be open to consideration.

Upkeep of property. Applicants accepted and owning real property be allowed in lieu of rent an amount not in excess of five per cent. of the estimated value of the real property, provided that the value shall not exceed the amounts as stated in preceding paragraph.

As to equity. No allowance shall be granted where the equity is in excess of $1,500.00 in the country, $2,000.00 in a town, or $2,500.00 in a city. Special circumstances may be considered by the Commission.

Cash qualifications. It has been decided that applicants being in possession of an amount in excess of $350.00, either in cash on deposit in bank or in other liquid assets, shall not be eligible while in possession of such excess.

Earnings of children. That in granting allowances under the Act wage-earning children in the family of the applicant shall be expected to pay into the home not less than one-half of their gross earnings.

Family Earnings.

The clause with regard to "Earnings of Children" has arisen out of the condition found in families, where older members were earning a fair income and not contributing sufficiently to the general family upkeep. One instance may be mentioned where a mother applied for an allowance and it developed that three children were earning fair wages and one daughter who earned $50.00 per month was boarding at home with the consent of the mother and paying for board $1.00 per week. Questioned the mother admitted that if she could get an allowance she could continue to

POLES TO BUILD A HUGE FLEET.

WARSAW, March 24.—(Associated Press).—Polish statesmen are trying to find a way to build up a fleet of merchant vessels to ply the seven seas. Pushed back from the salt water when Poland lost her independence and was partitioned by Prussia, Russia and Austria, the new republic, by the Treaty of Versailles, was granted an outlet to the Baltic.

The Polish Government is aiding the private concerns to finance the operation of several vessels plying chiefly between English, French and Holland ports, other firms are extending the service to America.

Poland's Ministry of War has just purchased four monitors as the foundation of the Vistula fleet. Six torpedo boats, assigned to Poland by the Council of Ambassadors, formerly having been a part of Germany's naval forces, are now undergoing repairs in England.

A navy bureau of the Ministry of Trade and Industry has been formed by the Polish Government and a naval school has been established at Tchef, or Tozew (Polish speaking), on the Vistula, just outside the limits of the free city of Danzig. The course of the academy is to be conducted along lines of modern English naval schools, an English naval mission having spent some time in Poland assisting the new Government in inaugurating its program.

16 ACQUITTED OF A MURDER

PROSECUTOR RESIGNS

WILLIAMSON W. Va., March. 24.— Police Chief Sid Hatfield and fifteen other men of Matewan were found not guilty to-day of connection with the death of Albert C. Felts, a private detective They left for their home town late to-day.

Unless their is a change of plans, however, they will be free only a short time. Judge R. D. Bailey announced during the afternoon that the next case would be called April 12. There are still six indictments against the sixteen men freed by a jury this morning, one each in connection with the deaths of six Baldwin-Felts detectives who fell mortally wounded with Felts during the street battle last May.

A large crowd gathered about the Court House during the day in the hope that the defendants would appear, but the Matewanians remained in the custody of Sheriff A. C. Pinson until they left for the little mining town at 4:45 p.m

State troopers stalked the streets of Williamson all day, carrying riot guns, but the city remained quiet and not a single untoward incident was reported.

Wives and relatives of the men stood on the porch of the county jail and received their kin with open arms. Williamson residents received the verdict quietly, and there were no demonstrations except an outburst of cheers from the miners who had stood vigil since early morning.

The defendants had nothing to say, regarding the verdict of 'not guilty," and received the news of their acquittal soberly.

Prosecuting Attorney Resigns

Soon after the verdict was announced, Wade Bronson, Prosecuting Attorney of Mingo County, handed his resignation to Judge R. D. Bailey, who accepted it, effective April 1.

Mr. Bronson said that the salary attached to the position was insufficient to maintain his family, and that he would devote himself to the practice of law.

Samuel D Stokes, City Solicitor of Williamson, was named by Judge Bailey to succeed Mr. Bronson. When notified of his appointment, Mr. Stokes declared that, as Prosecutor of Mingo, he was determined to maintain law and order in the county.

A coal miners' strike has been in progress in Mingo County coal fields since July, 1919, when organizers of the United Mine Workers' Union sought to unionize the districts in Mingo County and in Pike County on the Kentucky side of the border. Nearly a year later the Stone Mountain Coal Corporation engaged the Baldwin-Felts Detective Agency to evict striking miners' families from the company houses in which they were living. On May 19, 1920, a party of detectives headed by Albert C. Felts carried out the evictions. After a day fraught with argument between the operatives and city officials the party finished its work and prepared to depart from Matewan on an early evening train.

On leaving their hotel Felts and his men stopped in front of a hardware store. The leader and Mayor C. C. Testerman engaged in a conversation and while they stood close to each other talking a shot was fired. In an instant rifles and pistols barked from all directions, and Testerman, six other members of the Baldwin-Felt party and two other fore the shooting ended Felts, Test residents fell mortally wounded.

HOWS MOTHERS' ALLOWANCE ETC.

board her daughter at the rate mentioned. The daughter declined to pay more, saying that if she had so to do she would go and board somewhere else. Said she needed the balance of her income for personal expenditures and that her personal assistance in the home squared up the difference in the board payment.

The position of the Provincial board has been one as exceedingly onerous. The desire and intention to assist deserving cases and to guard against imposition has been most tedious. This carefulness, that relief be extended and to hold the gross sum to be paid out and chargeable to the Province at large and the municipalities, be as moderate as the welfare of the persons to be assisted will permit it to be has thrown on the Provincial board an immense amount of detail. Resulting in delays. It is possible that the local boards are not assigned enough of responsibility as to cases, and which accepted and made use of would tend to lighten the work of the Provincial board.

A Suggestion.

It is suggested by the Peterborough board that if the local administration were framed up somewhat on the lines of the Patriotic Fund administration, whereby the application would come in, be taken, discussed and considered by the board, a preliminary investigation made, and if the facts warranted, an allowance of a moderate amount paid at once, that much friction and waiting would be avoided. For the application and investigation would be at once despatched to Toronto, to be critically investigated by the District Investigator and reported on. The Provincial board, knowing that the local board would go on and pay each succeeding month until the matter was determined, would hustle to so arrange it, either by confirming the allowance for the future or by cancelling the application. It is true that the Provincial board might occasionally lose a little money, but if the idea, the basic proposition, is to assist the mother of dependent children, such might as well be done promptly as to have the ultimate decision drag along for months as has been the case.

It will be understood that the local board may only express an opinion as to merits of cases. Its decision is not in any way final. Its recommendation is only as ascertained on a survey of the facts as presented by the applicant. The real merits of the case come out on the re-investigation made by the Provincial board. This procedure has at least one merit, that the local board cannot play any favorite or put forward cases based on sympathy alone. So any assumption that the board in this city is indolent, inefficient or careless cannot stand. But if it is a truism to say that persons and people are much more often reproved and found fault with, not for what is done, but for what any or either will not do.

The suggestion from the local board has gone to the head office, that where a woman has some assets, (held by her as an anchor out to windward) it would meet all purposes if her yearly allowance were debited by the sum of the earning power of her holding, or bank account, or investment, up to a not unreasonable sum, the balance of the allowance to be paid. Thus the woman with nothing and the woman with some savings would stand on an even footing so far as allowance be concerned.

TRAGEDIES IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

Over Dozen Persons Have Met Violent or Sudden Deaths.

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 24.—Tragedies of the most appalling type have been numerous in New Brunswick within the last six months. The tail-end of the crime dragon that has held America in its grip this winter has swept over the province with fatal and pitiful results. Over a dozen persons have met sudden or violent deaths, and in not a few instances investigations of the Attorney-General's Department have landed in jail the alleged perpetrators of terrible crimes.

The case of Oliver Gaius Steeves, facing the charge of murdering his wife and five children, who were burned to death in a recent fire near Moncton, has perhaps attracted the widest attention.

The trial of William St. Pierre, charged with having murdered Miss Minnie Stevens at Edmunston in October is at present going on.

Ezekiel Berry of Forest Hill, Albert County, has been recently arrested, charged with the murder of his wife, Minnie Berry, whose death occurred on 12th December, 1920.

These are the outstanding events on the tragic roll, but there have been beside a number of suicides, fatal accidents, and deeds of violence.

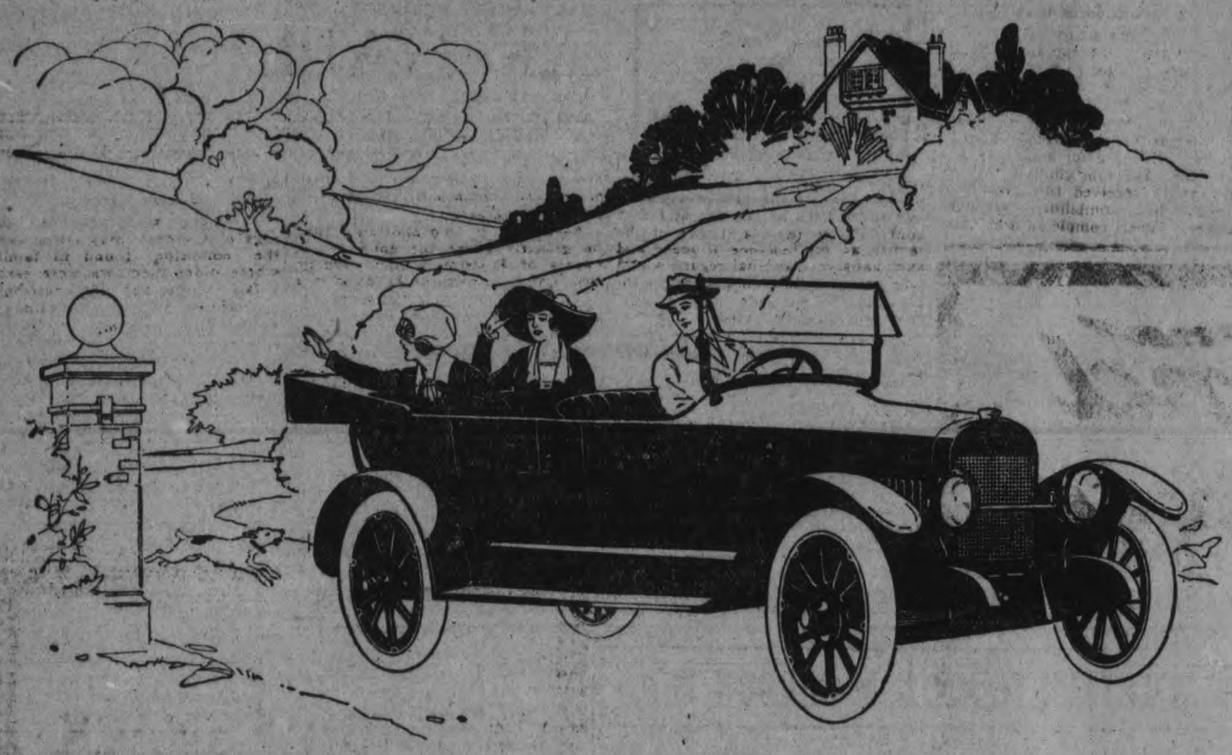
More than 37 miles of motion picture film—to be exact, 196,000 feet—were exposed in making "Earthbound," (condemned here). As the picture was finally perfected only about 8,000 feet of film were used. A determination to attain the acme of realism and the necessity of double exposures to bring out the salient features of the story were the reasons for the vast work and expense involved.

GRAY-DORT

Its Value Is Intentional



EACH added Gray-Dort which goes into use serves not only to provide fresh evidence as to the quality of the car, but also emphasizes anew the high ideals of the Institution which builds it.

A surprising majority of the thousands of motorists who have selected the Gray-Dort as the biggest value in the motor car field tell us that the reputation of the men responsible for the car has been the most important factor in their choice.

And this is natural, because only by deliberately intending to give heaping value could we hope to produce such a car as the Gray-Dort at its price.

"And is that correct what is said about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"Yes, it is absolutely true."

"But why do you recommend it?"

"For two very good reasons. First, because it fully restored my health and strength when I was weak, wornout and very greatly discouraged, and, second, because I believe it is a duty as well as a pleasure to let other women know about so superior a treatment."

"I never used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but I got interested in that Woman's Advertising Contest they had, and nearly every woman I met seemed to be talking about it. Then I saw your letter, and knew you would tell me about it."

"Well, you know how weak and miserable I was for years in spite of all the doctors could do for me. I was nervous, irritable, restless and sleepless. Thought sometimes I would go out of my mind from worry and depressed spirits. I need not tell you how well I am now. You can see for yourself. There is the whole story, and all the credit is due to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

"I get your viewpoint now. It would be a sin and a shame if you did not tell others."

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

DOUGHTY CASE TO BE CONCLUDED

Honour stated that the addresses of the counsel would commence at 10:30 this morning.

Only three witnesses were called by the crown, Ernest Reed, Miss Jean Doughty and Sergeant of Detectives Austin Mitchell, who was assigned to the case some months after Small's disapeparance. It was Mitchell who arrested Doughty in Oregon City, Oregon, last November.

Public interest in the proceedings yesterday was even greater than on the opening day and the spacious courtroom was crowded in every part throughout both sessions of the court. Doughty himself was looking a little more weary than on the previous day and sat almost motionless in the dock during the greater part of the proceedings, though he had a few whispered conversations with one or other of the three counsel who are appearing on his behalf.

Miss Jean Doughty, sister of the prisoner, had a rather long and trying ordeal on the witness stand. She seemed to be fairly well composed and when she first came forward declined the Judge's offer to provide her with a seat.

Although she was a crown witness, Col. Greer from the outset, treated her as a hostile witness and submitted her to a somewhat gruelling examination. At one stage she complained that the crown prosecutor was "mixing her all up." Her story in the main essentials was the same as that which she gave at the police court, describing how the accused, when he left for Montreal on the night of December 2nd, handed her a parcel containing the bonds, telling her that they belonged to Mr. Small ,and asking her in case she did not hear from him (Doughty) in a few days to place the parcel in a safety vault. At one point of her evidence she somewhat dramatically declared "the bonds were never stolen." She also told of holding on to the parcel until after the accused had disappeared, finally handing it over to her brother, Will. She admitted that the matter was frequently discussed in the family.

There were some lively scenes during the cross examination of Sergeant of Detectives Mitchell by the defence counsel. Once or twice Mr. Hellmuth fairly shouted at the witness when the replies that he received did not satisfy him, but the police officer remained tolerably calm though at times he showed his resentment of the manner in which he was being handled by the counsel.

"You needn't shout at me, don't shout at me, please," he observed to Mr. Hellmuth at one stage of the proceedings.

"I will, if it is necessary," retorted Mr. Hellmuth, to which Mitchell replied that it was not necessary, as he was not deaf.

NEW LANGUAGE IN FRENCH SCHOOLS.

Esperanto is Artificial and International.

PARIS, March 24.— (Associated Press.)—Esperanto, the artificial, international language, has been ordered introduced as an elective course in the commercial schools controlled by the Paris Chamber of Commerce.

The language was studied by a commission, whose members reported favorably upon it after several tests. One test was the translation of three complicated documents into French and then translation of the Esperanto texts back into French. It was found there was no change in the sense.

The introduction of Esperanto in all schools was recommended, not as a substitute for any other language, but as a means of communication.

A LETTER TO MR. G. N. GORDON, M.P.

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., by the former Federal member, Mr. J. H. Burnham:

Peterborough,
March 23, 1921.

G. N. Gordon, Esq., M.P.,
House of Commons, Ottawa.

My Dear Sir,—I am sure you will excuse me for addressing you upon a subject that I announced at the time I would bring up if re-elected, which the fortunes of war have decreed, I must commit to other hands. The high position which you have already attained in public estimation and the prominent part you are able to take in Canadian affairs prompts me to call to your attention the matter referred to with the hope that you will take it up in Parliament and, if possible, bring it to a successful conclusion. The matter to which I refer is the lowering of the sessional indemnity in conformity with the fall in the cost of living. The cost of living as found by the Department of Labour of the Government has fallen by not less than 20 per cent., and you will agree with me I am sure that what was raised in necessary conformity with the rise in the cost of living should fall with the cost of living accordingly, as wages and other renumerations must necessarily do. It is true that if all our business affairs of every kind were transacted in Canada it would not be necessary to lower wages, or anything else of that kind, so long as the fair ratio of any one form of pay were preserved with all other forms of pay. i.e., where it is possible to control all expenditure of every kind it is possible to establish it upon a fair and equitable basis, and it would not matter what a man had to pay if he were paid accordingly But our business brings us into contact with rates of pay over which Canada has no control, and when they fall, ours must necessarily fall also. And the more this foreign or international relationship arises the less control will we have over our prices and rates of pay. But that does not prevent our doing the best we can to be fair amongst ourselves in Canada, and since wages and prices have had to fall, it is but right that what was raised on account of a rise in prices should fall with members of Parliament as with others. This was part of the plan which I urged when I took part in the rise. Much else should have been raised, not only at that time, but before, notably in payments made to the soldiers. Wages generally then went up and are now falling, and it is, of course, wholly unfair that members of Parliament should escape. It is not in my power to carry out the pledge I made at the time, but it is in my power to write to you, and I do so with the full assurance that you will see that the wage indicator rises or falls for all alike.

I am, Sir,
Yours faithfully,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Millinery!

Much That Is New and Admirable Since You Last Saw Our Hats

The springtime landscape changes each day, under the influence of a warm sun and gentle showers. To-day brings a little more green to the grass, more birds from the southland and so on. It is ever changing.

Each day a transformation is wrought in our millinery department — something new arrives, something old departs. If you inspected our hats a week ago or, even, yesterday, you found new arrivals. The same is true of to-morrow and all succeeding days. On Saturday we will be displaying a whole flock of lovely ones, that are on-the-wing from a fashionable maker in Toronto.

"LAUREL" HATS

They are imported models and are beloved by women who crave for the distinctive. If you have not already seen them, then you should lose no time in trying them on.

Coats and Suits

Introducing Many New and Lovely Features

The real dressy Coats are on the wrap order. One we have in mind is of velour in a quiet fawn shade. There is a wide panel down the back to below the waistline. It is elaborately embroidered in self color. The collar is the same. Priced at $65.00.

A Blue Tricotine Wrap Coat is made with a cape effect. It is modelled on loose lines and a little blue and white check collar on top of the cape relieves the plainness of the navy. Price, $90.00.

$79.00 will purchase a Navy Blue Suit of gabardine. It is semi-tailored, military braid binding on all edges and even pleated in two rows to trim the skirt of the coat.

Tricotine and Serge Suits in navy, rookie and brown shades come at $47.50 and $57.00, if they are elaborately embroidered, like these, around the pockets and hem of the coat. The prettiest are those made in box style.

Then there is quite a fine array of Suits around $39.00, $42.50 and $45.00.

Smart Silk Umbrellas from $3.25 to $14

The "Swagger" Little Silk Umbrella, with the straight handle and Bakelite loop and stub end, is most favored now-a-days. A variety of effects from which to make selection.

New Collar and Cuff Sets of Springlike Charm

The Spring frock or suit is considerably varied by the addition of a smart little Collar and Cuff Set. There are many charming new arrivals in our Neckwear Department. In organdie, pique and net. Vestee effects and Small Round Collars are popular new styles.

Vanity Bags and Novelty Purses

Foremost among the Purses are those in Oriental effects of embossed leather. The ground work is Pekin blue and the relief done in green gold. They are in purse style with the strap at the top. One is $6.75 and a slightly larger one is $7.95.

Black Pin Seal Purse, with Oriental banding on the flap and strap on the back, is $8.95.

A fancy leather one in grey color is in long envelope style and has several compartments all lined with rose moire. It is $8.95.

A Vanity Box, in a fashionable grey shade and novelty leather, is lined with rose moire and contains all the vanity accessories. Priced at $6.50.

Others too numerous to mention, for our stock is greater and better than ever before.

Seldom Are We Able to Show So Many Novelty Glove Styles

The Gauntlet Gloves are particularly attractive. They flare out over the wrists in bell shape and take many forms.

Chamoisette ones are priced at $2.25. We have them in doe and buck shades. A wrist strap fastens with a dome and passes through a pearl buckle at the back. Another style in chamoisette at the same price comes in taupe and fawn. They have a contrasting colored gusset in front and a strap that does not go all around.

Washable Capeskin Gloves can also be had in gauntlet style. They are priced at $6.25 and $6.95. You have choice of mastic, buck, grey or brown. Those at $6.95 have bordered wrists patterned with mitres in a lighter or darker contrasting color.

Silk Stockings, of Course

Nothing is more important in the Easter outfit to-day than that the Stockings should be of silk and in perfect harmony with the other apparel.

So important, too, that they should fit perfectly. These have been gathered with that virtue carefully confirmed—and all the wanted shades are here.

Such reliable makes as "Holeproof," "Venus," "Penman's" and "Radium." Prices from $1.25 to $3.50 in first qualities.

The Over Blouse Continues to Be a Smart Fashion

Not only charming designs but splendid quality georgette crepe fashions are in these charming Blouses. Embroidery in contrasting tones makes them wonderful values

THE LAST WORD IN SPRING CHAPEAU

is for all black and black and white. Trimmings for these are striking bunches of grapes and cherries of a high lustre as well as drooping glycerined ostrich bands and mounts. Some very interesting effects are produced by using white waxed flowers on black shapes.

A large wide brimmed black Botavia shape is covered on upper side of brim with crepe de chine and the trimming is composed of three huge white velvet pond lilies.

Navy blue comes in for an equal share of prominence as well as grey, rust shades and a vivid note of color is struck in here and there by touches of jade green and Mrs. Harding blue. In the latter shade there is a smart turban of faille silk and soft lustrous straw. In the strictly tailored apparel we have a wide selection of sailors and banded effects in other shapes.

BRIEF NEWS HAPPENINGS IN PETERBOROUGH AND DISTRICT

Residents of Otonabee coming in to town have been greatly inconvenienced by the condition of the roads caused by the recent severe storms. In one particular section, a gash aboue eight feet long and three feet deep was made across the road bed, and, farther on, a long deep cut furrow, made travelling very difficult.

WAS FLOODED OUT

A brother of Dr. Thomas Johnston, of Peterboro, a veterinary surgeon in Port Hope, suffered considerable loss in the recent storm and flood in that district, his office being practically demolished with its contents of valuable books and instruments.

VISITED KITCHENER

Ald. F. Whitehouse, chairman, with Messrs. Wm. Brown of Smith and Ernest Devell of Otonabee, members of the suburban Committee which looks after repairs to roads within the three-mile limit, paid a visit to Kitchener last week to inspect a four-wheel drive truck of a new type which was being demonstrated there, for use in hauling gravel, building up cement roads, etcetera.

MANY TO TREK TO OIL LANDS

RUSH INTO ARCTIC OIL FIELDS WILL ASSUME LARGE PROPORTIONS.

LATEST EQUIPMENT

EDMONTON, Alta., March 24. — The increasing interest with which the Arctic oil fields are regarded throughout Canada and the United States was in evidence last week by 1258 enquiries to oficial sources in Alberta alone. This does not include the numerous letters and wires received by many Edmonton business men. Most of these enquiries relate to the method of reaching the scene of the oil operations while some want to know about the regulations for staking leases, possible cost and general information. The Hudson Bay information department's mail contained 468 of these enquiries during the week, the Northern Trading Company 310, the Alberta and Arctic Transportation Company 221, the Board of Trade 156, the Mounted Police Commandant 71 and the Provincial Commissioner of Police 32.

Many letters are directed also to the Attorney General, the Premier and other officials of the government. There is not a city of any size in Canada that is not represented in this pile of correspondence and it increasing daily.

The Edmonton hotels are well filled up with Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal, Toronto, Chicago, St. Louis and New York men interested in one way and another in the oil lure.

Latest Equipment.

Down in the yards of the Alberta Great Waterways over the week end was a miscellaneous collection of freight piled on 28 cars. There were seven 24-foot boats, and two sawmill outfits, three oil drilling machines, five autos, two $7000 tractors, six pair of heavy steel trucks and scores of engines of all dimensions. This stuff is for distribution all the way from Fort McMurray, which is the first navigable water after the 20-mile haul from the end of steel, 200 miles from the capital through the river's windings.

In the Dunvegan Railroad yards conditions were even more suggestive of the vasteness of the movement into the Artic. This is the 350 miles of rails leading to the Peace River, which will be the main western gateway into the Mackenzie oaisment -itions,d ail, Mu rs edes Basin. Here the heavy freight for the north filled 35 cars, with more piled up at the station.

These two routes, the east via Fort McMurray and the west via the Peace River crossing, will carry the bulk of the passenger, and all the freight traffic, northward. They join at Lake Athabasca and thence into the Mackenzie River their routes are identical. The Peace River route is same 200 miles shorter it is claimed, but it is handicapped by the Vermillion Chute portage.

NOT THE VOGUE TO MARRY YOUNG.

Most Boston Brides and Grooms Wait Until 30.

BOSTON, March 24.—Nine out of every ten prospective brides and bridegrooms who have applied for marriage licenses here in recent years are well along in the thirties," according to City Registrator W. McGlennen, who announced the result of a survey of matrimonial ages in the last ten years.

Most of the wamen who marry today are between 27 and 33, he reported, and most of the bridegrooms are between 30 and 40.

Unemployment, living costs and scarcity of houses are assigned by the Registrar as the chief reasons for the high average age.

"The young girl who comes here is now a rarity," he said. "The young was under 25 is almost an exception which proves the rule."

A PRESENTATION TO MISS CROWLEY

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Miss M. Crowley, 19 Brown Street, last evening when a number of her De Laval associates paid her a parting visit on her departure from the De Laval. Miss Crowley was the recipient of a handsome club bag as a token of the high esteem in which she was held. A suitable address was read by Mr. F. Allen, after which Miss J. Dore made the presentation. Miss Crowley made a suitable reply in a few well-chosen words. A social hour was spent in music and dancing. Light refreshments were served and the delightful party was brought to a close.

WILL ADDRESS LOCAL ENGINEERS

LECTURE WILL BE ILLUSTRATED BY LANTERN SLIDES.

The meeting to-sight of the Engineering Institute will be a very interesting one.

It will be addressed by Mr. P. P. Westbye, General Manager of the Wm. Hamilton Company, whose subject will be "Pulp and Paper Manufacture."

Through the courtesy of Sir Wm. Price and Carl Riordon, Mr. Westbye has secured the use of a number of reels of moving pictures, which are the best of their kind ever shown in the city.

Two reels were taken at Kenoganie, Quebec, where Price Bros. operate one of the largest pulp and paper mills in the world. These reels start at the forest and show the lumbering operations and the complete process of making mechanical pulp and newsprint. The films from the Riordon Co. were taken at their Kipawa plant at Temiskaming and show the processes of making sulphite or chemical pulp. They also show the details of the large power development at this place.

These two plants are examples of the most modern types of pulp and paper mills, everything being handled by machinery, much of which was made in Peterborough.

Mr. Westbye will explain the processes as they appear on the screen and will endeavor to give those attending a clear conception of the subject.

All citizens will be welcome to the meeting, which will be held is the Board of Trade rooms at 8.00 p.m.

SINN FEINERS TRY JAIL BREAKING

CORK, March 24.—(Canadian Press).—A party of Sinn Feiners made a carefully planned attempt last night to break into jail here and release prisoners held under death sentence. The attempt failed, however, owing to the extraordinary precautions which had been taken by the authorities.

A wise man pays attention strictly to his own business unless paid to attend to the business of other people.

It certainly is a fortunate thing for virtue that it is its own reward, otherwise it would probably go unrewarded.

Preparing for Peterboro Motor Show

The arrangements for the Motor Show, as far as the ladies are concerned, are already in splendid shape. The Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., will have charge of the tea-room and the Peter Robinson Chapter of the fashion parade and dance hall. The fancy work and home-made cooking will be taken care of by the Christian Mothers of St. Peter's, assisted by the Sodality, the Business Girls' Club will sell candy and the Thursday Club will have charge of the ice cream booth. Mrs. A. H. Stratton is presiding over the automobile accessories and the King's Daughters intend to erect a fish pond and supervise a table for the sale of fancy articles.

King's Daughters

The King's Daughters is one of the charitable organizations of the city about which very little is known. With its significantly beautiful name, it is one of the oldest societies of the kind in the continent of America. The local branch, which depends to a great extent for funds on its annual Bal Poudre, goes about in a quiet fashion in Peterborough, visiting the needy, the hospital and the Protestant Home, and also provides and serves the tea at the weekly meetings of the Well Babies' Clinic.

Girl Guards

The Salvation Army recently had a visit from a Staff Captain from Montreal, when he enrolled the local troop of Life Saving Girl Guards. This is a group of young girls from the ages of ten to eighteen, who have for a four-fold object: "The salvation of the body, of the mind, of the soul and the salvation of others." They are trained in physical and mental exercises along these lines, and have a junior division, from eight to ten years of age, called the Little Warriors. The Army has also a Young People's Legion of girls over the age of thirteen, who have weekly classes in all sorts of needlecraft.

Womans' Place

An American magazine says:

"There was a time when woman's place was in the seraglio. Later on it was in the home. Now it seems to be about any place she takes it into her mind to go. And if she is not welcome in some places at first, she makes her own welcome.

"One reason that friend wife is ready to sit down after she has finished the dinner dishes has been discovered at a model school in the South. A pedometer attached to one of the students showed that she had walked three miles in preparing and serving breakfast, luncheon and dinner.

"'College girls of to-day, says Dr. R. Tait McKenzie, director of physical education at the University of Pennsylvania, 'are taller and heavier than their sisters of sixty years ago. Comparison of statistics kept at women's colleges shows that the average student of 1921 weighs 6 or 7 pounds more and is an inch taller than the college girl of 1860. This improvement is attributed to participation in sports and out-door life.'"

Serve with Oatmeal

—To bring the rose tint to women's and children's cheeks.

—To increase men's energy and vim.

Do this, madam, for tomorrow's breakfast: Stew some raisins according to the recipe printed here, and mix with the oatmeal that you serve tomorrow morning.

Do it for the added flavor—to make oatmeal more attractive.

But do it mainly for the food-iron that raisins send into the blood, and for the raisin's mildly laxative effect.

The bloom of youth

The tonic food-iron of raisins helps to bring the bloom of youth to cheeks that perhaps are paler than they should be. Then the nutriment of raisins—1560 calories per pound—gives men and children the energy they need.

For regulating, tonic and nutritious properties combined, one can find no other food that's so effective. The luscious flavor makes it easy to serve stewed raisins frequently, so there's every argument in favor of their daily use.

Send for free book, "100 Raisin Recipes." But first try the recipe printed here.

Stewed Raisins

Soak raisins over night, pour water off and place in stewpan, putting in not quite enough water to cover and cook slowly for about an hour, then sugar to taste and add a bit of vanilla. Some raisins do not require much or any sugar.

What Dr. J. H. Kellogg says:

(Dr. Kellogg is head of the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium.)

"Raisins are served on the Battle Creek Sanitarium Table every day. A pound of Raisins has twice the food value, an equal amount of iron and seven times as much food lime as a pound of choicest lean steak. The sugar of Raisins is much more wholesome than cane sugar, requiring no digestion and being absorbed in one-fourth the time required for ordinary sugar. If the American people would eat more Raisins and less meat the results would be better digestion, less rheumatism, less Bright's disease, less heart disease, greater efficiency and longer life."

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins in all your cooking, for they are the finest grown. Made from tender, juicy, thin-skinned California table grapes.

Packed in an immaculate plant in California. Clean, sweet, wholesome, American raisins—the kind you know are good.

Three varieties: Sun-Maid Seeded (seeds removed); Sun-Maid Seedless (grown without seeds); Sun-Maid Clusters (on the stem). All dealers. Insist upon the Sun-Maid Brand.

Spring Flowers

The daisy is one of the most popular of Spring flowers and is known as the emblem of fidelity and constancy, for it is the latest blossom of the year and the first to reappear with the approach of Spring. It is connected with the earliest traditions of England, and the following pretty legend centres around this pretty flower:

While the Romans persecuted and put to death the Christians of England, Saint Druon one day said to his sister, Saint Olle: "Sister, the days of the inquisition are upon us. I, a priest, must die at my post, and without fear or murmuring, await the death of a martyr. But thou, my child, canst not with thy sisters incur the dangers that I see lie before us. Thou must leave me and with them seek a refuge where thou canst pray to God in safety."

Saint Olle refused at first, then yielded to her brother's wishes, and left the country. At the end of a year the persecution had ceased and the good Bishop thought he might with safety urge his sister's return. This was not easy at first, as he did not know where she had found a refuge. Full of confidence in the Almighty, he went in search of her and took the first straight path that lay before him. Although it was now the end of Autumn, it struck him that as he pursued his way little tufts of flowers showing yellow centres, surrounded by a crown of white rays, appeared to spring up out of the earth before him, shining even as stars to dispel the darkness of his night. He followed the way as shown to him by these star-shaped flowers, and after nine days' wandering, reached a desert spot with many hiding places, where at length he found his sister.

Since then the daisies are said to be seen on the earth at all seasons.

Blondes Excluded

The other day a judge in New York, when choosing a jury from among the feminine spectators in his court-room, remarked that he would include no blondes in his selection, "because they are too fickle." This looks like a very sweeping statement, on the face of it, and we very much fear that the gentleman who made it must have suffered a sentimental defeat at the hands of a fair-haired lady earlier in his career.

Helen's face, "that launched a thousand ships," was surmounted by golden tresses, it is true, but many of the most famous heart-smashers of history, from Cleopatra, the "black-browed queen," were women of dark hues, and the vamps of the stage and screen to-day are very seldom of a light complexion. Titian-haired they may be, in some instances, but very rarely is the twister of hearts and wrecker of homes a simon-pure blonde. They favor the Theda Bara variety—dark, deadly and dangerous—and the wistful, pretty, appealing, constant heroine type. And then, think of the blondes who achieve their condition through the kindly offices of the peroxide bottle and the henna wash. Do they become less constant as the application takes a firmer hold?

Easter Eggs

The Ladies' Home Journal is responsible for the following recipe for "Easter Eggs As They Know Them in France":

Heat a quantity of fat in a kettle When it emits a bluish haze it is When it emits a bluish haze it is ready for the eggs. These must be broken one at a time in separate saucers and glided gently into the fast boiling fat. Immediately they will transform themselves into snow-white delicate puff balls and will float on the hot fat like crullers, requiring no turning, and ready in a very few moments for the skimmer. When removed from the fat they must be drained for a moment only, then served at once on a hot plate encircled with a wreath of cress or parsley.

Butter browned to a deep, bright shade with an equal quantity of vinegar, preferably farragon, and a bit of finely chopped parsley.

ESTABLISHED NEW ORDER IN DRESS.

Wore Cutaway Coat at Reception.

PARIS, March 24 (Canadian Press). — President Millerand did not put on his swallow-tailed coat for the reception of Marshal Pilsudski, the Polish President, when that dignitary visited Paris recently, and fashion circles of Paris say he thereby established a new order of things.

M. Millerand wore a one-button cutaway, or morning coat. It was the first time that such a garment has been worn by one of the principals in an official ceremony in France.

In French official functions full evening dress, with all available medals and decorations, is required.

A DISAPPOINTMENT

MR. GRANT WILL BE UNABLE TO OPEN HIS NEW STORE ON SATURDAY.

It was hoped that the new shoe store of Mr. J. C. Grant's would make its opening bow on Saturday, but late advices from the makers of his correct footwear are unable to forward the goods in time. Mr. Grant expects to be all ready for Easter Monday or Tuesday at furthest. In the meantime the remodelling of the store will get the finishing touches in preparation for a less hurried opening.

A PRESENTATION TO MISS BAUMER.

On Tuesday night, in the basement of Turnbull's store, Miss Margaret Baumer, who is shortly to be married, was presented by the management and the staff of the store with a beautiful metal reading lamp. Tea was served in the basement, and, following speeches and felicitations by the staff, Miss Baumer was presented with the lamp by Mr. Charles Lapp. Mr. Charles Telford, in whose department the bride-to-be was employed, referred to the splendid service of Miss Baumer to the store. Arthur Wood proposed the toast to the bride-to-be, to which she made suitable reply.

In dancing and music an exceedingly pleasant hour was spent by the staff. An enjoyable recitation was given by Miss Godfrey and musical numbers by Miss Chambers and Harold Donner contributed much to the success of the evening. Good wishes were showered upon Miss Baumer by her associates and the management of the store, and with these, intermingled with expressions of regret at her leaving, the happy gathering dispersed.

BEAUTIFUL SERVICE.

Dr. Blagrave, of St. John's Church, conducted a very beautiful service at the Young Women's Christian Association last evening. The subject of his talk was "Christ's Trial," in which he outlined the events of the trial and emphasized the fact that the Jews chose Barabbas rather than Christ. So we, when we yield to temptation and do the wrong thing, are choosing Barabbas and rejecting Jesus.

The meeting to-night will be in charge of the Rev. W. Harold Young, of George Street Methodist Church.

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

MAY OBTAIN RELIEF BY ENRICHING THE BLOOD SUPPLY.

In the days of our fathers and grandfathers rheumatism was thought to be the unavoidable penalty of middle life and old age. Almost every elderly person had rheumatism, as well as many young people. It was thought that rheumatism was the mere effect of exposure to cold and damp, and it was treated with liniments and hot applications, which sometimes gave temporary relief, but did not remove the trouble. In these days there were many cripples. Now, medical science understands that rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and that with good, rich, red blood any man or woman or any age can defy rheumatism. There are many elderly people who have never felt a twinge of rheumatism, and many who have conquered it by simply keeping their blood rich and pure. The blood enriching qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is becoming every year more widely known, and the more general use of these Pills has robbed rheumatism of its terrors. At the first sign of poor blood, which is shown by loss of appetite, dull skin and dim eyes, protect yourself against further ravages of disease by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have helped thousands of people—if you give them a fair trial they will not disappoint you.

You can get these Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAYS ACID STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION

Excess of hydrochloric acid sours the food and forms gases.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydro-chloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble wth excellent results.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, March 24.—(Canadian Press).—The stock market showed no very definite trend at the broad opening of to-day's session, although several of the popular oils and motors enhanced their recent gains. Within the first half hour trading becaame more active and the tone more reactionary, due to pressure against rails, food issues and some of the unclassified specialties. Houston Oil was conspicuous for its initial gain of almost two points and Vanadium and Wilson Packing rose one point each. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and U. S. Rubber averaged one point losses with Studebaker, yesterday's strongest feature. Sears-Roebuck continued to decline, falling to a new low of 69 1-2.

Early re-action, which was partly attributed to further realising, caused additional declines among Oils, Motors, Independent Steels, Tobaccos and Chemicals. These ranged from one to two points, while Sears-Roebuck added a large fraction to its previous loss. Rails made moderate concessions on light offerings. From lower levels there were rallies under the lead of Houston Oil, Atlantic Gulf, American Woollen and some of the food shares, but the movement had none of the vigor of the previous day. Call money opened at 6½ per cent.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, March 24.—(Canadian Press).—Dull trading took place this morning on the Toronto Stock Exchange, very few changes being established in the prices of stocks, although the entire list displayed a tendency to weaken. General Electric was worse in this respect, declining 1½ points to 112. Other fluctuations were only fractional, including Steamships Preferred, down 3-4 at 65¼, and Abitibi ¼ at 42 1-8. Steel Corporation was stronger, improving by a substantial fraction to 43 3-4.

NEW YORK, March 24.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange steady; demand 3.91 3-8. Canadian dollars 11 7-8 per cent. discount.

LIVESTOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, March 24.—(Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts light, trade weaker. Quotations:

Heavy beef steers, $10 to $11; butcher steers, choice, $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $14 to $16; lambs, $12 to $14; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $15 to $15.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 24.—(Canadian Press).—Downturns in the price of wheat to-day took place, influenced more or less by the revolutionary outbreaks in Germany. Wage reductions in the United States were also given a bearish construction. Commission house buying, however, developed on the decline in values and led to rallies. Opening quotations, which ranged from ½ to 2 cents lower, were followed by the recovery in some cases to the same as yesterday's finish.

Corn was easier with wheat, May touching the lowest price yet this season. After opening unchanged to 3-8c off, the market underwent a moderate general sag and then recovered somewhat. Oats paralleled the action of other grains, starting ¼c lower to 1-8c to ¼c up, and then declining a little all around before beginning to re-act. Provisions shared in the weakness of other commodities.

Gains were scored later when corn turned strong. The close was steady 1-8 to 1-4 net higher with May at 64 1-8. Signs of brisk export demand counted subsequently as a bullish factor in wheat and with persistent buying led to a material advance but the best prices failed to hold. The close was unsettled 1-4 to 2 3-8 net higher with March 153 and May 141 3-4 to 142.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, March 24.—(Canadian Press).—The market this morning was not exciting, and very few changes occurred during the session. Abitibi sagged another half point and closed at 42¼. Atlantic Sugar remained unchanged. Brazilian went down still further to 32, at which figure it closed, while Brompton remained steady at 35, as did also Laurentide at its opening figure. National Breweries strengthened half a point from its opening figure and closed at 38 3-4. Wayagamack remained unchanged throughout at 70.

FIFTEEN LACROSSE PLAYERS ARE ALREADY LINED UP FOR TEAM

FIRST MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE LAST NIGHT REPORTED ENCOURAGING SIGNS.

All the members of the Executive Committee of the Lacrosse Club were present at the preliminary meeting held in the Board of Trade rooms last night. C. S. Cummer, the president, was in the chair. The discussion included the question of directing Harry Tudhope, secretary and representative, to the annual meeting of the O. L. A in Toronto to-morrow. It was decided that Mr. Tudhope should use his own discretion in the election of officers and on other questions that are coming before the Association.

Reports so far received from those who intend to play here this summer showed that fifteen men have signified their desire to get into the game. It is hoped that if there are others who know the game and wish to play with the local team this year they will get in touch with the club as soon as possible.

The feeling of the executive last night was that Peterboro's plans will depend upon the prospects for a good group in this district. News from the surroundings towns is encouraging but nothing definite will be known until next week.

There is keen interest among the promoters of the game in Campbellford and Havelock. Tweed is a possibility, and Hastings and Norwood may combine to form another club. If these promises materialize there is no question of lacrosse regaining a strong position in the athletic affairs of this district this year.

The question of finances was deferred until next Wednesday night when Mr. Tudhope will present his report of the annual meeting.

GOLF NEWS

To few golfers is given the joy of making a hole in one stroke, but consider the lucky man who holes out twice in a single round- William David, scratch player in England, was going over the Newton Nottage links at Portheawl, England, and holed the short tenth and seventeenth holes from the tee. He has played golf for twenty years and never before had he made a "oner". Incidently they can still properly celebrate such events abroad.

MIDLAND'S STAR HOCKEYIST DEAD

SUSTAINED INJURIES IN GAME BETWEEN PARRY SOUND AND MIDLAND.

MIDLAND, March 24.— Elmer Byrne, aged 18, conceded to be the star player of the Midland juniors, and who was hurt in the O.H.A. game between Midland and Parry Sound, at the latter town, on February 1, has passed away in the St. Andrew's Hospital, Midland.

Near the close of the game he fell and was struck by the skate of Lalonde, of Parry Sound, receiving a bad gash in the leg. He was brought back to Midland and placed in the Hospital, where he remained until his death. The executives of both Parry Sound and Midland teams did everytring in their power for his relief.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon.

A BIG RUSH FOR THE FINAL GAME

CONSIDERABLE LOCAL INTEREST IN BASKETBALL FINALS.

The interest in basketball in this city was demonstrated last night when within one hour of the opening of the reserve seat plan the entire gallery was sold out. It was announced in yesterday's paper that the plan for the final game with Woodstock would be opened at 7.30 last night. One hour later the gallery seats were all sold and a number on the gymnasium floor. Basketball fans in Peterborough are under the impression that seats on the floor are undesirable. In London, Woodstock, Paris and St. Catherines the only place for spectators is on the floor of the gymnasium as these associations have no galleries. Many ladies are among the spectators and no serious mishaps ever occur. From the standpoint of viewing the game, it is noticeable that in every game it is necessary to ask a considerable number of spectators to sit in the gallery, who have gathered on the side lines, which indicates that the latter position is a favored position from which to watch the play. There is a feeling that one is on the inside when on the side lines that is not experienced in a seat in the gallery. Veteran players and those who have officiated in games are usually found on the gym floor on the side lines from choice, and these are sure to choose a position from which all of the plays can be seen. The floor plan is rapidly selling for the game on Monday night and those anxious to see the local team win the Ontario Intermediate championship should secure their seat immediately.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

It will be good news to many screen devotees to know that Edwin Stevens, an actor without peer on the screen, who played the sardonic, crafty Baron Alexis in J. Parker, Read, Jr's "Sahara," is the villian of the brilliant young producer's second Louis Glaum production, "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," by Louis Joseph Vance, which comes to the Grand Theatre, beginning Easter Monday for four days.

Stevens' role in the new W. W. Hodkinson release eclipses in power the part assigned him in "Sahara," his performance as the leader of a criminal syndicate in London and the direct protagonist of the Lone Wolf himself ranking with his stellar stage achievment in the title role of Ferencz Molnar's famous drama "The Devil."

Other notables who accord Miss Glaum splendid support are Thomas Holding, popular leading man, and Bertram Grassby, noted character artist in the role of The Lone Wolf

AT THE ALLEN "THE HIGHEST BIDDER."

Everybody loves a fat man, but who loves a stout woman? However, it was not only her obesity which made Mrs. Steese unpopular in "The Highest Bidder," the new Goldwyn Picture, starring Madge Kennedy, which comes to the Allen Theatre Friday. Mrs. Steese was so obviously "out for the money," and though we all of us like the idea of gathering pelf, we don't precisely like to see ourselves satirized and publicized in a woman who doesn't, or rather, can't hide her desire for money. Mrs. Steese, played excellently by Zelda Sears, wanted Sally (Madge Kennedy) to marry for money and almost succeeded in making her do so. But in the end, Sally realizes that "The Highest Bidder" is not Mammon, but Cupid.

TO AGE-OLD PROBLEM.

That old platitude about riches not bringing happiness is refreshingly presented in Madge Kennedy's latest Goldwyn picture, "The Highest Bidder," which comes to the Allen Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Taken from a story by Maximilian Foster, the photoplay deals with tangled troubles of a group of people, one of whom is a millionaire, cynically convinced that women care more for his money than for him, while two others of the group are women who actually do long for his money.

One of two women is Sally, (Madge Kennedy) who: unfortunately for her conscience, falls in love with the man whose riches she has set out to win, and so brings on many, many complications, when her millionaire discovers that (as he thinks) she is only "after his money." In the end, both discover that the eternal is nearer in love than in the Treasury Building itself.

AT THE REGENT.

THRILLING STUNTS IN NEW MIX PLAY

A popular star in a picture that fits him like the proverbial "paper on the wall" became the attraction at the Regent Theatre when Tom Mix, the daredevil Fox star, began a run of three days in "The Untamed," adapted to the screen from the well-known novel by Max Brand.

Thrilling throughout, this picture will appeal to every lover of Western photodrama. Mix again covers himself with that glory which results from the successful performance of hair-raising feats of daredeviltry accompanied by genuinely good acting.

Emmett J. Flynn, the director associated with Mix for the first time in making this picture, displayed his universally recognized ability for putting speed and punch in his scenes. He knew Tom Mix's daring and he apparently didn't try to save the star's skin where the liability of losing part of it would help the picture.

A splendid cast of players was chosen for the production. Pauline Starke, one of the most popular leading women in pictures, plays opposite the star. Others well known are George Seigmann, P. M. McCullough, James O. Barrows, Charles K. French, Pat Crisman, Sir Jordan, Major J. A. McGuire, Frank M. Clarke and Joseph Connelly.

DEVINE REMAINS ON THE OUTSIDE

BREACH BETWEEN CATCHER AND CLUB CONTINUES TO WIDEN.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 24. — A near-murder in the vicinity of the ball park, an exhibition of climbing by a "human fly," and a sudden change in the climatic conditions made this an eventful day in the Toronto team's stay here. Trainer Percy Ryan was an eye-witness to the stabbing affray, in which one negro used a razor on another, and as the victim is not expected to live he is keeping religiously under cover for fear he may be called as a witness.

This episode and the case of Devine were the whole topics of conversation in the camp. The players have no sympathy for the catcher, and "Mickey" bids fair to lose whatever popularity he has gained if he persists in his unreasonable attitude. It is certain that he has asked for a contract calling for more money than the majority of backstops in the big leagues are getting. President McCaffery has no intention of submitting to his demands, and unless Devine moderates his terms considerably he will be told to pack his "duds."

NEARLY CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

No rest day or night for those who are afflicted with that terrible skin disease, eczema, or as it is often called, salt rheum.

With its unbearable burning, itching and torturing, relief is gladly welcomed.

There is no remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters for giving relief to such sufferers; no remedy that has done, or can do more for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture.

Apply it externally and it takes out the stinging, itching and burning, and proomtes a healthy healing.

Take it internally and it gets at the source of the disease in the blood,—for eczema is a blood disease—and drives it out of the system.

Miss L. M. Boutilier, 89 Victoria Road, Halifax, N.S., writes:—"I have suffered for years from eczema. I could not rest day or night. I suffered great agony, and was nearly crazy with the itching and burning. I used all kinds of salves, but nothing seemed to help me. I saw Burdock Blood Bitters advertised, and was advised to try a bottle. I found great relief, and I really cannot recommend it highly enough for what it has done for me."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LIPTON GIVES CUP TO PRISON LEAGUE

OSSINING, N.Y., March 24. —A silver cup, to be held in competition from year to year among the baseball teams of Sing-Sing Prison, has been presented to the Mutual Welfare League by Sir Thomas Lipton, the English yachtsman, it was announced here to-day by the State Prison Commission. Construction of a baseball field of regulation size will be undertaken at once on the prison ground.

This paint film is less than 1\100 of an inch thick. What does that mean to you?

When you stop to realize that a two-coat film of paint is less than 1-100 of an inch in thickness, and that this thin film stands between your house and the weather, you can see the vitalness of buying the right kind of paint.

Lowe Brothers High Standard Paint forms a tougher film than any other paint we know of. It is elastic. It will not crack with the weather's changes. It is both weatherproof and waterproof.

It costs a little more than most paints, but it always covers more surface, therefore less paint is required and you actually save money at the very start. This fact, coupled with its long lastingness, makes it really an investment paint.

If you want to prevent future trouble, come in and talk over your paint problems with us.

ANARCHISTS BOMB THEATRE

LONDON, March 24. — (Canadian Press.) — A bomb explosion took place in the Diana Theatre at Milan in Italy, last night, twenty persons being killed, according to a despatch to the London Times from that city.

Many were injured, at least twenty of whom are not expected to survive. The police believe that the outrage was the work of anarchists as a protest against Malatesta's imprisonment.

GREEKS SUCCESSFUL AGAINST KEMALISTS

ATHENS, March 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Continued success agains tthe Turkish Nationalists in Asia Minor are reported from the Ushak and Brusa fronts, according to an official announcement issued here. The Greeks, it is declared, are not encountering much resistance in their advancement towards Eski Shehr.

"On Thursday," says the statement, "the Greeks continued to advance in the Ushak sector, the enemy who feebly resisted being driven back from the fortified ridge between Ager and Bonnar to a line about thirty miles east of Ushak. Two hundred prisoners were taken.

"In the Brusa sector, the enemy was driven from positions east of the city and the Greeks occupied a line running through Gieuneuch, Vereisi and Dilidjek, about six miles from the town. The losses have been insignificant."

GORDON WON'T MAKE PROPOSAL

REFUSES TO TAKE UP MATTER OF LOWERING SESSIONAL INDEMNITY AS PROPOSED BY J. H. BURNHAM.

GIVES HIS REASONS

G. N. Gordon has refused to take up the mater of proposing a reduction of the sessional indemnity of members of the House of Commons in conformity with the decline in the cost of living, as proposed to him by J. H. Burnham, on the grounds that when the increase was made there was nothing in the Act to indicate that the increase was not to be permanent and that as the Act was passed by an overwhelming government majority he would be making himself the joke of the House in now proposing a reduction.

Following is Mr. Gordon's reply:

Peterborough, March 26th, 1921.

J. H. Burnham, Esq., City:

Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge your favor of recent date regarding the sessional indemnity. As I understand it from your letter your suggestion is that the indemnity was increased while you were a member to meet the increased cost of living. If this was the case, in my opinion a bonus should have been voted which would have lasted for one year, and the indemnity should not have been increased, which means that it continues from year to year without special enactment.

The Act dealing with this matter does not indicate that the reason for the increase of indemnity was the increased cost of living, and my recollection, from the discussion that took place at the time, was that the Act was passed making the increase permanent, and it was your duty, if you permit me to say so, at that time to move an amendment making the increase continue only for one year or two years at most, until the cost of living came down.

You will remember that this increased indemnity was carried by an overwhelming Government majority so it would be idle for me, no matter how I felt in the matter, to introduce any Bill providing for the reduction of the indemnity. Doing this would mean that I would be laughed out of Court because the members of the House of Commons who passed this increased indemnity have not the slightest intention of ever reducing it whether the cost of living is decreased or not.

I really think it would have been better if you had placed yourself on record by an amendment providing that this indemnity should continue only for a limited period of time, and not be permanent, but the records indicate that you voted for permanent increase of the indemnity which the members now receive.

You can appreciate, under the circumstaffces, that this not being an issue in the campaign at which I was elected I cannot, with any degree of assurance, support legislation with the object of reducing this sessional indemnity, as I would be making myself a joke in view of the legislation being passed only last session increasing the indemnity.

Under the circumstances, and in view of the fact that you were responsible to some extent for the increased indemnity being paid the members, I feel I better leave this matter to you to deal with as the event of your being, at some future date, returned as member to the House of Commons for West Peterborough.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

TORONTO DRYS HAVE ACCEDED TO AGITATION

DECIDE TO PLACE NO NAMES ON REFERENDUM VOTERS' LISTS EXCEPT BY PERSONAL APPLICATION.

AVOID LEGAL FIGHT

TORONTO, March 26.—(Canadian Press). — No attempt will be made by the workers of the Toronto Referendum Committee to have names added to the voters' lists other than by personal application of the voter himself. Such was the decision arrived at yesterday at a special meeting of the Toronto Referendum Committee as announced in a statement issued by officials of the committee last night.

Conflict of opinion between high authorities as to the procedure to be followed in the revision of the lists for the coming referendum vote, the action of the Citizens' Liberty League in applying for an injunction seeking to prevent the placing of names on the lists on the presentation of certified lists by workers and the possibility of interminable complications in the law courts are given as the reasons.

THE UNION SERVICE WAS WELL ATTENDED

SEVERAL MINISTERS TOOK PART IN THE SERVICE.

Yesterday afternoon a union Good Friday service of the Protestant churches of the city was held in Trinity Church at 3 o'clock. The church was crowded for the service, over which Rev. J. R. Webb presided. Rev. James Rollins read the lesson, Rev. R. Pogue offered prayer, and a very inspiring sermon was preached by Rev. W. Harold Young.

The text was taken from the 1st Epistle of John, 3rd chapter, 16th verse: "We know what love is by this, that He laid down His life for us." The speaker dwelt on the death of Jesus Christ on Calvary as a revelation of what love in its highest form really is. He defined the love of Christ, which put itself under the burden of men's sins and bore that burden with them, as a passion for the very best in the life of mankind, and concluded by emphasising the fact that this is the sort of love that God wants us to have for each other.

Mrs. George H. King sang a solo beautifully during the service, which was closed with the benediction by Rev. F. E. Malott.

PASSING OF AN OLD LAKEFIELD LANDMARK

DICKSON FIRM OF PETERBOROUGH TAKES OVER OLD VILLAGE BUSINESS.

LAKEFIELD, March 26.—One of the landmarks of the village of Lakefield will shortly disappear when the Dickson Store of Peterborough takes over the business owned and run for more than fifty-six years by R. Graham & Son.

The late Robert Graham began business in 1864 in Lakefield in the building destroyed by fire a year and a half ago, which was occupied by Mr. Russell Ball. He moved later to the store now occupied by Mr. Walter Chappell; still later the firm moved to a wooden store which stood where Mr. Jenkinson's jewellery store now stands, and which was destroyed in the great fire more than thirty years ago. The present store was built about forty years back by R. Graham & Son, and run continuously until the death of the senior partner in September, 1917. Mr. W. M. Graham, the junior partner in the firm carried on till his death in January of this year. His widow has since continued the business and has now leased the store to a well-known Peterborough firm, who take possession very soon. The firm is well known in Lakefield and vicinity, and its passing removes a landmark which is nearly as old as the village itself.

If You Are Considering Matrimony—
Wait!
Before you take the plunge, see "THE FURNACE."
It is a story of a couple who thought marriage would be a comfortable hearth fire, and it turned out to be a roaring furnace.
It is a picture which every man and woman should see. It portrays some of the most vital problems in life.
Every person in this city will be the better for seeing "THE FURNACE," at the ALLEN, MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

THE FIRST EASTER.

Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared and certain others with them.

And they entered in and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments.

And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, why seek ye the living among dead?

He is not here, but is risen; remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee,

Saying, the Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

And they remembered his words,

And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven and to all the rest.

BANDIT RAID AT CHIPPEWA

THREE MASKED MEN ROB HYDRO CONSTRUCTION CAMP OF ABOUT $2,000 AND MAKE GET AWAY.

FOLLOWED PAY DAY

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 26. — (Canadian Press). — Three masked men, armed with revolvers, entered the Hydro Canal Camp below Queenston, near the power house site, late Thursday night, and at the point of guns, held up the boarding house boss and thirty-five of the inmates, making away with about $2,000. No trace of them was found. When they entered the boarding house they fired two shots in the air and then demanded money or life from every one at the point of guns. The boss was relieved of $315 and the other men of different amounts ranging from $35 up. Thursday was pay day on the Canal, so the hold-up men made a good haul.

DOUGHTY IS BROKEN MAN

PLACES LITTLE FAITH IN COUNSEL'S PUTTING UP A RESERVED CASE.

TORONTO, March 26.—(Special to the Examiner).—Whatever chances I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., may think he has in putting up a reserved case to benefit his client, John Doughty, who was found guilty by a jury late on Thursday afternoon of the theft of $105,000 of victory bonds, belonging to the missing theatrical magnate, A. J. Small, apparently Doughty himself places little faith in the proposition. Almost the first words Doughty said when he arrived at the jail after the jury's verdict were: "Instead of spending money on an appeal, I would prefer to hand it over for the benefit of my boys."

This was said in the hearing of a couple of guards. Then Doughty lapsed into a deep reticence, and seemed to be brooding deeply.

The verdict, which had no outward effect on him as he stood in the dock in the crowded court-room, must have worked upon his mind soon afterwards, for by the time he reached the jail he had lost most of his previous unconcern, and was obviously downcast and moody.

In fact, Governor Basser of the jail described Doughty as a "broken down man" to-day. This striking contrast with his former almost jovial disposition, is conclusive testimony of the fact that he has been seized with the full import of the jury's finding.

Mr. Hellmuth said to-day that his client had not communicated any desire to him to abandon the plan to put in arguments for a reserved case. On Thursday I asked Judge Denton for permission to do this, and he allowed me until April 4th, remarked Mr. Hellmuth. "I certainly intend to go ahead with it."

Doughty will remain in custody at the Toronto jail until he comes up before the May Assizes on the charge of conspiracy to kidnap Small.

JOINT ENCAMPMENT FIELD AY ODDFELLOWS

The Oddfellows' Triple Link Club held a joint encampment field day yesterday, when representatives of Mt. Hebron and Hiawatha Encampments, and members from Havelock, Norwood, Lakefield, Millbrook and Port Hope met to the number of about 150. The three degrees were conferred at this meeting, and a large number of candidates applied for admission to the order. A hot dinner was served by the ladies of the Golden Link Rebekah Lodge.

U.S. REFUSES RESUMPTION OF RUSSIAN TRADE

FUNDAMENTAL CHANGES MUST BE MADE IN SOVIET ECONOMIC SYSTEM BEFORE EVEN DISCUSSION CAN TAKE PLACE.

NOTE SENT BY HUGHES

WASHINGTON, March 26. — (Canadian Press.) — The United States Government notjfied the Soviet authorities in Russia yesterday that resumption of trade between Russia and the United States could not be considered until fundamental changes had been made in the economic system underlying the Soviet regime.

The safety of human life, guarantee of property rights, free labour and the observance of the sanctity of contracts were among the requirements laid down in the brief note by Charles E. Hughes, secretary of State, as the essentials if the doors of commerce between the two countries are to be opened.

The communication adds: "Convincing evidence of the consummation of such changes must be furnished before the United States' government even cares to discuss the subject."

These requirements, the note declared, lay at the foundation of the Russian productivity by which alone the nation could hope to rebuild her foreign trade and make herself attractive economically to the nations with which she desires to exchange products.

"OLIVET TO CALVARY" WAS A REAL TREAT

SIXTEENTH EVENT OF SIMILAR NATURE TENDERED UNDER MR. DEVEY'S DIRECTION.

Maunder's setting of the events in the last week of the three years' ministry of our Blessed Lord, in "Olivet to Calvary," was presented for the first time last night by St. John's choir in St. John's church before a large congregation under the direction of Mr. R. J. Devey. The Rev. Dr. Blagrave conducted the Good Friday service, including the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the New Testament Lesson, and pronounced the benediction at the close of the service.

The Cantata was very finely sung, St. John's voluntary choristers heartily deserve all the nice things that were said of their singing last night. Aid periods of intense silence scenes of the world's greatest tragedy were unfolded in recit., song or chorus, by this splendid choir, who amply repoid themselves and their leader for much hard and paintaking rehearsal. Mr. Harold Lee, Mr. Fred Johnson, and Mr. D. J. Eldred ably sung the arias, and Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie the introduction to the final chorus.

Mr. Cyril H. Devey presided at the organ with skill and taste and thoroughly deserved the hearty congratulations of the congregation.

Mr. R. J. Devey directed the work with his usual skill and abolity.

ATTEMPT TO KILL ITALIAN PREMIER

ROME, March 26. — (Canadian Press).—A bomb exploded on the Rome-Leghorn Railway last night at midnight, shortly after the train from Rome, on which Premier Giolitti was supposed to be travelling, had passed, the Tempos Leghorn correspondent reported yesterday, adding, it is believed an attempt was made to wreck the train.

The Premier, it transpired, was on the train that followed that which passed just before the explosion.

ONLY OPPONENT IN TENDERING FOR TOLLS WAS WALTER FISHER, WHOSE TENDER WAS $30 HIGHER.

MAHOOD DID NOT TENDER

The Property Committee of the City Council met Thursday evening. Ald. R. Jones occupied the chair, with Ald. F. Whitehouse, Ald. J. Crowe and Mayor A. A. McIntyre present.

Two tenders were received for the market tolls, one from Walter Fisher, former Market Clerk, offering $650, and one from D. G. Moloney, 338 Roger Street, offering $680, both accompanied by marked cheques. From the frequent misunderstandings with the Council, evidently F. F. Mahood, present Clerk, did not tender on the market tolls.

The thirty dollar difference between the two tenders finally resulted in Ald. Crowe moving, seconded by Ald. Whitehouse, that the highest tender, that of Mr. Moloney, be accepted.

The Highest Tender.

"I'd like to see Fisher get it myself. If he was the same price I wouldn't hesitate to move his tender be accepted," said Ald. Crowe.

The committee felt that the difference must be considered, and while there were expressions favouring Mr. Fisher, the condition of the city's pocket-book took precedent over sentimentalities.

A cheque for $105 from S. E. Mahood, surety for his brother, the Clerk this year, was received in a communication last night from Mr. Mahood. This is the amount Council claimed had to be paid to complete his tender of $750, which they conceded to refund him. The allowance was made in view of the reduction in the tolls by the Provincial Government. The cheque was given as a matter of form and returned to S. E. Mahood as agreed.

Office Supplies.

The Chairman and Plumbing Inspector were given authority by the committee to purchase a loose-leaf index or book needed by the Inspector to keep a detailed account of each plumbing job in the city.

E. F. Mason, Secretary of the Protestant Home Board, requested the committee last night to convey to the Home a small parcel of land on lot 22, block A, of no present use to the city, but valuable to the Home. After a considerable discussion, the request was granted on motion of Ald. Whitehouse, seconded by Mayor McIntyre, that the City Trust be requested to convey the property to the Protestant Home provided it not encroach on the road and lot to the east on the same terms as the previous conveyance.

MANY CLAIMS FOR DAMAGES AGAINST CITY

TRANS-CANADA THEATRES APPLY TO CITY FOR COMPENSATION FOR DAMAGE TO GRAND BY FLOODING.

MANY MINOR CLAIMS

Claims for damages from all parts of the city were accumulated for the attention of the Legal committee on Thursday night.

Peck, Kerr and McElderry, solicitors for Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, in a letter, claimed compensation for clients for damages due to flooding when the water main broke on George street last winter.

City Solicitor Widdifield advised the committee that in his opinion the city was not liable. On motion of Ald. Gordon and Turner, Peck, Kerr and McElederry were informed that the city does not consider itself liable and that if action is taken against the city, the City Solicitor be instructed to defend the city and to take all steps necessary to do so.

Other Claims.

A. H. Lonsberry wrote claiming compensation for an injury to Mrs. Lonsberry on Albert street. The City Engineer, on motion, was requested to make a report on the condition of the street at the time of the accident.

A letter was read from J. F. Strickland, giving notice of an accident to Harry Gamble on a sidewalk on December 8, 1920. Mr. Strickland was heard in support of the claim and said that Gamble's loss of wages was considerable and his disbursements amounted to $212.00. This claim was referred to the City Solicitor for a further report.

Mr. Strickland also supported a claim made some time ago by George Evans, Charlotte street, for damages to his automobile. The City Solicitor was asked to make a further report on this accident.

Law Books For City Solicitor.

On motion of Ald. Gordon, seconded by Mayor McIntyre, the sum of $20.00 will be paid to City Solicitor Widdifield to purchase Robson and Hugg Municipal Act Manual, to be the property of the city.

MAIL EDITION

PRICE THREE CENTS — PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 1921 — PRICE THREE CENTS

PRICES IN PETERBORO ARE LOWER

POTATOES SELLING AT $1.00 A BAG—EASTER EGGS AT 35 CENTS.

A COMPARISON

Food prices in Peterborough are beginning to show an appreciable reduction. A great many of the commodities have reached the bottom, and others are said to be due for higher levels. Another week or two and butter will have to seek a lower level. This will be followed by milk and other dairy products. Prices to-day make a strange contrast with prices of one year ago. Needless to say, the change is a welcome one to Peterborough householders. One year ago the humble potato was selling at $3.50 a bag on the Peterborough market. To-day a bag retails for one dollar.

Meat prices have lowered in about the same ratio as live hogs, which have gone down from $18 to $14.

Easter eggs cost considerably less this year than last. Fresh eggs then sold at 45 and 50 cents, while good eggs are selling at 35 cents now. This shows how far the pendulum has swung back from high prices to a normal level.

Butter was a few cents higher last Easter than this. Even the much maligned oleomargarine, which commands a good sale in some of the stores, has receded about 33 per cent. in the twelve-month. Domestic shortening, one of the cook's staple requirements, has receded approximately 50 per cent. Lard has dropped 10 or 12 cents.

Flour has dropped from $7.15 half barrel retail to $5.85.

Fruit prices are much the same, due, the dealers declare, to the still high freight and express rates. Until these are reduced there is not likely to be any lower prices.

APSLEY RESIDENT BADLY INJURED

ARM CAUGHT IN CIRCULAR SAW—WILL RECOVER.

APSLEY, March 26.—Mr. R. H. Knox, a well known resident here, met with a painful and severe accident Wednesday in the saw mill owned by Mr. Alex. McColl. While engaged in sawing lumber, in some manner his sleeve became caught, and the next moment the saw cut a deep gash in his arm, extending from wrist to elbow. He was rushed in Mr. McColl's car to Dr. Shepherd, who dressed the injured arm. Mr. Knox, who is an elderly man, is much exhausted due to the great amount of blood he lost, and the pain and shock, but is otherwise progressing favorably.

CATHOLIC CENSUS.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—The Catholic population of the United States and its possessions is 28,122,895 persons, according to the 1921 edition of the Official Catholic Directory, which has just been issued. There are sixteen bishops and 21,643 priests in the United States. There are 6,048 parochial schools and a daily attendance of 1,771,418.

THROWS $5,000 IN TO FIRE IN ANGER

BUDAPEST, March 26. — (Canadian Press).—Stephen Nemeth, a clerk, wasting away on the little food his salary would buy, appealed to his almost forgotten brother, George, who went to America years ago and is now in Chicago.

When months later, there came from George simply a photograph. Stephen Nemeth, disappointed and angry, threw his brother's picture in the fire. The next day there came a letter. It read:

"My Dear Stephen,—If you will carefully divide in two the photo I sent you yesterday you will find a $5,000 bill concealed between the two sheets. Enjoy it in good health and don't forget your loving brother. — George."

HUGO STINNES GREAT DANGER

ATTEMPTED TO BLOCK ALLIED OCCUPATION BY GENERAL STRIKE UNSUCCESSFULLY.

DICTATOR OF GERMANY

LONDON, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Hugo Stinnes, generalissimo of German industry, recently accused of plotting a strike of several hundred thousand workers in the Ruhr district to make more difficult the Allied occupation of Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort, is referred to by the Berlin correspondent of the Times as "an earnest and dangerous patriot."

Stinnes, a multi-millionaire member of the Reichstag, has put through some of the greatest financial deals of his career since the armistice. He has been called "a relentlessly efficient, human calculating machine." It has been said that he would sacrifice every mark of his enormous fortune to bring back the monarchy.

Mine-owner and coal merchant, ship-owner, landed-proprietor, head of a great chain of newspapers, proprietor of the finest hotel in Berlin, trader in oils, paper, hides, jute, peat and manufactured wares of many kinds, Stinnes, the Times correspondent says, "is to-day the wealthiest, most influential, best-known, and at the same time the least well-known man in Germany."

Publicity and notoriety are alien to him, it is stated, and he prefers to remain behind the curtains in the Reichstag, permitting his henchmen and lieutenants to do the talking while he pulls the strings.

"There is nothing in his appearance to betray the man of genius," says the correspondent. "Just fifty years old, of medium height and sturdily built, with black hair and beard that show up strongly against a rather sallow complexion, Hugo Stinnes is an inconspicuous figure as he slips in and out of the Adlon Hotel, his bowler hat tilted slightly on one side, one hand in his pocket, and one or two secretaries following hard on the heels of their chief in his well-worn black coat and black tie. He stops to speak to no one. He has no time for small talk in the lounge with other guests. He is a relentlessly efficient, cool, human, calculating machine."

PROBABILITIES.

Fresh easterly to southerly winds; comparatively warm, with showers.

CAMPBELLFORD ATHLETIC INTERESTS DISCUSS QUESTION OF AMALGAMATION

TWO MEETINGS HELD AND VARIOUS PHASES OF THE MATTER DISCUSSED—CAMPBELLFORD NEWS OVER THE HOLIDAY.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 26. — A meeting was held in the public library on Thursday evening to discuss the amalgamation of the different sport committees to form an athletic committee which would control all the local sports. This was a very important question for various reasons; among others being the fact that the lacrosse clubs, baseball club, bowling and tennis club, and football club are already organized. The lacrosse club has collected $183 from the business men. Many of the sportsmen and business men were present and Mr. N. Stone was appointed chairman of the meeting.

The meeting was called to order and opinions called for. Some of the men were against the amalgamation while others were in favor. It was thoroughly explained what was meant by amalgamation of the clubs, and after much discussion Mr. N. Dickson made a motion that there be a central executive with representatives from every branch of sport to control the sports and that they be allowed to use finances in proportion to their gate receipts. This otion was seconded by Mr. J. Payne.

A vote was taken but the result was a tie. More discussion followed and it was decided that it was not right to decide this question without consulting the officers of the different clubs. Mr. Burger then made a motion which was seconded by Mr. J. Allan that the chairman (Mr. Stone) be appointed a committee of one to ballot each of the officers of the different branches of sport and have them vote on amalgamating after he had explained the question to them. This ballot was to be marked yes or no. The motion carried and meeting adjourned to meet again in the same place on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Second Meeting.

There was another meeting of the various sports enthusiasts and officers in the public library on Friday evening at which Mr. Charles Davidson, Mr. Charles Nadoo, Mr. Stone, Mr. R. H. Cole, Mr. William Sarginson, Mr. N. Dickson, Mr. J. Blute, Mr. R. Bell, Mr. Burger, Mr. F. Keller, Mr. P. Kelly, Mr. Wm. Meiklejohn, Mr. F. Hendricks, Mr. Dunk, and others, were present.

After considerable discussion during which a letter from both lacrosse teams was read which stated that at a lacrosse meeting on Friday afternoon it was decided that "the lacrosse teams were in favor of one amalgamated body providing that they have their own presidents, managers and secretaries to arrange their own games and other business."

Mr. Dickson with the permission of Mr. Davidson, who seconded his motion, withdrew his motion that the various clubs amalgamate and they now stand as they were when first formed. The meeting adjourned.

Funeral Yesterday.

The funeral was held Friday morning at 9:30 of Mrs. James Daly. Requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Marys R. C. Church, Rev. Fr. Whibbs officiating. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were Messrs Thos. Blue, (Napanee) Thos. Blue (Campbellford), John O'Sullivan, James Kerr, M. Murphy, Mr. Killoran.

Interesting Debate.

The pupils of the fourth form gave a very interesting debate before the High School Inspector who visited the school this week. It was resolved that "Canada has better natural resources than the United States." The affirmative was taken by Leonard O'Brien and Carl Maguire and the negative by Mary Spooner and Leeta Chaplin. The negative won.

Hogs Shipped.

On Thursday Scott and Kent shipped two carloads of hogs, 165 in number, to the Canadian Packing Co., of Peterboro. They paid 14 1-4c per lb. They will ship calves again Saturday.

Eggs are Down.

Eggs are now 30c dozen—the first time since 1917.

Shiped Calves.

Home on Visit.

Mr. Thos. McManus, formerly of Campbellford, but lately of Mass, U.S.A., arrived in town on Wednesday night. Mr. McManus is very enthusiastic over Uncle Sam's country and intends to reside there permanently in the near future.

Attended Funeral.

Quite a large number of friends attended the funeral of the late Mrs. J. P. Hume at Burnbrae on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Hume formerly resided here for some years, while Mr. Hume was Principal of the High school, and she will be long remembered for her interest in the activities of the church and town generally.

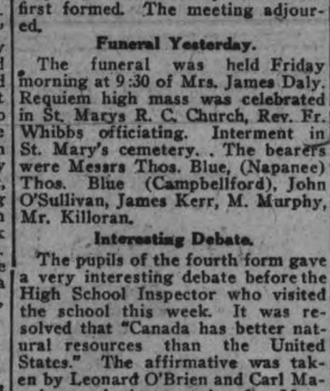
BOY SHOT DEAD WHILE HUNTING

TORONTO, March 26.—(Canadian Press). — Cloy Tupling, aged 9, of Soudan Avenue, was shot dead by a rifle in the hands of Harold Holmes, aged 15, of St. Clair Avenue, West, while the boys were out shooting ground hogs at the junction of the Don River and Eglinton Avenue yesterday afternoon. The rifle was a 22-calibre, and the bullet entered behind the left ear of the unfortunate boy and penetrated his brain. Coroner Dr. Bond opened an inquest on the body. Young Holmes was removed to the Children's Shelter, but as yet no charge has been laid against him.



JURY FINDS DOUGHTY IS GUILTY MAN

COUNCIL ASKS FOR RESERVED CASE AND GRANTED UNTIL APRIL 4 TO PUT IN EVIDENCE

PRISONER UNMOVED

TORONTO, March 26.—"We find the prisoner guilty." This was the verdict of the jury in the sessions late Thursday afternoon in the case of John Doughty charged with theft of $105,000 in Victory Bonds, the property of A. J. Small.

Doughty took the verdict without a quiver on his face, or without any outward show of emotion.

There was just slight suspicion of a smile on his face.

Mrs. Lovatt, sister of the prisoner, was sitting near the dock and her eyes welled with tears as she heard the verdict.

Judge Denton thanked the jury for their services.

He said: "I think the thanks of the city and county are due to you for the attention you have given to this case and for the inconvenience you have been put to during the course of the trial.

"The only reward one gets for those things is the satisfaction of knowing that you have discharged your duty."

With those words he dismissed them until Tuesday morning.

I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., defense counsel, immediately asked the Judge for a reserved case.

Crown Counsel Greer and Mr. Hellmuth discussed this with the Judge briefly, and it was decided to fix a date later on for a hearing of the application.

Doughty was then taken to the cells.

The jury was out one hour and a half.

Mr. Hellmuth's application was on the ground of submission of improper evidence.

He went over to Doughty and informed him of the application and the prisoner smiled and thanked his counsel cordially for the manner in which he had conducted his defense.

PROHIBITION ISSUE IS VITAL IN ULSTER

BELFAST, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Prohibition has become a vital issue in Ulster. The big Protestant element of the population is taking a lively interest in the campaign against drink. As in Scotland, the efforts of the "drys" appear to be directed toward securing local option.

There is little doubt that the Unionist members of the new Parliament will be sharply divided on this issue.

FRENCH HONOR UNKNOWN DEAD

PARIS, March 26. — (Canadian Press).—Flowers are brought by an uncreasing pilgrimage of mourners and placed on the slab that marks the grave of the unidentified French soldier under the great Arch of Triumph that dominates the western part of the city.

The pile of flowers and wreaths is fed with fresh contributions from early morning until late at night. There seems no end to the little ceremonies by organizations held at the grave to honor the war dead. Little shop girls bring small bunches of violets that cost 50 centimes; statesmen passing through Paris place there great wreaths as tributes from their countries.

Since November 11, 1920, when the unknown soldier was placed under the arch, there has always been a group or crowd of mourners at the shrine of the dead. There has always been a huge pile of flowers. On Sundays, thousands stream there from the 12 avenues that converge at the Etoile, as the circular open space surrounding the arch is called, and there is a procession of people with bared heads passing by the mound of flowers.

Many teachers bring their classes, and there is a movement afoot to arrange that in each of the public schools of Paris a small contribution shall be collected on a separate day in each school to buy flowers to be placed on the slab by a delegation of honor pupils, so that there may be such a tribute of the children of France to the war dead every day of the year.

ARSENAL OF REPUBLICAN ARMY FOUND

LARGE AMOUNTS OF ARMS AND AMMUNITION DISCOVERED IN RAID ON SUPPOSEDLY VACANT HOUSE IN DUBLIN.

SEVEN ARE ARRESTED

DUBLIN, March 26.—(Canadian Press.)—The amazing discovery of a secret Republican arsenal in a house at 100 Seville Place, the working class residential district, was made yesterday. Auxiliary police in a raid on the premises found fifteen revolvers, six rifles, six shot guns, 400 bombs, 1,500 rounds of small arms ammunition, twelve eighteen pound shells, military field telephones, seditious literature, three automobiles, two bicycles and other rebel equipment.

The discovery of the arsenal formed a raid upon a supposedly empty house in which, however, seven men were found and arrested. Three had intended to emigrate to America but were being detained under guard by four other Republican soldiers who had taken them from a hotel to the house in a cab.

Seville Place has been suspected for sometime, but raids and searches have hitherto failed in their object. How information of the detention of the would-be emigrants reached the authorities is a mystery, but the similarity of the subsequent search which resulted in the discovery of the arsenal within three hundred yards of the house suggests one was the result of the other. This hidden ammunition dump which is described as the most important yet found in Dublin, is only one of numerous caches all over Southern Ireland. The greater portion of small arms and equipment has been smuggled in from other countries. Authorities suspect that a large part of the military supplies come from the United States. Where the guns emigrate from is a mystery, but it is believed that they are run in at night on the west coast by small boats clearing from some continental port.

THE MEANEST MAN.

Who is the meanest man in Ontario? The question is a difficult one to answer, and doubtless every reader of the Examiner has in mind some one whom he considers as meriting the description, so that the competition is great. But the individual mentioned by Col. Thompson of the Board of Pension Commissioners before the special Parliamentary commitee on soldiers' re-establishment must be considered as a most likely contender for the dubious honour of being regarded as the province's meanest man. This small-souled person, an Ontario farmer, undertook to act as guardian of an orphan boy whose father was killed in France and was assigned a pension of $30 ar month from the Government to reimburse him for his care of the youngster. He lived up to the trust imposed in him by hiring the boy out to work with a neighboring farmer for $60 a month, thereby netting $90 a month for his exploitation of the orphan lad and saving even the expense of boarding the boy. Col. Thompson remarked that he had vainly tried to have the grafter jailed for his conduct. At least, however, his name should be widely published so that the people of the province would know the identity of this miserable profiteer, who, in his money-lust, forgot all the obligations of patriotism, and even of common decency.

HERE'S A FINE SCHEME.

Ald. Whitehouse's suggestion that the Ontario Municipal Association should have a representative in constant attendance during the proceedings of the Ontario Legislature in order to prevent legislation injurious to the interests of the municipalities being slipped through without an opportunity being given to protest, is given point by the discovery that Mr. W. A. Crockett, M.P.P. for South Wentworth, is introducing an amendment to the Public Health Act which would compel every city or town that has a sewage disposal plant or waterworks system to furnish water to outlying sections. The unfairness of such legislation is apparent. It would simply mean that people living in North Monaghan could compel the City of Peterborough to supply them with water, while the township could tax the city water mains and the rural residents could continue to pay township taxes and enjoy urban privileges without paying for them. As the amendment is drafted, the residents of an outlying district if they want to be supplied with water from the city system will have the privilege of voting on the question, while the city ratepayers would also be asked to express their opinion by means of a simiar by-law. But it would make very little difference whether the urban voters favoured the plan or not, for as long as the vote in the district was favourable, an application could be made to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, who would grant an order requiring the city to furnish the service at a price fixed by the Board. There is not a city or town in Ontario which will not be bitterly opposed to such legislation, and it is fortunate that the proposal has been discovered in time to allow the municipalities to give voice to their side of the case. If the rural residents living close to the borders of a city want to have city privileges they must contribute their fair share of the cost; they can't expect their urban friends to pay the whole shot.

EASTER.

Awake, thou wintry earth—
Fling off thy sadness,
Fair vernal flowers, laugh forth
Your ancient gladness!
Christ is risen.

The passing of the days has brought Eastertide to us once again. To-morrow the Easter bells will be ringing out their message of faith and jubilation and the world will realize anew the wonderful significance of the occasion, will feel once again that though death is strong, life is stronger still, that "As His death condemned thee to dust, His life may make thee gold and much more just." The realization of the risen Christ will strengthen the faith in many a heart to-morrow, and "death's appalling doom" will be lightened by a consciousness of the events of that first Easer Sunday.

The very season itself is symbolic of life after death, for all nature is bursting from the bondage of that winter which is akin to death, and on every hand are evidences of the beginning of a new life. It is fitting that people should dress themselves in raiment that is in accord with the jubilant nature of the occasion, but at the same time the words of a famous preacher might well be brought to mind, "God expects from men something more at such times and that is were much to be wished for the credit of their religion as well as the satisfaction of their conscience that their Easter devotions would in some measure come up to their Easter dress."

ENGLISH RAILWAY WAGES.

The Minister of Railways was on safe ground when he stated the other day that our troubles asto high wages and ruinous operating cost were not as serious as those which have developed on English and American roads. For example, in the recent report of the London and Yorkshire Railway the directors say:

"The amount of wages paid during 1920 was £9,458,393, as compared with £2,796,755 in 1913, the average per head per week being 77 shillings and 11 pence, compared with 27 shillings and 4 pence in 1913. Under present conditions the eight-hour day leaves only six and three-quarter hours for revenue earning purposes, as against nine hours and twenty minutes previously, or a reduction of 28 per cent."

These facts are significant of two things—First, that a tremendous increase has occurred in the volume and rates of wages on English railways; and second, that wages in the Old Country are much lower than on this side of the Atlantir. Reduced to dollars, an average of $974 in England must be compared with $1,860 on the Canadian National. This would be equal to a difference of 91 ner cent. The disparity would be much greater if a comparison could be made with the pay of locomotive drivers in the two countries; but the figures are not available.

The English enginemen are regarded as the best in the world, and there are some fine specimens of them on the Grand Trunk and other Canadian lines; yet they are not paid one-third as much as are the enginemen on this side. They do not have conductors in Great Britain, and therefore a comparison cannot be made with the $6,000 a year men in Canada; but the British "guard," who takes the place of our brakeman, never in his wildest dreams had a vision of the rates which the man in a similar position receives over here.

Of course, English railway rates of wages were very low in 1913. They were too low. There were sound reasons for a considerable increase. But when advances were made under war conditions, while Government was in control, and when the roads were handed back to their owners, it was found that a condition similar to that which has arisen in Canada had been created. The tolls did not yield sufficient to earn operating expenses. They were a little more than doubled in 1920; but still they fell short of producing enough to enable the railways to keep solvent. Hence, at the present time Government is being asked to make up the losses to the railways. It was to this situation Dr. Reid made reference in Parliament last week.

In all that has happened with regard to railway wages, both in America and in Great Britain, one sees the excessive use of the power to strike. That was the weapon by means of which, during the stress and peril of war, unjustiable rates were wrung from the railways. The results are now painfully obvious. The railways are on the verge of ruin, and unless relief comes to them in one of two ways — reduced expenses or higher rates—they cannot continue to operate much longer. Hitherto there has been general public indifference to the issues of this nature which have arisen between the railways and their employees; but now the truth is being realised that the bill has to be paid out of the transportation tax, and that touches every man's pocket. That is going to make a difference in the attitude of the people toward this exceedingly vital problem.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is one good feature about Easter hats. They help to augment the church attendance.

Early spring weather is deceptive. It is always well to remember the modern version of the old adage, "Never put off to-day what you should keep on until to-morrow."

Judging by what it cost to furnish Hon. Manning Doherty's room in the Parliament buildings it is a fine thing for the province that the U.F.O. had nothing to do with the furnishing of Government House.

A county constable who found a lost motor car for which a "liberal" reward was offered, was given a dollar by the grateful owner. The latter is a strong rival of the farmer mentioned on this page to-day—if indeed he is not the same individual.

Jack Dempsey says he refuses to fight negroes. That puts colored fighters on the same plane as their white rivals.

The Province is taking over the control of billiard rooms for revenue purposes, but the city taxpayer will continue to pay the expense of inspecting and policing them—a rather lop-sided arrangement.

Did you ever notice when a parliamentary body is to have a recess how much business can be rushed through on the last day?

Canadian authors in session at Montreal asked the newspapers to pay less attention to crime and more to literature. Some of these literary men are egotistical.

And speaking of egoists, what can equal the average husband who wonders why his wife wants candy when she has him?

The way the Germans howled over that few million marks which they claimed they did not owe is reminding of the average man whose forty-six bills never worry him, but arises in righteous wrath when he receives a bill which isn't his.

Helen: A chestnut.

But to return to the Canadian authors' Association. They certainly knew where to go for inspiration when they held their meetings in Montreal.

Even the use in print of the word "cigarette" is to be made illegal in the State of Utah. And if we remember our geography correctly, Utah lies next to Nevada, and in Nevada is Reno. Birds of a feather—

"For Value Received"

A Goodyear Tire and a note—commercially known as a promise to pay "For Value Received"—are practically identical.

Either is an assurance—a guarantee—of value.

—It's what you receive—the MILEAGE you get from your tires that really counts.

Goodyear Tires give this mileage value. Not alone for their long mileage—their easy comfortable riding qualities, but for the untroubled motoring service they give.

DUKE ALIAGA GETS THE KING'S SUIT.

Worn Epiphany Day By Spain's Monarch.

MADRID, aMrch 26. (Associated Press). — Great ceremony attends the gift of the suit of clothes worn by the King of Spain on Epiphany Day to which suit the Duke of Aliaga, Count of Rivadavia, possesses the hereditary right. This he inherited from an ancestor of the fifteenth century, who obtained the grant from the then King of Castile, Juan II., who changed suits with the Duke's forbear on the battlefield of Rivadavia, where the king was in danger of being captured by his victorious enemies, but succeeded in escaping in his vassal's suit.

The state coach, accompanied by royal footmen in ancient liveries and bearing staves, conveys the suit to the Madrid palace of the Duke, who receives it with due deference, and adds it to the considerable museum he possesses, which forms an historical record of men's fashions dating back a long time.

The day following the delivery of the suit, the Duke goes to the Royal palace and renews his vows of eternal allegiance to the King.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

I Find That Others Know.

Chapter 11.

Leonard and I were traveling along the lines of the least resistance. We were not happy, but we had naturally slipped into the habit of eluding the disagreeable. One innately avoids the broken glass.

Even the thought of using Alvah Fairchild to open Leonard's eyes and make him a little jealous, seemed pointless and foolish. Besides, in saner moments I had recognized the danger of such a move. To place myself in Mrs. Darwood's power would be worse than rash. I would be playing into her hands. Giving the very opportunity she would gloat over. When one is in the heat of jealousy, one is hardly sane, and I was thankful I had been able to forestall any indiscretion on my part. I determined to look at things as broadly as possible.

My desk was littered with correspondence. I sat down trying to find relief in definite work and concentration on outside things. A small pink envelope slipped from the rest and I held it musingly between my fingers. Who was it from? The writing did not seem familiar. I pulled out a sweet scented card from the small envelope, and with it came the memory of an invitation to a bridge party that I had entirely forgotten about. Yes, it was dated over three weeks ago, and I had not even acknowledged it in any way.

"Wednesday afternoon, January the twenty-first," I read. Why, today was Wednesday. I turned over the dates on my calendar—and sure enough, the 21st.

At first I had not thought of going. The invitation was from a Mrs. Calvin, a new neighbor who I knew was using every means possible to wedge her way into the society of the neighborhood. But should I blame her? Perhaps she was lonely. I decided to go. I felt lonely myself. Worry and unhappiness had kept me too much within myself of late. A keen game of bridge would liven my mental state.

Mrs. Calvin's cordial voice over the telephone assured me that my belated acceptance was quite all right and her warmth of friendliness made me look forward eagerly to the afternoon.

I picked out my henna-colored georgette which Leonard liked so well. It seemed to cloth me in nearness to him to wear something he approved of. He always said it brought out a red tinge in my brown hair and put fires in my eyes. I smiled happily at the memory, for I loved his admiration.

"Which is your table?" Mrs. Russell, in a pale blue taffeta, beamed superficially at me.

"Mine is number three," I answered nonchalantly. I had never felt quite kindly toward Mrs. Russell since that unhappy dinner party when Leonard had behaved so dreadfully. Now I felt a subtle shyness in her manner.

"What a shame, I'm at five," she purred, and pushed her way slowly past a group of chatting women.

I played well. I was enjoying myself hugely. I climbed steadily from number three to the first table and remained there immovable.

For a few happy moments all the suffering of the last terrible months was forgotten.

My partner was playing an uninteresting hand and my mind was free to flit about the room from one bit of conversation to another.

Then just behind me a few keen remarks cut through the meaningless chatter like the blade of a knife and found its mark in my aching heart.

"—nothing unusual to see them dining together at the Ritz—"

"Doesn't she know? Poor dear!"

"Sh—s-ss! That's Mrs. Allen right in back of you at the next table." Something seemed to tighten around my heart and then break and expand as it beat wildly against my left side.

"Your deal, Mrs. Allen."

I took the cards blindly. They seemed unmanageable and some slipped to the floor as I shuffled them. I lost again and again, and I was also losing my self-control.

So it was true, after all, that the one most greatly concerned was usually the last to know the truth of such things.

This vague suspicion which had been haunting me for so long was public property—was known and smiled at by my friends—and I—was an object of their pity.

Tomorrow—The Last Straw.

SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian Spring weather—one day mild and bright; the next raw and blustery—is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house, which is so often over-heated and badly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or banishing colds, simple fevers, colic, or any other of the many minor ailments of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville. Ont.

STORY OF FIRST TWO FAMILIES TO SETTLE IN DOURO TOWNSHIP

MESSRS. REID AND STEWART AND PLUCKY WOMEN FOLK CLEARED THE FIRST LAND NEAR A CENTURY AGO.

TRIP FROM OLD LAND

(By I. Rogers, Cobourg.)

The adventures of the two first families to settle in Douro Township, those of Mr. Reid and Mr. Stewart, are of additional interest now that almost a century has elapsed since they took up large land grants there.

When on the first of June, 1822, the good ship "George" sailed from the city of Belfast for Quebec, she had on board two gentlemen, Mr. T. A. Stewart and his brother-in-law, Mr. Robert Reid, with their wives, children, servants and all manner of necessaries in the way of tools, implements and household furniture, for settlement in the wilds of Upper Canada.

Mrs. Stewart kept up a regular correspondence with her friends in the Old Land, and from these letters and her journal, "Our Forest Home," the following data has been gathered:

Disembarked at Montreal.

The "George" reached Quebec on July 21st, and a few days later, continued the journey to Montreal, where the party disembarked. The trip from Montreal to Kingston, a distance of one hundred and ninety-eight miles, was made in flat-bottomed open boats and occupied eight days, during which time the passengers were exposed to the hot sun by day, the cold dews by night, coarse fare, with no means of cooking proper food and, not least, the rough language of the boatmen, who frequently embibed freely and were not pleasant travelling companions. During this part of their trip the party slept at various places on shore, principally in the homes of settlers, and upon one occasion in a barn. At Kingston they could procure no accommodation, so they slept on the boats. They arrived at York (Toronto), the capital of Upper Canada, on August 14th, fully ten weeks after they had left Ireland. A verbatim description, given by Mrs. Stewart, of Toronto as it was then, is far from flattering. She says:

Muddy York.

"The town or village of York looked pretty from the lake as we sailed up in a schooner, but upon our landing, we found that it was not a pleasant place, as it is sunk down in a little amphitheatre cut out of the great bleak forest. The lake in front is full of rushes, which have been cut and left to decay in the shallow water, causing it to be very unhealthy. It is not a healthy town; fever and ague are common. In population it is said to have much fallen off within the last two years, and a deadness hangs over everything."

At this time Col. Forster, Adjutant-General to Sir Peregrine Maitland, and a connection by marriage of Mrs. Stewart, was living about two miles out of York at the garrison barracks. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart walked out and found Col. Forster working in his garden. He procured for the party the use of two empty houses at the barracks and the two families thankfully took possession of them. The Forsters further showed their kindness by loaning them four chairs, a table for their parlour and two bedsteads, placed a quantity of firewood beside their door and two "puncheons" of soft water for washing. A sofa was improvised by laying the frame of a cot on two trunks and covering it all over with a large drawing-room curtain, utilizing another frame and a similar curtain for the back of the sofa.

Large Grants.

The gentlemen were advised to apply for a land grant instead of purchasing a farm, and a petition was laid before the Executive Council asking for twelve hundred acres of land for each. The request was granted and the township of Douro was advised as an unbroken place in which to draw this large grant. As they wished to get permanently settled before Winter Mr. Stewart and Mr. Reid left Toronto on the 9th of September, 1822, on a drive to Douro to see their new possession. They made the trip in two weeks and returned with a most encouraging report of the locality visited.

Unfortunately, during his first visit to the back woods, Mr. Stewart contracted what was called "lake fever," and when he arrived back at Cobourg, or Amherst, from Douro, he had to take to his bed.

Settlers Kind.

Some of Mr. Stewart's letters to friends state that he received every kindness and attention from citizens of that town, especially from Rev. Mr. McAuley, the English Church clergyman. Rev. Mr. McAuley was a travelling missionary, whose field of work extended as far east as Belleville and as far west as Hamilton, and who also visited the Rice Lake district. Mr. Stewart wrote to his wife in Toronto telling of his trip and exploratons in Douro, but either made light of or omitted to mention his own illness. He directed her, with the family, to join him at Cobourg, something of an undertaking under travelling conditions at that time; but our pioneer women appear to have been able, as well as their husbands, to cope with any emergency or difficulty. On September 28th Mrs. Stewart, with her family, left York for Cobourg.

A Surly Captain.

The captain of the vessel upon which they travelled proved very surly and disagreeable and made things unpleasant for his passengers. Mrs. Stewart threatened to report him to Mr. Bethune and Mr. Henry (prominent Cobourg residents), and this effected a change in his attitude somewhat. At night a severe storm came up, and when the Stewarts awakened the next morning, they found that they were back at York. But the weather moderated the following day, when the schooner succeeded in making the trip to Cobourg.

A Disappointment.

When the boat reached Cobourg Mrs. Stewart stepped upon the rude wharf, holding a child by either hand and the maid followed with the baby. She wondered that her husband was not on hand to meet her, although she failed at first to see a light wagon containing a bed with a sick man lying upon it. It was Mr. Stewart, and so weak that he could scarcely hold out his hand in greeting, but who had insisted upon meeting his family. The party was hospitably entertained at the home of Mr. McAuley until a house being prepared for them was habitable, and which they took possession of when in an unfinished state. The situation of the house was on the lake shore and very much exposed. A fireplace in the kitchen supplied the only means for heating.

Log Houses at First.

Mr. Reid engaged some workmen and went out to Douro to erect two log homes for the families on their twelve hundred-acre farms, and which were probably the first dwellings erected in that township. This work occupied a couple of months, and owing to the distance between them, he had no means of communicating with his family. During this time the Reids' infant child died when only a few days old. Later Mr. Stewart went out wth additional men to carry on the work and took with him a large quantity of supplies. His letter to his mother describing this trip, written on December 15th, is a most interesting document. Mr. Stewart says:

Yoked Oxen.

"I was waiting until I had seen our lands before I wrote to you. I went up some time ago with provisions and warm clothing to Mr. Reid and the party who have been working at the building of the houses and clearing the land. The township in which we have secured land is called Douro and it is just thirty-six miles due north of this place (Cobourg). I will give you a short description of my journey up there. I took Mr. R— with me and Wm. McCormack. I hired a yoke of oxen and a cart to carry us and our baggage to Rice Lake, so called from the great quantity of rice that grows in it, which is very nice for soup, etc. We had a rough ride of it, as the road is very bad through the woods. We got to the ferry-house (a distance of twelve miles) at dark, and the next day the boat was ready to start with us and our baggage about noon. We went across the beautiful Rice Lake. All it needs to equal Killarney is the mountains. There are some beautiful islands covered with woods and long points running out into the lake, which is twenty-five miles long and about three wide. After rowing for about three-quarters of an hour we entered the fine and noble river Otonabee. To describe it is beyond my pen; but you may conceive a deep and slow-running stream about three times as wide as the Liffey, bordered on both sides to the water's edge with large trees, and the banks in general rising from the water to a considerable height, excepting here and there, where you can see a few acres cleared and a neat log house built. Almost all these houses are inhabited by navy or military officers.

Quick Shanty Building.

"As it was very late when we started from the ferry-house, we were not able to go more than fifteen miles before night. Then bad weather came on, and as I wished to keep my baggage dry, we stopped at a good place to shelter the boat and built a shanty for the night. Fortunately, we came to a spot where some boards were laid up on the bank, so we pulled for the shore." Our party consisted of five men, besides Mr. R— and myself. Every man to his post—two were employed in securing the luggage and boat, one to make a fire and two to cut down trees for our shanty and firewood. In ten minutes exactly we were in our new house for the night, well sheltered from the rain and the wind, with a fire that would have roasted the largest ox in the county of Meath and dry boards to sleep on. Each one had a blanket with him. The rain now began to come down in torrents, yet so great is the love of gain with the Indians and Americans (for our boatmen were Kannucks, not British-Americans), that when a canoe came from the other side of the river where there was an Indian encampment with two Indians who wished to trade with us and who offered skins for whiskey, tobacco or beads, our captain, in spite of the storm, went across with them to see what they had, with a charge from me to bring back some venison if any were for sale. In about half an hour he returned with two Indians, bringing a few skins and a large piece of venison that had been killed that morning. I bought the skin of the deer and the horns. For the venison, skin and horns I gave 2 quarts of whiskey, worth fourteen pence, only seven pence a quart.

A Primitive Meal.

"So now to cook our supper we went next. One of the Indians, named Peter, who spoke very good English, was our cook. He took the venison, cut it with his knife and put salt into it, then took a stake sharpened at one end, ran it through a spit and stuck the other end into the ground near the fire to roast, turning it often. When cooked we all sat down in a row near the fire with a long board laid along our knees for a table. Our captain carved the meat, and seven people never ate a heartier meal. Our Indian cook preferred a piece of bread and some whiskey to venison. During our meal we were amused by the story of his exploits in hunting, and an old Dutch smuggler, one of our boatmen, also entertained us with stories after supper. We then retired to our rude couches, but were awakened about 2 o'clock by the Indians singing at the other side of the river. Their hilarity was caused by the whiskey. Our old friend the cook stayed up all night and kept up the fire. About nine o'clock the following morning we again made a start and at 1 p.m. reached the landing-place, where there is a flour-mill and a saw-mill. We landed our baggage and crossed the river in another boat to our township."

TRADE SUFFERS BY DEBT LOAD.

Allies Are Staggering Under the Burden.

LEEDS, Eng., March 26.—(Associated Press.)—Sir Algernon Firth, President of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce, who has recently been in the United States, says the policy of Great Britain should be first to carry out arrangements for a cancellation of debts ebtween the European Allies, without seeking to drive any bargain with the United States. The question of a cancellation of this country's debt to America can best, he thinks, be left alone for the present.

"Still," he said, "it is obvious that trade cannot resume its normal course until the load of debt which many of our Allies are staggering under at the present time, is removed, and when any question of cancellation of debt is considered, it should be made a condition that the parties to the cancellation should balance their budgets and stop any further issues of paper money."

"I Am So Tired, Dearie"

IN the recent Advertising Contest the question was asked, "For what is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food most frequently used?"

And the answer in the great majority of cases was: "I have found on inquiry among my friends that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is most used by women who have their own housework to do and small children to look after.

"When tired and wornout by the continuous monotony of household duties and the care of small children the nerves in time play out and then it is that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves the good friend in time of need."

Mrs. W. German, 213 Park street, Brockville, Ont., writes: "After the birth of my boy I became so weak and gradually lost weight. I was unable to do my work and was in misery because I could not sleep. My nerves would twitch and jump and I would get up in the mornings with tired, aching limbs and aching head. My heart was so weak that it would palpitate at times, and I became greatly discouraged.

"Following personal advice from friends, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and took altogether 12 boxes. I wish you could see how well I am now and how I am enjoying life."

BABIES COPPOLD.

"After-effects of Measles removed by Virol."

791, Champagneur Avenue,
21st March, 1919. Outremont, Montreal.

Dear Sir,—As it may be a matter of interest to you, I am enclosing a photograph of my two little sons, aged respectively four years and one year and a half, which photo was taken in Montreal in July, 1918.

The photo may be interesting to you in view of the fact that the two boys have taken VIROL continuously from infancy on the advice of our doctor, and they certainly love their "candy in the tin," being the name by which they know the VIROL, and I really feel that their robust health and splendid development is due entirely to the regular use of your preparation.

When the elder boy was three years old he had an attack of measles, the after-effects of which trouble were speedily rectified by the use of VIROL.

I never lose an opportunity of recommending it to my friends.

Yours truly,
Mrs. A. COPPOLD.

Virol is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother herself, whilst for children it supplies those vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilising of milk; it is also bone and tissue-building food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

Reaching the Business Man

Reams have been written on how to reach that supposedly elusive phenomenon—the business man.

Yet there is a simple way.

The more businesslike, the more alert he is, and the larger his interests, the more certain is he to be found at least once a day reading his favorite newspaper.

You know the type. Good citizen, good father, good husband, good business man, pillar of society.

He may steal a few hours occasionally to read a book.

But he always reads his daily newspaper.

And the experienced advertiser, whose appeal is to the business, technical and professional man, uses Daily Newspapers to reach him, because he knows that the newspaper, in itself, is the greatest impulse to action.

At the present time daily newspaper advertising designed to interest only business men is appearing regularly for so widely diversified a group of products as:

Transmission Machinery: Shafting, Hangers, Pulleys, Couplings, Belting.

General Machinery: Bearings, Boilers, Tanks, Gear Cutters.

Builders and Contractors: Bricks, Asbestos.

Architects and Industrial Engineers: Roofing, Window Frames, Heating and Ventilating Machinery.

Financial Advertising: Almost every Government, Municipal and Corporation Bond House in the country is a persistent and consistent user of daily newspaper space.

Public Utilities: Telephone Companies, Gas Companies, Hydro-Electric Companies.

Wholesale Dry Goods Firms.

Banks: Almost every Chartered Bank in the country is using the daily newspapers to advertise its Commercial Service as well as to secure Savings Deposits.

Office Equipment Field: Typewriters, Desks, Filing Cabinets, Safes, Adding Machines, Addressographs, Multigraphs, etc.

Book Publishers and Magazine Publishers.

Motor Trucks.

The list could be extended to include Paper Box Manufacturers, Railroad Supplies, Waste Paper Merchants, Industrial Group Insurance, Fire Alarms, Messenger Signal Service, Trust Companies and Accountants.

All the advertising of the firms and institutions engaged in these businesses is directed to business men.

The Evidence speaks for itself.

We urge you in all seriousness to sit down after dinner this evening and figure out whether you cannot use this mighty force—Daily Newspaper Advertising—to your advantage.

If you think that you could, providing you were shown how, write to us; or consult any recognized advertising agency.

LECTURE TO THE ART ASSOCIATION

The last lecture of the season, given under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, was held on Tuesday evening, when Miss McRae gave a talk on "Some Well Known Pictures." Such masterpieces as 'The First Step," "The Sower," "The Gleaners" and the "Angelus" by Millet were thrown on the screen, and were dealt with in detail. Following these were shown Raphael's "Sistine Madonna," Corot's "Morning,' some of the works of Turner, Reynolds and Constable, and lastly, the ceelbrated "Mona Lisa' of Leonardo da Vinci. Miss McRae dwelt on the proper method of appreciating the fine points of great pictures, and the audience gleaned a great deal of useful information from her interesting address. A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Bingham and seconded by Miss Maude Rush.

Vocal solos by Mr. Sam. Whitehouse were much appreciated.

A Clergyman's Wife Wants Women to Know the Advantages of Internal Bathing.

If women could only see the thousands of letters Dr. Tyrrell has received from grateful women in all parts of the world thanking him for his wonderful invention for Internal Bathing they would soon discard the medicine bottle and look to the real cause of their trouble. 95 per cent. of all human ills are due to accumulated waste in the Colon, or large lower intestine. Warm water, properly used with the J. B. L. Cascade, will relieve the cause of your troubles, and perfect health will follow.

A Winnipeg clergyman writes: "My wife is naturally sensitive having her name appear in public print, yet is anxious that others should know what the J. B. L. Cascade has done for her. It has really given her a new lease of life. For years she had been doctoring for Constipation, which became worse each year. Since using the J. B. L. Cascade, first about four years ago, she has not been sick a day, and has become robust and strong again. Should any person wish this letter confirmed, you are at liberty to give my name in private."

The J. B. L. Cascade is shown and explained at the Warne Druge Co., Limited, Druggists, Peterborough, Ont. The J. B. L. Cascade is an invention perfected by Dr. Chas. A. Tayrrell of New York, and has done more during the past few years to restore health and lessen disease than all other means combined. Ask for booklet explaining all about Internal Bathing and what it has done for others. It is free, or write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto.

FORTY APPLICANTS FOR ONE HOUSE; SHOE ON TENANT'S FOOT PINCHING

SUPPLY OF HOUSES FAR BELOW THE DEMAND AND PERSONS WITH MONEY OUTBID LEASEHOLDERS—MOVING DAY COMING AND NO PLACE TO MOVE—THE LANDLORD HAVING HIS INNINGS.

The scarcity of houses in Peterborough has taken all the joy out of moving. Gone are the days when tenants might have voiced their freedom in that cynical expression, "It's cheaper to move than pay rent." Then they could afford to laugh at landlords. Any serious intimation of an increase in rent was generaly met with a defiant month's notice. There was always an available vacant house. It was vaguely assumed that vacant, rentable houses were assured essentials in the natural order of community affairs. Somewhat mythical ancestors perhaps had to make a clearing in the bush and throw up log cabins, but such pioeerning was long ago. Now there were landlords, and a month's notice worked both ways.

When the tenant delivered his ultimatum, and he had few consequences to consider in those expansive, unrestricted days, he presently paged a furniture van, and his household was translated to new surroundings that gave from the temporarily strange front porch a new outlook on life. There was that much to be said of the change, and perhaps it relieved that restlessness that comes with spring to the spirits of most men as well as to the fields and woods and bypaths.

No Place to Move Now.

It would be cheaper than ever to move this year, say some harassed tenants, for it is generally the landlord who issues ultimatums these days. But how can you move when there's no place to move to. When some one comes along and offers ten dollars a month more than you are paying, and you simply can't figure out how you can meet the raise the landlord is itching to accept, and there isn't a house in sight, at least not the kind of house you are accustomed to, what are you going to do about it?

Forty After One House.

Many a citizen is worrying over that problem right now. An advertisement in the Examiner of a house for rent south of the Exhibition Park brought forty inquiries, all of them presumably from applicants who would have taken it. That example provides an index of the present housing situation in this city. If forty families were willing to move that far out, how many others are looking for places more centrally located. Ask the real estate agents. One of the busiest of them estimated the other day that Peterborough needed two hundred houses. Asked whether that figure was not drawn too roundly he admitted that perhaps it was rather generous, but he insisted that it was not far from fact.

Two neighbors taking the air after supper on their adjoining verandahs were recently discussing ascending rents. Apparently that was the subject of their conversation of which the following remark was caught: "I wouldn't mind him raising it a fair amount," said one man. "But he tells me he has to pay higher taxes. I hear his taxes are up only six dollars but the new rent would come close on $100 a year. That's what gets me."

Shoe on Other Foot.

A citizen who is in close touch with building costs and rentals said to the Examiner: "The shoe is on the other foot now. Like every other community rentals are affected by the law of supply and demand, and the supply of houses in Peterborough is less than the demand. That is a plain statement of the situation. I don't think any one is going without a roof over his head, but it is strange how the people are accommodated. About 1914 there used to be between 100 and 200 houses built ever year, taking it on an average. In recent years there have been few houses constructed, hardly any in fact. Of course quite a number have been converted into apartments. They have taken care of many families, but there is certainly a need of new houses here to relieve the situation. Some years ago the tenant used to control the rents. If he thought he was paving too much, he moved. To-day he is up against the scarcity of houses, and the landlord is in control. If you compute the rents over a period of ten years I don't think you will find that property owners have been getting exorbitant returns on their investment. They may be high just now, in fact I believe they are high, but it is only recently."

More $50 Rents Now."

Another real estate man told the Examiner that it was just lately that Peterborough's rents began to reach a plane upon which they could be compared with corresponding rates in Toronto and other large cities. Lease holders had been enjoying low rentals in this city, but within the last six months, said this informant ,more houses than ever had reached a fifty dollar a month basis. This was particularly true of apartments some of which he believed were too high. Persons wanting houses approached landlords with offers to pay appreciable increases over the prevailing rentals, and in many instances they accepted. The leaseholders if they could not meet the increase were forced to shift as best they could, and one or two who have been recently discussing just such an extremity as this have been vehemently denouncing their landlords and the persons who bid the bigger sums.

The shoe is on the other foot and it is pinching. "The last of the profiteers' is the term one tenant applied to the owner of his house. Another said: "They are killing the goose that was just beginning to lay golden eggs for them. If the rents keep on piling up, there will surely be restrictive legislation and the landlords will have only themselves to blame."

Meanwhile the man "who owns his little home," that composite figure for whom aldermen everywhere avow their solicitude, is uneoncerned about rentals, but fervently wishes that the item of taxes could be kept in a secondary position in his tabulation of the High Cost of Living. Just now he discovers it pushing its way into the first column while other costs show a tendency to recede.

DON'T USE DRUGS FOR CONSTIPATION

BATHE INTERNALLY—THE ONE NATURAL WAY OF RIDDING SYSTEM OF POISONS.

Chronic constipation is never cured permanently by the use of medicines, larger and larger doses usually become necessary to obtain even temporary relief, the consequence being a weakening of the system.

Nature's own cure, just sterilized warm water, with the J. B. L. Cascade, is the only scientific and permanent treatment for constipation, and its attendant ills—headache, indigestion, sleeplessness and loss of energy.

Hundreds of Canadians every month are discontinuing the practice of drug-taking for constipation. A few minutes' reflection shows them the simple truth—that the cause of their ailment, namely, clogging of the lower bowel, can be reached and corrected only by means of the internal bath.

T. Babin, Ottawa, writes: "I have used the J. B. L. Cascade two years. It has made a new man of me. In reality I feel that I would not sell it for all the money in this world if I could not buy another."

The J. B. L. Cascade will be shown and explained to you by the Warne Drug Co., Druggists, Peterborough, who will also give you free, on request, an interesting booklet by Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell on "Why Man of To-Day is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient."

GOVERNMENT VOTED DOWN RESOLUTION

Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., returned from Ottawa yesterday, and said the Government had voted down the resolution, declaring it was the right of a Parliament to have all the facts and details in connection with the National Railways. It was stated that there was one item of $13,000,000 for locomotives, and a large part of this order for locomotives had gone to a concern of which Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, the Minister of Marine, is a director and large shareholders. The Government had refused to give any information as to the price which was paid for these locomotives, or whether the purchase was made by the Department of Railways and Canals in open competition with other concerns. In view of the fact that nearly seventy millions of dollars is the deficit in the Department of Railways and Canals this year through operation of the Canadian National Railways, there was a strong feeling that details should be given of the contracts that the overnment made and how they spent the money, as it was the people's money that was spent, and the people had the right to know where their money went, and how it was paid.

Mr. Gordon said that as long as the Government insisted in keeping items running into millions, absolutely hidden, it always created the suspicion that there was some reason for keeping these matters hidden, and they were failing to carry out the duties of members as a responsible parliament.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

LOTS OF PRODUCE ON LOCAL MARKET

LITTLE CHANGE IN PRICES—SYRUP PLENTIFUL.

In spite of the bad roads in the country the fine weather made today's Easter market the largest market since the New Year. Automobiles and waggons sped and creaked into the city early in the morning and by 10 o'clock almost every place in the open and basket markets, was taken.

Eggs Plentiful.

Upstairs an immense crowd seethed past the rows of tables, piled high with eggs, butter and chickens. There can be little complaining over the price of eggs this Easter. Few behind the baskets ventured to ask more than 35c. Those that did received an unfriendly glare. The eggs for the most part were splendid specimens and some of the pure white ones would provide a delightful object for decoration by anyone of artistic temperament. If the child's custom of painting eggs in rainbow colours still survives some of the ivory like ones will be given a red or orange tint to-morrow.

Butter High.

Chickens (perhaps it were better to say hens) sold at 40c. Butter was plentiful opening at 65c but, later settling comfortably enough at 63c.

Pandemonium reigned outside around the maple syrup wagons and two energetic auctioneers disposing of sundry articles and vieing with each other in the strength of their lungs and arguments. Maple syrup was plentiful. Some asked $1 a qt., but 90c seemed a more general price. By the gallon it sold at $3 to $3.75.

Potatoes Down.

Potatoes slumped to-day and many farmers asked only 90c. Ben Davis apples were 50c a peck; Russets $3 a bag. The supplies of pork will not hold out long in the face of balmy weather as to-day most of that on the market sold at 2c to 24c, a little less than heretofore. Young pigs sold at $16 a pair. The youthful porkers were the only live stock on sale this morning.

MUSICAL SERVICE WAS MUCH ENJOYED

The musical service rendered by the choir of All Saints' Anglican church last evening was exceedingly well attended and enjoyed from start to finish. The choir responded well to their director, and are an acquisition and power to the services. Two oratorio choruses were included in the programme, "Behold the Lamb of God," from the Messiah, and "How Lovely Are the Messengers" from "St. Paul." This form of music requires faithful practice and hard work from both conductor and choristers, and these were sung last night with a vim and precision that was apparent, and very acceptable. All the numbers were well rendered, and of a high standard. The assistin gartists, Mrs. Barrowclough, soprano, Mrs. P. Hooper, violinst, Miss D. Rathbone, contralto were deeply impressive in their respective numbers and much commendation was heard as the congregation passed out. Both choirmaster and organist are to be congratulated on the high standard of efficiency evidenced last evening. The programme was decidedly enjoyable and very fitting to the spirit of Good Friday.

EASTER SERVICES IN LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, March 26. — The three-hour service held in St. John's Church from 12 to 3 o'clock on Good Friday was taken by Rev. H. Britten. There were seven addresses on the seven last words from the cross given by Mr. Britten, and interspersed with hymns. Mr. Britten's words might well be said to be inspired, as his messages were all beautifully moulded to suit the daily needs of the present life under present conditions.

It was a service that cannot soon be forgotten by those privileged to be present.

Forty-Minute Service.

Rev. S. F. Dixon held a forty-minute service on Good Friday morning in the Methodist Church, which was well attended. He gave a short address on "The Seven Last Words from the Cross." The choir was present, and rendered appropriate music.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—I notice Mr. Dobbin's definition on long and short debenture terms, which would appear convincing, yet as I have made several inquiries from business men of recognized authority, and among those, "The Financial Post." I being the "Enquirer" he refers to. I find the majority favor the long term, because they would sell at a higher rate. This Mr. Dobbin has not given any credit for.

If the difference is so much in favor of short term, why any term but a cash down? But when you have not the cash and have to borrow, just like a man buying a house, and he has not the cash to pay for it. He borrows the money at a current rate of interest, and the longer time he can have he considers is the best. Then if he has not paid the money out he still has the use of it, which is another consideration.

Our city sells debentures on 20-year terms for local improvements, which is put down as the ordinary life of such improvements.

But the bridge is a permanent structure, and it seems only fair that we should spread it over as long a period as possible. The shorter the term the heavier the burden on the present generation, undoubtedly. If you sell bonds extending over forty years, everybody will admit you will dispose of them on better terms than ten years.

Take the railroads. They issue bonds on the long-term basis, because the longer the term the lower rate of interest. Even four and five per cent., when short-term notes or bonds, they have to pay as high as 8 per cent.

Then I admit that to pay direct would be the best method. But who would be in favor of doing it? Then when we have not the money we cannot do so, so spread it over as long as possible, just the Dominion Government in buying C.N.R. bonds at thirty years are doing.

PRICES CUT IN TWO AT R. C. BRAUND'S STORE

R. C. Braund's store, corner of Albert and Park Streets, is the Mecca for bargain hunters these days, when a big clearance sale is going on to sufficiently reduce a large stock of dry goods, boots and shoes and men's and women's wear, to relieve the upper flat for apartment reconstruction purposes. Buyers are simply astounded at the huge cut in regular prices, which for a week or two are reduced by quite one-half, both here and at the Braund Bargain Store uptown.

PUT HIM BACK ON JOB, SAYS TOLCHER

TORONTO MAN WAS SO RUN DOWN BEFORE HE GOT TANLAC HE HAD TO QUIT WORK.

"Just give me Tanlac and you may have all the other medicines," said E. Telcher, of 17 Salem Avenue, Toronto, Ont., a popular motorman on the Toronto Street Railway.

"I haven't felt right since I returned from overseas sixteen months ago. My stomach was so out of order that nothing I ate agreed with me. My appetite went back on me and I suffered tortures from indigestion. My food seemed like lead in the pit of my stomach and caused such pain at times I could hardly bend over. I was terribly constipated, had fearful headaches and got so dizzy at times I would topple over. I was so miserably tired out all the time that I felt unfit for anything, and finally had to give up my work entirely.

"After the landlady where I board told me how much good Tanlac did her family I began taking it myself, and what it has done for me is nothing less than wonderful. Soon after I got Tanlac my appetite was so big I could hardly get enough to eat. I wouldn't have been much surprised if my landlady had asked me to pay more board. That old tired feeling is gone now and I'm just brimful of new life and energy. I'm able to work every day and my troubles are all in the past. In fact, I'm feeling great all the time. Tanlac is certainly grand."

CHEAPER FARES BY AIRPLANES.

Reductions to Passengers From London to Paris.

PARIS, March 25.—After an interruption of several months British aircraft companies have resumed passenger and parcel traffic between London and Paris. Following the example of the French company which has maintained service throughout the winter they have greatly reduced the fares, and the single fare either way is now 300 francs, which is not very much dearer than that ordinarily paid on railway and steamboat.

For this summer's traffic, which is expected to be heavy, several improvements are being worked out along the route. At both terminal airdromes electric flares are being installed to enable the pilots to have a sure indication of their direction in case they are benighted. On the French side it has just been decided to use a system of captive balloons to give direction in case of fog or mist, between Paris and the coast. When the weather is clear these balloons will not be used, but in case of a ground mist they will be sent up to a height of 2,500 feet and will act as buoys in a sea channel to guide the pilot across the mist-hidden land below.

Three of these balloon stations are being opened; as an experiment, but later, if they are found useful and necessary, more will be added, till the whole route is plainly marked out at whatever height flying is possible above the fog and clouds.

VANDALISM IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

(By F. M. DELA FOSSE)

It would ill become one who, like myself, is possessed of a most elementary knowledge of science in all its forms, to pose as an exponent of any, but even the humblest lover of Nature may, by daily study of its workings, become fairly well versed in some portion of a particular branch of natural science.

Long experience of its working for good and evil has made me fairly conversant with the amount of power that dwells in the human finger and thumb, and on a semi-physiological, semi-psychological basis, I desire to present a few words on that subject to my readers.

Many years ago man was defined by some writer as "an animal with a cephalic hand"; that is a brain-handed animal. It was an excellent definition, because man's brain, fingers and thumbs constitute the sure guarantee of his supremacy throughout creation. If we look out on the world about us we see how wonderfully Providence has meted out its gifts. The bird can cleave the air, the fish can swim in the sea, the mole can mine and the spider can spin. Every sentient thing has been provided with tools for the purpose of making a livelihood, excepting man. He has nothing but his teeth and his nails—and he very often loses the first named long before he wants to.

Wonders of Man.

In order to protect his body he has had to devise means to clothe himself or to guard himself from harm. It may be left to evolutionists to decide how he has been enabled to change his foot into a hand or to transform his great-toe into a thumb. One fact is patent, and that is, that whilst all other forms of creation have seemingly remained stationary through aeons of reproduction, man has gone from strength to strength by the potency of his brain and the adaptability of his fingers and thumbs.

Let us glance for a moment at some of the wonders that he has achieved. The stupendous pyramids of Egypt, the marvellous engineering works with which the world is dotted and honeycombed, and the ruins of temples that here and there meet the astonished gaze of the traveller are memorials of his power. Through the dispensation of Providence, which has provided him with the "opposable" thumb, he has been enabled to fashion the machinery for his great factories and the engines which cause our mighty Leviathans to plough the stormy ocean.

Now it may be asked, "What has all this to do with the library?" Well, it has a good deal to do with it. In the first place, we would never have had the books to read, nor the seats to sit upon to read them, nor the shelves to place them on, had not it been for the ingenuity of man and the use of the fingers and thumbs that he possesses. Nor would we have had the manuscripts that were in use before books were printed, nor the papyrus scrolls, nor the wax tablet and the stylus, nor the baked brick records of the Egyptians.

Man is Imperfect.

But man is an imperfect animal at best, and even with all the teachings of Christianity to help him and the blessings of memory and of reasoning power with which he has been endowed, he finds it hard to keep along the lines of plain dealing and of honesty, or yet of cleanliness. Monkeys are not looked upon by most of us as possessed of habits to be copied. They have their distinct limitations. They have never been taught the Golden Rule, nor have they the same delicacy of sentiment or of perception that characterizes humanity. Belonging to a lower order of intelligence, they are noted as experts in thieving and in various forms of diabolism. In their own dim way they appreciate the fact that man is their master and they show that appreciation by endeavouring to copy his actions. It is a surprising thing, therefore, that in the face of these truths human beings are so often found deliberately reversing the order of things and copying the monkey. All libraries are acquainted with specimens of these perverts, and the one great thing to be thankful for, is that they are comparatively scarce in a community. We know them, to our sorrow, not in their own entities, but by the swaths of desolation that they leave in their wake. They make known their existence by the mutilation of books and magazines, by the scoring of passages in various volumes, by their anonymous comments on the margins of pages, and by the disgusting thumb marks that they leave as a bequest to future readers. All honest readers, and, thank God, they are mostly honest, detest such actions as much as any library board or any librarian detests them. They feel that the volumes that are placed at their disposal are not for themselves alone, but for all alike, and they take as good care of them as they possibly can.

A Book Thief.

But, strive to feel as charitable as one may, it takes all one's equanimity and all one's forbearance to keep from breathing threatenings and slaughter against a book thief. A man may steal a cap or a fountain pen from one's desk and a certain element of vexation is created in the breast of the victim. But that is a loss that is purely personal. The theft of a book from the library shelves is one which directly affects all library patrons, and the crime is, therefore, magnified many times. Some four or five years ago the article on geometry, comprising about 68 pages, was cut out of our copy of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It was, emphatically, a most selfish and godless act, for it meant that the whole set was ruined and that many persons would be doomed to turn away disappointed who came to consult that article in after years.

There is no punishment heavy enough for a book thief or for a mutilator of works of reference. He is as deserving of execration as a man or woman who wilfully or wantonly defames another's character, by retailing idle gossip or engaging in downright slander—both are thieves and both play havoc with the goods that they have stolen.—F. M. D.

Lessening the Life Toll

THE value of the lighthouse is especially appreciated by seafaring folks. Many fascinating stories of averted disasters originate from these structures the world over. Their first purpose, however, is preventing the loss of human life. In this they are closely connected with the purpose of Milburn's Heart & Nerve Pills, around which there are also interesting facts of averted disasters.

People to-day are using Milburn's Heart & Nerve Pills as their "Lighthouse" on which to steer a course for good health. There are very few to-day taking an active part in any walk of life who do not require, at some time or another, an additional food for the Heart & Nerve system, for without these properly carrying out their duties every other organ in the body must suffer. The effects of weakened Heart & Nerve centres vary. With some, the heart thumps harshly and irregularly. They feel irritable and are easily excited. Others are inflicted with sleeplessness at night, and drowsy sensations during the day. If you feel unfit in any way you owe it to yourself and friends to try a box of Shall the importation and the bringing of intoxicating liquor into the province be prohibited? Yes X

IMPORTED "Booze" has increased crime in this province.

Imported "Booze" has increased the difficulties of enforcing the law in this province. While importation was forbidden by Order-in-Council, Ontario's jails were half empty. Imported "Booze" is filling them up again.

PROFITEERING IN MARRIAGE PAPERS.

Rooms Available to Only Those Presenting License.

BERLIN, March 26. (Associated Press).—Marriage licenses are being utilized for profiteering by the Germans. The marriage "profiteer" developed out of the situation which has made necessary the strict "rationing" of housing space. A married couple or a pair about to be married may obtain permission to occupy certain rooms by presentation of the marriage license to the Housing Officer.

It has been discovered that many marriage licenses have been issued to men and women who have no intention to marry, but, having secured the license, and the permission to occupy the number of rooms allotted to married persons, sell the "permission" to married folks or others who need rooms and cannot find them.

The officials say some profitable business has been done, but that the practice is being stopped by keeping a watch on those to whom marriage licenses are granted and withdrawing permission to occupy rooms unless the marriage is performed.

Marriages, however, eclipsed all previous records in the last year. The number has increased two-fold over pre-war years, and many-fold over the marriages during the war, which fell to less than half the normal number.

"Many young folks to-day are getting married here simply to get a room cheaply," said a Berlin official. "The cost of the dwelling is cut in half by the marriage of a man and woman, both of whom are working. They also feel they can co-operate to some advantage in the matter of food, which is a serious problem."

FUEL FAMINE TIES UP RAILWAYS.

Thirty Lines in Russia Are Affected.

HELSINGFORS, March 26. (Associated Press).—Transportation on thirty railway lines in Russia has stopped because of the fuel famine there, says M. Ahonen, the Finnish minister in Moscow, who recently returned here. The Omsk line, one of the most important routes of food distribution, is among those closed.

Most of the Russian factories had discontinued operation for lack of fuel before he left Russia, the Minister stated.

SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How It May be Overcome—All Mothers Interested.

Toronto, Ont.—"I have suffered since I was a school girl with pain in my left side and with cramps, growing worse each year until I was all run down. I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines, but was only relieved for a short time. Some of the doctors wanted to perform an operation, but my father objected. Finally I learned through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and how thankful I am that I tried it. I am relieved from pain and cramps, and feel as if it has saved my life. You may use my letter to help other women as I am glad to recommend the medicine."—Mrs. H. A. Goodman, 14 Rockvale Ave., Toronto.

Those who are troubled as Mrs. Goodman was should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Those who need special advice may write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. These letters will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BLAMES ENGINEER LONG FOR WRECK.

Commission Reports on Porter, Ind., Train Disaster.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Failure of Engineman Long of the Michigan Central train to observe and obey certain signals was responsible for the recent Porter, Ind., wreck, in which thirty-seven persons were killed and twenty injured, the Interstate Commerce Commission's Bureau of Safety have reported.

A contributing cause of the wreck, the bureau's report added, was the failure of Fireman Block, also of the Michigan Central train, to observe properly the signal indication at the crossing where the wreck occurred and to convey the correct information to Engineman Long.

"The accident," the bureau declared, "again calls attention to the necessity for an automatic train control device to be used in connection with existing signal equipment for the purpose of automatically controlling the speed of a train in case the enginemen for any reason fails properly to observe signal indications and to operate his train accordingly."

8 YOUTHS FACE ARSON CHARGE.

Constitute Fire Department of Columbia, Pa.

COLUMBIA, Pa., March 26. — The Columbia Fire Department is under arrest, charged with arson. Eight young men who desired to be brave fire-fighters in the eyes of Columbia belles confessed. it is said, that they had set at least ten fires in the last two weeks. The damages in these different blazes ranged from $100 to $50,000.

The heros' ages range from 17 to 22 years.

The members of the gang are said to have visited the buildings picked for the fires, started the blaze going with oil and other combustibles and then hurried out to see that an alarm was given.

As the fire hose was strung from a hydrant, ladders were erected and the youthful "vamps" swarmed up to chop holes in the roof or throw streams of water on adjoining buildings. When the blaze was subdued, the "heroes" trotted back to headquarters, followed by their admirers.

Prisoner's Interest.

During the addresses of counsel, the charge of Judge Denton, the prisoner sat in the dock keen, eyed, alert an anxious, intent expression on his face Sometimes he would lean over and drop a word of comment to the guard beside him.

Occasionally he would signal to his sisters' counsel, Miss Clara Brett Martin, and whisper some remark in her ear.

Jean Doughty followed the Judge's summing up with tense, strained attention, and at one point when the Judge's remarks reflected rather severely on her story, it seemed to some of the spectators as if she was about to faint.

However, she stood the test well and at the end of the session, when John Doughty passed out, both sisters embraced and kissed him in the most affectionate fashion, smiling at him through their tears in an effort to cheer him up.

BURGLARS VISIT OMEMEE YESTERDAY

ENTER SIX STORES AND OBTAIN SMALL QUANTITY OF CASH.

OMEMEE, March 26.—Early yesterday morning burglars visited Omemee and broke into six stores. The stores visited are as follows: S. J. Mackey, druggist, T. C. Ivory, grocer, R. Bradley, grocer, T. J. Parsons hardware, William Curry, general store and W. D. Stinson, hardware. The thieves got away with a small quantity of cash and goods. Mr. Mackey lost twenty-five dollars in cash. He was the heaviest loser. In some cases the burglars broke in through the front door and in others gained an entrance by cutting the glass at the rear of the stores. Mr. Stinson, who lives over his store, was aroused by the burglars. He looked out in time to see two men making good their escape. He was the only person in the village who was aroused by the actvity of the thieves. Nobody seems to know who they are or by what means they departed from the town. The police will make an effort to locate them.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomachache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends stomach and causes that full oppressive, burning feeling, sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated magnesia ,a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

CRITICISM AND REMINISCENCE

(By PATERFAMILIAS)

GREAT AMERICAN TRAGEDY ON A GOOD FRIDAY.

Good Friday, in the year 1865, fell on April 14th, and marked the date of a tragedy in the United States deplored the world over, for the evening of that Good Friday, fifty-six years ago, President Abraham Lincoln was assassinated in Ford's Theatre, Washington. The play to be presented that night, "Our American Cousin," was in celebration of the fall of Richmond, in the great American civil war, on April 3rd, when General Lee, the Confederate leader, evacuated the city. General Grant of the victorious Federal army was to have accompanied the President and Mrs. Lincoln to the theatre that night, but changed his mind and left Washington by an afternoon train. Abraham Lincoln was shot down from behind while seated with his wife in a proscenium box, his murderer being John Wilkes Booth, a fanatical son of the famous Junius Brutus Booth. The assassin after accomplishing his dastardly purpose, leaped from the box to the stage, breaking his leg. Rising from the fall, he shouted "Sic Semper tyrannus," and managed to escape through the wings to the stage entrance, where he mounted his tethered horse and dashed away into temporary safety. Troopers, however, tracked Booth to a barn where he was shot to death while resisting arrest. The assassin's deed was execrated in the Southern States as well as the north, and the sorrow of the American people found sympathy in Canada and overseas.

During the same night of Good Friday an unsuccessful attempt was made on the life of Secretary of State Seward.

When President Lincoln fell to the floor of his box, mortally wounded, Laura Keene, the prima donna of the opera, was the first to reach his side with assistance. Costumed for her part in the second act, she sat on the floor, holding the stricken statesan's head in her lap. The president was unconscious and they carried him on a litter across the street to a house opposite the theatre, where he died before morning.

FIRST TOWN HALL AND THE DISAPPEARING OX.

A village for twenty years, Peterborough assumed the dignity of a town on January 1, 1850, when the population was only 3180. The first mayor was Thomas Benson, the first town clerk, C. J. Vizard. On September 25th, the following year, the corner stone of the first town hall, adjoining the market square, was laid by Peterborough's second Mayor, Charles Hudson, with no small measure of ceremony . The recording parchment deposited in the corner stone contained the following names: Members of the council of the Town of Peterborough, 1851 Charles Hudson, Mayor; James Harvey, Jos. Spenceley, John Reid, Thos. Chambers, Clark Spalding, James T. Henthorn ,Edmund Chamberlen, Egerton Perry, M. D., Thomas Hutcheson, Robinson Rutherford and John Haggart. Members of the Building Committee: Edmund Chamberlen, James T. Henthorn, Thomas Chambers, John Reid, and James Harvey. Walter Sheridan, architect; David Taylor, contractor; W. H. Wrighton, Town Clerk.

The ceremonies marking this auspicious occasion included the roasting of a whole ox on the market square, of which the public had been invited to partake free and without charge. But this part of the rejoicing's programme was somewhat married by the disappearance of the ox in some unaccountable manner while being subjected to the flames of a huge fire on the said market square. And it has never yet been explained where the public and their entertainers were when Mr. Beeve was taking wings.

Whether they were away getting a before dinner appetizer—a custom very much in vogue those days—and absorbed so many so-called appetizers that they did not know a roasted ox when they saw it on their return; or whether the historian in recording this pathetic little incident was given to both appetizers and pipe dreams, is a problem yet unsolved. At any rate, we are told in aparent good faith that the ox vanished in a direction not at all anticipated.

This town hall and adjacent buildings were destroyed by fire in 1857.

In a history of Peterborough one reads that the year 1884 saw the Town Council doing business in the upper part of the first Opera House, built by the late Thomas Bradburn, on George Street, in 1875. Here also were situated the Clerk and Treasurer's offices, Collector's office and Police Station. The police force consisted of Chief George Johnston, Constables R. Pidgeon and R. H. Adams. George A. Cox (later Senator) was then Mayor; his colleagues on the Council Board were Thomas Cahill, A. Rutherford, R. S. Davidson, John Douglas, Samuel F. Allin, Wm. Yelland, R. H. Green, Melville Miller, Thomas Kelly, Thomas Menzies, James Kennedy and John J. Hartley.

The Town Trust Commissioners were James Stevenson (who subsequently held at the same time the public confidence as Mayor, Chairman of Board of Education and member of the Commons), Edgecombe Pearce (also for many years County Clerk and Treasurer), E. Chamberlain, John J. Lundy, W. Clexton and W. Patterson, Jr.

The town officials in 1884 were C. D. Macdonald, Clerk and Treasurer; William Cumming, Tax Collector; T. Beavis, License Inspector; J. E. Belcher, Town Engineer; Wm. Aldridge and C. McGrath, Assessors; E. B. Edwards, Town Solicitor; D. W. Dumble, Police Magistrate, now as then; Edgecombe Pearce and James Stratton, Auditors; George Johnston, Street Inspector.

Most of these names are still well known to a large number of present-day residents here.

This Opera House—civic building, the same as in which Victoria Hall was before replaced by Peterborough's first theatre—in 1875, and for years thereafter, had a convenient arcade on the street line, running through to the Market Square from George Street, while the whole structure was dominated by a clock tower.

The present city hall, at the corner of Simcoe and Water streets was acquired by the corporation in 1886, the first meeting of the town council being held in the council chamber now in use on April 6th of that year. Our civic administrations was composed of Mayor James Stevenson; Councillors, R. S. Davidson, T. Cahill, John McNaughton, Thomas Kelly, Andrew McNeil, John McClelland, W. Yelland (afterwards Mayor), W. H. Moore, A. Rutherford, James Kendry (Mayor later on.) J. J. Hartley and Thomas Menzies.

This building, originally owned and occupied by the Ban kof Toronto ,the town purchased for $4500 the council voting some $1500 for needed improvements to meet municipal requirements.

THE SATURDAY COLUMN

(By QUINTERS)

This column will contain an article each Saturday by Quintus of general interest and of educational value

American antiquities and the antiquity of America are not the same thing. Geologically, America, or at least a large portion of it, north and south, is of equal antiquity with any other part of the globe and, therefore, of much greater age than much of it. Much of the earth, that was once dry land, is under the sea. The English Channel and the North Sea cover what was not so very many thousands of years ago dry land. The central portion of North America lying between the east and the west and the eastern part of South America were sea bottoms. Upheavals and submergencies of various portions of the earth at long intervals have marked its history. Strata of various kinds alternating with sedimentary deposits by water show that what has happened once may happen again. The earth is a cooling body and subject to heaving up and falling down. Marine fossils on mountain tops show that at one time these mountains were land at the bottom of the ocean. Water is gradually denuding high lands and carrying them down to the oceans, and in time these deposits will upheave again. The desert of Sahara was a sea bottom ages ago. The fossils of long extinct animals in Alberta show that the prairies owe their flatness to the pressure of the sea above them. It must be remembered, however, that the motion of the earth is not uniform; that is to say, the attraction of the sun, satellites and planets cause the poles to wave slowly about in a vast circle that changes the angle of the apparent path of the sun and causes cold regions to become tropical and vice versa. These various attractions have a very powerful influence upon the earth, both inside and out.

But Nature acts very slowly in such cases and we must read her history in pages that turn not in years but in ages. Man has left his record upon the earth in a variety of ways. The pyramids of Egypt are at least four thousand years old. The ruins of Babylon and Nineveh, dug up from the sands blown over them and from the vast showers of cosmic dust sent up by volcanoes and falling upon the earth again, enable us to read the history of those times. It is so, also, with America, where the primitive peoples seem to have had a history very like in every way the history of Eastern peoples. This will surprise many who have had the idea that the so-called antiquites of America were after all recent in comparison with those of the old world, as it is called.

This similarity of the works of all primitive peoples points to emigration from a common centre, and yet it does not. For how could the few emigrants from the ancient home carry with them similar ideas of architecture religion and tribal customs, all of which bear marks of having developed during the course of vast periods of time in different lands and different climes?

South America appears to have been peopled from lands in its own latitude rather than from the north as hitherto supposed, although, of course, there were immigrations from the central portion. Differences or modificatieno of race have yet to be traced to their true geographical source, although speculations have been numerous and plausible. The southern natives of South America and the Auracanians of the northern part bear no resemblance to each other, except as human beings.

The Eskimo and the Red Indian were not at all alike. Why? Magnificent ruins buried deep under the cover of earth and time show that the ancient peoples of America, as elsewhere, were not as primitive in performance as many of their successors. Are their successors really successors, or descendants and degenerates, or another people altogether?

We will continue the study of America in our next article.

New Drug Worth Millions To Suffering Humanity

Only Drug Known That Acts Upon the Liver—99 per cent of all Aches, Pains and Sickness Are Caused from Disordered Liver.

This new drug is called Tanated Calomel. It acts only on the Liver, which immediately, relieves many troubles, as Rheumatism, Constipation, Boils, Kidney Pains, etc. No Salts and Seidlitz are necessary after taking, because it is self-eliminating. It does not have a nauseating, sickening feeling the next day, like so many similar drugs. You no doubt have been taking all sorts of laxatives, salts, castor oil, etc., with only temporary results. The reason is that none of these drugs act upon the Liver; they merely draw liquid from the blood and tissues, causing a great flush. What you need is something like Tanated Calomel, which causes the bile to be excreted from the Liver into the Bowel, causing a natural elimination of the waste. You know waste allowed to remain in the system causes a multitude of troubles. I can venture to say that 90 per cent. of all sickness is due directly to this very thing. What is generally the first thing your doctor does when you are sick? He gets your Bowels operating so as to eliminate wastes in your Bowels, which is poisoning your system. Now, in order to be happy, healthy, vigorous, vivacious, bright, alert, keen to observe and understand, you must first keep your Liver clean, or you are coaxing all sorts of trouble upon yourself. Doctors recommend that you take a tablet before eating and one at bedtime. Just get some of these, and I feel assured that you will feel as if you had a new lease of life.

TRY THEM NOW AND BE CONVINCED

DR. NORVALL'S STOMACH AND TONIC PILLS are recommended by Doctors and Druggists to relieve Constipation, Biliousness, and Sick Headache. As a mild laxative and general tonic, Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Pills are in a class by themselves. This statement the manufacturers feel confident, is correct, but the reader may doubt it. And in order to convince you, if you will go to any Druggist in the City of Peterborough and procure a Bottle of these Tablets, and they fail to do what we claim for them, return the Bottle, and your Dealer will Refund the Money. 4d-23-26-30-2

WHY DAME LEMIEUX PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

She Took Her Friends' Advice When She Thought an Operation Might Be Necessary and Used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Ledges, New Brunswick, March 25th.—(Special.) — Dodd's Kidney Pills have few warmer friends anywhere than Dame Michel Lemieux, a well-known resident of this place. She has tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and found them good.

"I suffered from pains in the kidneys, head and back," Dame Lemieux states. "I felt I should be obliged to submit to an operation. My friends advised me first to try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I did so, and my health seemed to improve from the first box. My illness of the side and abdomen disappeared and my kidneys are much better. I feel like working now."

Women all over Canada are praising Dodd's Kidney Pills. Each of them gives her reason. For weak or diseased kidneys are the cause of most of the ills to which woman is heir. Ask your neighbours if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the best remedy for sick kidneys.

In Cancellation of British Debt to U. S.

BUENOS AIRES, March 26. — (Canadian Press).—La Epoca, the Government organ, comments editorially on the proposal of United States Senator Willis that Great Britain and France cancel part of their debt to the United States by ceding their island possessions in the Antilles to that country saying:

"If this proposal is carried to a finish, North American Dominion in the Antilles Sea will be absolute. Will this operation be realized? For Willis, it appears, the purchase of a country is exactly the same thing as the purchase of a house."

FRECKLES

March Worst Month for This Trouble—How to Remove Easily.

There's a reason why nearly everybody freckles in March, but happily there is also a remedy for these ugly blemishes, and no one need stay freckled.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength, from your druggist and apply a little of it night and morning, and in a few days you should see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the light ones have vanished entirely. Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they may stay all summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Your money back if Othine fails.

Home and School Association

The Home and School Associations which have been doing so much good work in Peterborough for some time past, have been considering the formation of a Home and School Council, and a Council with provisional officers was formed at a meeting of the Executives of the different Home and School Associations last Friday evening, with the following members: Hon. President, Mr. A. Mowat; President, Mrs. S. T. Medd; Vice-President, Mrs. R. H. Parsons; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. E. V. Frederick. Councillors to represent the seven associations are as follows: King Edward, Mrs. Watt; May's School, Mrs. Jackson; Queen Mary, Mr. Clark; South Central, Mr. Cunningham; Central, Mrs. F. Miller; Queen Alexandra, Mrs. Yenney; King George, Mrs. Dodds.

The idea of a Council of this sort is to affiliate the different Home and School Associations under one hand, and in this way, to co-operate in a more businesslike and connected manner with the Department of Education. It is one of the aims of the Council, if possible, to bring outside speakers to the city, from time to time, to address the associations, and this could much more easily be managed by a Council of this sort than by one isolated association.

The good work done by these societies in, as it were, bridging the unsympathetic gap which has always existed to a certain extent between parents of children and their teachers, is becoming more apparent as time goes on, and the entertainments and lectures undertaken by them, bring together on a common ground the fathers and mothers, the teachers and the children themselves in a very pleasing and rather unique way.

"At Home"

The Catholic Women's League, which was recently inaugurated in Peterborough with a wonderfully encouraging initial membership, is holding an "at home" next week in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum and will be addressed on Sunday afternoon next by Miss Marguerite Ernestine O'Connell, M.A. of Toronto Collegiate, at 3.30, at the Lyceum. Mrs. Neill of Edmonton, one of the earliest members of the League in Canada, was in Peterborough this week visiting friends.

Retail Turnover for February

Retail turnover in small centres is reported for the month of February as being considerably ahead of business for the same month last year. In Peterborough the increase is stated as 19½ per cent., with 5 per cent. less stock carried. This is only in regard to volume of business of course and manufacturers report a less optimistic outlook. Orders for goods are coming in very slowly, and the situation appears to be that merchants are ordering only enough for immediate needs, and seem also to be carrying less variety than formerly, and in this way are safeguarding their own financial position. The gradual readjustment of prices has been a good thing and has resulted in comparatively few failures, according to an address given in Toronto recently on business conditions. The speaker regards the immediate future as a period of the keenest business competition the world has ever known. Germany, with a forty-year indemnity to face, will be compelled, in his opinion, to work longer hours and for less pay during this period of time than any other country with which she is competing, and this means an era in which the world will be flooded with German-made goods. A definite policy of business preparedness is advocated, with installation of labor-saving machinery, efficient advertising, and, above all, "optimism, enthusiasm, courage and perseverance" to carry on in the coming struggle, which the speaker regarded as a good thing for any country. "The day of long profits is past. I doubt if any of us will ever again see the day when a merchant could make more money by holding goods than by selling them. The motto for the future will be not big profits, but quick turnover. This, however, is no hardship to the efficient business man; 5 per cent. net profit with twelve turnovers a year is better than 20 per cent. profit with three turnovers in the year. It is safer. It tends to lower costs, and this in itself stimulates business."

The rapidity with which Germany is rebuilding her foreign trade is quite evident from a statement recently made by the National City Bank of New York, which shows that the foreign trade of Germany in the year 1920 amounted, with a population of 60 millions, to $2,000,000,000, as against a total of $5,000,000,000 in 1913, with a population then of 67 millions. The trade in 1920 with Germany by the United States totalled $300,000,000, by Great Britain £82,255,000 and by France approximately 3,500,000,000 francs. Belgium and Italy also did considerable trading with Germany, while the neutrals on her frontiers—Switzerland, the Netherlands, the Scandinavian States, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, and even Soviet Russia—showed marked gains over the preceding year.

A Jacobite

The death of the late Marquis of Queensberry, who was of Jacobite descent and was associated with the modern Jacobite movement, recalls to mind the record of imperishable devotion which existed, and seems destined always to exist in the minds and hearts of those followers of one of the most romantic of the Lost Causes of the world. Even now, 200 years after the birth of Prince Charles Edward Stuart, there are publications all over the world devoted to singing his praises and to commemorating the stirring incidents of his life and struggles to regain his throne.

Bonnie Prince Charlie, "Phrionnsa Tearlach, Righ nau Gael," who the Highlanders will praise in song and story for evermore, was remembered long after Culloden in a Gaelic song which expresses the fanatical devotion of his followers, and a verse of which runs:

"They revaged and burned my country;
They murdered my father, and carried off my brothers;
They ruined my kindred, and broke the heart of my mother.
But all, all could I bear,
If I saw my kind restored to his own."

And the tale is told of an old man, Hugh Chisholm, who had been out in the Forty-Five, and who would never, when receiving his pension, take it save with his left hand. Charles Edward had shaken hands with him in 1746, and ever afterwards Chisholm would never allow his right hand to touch anything which might contaminate it.

A woman, writing in words of warmest words of praise and enthusiastic loyalty of the Royal House of Stuart, when referring to Prince Charlie, says:

"His is a name to conjure with. For him my ancestors shed their blood, and even now, these long years afterwards, when I hear the old Jacobite songs, the tears start to my eyes. I have often tried to think why such a halo of pathos and romance hangs around the Stuarts, and more especially about the name of Bonnie Prince Charlie? Surely, it was their beauty, their wonderful charm of manner, and the great fascination they had the power of exercising over those with whom they came in contact. And apart from all this, wonderful personal charm of the Stuarts, they possessed a kingly right of which nothing could dispossess them. Whatever their faults, they were kingly, dignified, gracious, and they inspired in their followers such love and devotion as made them ready and willing to follow them through privation and hardship even 'to the death.'"

The Wet Wave

That there isn't as much profit in the sale of liquor as one might imagine is indicated in the annual statement of the National Breweries of Montreal, which was submitted last week. Judging from the Ontario standard, where a bottle brings the high price of $6.00, one would imagine that an enormous profit would be recorded, but it appears that returns began to fall off in the latter part of last year, and, on account of large extensions to its plant and a decline of $1,150,000 in the working capital of the company, it expects to be forced to do some financing for about $2,000,000. However, the statement records an average income in 1920 of $81,384 per month, so that the liquor business may still be regarded as a going concern.

Advertising in Ontario, since the "dry" wave devastated this Province, seems to be extensively carried on by the liquor dealers in the lower Province, and even strictly feminine residents who have hitherto led absolutely non-alcoholic lives, are now bombarded by all sorts of pamphlets, such as "The Connoisseur's Opportunity," and literature advising one to buy now, to avoid possible congestion with the express companies later on. By a careful study of these lists one might become an expert in the differences between "Rare Old Tawny," "Usher's Green Stripe" and "Gold Seal Red Top," and one may order anything in any quantity desired, according to these accomodating communications, which request the names and addresses of friends "who would like our price list."

All sorts of queer stories are circulated with regard to the expedients devised to procure liquor. Exhibits of beer and whiskey in bottles placed in museums under glass cases were stolen out of hand. From Washington comes the information that many repairs to navy compasses were necessary last year by reason of the instruments being broken open for the alcohol they contained. In Greenville, S. C., a 75-gallon capacity whiskey distillery was recently discovered with a suction system which enabled the liquor to be emptied through faucets into a bath tub. If surprised by inspectors, a hearse in New York with four mourners was discovered to be the container of 60 cases of the best Kentucky brand, and a peculiar account arrives from a State penitentiary of prisoners burning their blankets to obtain heat to distil liquor from their cornbread rations. Quite recently, a resident of Lexington, Kentucky, went on record as having for his dying farewell the words, "I die without regret. Whiskey was selling at $22 a quart in Lexington to-day—the first time in my life that it has been quoted at a price commensurate with its value."

WASHINGTON, March 26. — (Associated Press).—The new map of Europe, showing the boundaries of new and old nations established by the Peace Conference at Paris and by subsequent decisions of the Supreme Council has just been published by The National Geographic Society, together with an index of the names of the cities and towns.

It shows the plebiscite areas such as Silesia, Eastern Galicia, Schleswig, Smyrna and Rhodes. The French mandate area in Syria is outlined and also the international territory called the Zone of Straits (Dardanelles and Bosphorus), now governed by the Inter-Allied Commission on Control.

Other frontiers show the Saar basin, the Dodecanese Islands now under Greek domination, the Polish corridor to the Baltic Sea and the new nations born as the result of the war, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Czechoslavakia and Jugo-slavia.

The Geographic Society has announced that it soon will issue the new map of Asia.

PRIMITIVE MILKMAID

LIMA, Peru.—The Lima milkmaid is exceedingly primitive, young, alluring, and she always comes to town a-straddle of a mule, except when she is getting the last ounce of strength out of a pony before he is sent to the bull-ring. She's an Indian. She swarthes put of an indeterminate mass of dirty garments, and puts the big toe of either foot in the stirrup leathers instead of in the stirrup. Clanking and swinging in front of her on either side are two dingy tin cans which contain the day's allowance of milk for her patrons. A bas le Peruvian demoselle du lait! I shall continue to take mine out of the tin cans provided otherwise.

Some Advantages.

Somehow the Peruvian milkmaid persists in my mind in this effort to sum up Lima as a place of residence. It has its advantages. The climate, at least at this period, is as nearly perfect as any climate can be. It is never too hot nor too cold. In the Summer time—our Summer, which is the Peruvian Winter—the heat increases very little, I am told, but here on the Peruvian coast the sun retires behind a curtain of cloud. If you manage to see the sun twice a month at that period you are doing well. Even at this time we've had a taste of what the Peruvian fog can do.

The Government gave a Fete Venitienne in honor of the visiting fleet. A grandstand was erected on the water front, and on the night of the Fete Venitienne, the Government shot rockets profusely into the air. Rockets and firecrackers are a recognized method of showing riotous happiness in Peru. They probably recall the good old days when heretics en casserolle a la Pizarro were served nightly on the Cathedral Square. Anyhow, one heard the rockets leave with a fog-smothered hiss. Up in the air one saw a few fiery crinkles in the gray mist when they exploded. Out in the harbor one did not see the lights of the fleet at all. A shipmate of mine cruised for four hours before he found his ship. Another headed out to sea. Such was the Fete Venitienne. Man proposes but the fog gums his works in Peru.

Everyone Scratches.

Next to the milkmaids the beggars are Lima's most notable articles of domestic virtue. Everyone scratches in Lima. All the foreigners do, anyhow. I have seen Liman dandies, all dressed up in tight-waisted clothes from Broadway and the Rue de la Paix—they mix their styles here — with long cigarette holders protruding at an acute angle from the corner of the mouth, search a physical recess with an experienced fingertip while talking to a Lima lady. Nor is the damsel apt to be backward. She is daintier of course. Her nip with rosy fingertops at the back-jumping flea is not obstrusive. Both cavalier and lady manage to cast an air of haut ton and hini soit about their fleeting pinches. At first one thinks these gestures to be merely the expressions of an overabundant courtesy.

But the beggar sits in the sunny side of a wall and opens his scanty clothing to expose his brown body and sets about policing himself with a grim determination that has something manly and passionate about it. Usually he is accompanied by a small beggar—the size beggar a conjurer could draw out of his hat if he felt like it—and the small beggar is likewise at work. I have never been able to figure out whether the juvenile is carried as a sort of a depot for surplus fleas or as a magazine of supplies. Anyhow, there he or she always is.

Pleasures in Lima.

Somehow, they do not seem revolting. There are strange smells in Lima, but they are smothered by dust. Men canter by on little handy, clean-cut ponies that seem as docile as dogs. The icemen carry the day's ice to their customers in sacks and one hardly looks at them twice. The method seems entirely natural. At 4 o'clock all the girls and their mothers go out for a pasear. If they belong to rich families, they ride in carriages or cars. Otherwise they walk ten abreast on six-foot sidewalks, and the stranger steps into the street and is hit in the back by a car going the wrong way, until he learns that cars turn to the left in Peru.

The bars are open to the street, except at the noon hour, when the bars and stores and cigar shops and every other place of business in Lima, save the restaurants, are closed that their proprietors may take the afternoon siesta. The streets are flanked by two-storey houses. There are only a few three-storey structures in the city, except for the churches.

Back to Pizarro's Time.

In the suburbs one finds the older Spanish type of home, with overhanging balconies. Some of them date back to Pizarro's time. More than one has a grisly history. During the cooler hours of the afternoon black-eyed girls sit in these balconies and wave their fans and watch the passers-by. They flirt, of course, just as most girls do. Yet the Lima mother gives her daughter liberty one rarely sees in Latin countries.

"Did you see that girl at the dance?" a dozen officers have asked me.

She wasn't more than nineteen years old, they say, which in this climate probably means sixteen. And she was surpassingly pretty, with blue black hair, and blue eyes and the prettiest white skin in the world. I didn't see the girl, but I saw a picture of her taken at the bull fight, at a moment when she was turning the full value of those charming eyes upon an enraptured bull-fighter. Except for the feeling of chivalry which animated the bull, Lima might have lost an ornament to its ring that day. She is as pretty as they say she was.

"She didn't dance with any junior officer more'n a minute," the juniors say. "We were always ranked out of her. Even the seniors could not hold her much longer. Some more superior always cut in."

Beauty's Dress Cut Short.

Well, her ball dress was not only alluringly depressed at the top, but it was cut so short at the bottom as to show a pair of admirably dimpled knees. If there had been more like her the fleet would have heaved sighs along with its anchors.

SPOILED PERFECT GOOD SEA TRIP.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—How two women, delegates to a W.C.T.U. convention in South America, "spoiled" a perfectly good trip for several of the passengers was told by officers of the ship when they returned here. The women succeeded in putting a stop to the poker playing, and also kept such a supervision over the liquors that the sale was reduced to a minimum. The men breathed sighs of relief when the women disembarked at a South American port, the officers said.

RETIRING CLERGYMAN PREACHES SIX HOURS

NORTH BERGEN, N.J., March 24.—The story of how Rev. Ernest Whitcomb, pastor of the Beulah Mission of the Church of Jesus, Sunday preached for six hours straight and even munched his supper in the pulpit before surrendering the rostrum to his duly elected successor, became known here yesterday when five parishioners loyal to Mr. Whitcomb were ordered arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct.

When the new pastor, Rev. Harold M. Moss, of Springfield, Mass., arrived to take charge at the mission he found Mr. Whitcomb preaching. Mr. Moss did not desire to interrupt the services, but nevertheless called for two church officers and two policemen. Then he waited for Mr. Whitcomb to end his sermon.

But Mr. Whitcomb preached from 2 p.m. until 8 p.m. and many of his congregation stayed with him. Finally the new pastor called on the old to "resign and get out" at the same time motioning toward the policemen.

Mr. Whitcomb then stopped preaching, but the five members of his flock placed under arrest were alleged not to have surrendered so

THE LABRADOR MEDICAL MISSION

In response to the appeal made to the Sunday Schools to help Dr. Grenfell's work for the orphan children of Labrador, two of the city Sunday Schools and two from the country have sent in contributions.

Before making a statement of receipts, the Treasurer is hoping to hear from other Sunday Schools, as well as from some of the regular subscribers who have, so far, failed to send in their contributions. The need this year is very great, and we are anxious to do our best to lighten the burden of those who have given their lives to bring help and comfort to the needy fishermen and their families.

GLAD HE TRIED THE TONIC TREATMENT

THROUGH ITS USE STRENGTH AND VIGOR WAS RESTORED.

To be tired after exertion is natural. Rest and food restore the body to normal after much fatigue. But to be tired all the time is a symptom of an anaemic condition that will not be corrected until the blood is built up.

Such an anaemic condition is so gradual in its approach and generally so lacking in acute pains that it is often difficult to persuade the sufferer to do anything for it. But it is not a condition that corrects itself. If the blood is not enriched the trouble will increase. The nerves will be undernourished and neuralgic pains will follow. Digestive disturbances often result from thin blood, sleep is disturbed and a general breakdown may occur.

Mr. Wilson Johnson, Nineveh, N. S., says: "A few years ago my system was in a badly run-down condition. My nerves seemed always on edge, and I found myself so weak that I could hardly do any work. I suffered from headaches and from pains in the back and under the shoulders, and was often so sleepless at night that when morning came I felt as tired as when I went to bed. I was taking medicine all the time, but it was doing me no good. Then I read the testimonial of a man whose condition had been similar to mine, and who strongly recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to give this medicine a fair trial, and when I had taken six boxes, I felt much better. I continued taking the Pills until I had taken six more boxes, and I can only say I am glad I did so, as I am now enjoying the best of health, and I advise all men who feel run down to give these Pills a good trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

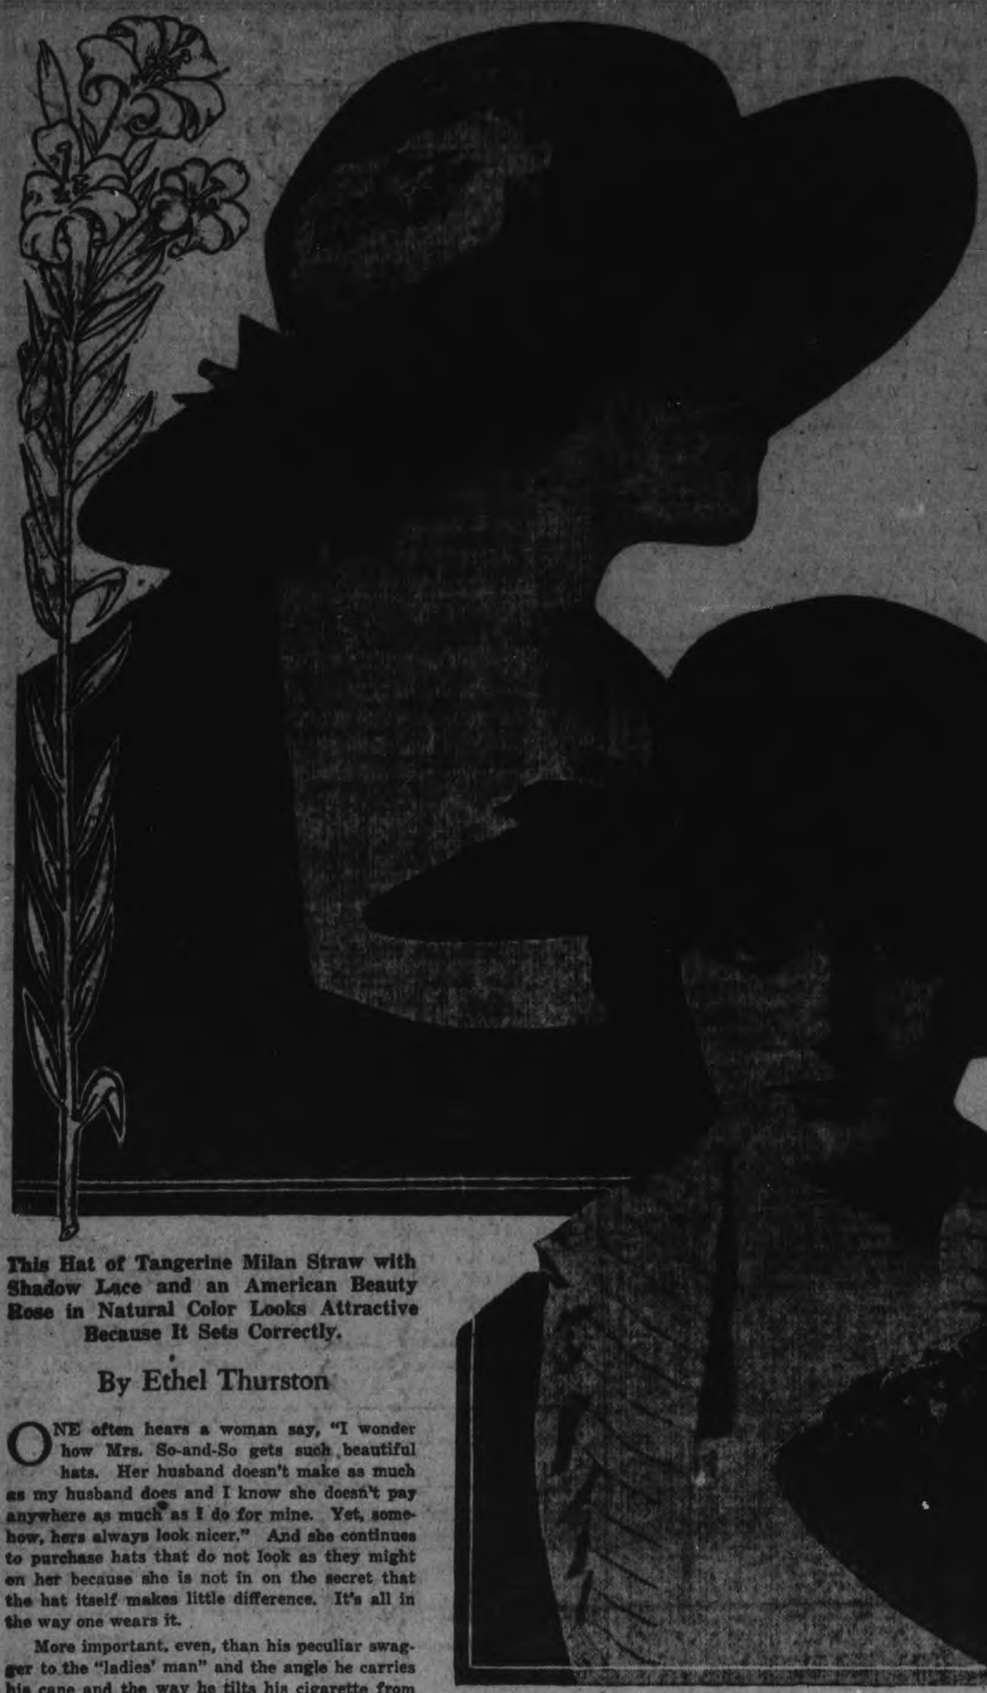
The Right and Wrong of Easter Hats

A Photographic Demonstration of How the Slightest Deviation from the Correct Head Position May Spoil the Charm of Dainty Millinery Creations.



This Hat of Tangerine Milan Straw with Shadow Lace and an American Beauty Rose in Natural Color Looks Attractive Because It Sets Correctly.

By Ethel Thurston

ONE often hears a woman say, "I wonder how Mrs. So-and-So gets such beautiful hats. Her husband doesn't make as much as my husband does and I know she doesn't pay anywhere as much as I do for mine. Yet, somehow, hers always look nicer." And she continues to purchase hats that do not look as they might on her because she is not in on the secret that the hat itself makes little difference. It's all in the way one wears it.

More important, even, than his peculiar swagger to the "ladies' man" and the angle he carries his cane and the way he tilts his cigarette from his mouth to produce an "appearance," is the angle at which a woman should wear her hat. It should not be tilted forward so that one looks like a pugilist seeking an engagement; nor upwards so that one appears to be an individual after whom attendants at an insane asylum are searching; nor lacking the piquancy lent to the picture by the saucy, almost imperceptible angle, which means the difference between "ordinary" and "fetching."

The hats on this page, for which the handsome Martha Mansfield, well known motion picture actress, posed, strikingly illustrate the absolute necessity of wearing one's hat correctly if one is to let one's neighbors know that one's husband wrote out a really big check for it.

The stunning Milan Napoleon of chassaine blue with a festoon of red roses across the brim worn in proper form by Miss Mansfield is as charming a headgear as a beautiful woman could wear. But, when incorrectly set on the head, because the hair in the rear is made up too low, even the beauty of the model is detracted from because of the stupid look the improper setting of the hat imparts.

PHOTOS © JOSEPH.

The Same Hat of Tangerine Milan Straw Looks Cheap and Unattractive Because the Coiffure Is Too High and Prevents the Hat from Resting Properly on the Head.

Even more strikingly illustrative of the right and wrong way is the black lisere straw directoire poke photographed on this page. This, really, is a cute little hat, which would make most women more beautiful. Tilted at the right angle its effect could not be improved. But when it is at an incorrect angle the result, as the picture shows, is to give a really foolish look to the wearer.

The improper angle at which the tangerine Milan straw with shadow lace is set, is still another reason why the owner of a pretty hat should study the art of properly adjusting it to meet problems of coiffure.

These Two Photographs Illustrate the Sublime and the Ridiculous as Applied to the Wearing of a Black Lisere Straw Directoire Poke.

In other words, the pictures show that when purchasing a hat the pretty woman should bear in mind what it will look like when it is worn with this or that style of hair dressing. There should be a different hat for each coiffure. Of that there can be no doubt. And the prominence of the forehead, the breadth of the head and the size of the ears, even, should be taken into account. No matter how much may be paid for a hat it quickly becomes unsightly and really revolting to one's taste when it is not set on the head in the manner that exactly conforms to the face and the shape of the head.

Opinion of a Fashion Arbiter

The photographs were shown Milton Wolf, arbiter of American fashions. This is what he said about them:

"It is not so much the style of the hat as the way it is put on that matters. All hats are not of course becoming to all women, but far more are unbecoming through a lack of knowledge as to how they should be worn than through the particular design of the hat. If the lines of a hat are good it is, in fact, possible to tilt the hat at just the proper angle which will bring out all the good points and ameliorate the poor ones.

"Leghorn in all shapes and sizes, horsehair braid, directoire poke hats, Milan straw and floral trimmings will be popular. There will be few extreme styles worn by the well-dressed woman.

"The directoire poke with the beautiful black fins of a king paradise, the price paid for which was close on $500, is a hat which must be worn with discretion. It is predicted that these hats are going to be very popular, so it behooves the girl who would be correct that she take careful note. The directoire poke differs somewhat from the usual poke. It is fashioned more on the lines of a modified mushroom. The brim droops far over the face on the sides and is very short in back with a slightly longer line to the front. Do not, therefore, as you value your reputation for being up-to-date, wear it on the back of the head as you did the old poke; if you do so your $500 hat will look like 50 cents.

"If you have chosen a stunning gray costume for Easter Sunday parade and wish to experience the joyous feeling of being the envy of all your enemies, the gray Italian milan straw hat, shaped something like those German trophy helmets which the boys brought home, with a group of gray glycerine ostrich plumes at either side, will accomplish your purpose. Be careful, however, that you wear the brim in a straight line across the forehead, otherwise, if you get the rakish effect in the picture, you may be mobbed!

"The large tangerine Milan straw hat covered with tangerine shadow lace and trimmed with a large American Beauty rose of neutral color is such a simple affair that it does not look as if it would be possible to go far wrong in getting it on right. But just look at the result when it is not well pressed down on the head almost entirely covering the hair. The large hat which throws softening shadows on the face is especially flattering to all women, and the art of putting it on effectively should be carefully studied.

And Here Is the Same Napoleon Hat, Comletely Robbed of Its Attractiveness by Being Worn Too Far Back on the Head.

The Debutante's Hat

"For the young girl and debutante the chassaine blue Milan Napoleon with the festoon of red roses across the brim is especially appropriate; it is simple and beautiful. Brought low over the eyes the rich shade of the roses and the delicate blue of the straw blend beautifully with a peach and cream complexion. Pushed far back on her head, the graceful lines and color effects are lost, and the cunning of the artist who designed this creation disappears.

"An important item in the get-up of the girl who would be queen on Easter morn, is the manner in which she dresses her neck. Furs are not worn by the summer girl just because she wishes to be freakish, but because they give a fascinatingly soft effect to the face. Contrast the pictures where Miss Mansfield wears a soft fur, or velvet and pearls, with those in which she wears a hard organdie collar and you will see the point. There are, of course, times when the organdie collar is quite proper, and nothing could be daintier or prettier when worn with a floppy organdie hat, but this is not to be thought of in the early days of spring."

Many things could be told you of the odd hats which, as mentioned above, will crop out later in the spring and make a hard fight for place in the fashion field. The corn cob hat and the pine cone hat, which are as eccentric as their names, are two of these. They are light as down, these new chapeaux, and have the shiny appearance of cellophane. But outside of a few who pride themselves on their outre costuming, they will doubtless have no more popularity than that granted to former freakish fashions which have ventured forth for the American woman's approval.

DEMPSEY DECLARES AGAINST NEGROES

CALGARY, March 25. — Jack Dempsey, who is here to-day expressed pleasure at the new arrangement for his bout with Carpentier, on a percentage basis instead of a straight guarantee. He said he believed the contest would draw a million and a half dollars.

"And here is something else I have never told yet," said the champion, "I will never accept a challenge from a colored man. I absolutely draw the color line."

A DISAGREEMENT OVER BIG FIGHT

BIG MAULERS WANT TOO MUCH MONEY—A CHANCE TO CALL IT OFF.

NEW YORK(March 26.—Serious disagreement, legal battles and perhaps a final calling off of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, may result if Tex Rickard insists upon a reduction of the purse.

While he has not given official utterance of a desire to remove that half million dollar load from his back, Rickard is known to be entertaining a plan to have the fighters work on a percentage basis.

Jack Kearns has already agreed to send the champion into the ring for a cut of the gate, but it promises to be an entirely different matter to get the consent of the Frenchman.

"I am always willing to give any good card sixty per cent. of the receipts," Rickard said not long ago, when discussing his desire to get boxing away from guaranteed purses.

He is understood to have the same ideas of the Dempsey-Carpentier bout. The division of the sixty per cent. among the fighters promises to be the greatest obstacle, however.

Kearns has agreed to accept 36 per cent. for Dempsey and leave the remaining 24 per cent. for Carpentier.

That's where the rub comes. In the early negotiations Carpentier couldn't see that Dempsey was entitled to more than he. He maintained that he was just as big a drawing card and that both should get an equal sum. Kearns claims that Dempsey is the champion and the real drawing card, and should get the biggest slice of the purse.

"I do not believe that Carpentier will agree to any terms other than those of the original agreement," Captain Mallett, the intimate friend and personal representative of the Frenchman, said here to-day.

He said he based his belief on a talk he had with Descamps and Carpentier in Paris recently, when the report had been heard that the terms would be changed.

Gun. Wilson, Carpentier's trainer, said also to-day that Carpentier would not appear for less than the $200,000 guaranteed in the original agreement. He has letters from Descamps saying that legal measures would be taken to collect if any parties to the agreement violate their contract.

"If Rickard can give a percentage that will be the equivalent of $200,000, then Georges will fight," he said. "Otherwise there will be lawsuits to collect the forfeit."

Rickard has cabled Carpentier telling him of the portion demanded by Dempsey and of the slice that remains for him under the new plans.

CORRI PAYS ATTENTION TO AGGRESSIVENESS

WHAT THE BIG BRUISERS HAVE BEEN PULLING DOWN.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 24.—Thomas S. Andrews writes in the Eagle: Much discussion has occurred of late among ring followers and critics in regard to whether the boxer taking the aggressive should be awarded a certain percentage of points. The same question has recently been disussed in England and France.

Heretofore the British referees have not given sufficient points to the aggressor, according to the figuring of Eugene Corri, the most noted ring official in Europe. Mr. Corri says he now takes into consideration what an aggressive boxes does during a contest and awards him points accordingly. He contends that the man taking the aggressive is at a disadvantage, as a rule, as he must leave 'himself open' when leading, thus permitting the other man to do nothing but protect himself and counter.

If both boxers were to play the waiting game there would be no contest, therefore the man setting the pace is entitled to credit for the same. Take for instance the recent contests between Joe Welling and Benny Leonard, and Ritchie Mitchell went only 6, but there is not a fan in New York who would say Welling was the better scrapper; in fact, Mitchell has met Welling three times and was given three newspaper decisions over him. It only proves that Welling went in to work on the defensive and to last as long as posible. He came near going the entire distance with the light-weight champion by his methods, but the bout was not as interesting as the spectators would like to have had it.

It was the same again when Welling met Leonard at St Louis in an eight round contest.

Boxer's Big Earnings.

Some of the stars and champions of the various classes in American boxing have certainly been making hay the past year. Never in the history of the boxing game have such enormous sums been paid out for fistic talent. Think of fighters drawing down over $100,000 for a few minutes work. That is what has been going on, and such men as Dempsey, Carpentier, Benny Leonard, Johnny Dundee, Willie Jackson, Lew Tendler, Jack Britton, Ritchie Mitchell, Joe Lynch, Pete Herman, Jimmy Wilde, Joe Beckett, Battling Levinsky, and a few others have become suddenly independently rich, as the old saying is, "overnight."

It must make some of the oldtimers, who are still alive, green with envy when they read about Leonard getting $40,000 for a bout with Ritchie Mitchell, Carpentier $50,000 for meeting Levinsky, Britton $40,000 for defending his title, Herman about the same for boxing Joe Lynch, Beckett $40,000 for being whipped by Carpentier, Frank Moran nearly the same for beating Beckett, etc. etc. That sounds small compared to the $500,000 to be given Carpentier and Dempsey for their title match, which is booked for some time before July 4 next, of which Dempsey will take down $300,000.

Now Joe Lynch went $50,000 for his end to meet Pete Herman in a return battle, where his title will be at stake. That is a mighty big sum for bantams to battle for.

NOW FAVOR OXFORD TO WIN BOAT RACE

STROKE RAIKES RETURNS AND CREW BETTERS TIME BY CAMBRIDGE.

LONDON, March 26. — The bad luck which dogged the Oxford crew in the early days of its training for the annual boat races with Cambridge seems now to have deserted it and to have shifted to the Light Blues.

Oxford which for weeks could not decide on a stroke and when it did select D. T. Raikes, lost him for several days owing to muscle strain, has been doing some excellent training work since Raikes returned to the boat.

On Monday it covered the full race course from Putney to Mortlake, four and a quarter miles, in the good time of 20 minutes 0 seconds.

Cambridge's best time for the course so far has been 21 minutes 58 seconds. It can be pointed out that on Monday Oxford enjoyed better conditions than those prevailing when Cambridge made its test.

Last week Cambridge was without the services of its regular number 7, Hon. J. W. H. Fremantle, owing to sickness. Mr. Fremantle has returned to the boat, but his ability to keep up training and to row in the race were to-day considered as matters of some doubt.

The fine performance of Oxford and the possibility of a change in the Cambridge crew are considered by rowing experts to have lessened, if not to have wiped out, the advantage the Light Blues secured in getting its crew together more quickly.

DOWN COMES BREAD IN DETROIT CITY.

Price Cut From 25 Cents to 14 Cents Pound and a Half Loaf.

DETROIT, Mich., March 24.—Contending that the price of bread would stand a reduction and still leave a fair profit to bakers, the prosecuting attorney and his office have been very active of late investigating conditions. As a result of such action five of the biggest bakeries here have abandoned their high cost of labour and materials' argument, and announced that, beginning at once, the price of a pound and a half loaf of bread would be cut from 26 to 14 cents.

THIRSTY MEMORIES.

TITUSVILLE, Fla., March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Haunting, thirsty memories of $5,000 worth of moonshine liquor it had produced clung around a captured still sold here at public auction. Yet it was knocked down complete by the Sheriff to the lone bidder at 5 cents to enter on a non-beverage career.

Government Control

Endorsed by Thinking Men and Women

Cardinal Gibbons:

"I am persuaded that it is practically impossible to put prohibition into effect in any large community. I believe in Temperance; that is, moderation in all things, but not absolute prohibition."

The Bishop of Montreal:

"Sixteen years ago I made a thorough investigation into the working of various systems of liquor administration, and became convinced that the best system was that of Government Sale and Control."

Lady Henry Somerset:

"Government control is what is wanted, not prohibition. This campaign for prohibition is not dealing honestly with one of the most solemn questions affecting the whole future of our national life, because everyone who looks seriously at the present conditions knows prohibition to be impossible."

AMONG PETERBORO SPORT FRATERNITY

So far there have been no holdouts in the Peterborough baseball leagues. It will be disappointing to the fans if a few of the local ball wallopers fail to record their intention of dropping out of the game.

The Young Men's Club of the local Y.M.C.A. had a practice yesterday in the Central school grounds. Judging by the hot ones they put over the plate they should be able to clean up a few of thei neighboring leagues

The basketball provided by the senior team of the local Y.M.C.A. has been a real eye-opener to the natives. By some who have never witnessed a game it has been placed in the same class as ping pong.

The ball sharps will be out just as soon as the ground starts to dry up. It looks like a big season with four leagues in the field.

This season will hardly witness the same scramble for players as was the case last year when one or two managers tried to monopolize all the good players within a radius of fifty miles.

The annual lacrosse flurry is in evidence at the present tme. It looks like a hard game to promote. The youth of to-day is not as anxious to be battered up with a lacrosse stick as he was in days gone by. It's a little too strenuous for most of them.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL CUP COMPETITION.

Very Few of the Original Clubs Have Survived.

'Twas in 1871—on July 20th, to be exact—that the famous F. A. Cup contest was inaugurated. That it would grow to its present enormous proportions was never for one moment anticipated. The trophy itself cost about $125 and the bill was met by subscriptions from the clubs who entered the contest. These numbered 15 in the first season (1871-72), but as three clubs "scratched," only 12 actually took part in the premier fight for the Cup.

Here is the "honours list" of those who entered:

Barnes, Civil Service, Crystal Palace, Clapham Rovers, Donnington School, Hampstead Heathens, Harrow Checkers, Hitchen, Maidenhead, Maslow, Queen's Park (Glasgow), Ryegate Priory, Royal Engineers, Upton Park, and the Wanderers.

As will be seen from this record, very few of these clubs have survived to the present day.

In those early times the competitors were not limited to English clubs. Hence Queen's Park, the famous Glasgow amateur combination took part in the contest. Strange to relate, they were excused playing until the semi-final, when they had to come to the Oval, in London, to meet the Wanderers. A special subscription was raised in Glasgow to cover the expenses of the trip, but the game was drawn, and Queen's Park were notified that they must make a second journey to the metropolis. It is amusing to learn that they deemed the expense too great, and therefore decided to withdraw from the competition. Thus the Wanderers reached the final in which they beat the Royal Engineers, by one goal to nil, so becoming first holders of the now famous trophy.

Quaint Rules and Customs.

There were some quaint rules connected with the competition in those days. For instance, any club belonging to the association could enter on payment of a fee of 5s., whilst all matches after the second round had to be played on the famous Surrey cricket ground at the Oval. Moreover, in the first and second round the rival captains tossed a coin for choice of ground.

In the second season of the cup contest the entries only numbered fourteen, though the figure doubled the year following, in which season the North and Midlands began to take an interest in the competition, being represented by Sheffield and the Shropshire Wanderers.

The season 1877-78 brought an awakening in Lancashire, and the names of Darwent and Manchester were entered on the list of competitors. However, these clubs were both dismissed ere the final was reached, and then the famous Wanderers secured their third consecutive victory, thus obtaining permanent possession of the trophy. To their credit be it recorded that they returned it to the F.A. for renewed competition—a very sporting effort.

During this time interest was awakening all over England, and by the season 1878-79 the entries had reached 42. Amongst the new clubs was Nottingham, who succeeded in reaching the semi-final, but were beaten by the Old Etonians, the successful finalists that year.

In the following season, 1879-80, enthusiasm was rife, and entries poured in from all parts of England. It was then decided that the clubs should be placed in geographical divisions, in order to avoid unnecessary travelling.

The Supremacy of the North and Midlands.

In 1881-82, 73 clubs entered, and the presence of Sheffield Wednesday and Blackburn Rovers in the semi-final heralded the coming supremacy of the North and the Midlands. Blackburn Rovers reached the final that season, and were the first team to do so outside the ranks of public schools and the universities. They met the Old Etonians at the Oval, but failed to overcome them. Only a year later another team from the same town—Blackburn Olympic—were more successful, and defeated the Old Etonians, who again figured in the final, by 2 goals to 1. (This was the last appearance of a Southern club in the final of the F.A. Cup until Southampton reached this position in the season 1899-1900.)

In the three seasons following, the Blackburn Rovers swept the field, and their triple triumph made them the pride of Lancashire. Then, after an interval of three seasons they gained two more Cup Final victories, and thus divided with the Wanderers the honour of having won the coveted trophy five times.

Aston Villa now came into the picture, and caused much surprise by running off with the Cup to the Midlands—its first visit to that area. This was in the season 1886-87. By this time interest in the contest had become so gigantic that a scheme was brought forward to relieve the more powerful clubs of the necessity for playing in the earlier rounds, and it was on this original scheme that the present system of exemption was founded. Nowadays out of the 64 clubs who take part in the competition proper, 52 are exempted from the qualifying rounds.

Until the year 1892, final ties were always played at Kennington Oval (with the exception of the 1873 final at the Lilley Bridge, and the replay at Derby). It was then found that the crowd was getting far too big for the Surrey cricket ground, and as no more suitable venue was obtainable in the metropolis, the F. A. had to look further afield. Thus 1893 saw the final played on the Fallowfield Athletic Ground, Manchester. This, ground proved far too small and next year the Everton ground was given a trial, but here again the same difficulty occurred. Then, in 1895, the F.A. came to an arrangement with the Crystal Palace Company, and the famous Sydenham enclosure between the permanent pre-war venue for the great Cup Final struggle, although replays were often decided in the provinces.

The South to the Fore.

In the famous 1901 final when the Tottenham Hotspurs won the Cup, 110,000 people saw the game. At that time this was a record gate, which is scarcely to be wondered at, since the 'Spurs were the hope of the South. Little wonder that their success was popular, for they were the first southern team who proved victorious in the final since 1882. This wonderful 1901 gate record was not broken until 1913, when the final between Aston Villa and Sunderland, attracted 120,000 soccer enthusiasts to the Palace, and the gate receipts reached the gigantic figure of £9,406.

In the early days of the Cup no rule was laid down with regard to gate money, but in 1886 it was decided, and very wisely, that this money should be shared between the two clubs concerned, so that weaker and poorer teams who fought their way well into the competition might receive financial assistance by being drawn against the big clubs. This now applies to all Cup matches with the exception of the semi-finals and final, at which the gate money is shared equally between the Association and the two clubs taking part in the respective ties. Moreover, the clubs concerned received their expenses.

The famous Cup is not the original trophy, this having been stolen from a tradesman's window in Birmingham where it was being exhibited after Aston Villa had won it in the season 1894-95. A replica of it was made at the time, but this was presented by the council to the Right Hon. Lord Kinnaird, on his completion of 21 years presidency of the Association. Thus for the season 1910-11 a new Cup was provided which is still in use.

Last season's struggle for the coveted trophy created a new record when Aston Villa proved successful for the sixth time. This record has never been reached by any other club in the history of the Cup. Blackburn Rovers and the Wanderers approach nearest thereto with five wins each.

TRAP SHOOTING RESULTS FRIDAY.

Peterborough Club Held Opening Shoot Yesterday.

The Peterboro Gun Club held their opening shoot yesterday afternoon, and some very fine scores were turned in. Roy Hutchinson was the big noise of the afternoon, winning the ten bird event, the handicap, fifteen bird event, and high gun, besides being second in the twenty-five bird event. This was won by a new shooter from Lakefield, A. Webster, who turned in a score of 23. Hutchinson was in great form and broke the twenty-five straight in the two first events. Mr. Eldridge, a new comer in the city, did some nice shooting with a strange gun, and will be a decided acquisition to the local club. The Lakefield squad was entertained at the Empress for supper. RADIUM SCARE IN GERMANY.

Was Once Chief Producer of This Agency.

BERLIN, March 26.—(Associated Press).—Once the chief producer of radium, Germany now has barely enough to meet the medical needs of the great universities. There is only one gram of radium in all Berlin, and proportionately even less at Heidelberg and other university cities.

The shortage is said to be due to the fact that karnothit, used in the manufacture of radium, is no longer imported from America. The Germans say the United States could supply plenty of karnothit, but in view of the low purchasing power of the mark the Germans cannot afford to buy it.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

J. Parker Read, Jr., has produced an even bigger picture than his tremendous popular first Louise Glaum special "Sahara,"—"The Lone Wolf's Daughter," by Louis Joseph Vance, a W. W. Hodkinson release, which the management of the Grand Theatre announces for presentation beginning Monday next for four days.

"The Lone Wolf's Daughter" was made under the supervision of Mr. Read himself at the Thomas H. Ince studios in Los Angeles and reveals in its every foot the unequalled technical resources of that great producing plant. The story embodies the majority of the characters already familiar to millions of American picture patrons in "The Lone Wolf," produced two years ago, and in "False Faces," one of last seasons spectacular successes produced by Mr. Ince.

LOUISE GLAUM in "THE LONE WOLF'S DAUGHTER" W.W. HODKINSON DISTRIBUTION

The scene of the story is laid in London, with a panorama of colorings, ranging from the magnificence of Buckingham Palace to the mysterious depths of the colorful Limehouse district, where Thomas Burke conceived his story of "The Chink and the Child," later produced by D. W. Griffiths under the title "Broken Blossoms."

Louis Joseph Vance personally built the scenario for Producer Read and both edited and titled "The Lone Wolf's Daughter." Submitted to unusually calm judgments, "The Lone Wolf's daughter" is declared to be the biggest melodrama ever made for the screen, greater even thatn M. Vance's "The Lone Wolf" and "False Faces," which were hailed by the public and press as the most powerful productions of their day. Prominent in the support of Louise Glaum are such distinguished screen and stage players as Edwin Stevens, Thomas Holding and Bertram Grassby.

AT THE GRAND

John E. Kellerd, the eminent English Shakespearean actor, and an incomparable company of English players, will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday next, April 1 and 2, in a repertoire of Shakespearean plays, consisting of "Hamlet," "The Merchant of Venice," and "Macbeth."

By popular request, Mr. Kellerd will open his engagement with "Hamlet," in which he achieved a run of 102 nights at the Garden and Harris Theatres in New York City.

Alan Dale and William Winter, both pronounced his work wonderfully artistic and illuminating.

Mr. Kellerd is one of the steadfast upholders of the best traditions of the stage, and it is to be hoped that during his short stay in Peterborough all who are interested in these traditions and who are of the same faith and belief as the actor will go to see the plays he presents and will endeavor to induce their friends to see him. It is by such efforts at proper encouragement that our play-goers will be enabled to see the best actors of the stage, and a man like Kellerd, who believes in giving the public the noblest examples of English dramatic art, certainly should be encouraged. Take our word for it, Shakespeare, to the thinking man and woman, is well worth seeing on any terms, and when the terms are so liberal as Mr. Kellerd's, it is an act of pure blind folly to miss them.

COMING:—The New York Sensation "THE DEVIL"

Shakespare did not write for the Elizabethean age alone. He wrote for all time, and his writings are as fresh to-day as they ever were.

Shakespeare's plays are full of the most exquisite poetry, whose charm pervades them like a faint perfume to haunt and steal away the senses.

AT THE ALLEN

Why are some marriages compared to a furnace? The poor London factory girl, who from the curb curiously watched the wedding party come out of the church, cynically remarked: "Marriage makes me think of the furnace at the works—you stand a good chance of getting burnt."

Was her observation a prophecy of the trials that lay before the most envied bride and groom of all London? Was their outward show of happiness only a camouflage to cover the pain that was in their hearts? See this powerful new drama at the Allen Theatre on Monday. It is entitled "The Furnace,' and is a picturization by William D. Taylor, via Realtr, of a new English novel by "Pan," an anonymous writer who is just now quite the sensation abroad.

AT THE EMPIRE.

"Soceity Snobs," the latest Selznick pictures, which comes to the Empire theatre for a three days run next Monday, is said to be one of the frankest exposures of society as represented by the nouveau riche, ever screened.

The Foresters have so recently risen from obscurity to riches that Mother Forester wishes to hitch their social reins to a foreign nobleman through the marriage of her daughter Vivian, with the popular belief that a title is the solution of all smart set supremacy.

Her carefully laid plans in spite of every safeguard known, come to naught and her social aspirations tumble to the earth amidst the amused, unsympathetic jeers of the social world. Then Daughter takes the shaping of destiny into her own hands and brings the story to a satisfactory close.

Conway Tearle is the star in this picture, and the direction was under Hobart Henley. Martha Mansfield plays opposite Mr. Tearle and the supporting cast includes such well known players as Ida Darling, Jack McLean, Huntley Gordon and others.

AT THE REGENT.

BRYANT WASHBURN A "REFORMED BOOB" IN NEW SCREEN COMEDY

"The Sins of St. Anthony" Casts Him as Jilted Young Man Who Sees the Light.

The attraction at the Regent Theatre next Monday and Tuesday will be "The Sins of St. Athony," an amusing light comedy picture, featuring Bryant Washburn. It was adapted from a popular magazine story.

The central figure is a slovenly, unworldly young scientist who is turned down by his fair charmer on account of his lack of pep. She transfers her affection to a returning overseas officer. Anthony, the scientist, played by Mr. Washburn, thereupon comes to life and, cultivating the acquaintance of a musical comedy queen, embarks upon what he considers a wild career of dissipation. When his former sweetheart discovers that Anthony is a "live one" and that she has been deceived by her army officer, she tries to return to him. But Anthony has, in the meantime, recovered from his jilting and fallen in love anew with his little stage beauty.

QUEER DOINGS

After More Revenue.

BOSTON, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—A special committee, which has been investigating new sources of municipal revenue, has recommended increases in the license fees of theatres, motion picture houses, dance halls and other places of amusement. A local retail sales tax is also being discussed. An effort is being made to add $1,500,000 to the city's revenue.

Hard on Weddings.

BOSTON, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—According to a report from the Marriage License Bureau most of the Boston women who marry to-day are between 27 and 33 years of age. Most of the bridegrooms are between 30 and 40. High living costs and the scarcity of houses have prevented early marriages, the report states.

Was Not Dynamite.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—When a package labelled "dynamite and nitro-glycerine" was found in a Brooklyn subway train recently passengers scurried to the street and the motorman refused to run the train any further. Investigation by the police disclosed that the bundle contained empty soup cans.

Quite a Revolution.

BOSTON, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—High heels tripped up 596 of 600 girl students of the Boston University College of Sectarial Science in the race for simple life chevrons last month. The awards were made for strict conformity to rules laid down by the University Physical Directors. Candy eating between meals and elevated footwear were barred.

WORCESTER, Mass., Mar. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The employees of the H. H. Brown Shoe Company in Brookfield have agreed to accept a cut in their pay that will bring the scale down to where it was in 1916.

He Had a Heart.

WHITINSVILLE, Mass., March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Frank Kos is a landlord with a heart, in the opinion of his tenants, who received a shock after they had paid their rent when he handed them back 15 per cent., saying as their wages had been reduced they should have a reduction in their rent.

"Make Good or Make Room"

This has been called "The Tragedy of Progress." A business man or a business woman in this Twentieth Century must do ont of these two things, i.e., "Make Good" or "Make Room" for someone else. There is no happy medium.

To make good in your business ventures, in the service you render your employer, in your home life, and among your neighbours—YOU MUST BE HEALTHY.

To be Healthy, you MUST POSSESS A NORMAL SPINE.

The Spine is the Keystone of the Human Body. If it is out of alignment, there is bound to be a pinching of the Nerves which will prevent the vital force from flowing uninterruptedly to the various organs. The result is so-called disease of those organs which are not receiving their proper quota of life force.

The competent Chiropractor is a Spine Specialist. He palpates the Spine carefully and ascertains exactly where the Vertebrae (small bones) are out of line (Subluxated). Using his bare hands alone he, by means of Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments, puts these Vertebrae back in line. The Nerve pressure is thus relieved, the life force flows freely to the organs involved, and HEALTH IS THE RESULT.

Don't wait until you are "all in, down and out" before consulting a Chiropractor, but at the first sign of danger (slight though it may be) ask for a SPINAL ANALYSIS. If it is found that your Spine is out of alignment, take CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTENTS as often as your Chiropractor deems necessary, and you will be Healthy and will "MAKE GOOD."

INCENDIARISM THREATENS TO BECOME WORSE

SCOTLAND YARD ORGANIZING MOTOR FLEET TO COMBAT THE CAMPAIGN WHICH HAS SPREAD OVER ENGLAND.

RUSH MEN TO FIRE AREA

LONDON, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—The campaign of incendiarism in various parts of the country is assuming such proportion that the authorities of Scotland Yard are mobilizing a fleet of motor cars and lorries to rush men to any point where there is a call for their services. This plan is similar to the one adopted here recently, when many incendiary fires were set in London. The Evening Standard asserts that further Sinn Fein plots to destroy farm buildings on the outskirts of London have been discovered.

LIBRARIANS LOOK TO MORE REVENUE

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION IN CONVENTION EXPRESSES GRATIFICATION.

TORONTO, March 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Gratification over the new Public Libraries Act, which will mean largely increased revenue from municipalities for library support, and in consequence greatly increased appropriations for books and better salaries for librarians, was the keynote of the opening session this afternoon of the Ontario Library Association. Reviewing the library situation in Ontario, Canada, the United States, Great Britain and a number of European countries, Dr. E. A. Hardy, secretary-treasurer, referring to the new Act, stated that the new method of raising revenue by municipal grants, namely, fifty cents per capita tax, will mean in some cases double the past municipal grants. Mrs. Becker, Toronto, advocated opening libraries on Sundays and holidays.

MERCHANT MARINE TO SHOW BALANCE

OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED THAT DISAPPOINTMENT AWAITS PESSIMISTS.

OTTAWA, March 28.—(Canadian Press)—A knock out awaits pessimists who have been confidently prodicting operating deficit for the government merchant marine. Such is the official verdict of the department of marine. Speculation has placed the merchant marine's trial balance in the same plight as that of the National Railways, but the answer received by the Canadian Press today when the question was asked the department was:

"There is great disappointment awaiting those who have predicted a deficit."

Beyond this, nothing is ventured, altough from semi-official sources the emphatic statement is that a substantial margin on the right side of the ledger would be announced by Hon. C C. Ballantyne this week.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—The stronger position of the local Federal Reserve Bank and Clearing House Institutions failed to exert any appreciable influence over prices at the opening of to-day's Stock Market. Short interest continued to depress values in certain of the prominent specialties. Sears Roebuck and Industrial Alcohol soon lost two points and Virginia Carolina Chemical, Atlantic Gulf, General Asphalt and American Smelting were irregularly lower. Houston Oil, American Woollen, Studebaker, Chandler and United States Rubber were among the firmer issues. Rails, steels and equipments recorded very slight changes.

Trading slackened at mid-day, but price changes continued downward, Motors giving way with Rubber Specialties. Isolated features of strength included Famous Players, Common and Preferred and Adams Express and American Express at gains of two to three points.

Automobile shares, especially Studebaker, Chandler and Pierce Arrow Preferred, as well as American Woollen, Associated Dry Goods, Replogle Steel and Colorado Fuel, were supported at gains of two to four points during the morning. Elsewhere, excepting the railway list, in which dullness ruled, reactionary tendencies predominated. Mexican Petroleum lost four points, and other prominent oils one to three. Industrial Alcohol broke sharply on adverse dividend rumors and food, copper, chemical and leather issues developed increased heaviness with Sears-Roebuck and minor equipments. Call money opened at 6½ per cent.

Oils, Steels and Equipments extended their losses in the last hour with Investment Rails, but Specialties, including Sears-Roebuck, rallied briskly. The closing was irregular.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—The cold weather put some strength into the Wheat Market to-day. No advance reports were received, however, and the upturns in prices failed to last. The trading which began to-day in July delivery was of only small volume with the initial quotations. 1.22 to 1.25, about as generally expected. The market as a whole opened 1-4 to 1-4 higher, but soon sagged to slightly below Saturday's finish.

Corn paralleled the action of wheat. After opening unchanged to 5-8 higher, the market receded all around to a moderate extent. Oats were governed by the course of other cereals, starting 1-4 to 1-5 up and then undergoing something of a setback. Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions.

Later advices indicating that considerable damage may have been done by unseasonable low temperatures had a bullish effect on wheat. And so too, did the announcement that the visible supply total was the smallest in more than thirty years. The close was unsettled, with March 1.57 and May 1.43 1-4 to 1.43 1-2.

May Corn toudhed the lowest price yet for the present crop, but the smallness of receipts, together with colder weather helped give a little firmness to the market later. The close was steady with May 64 1-8 to 64 1-4.

LIVESTOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—Cattle market receipts heavy, trade steavy. Quotations:

Heavy beef steers, $10 to $11; choice butcher steers, $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $13 to $15; lambs, $13 to $14.75; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $14.75 to $15.

STATES LABOR PARTY ON WAY TO CEMETERY

M'BRIDE MAKES HOT ATTACK ON LABOR PARTY, CHARGES SOCIALISM AND ARRAIGNS DRURY GOVERNMENT.

NOT REPRESENTATIVE

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 28.—(Special to The Examiner.)—Charging the U. F. O. government with ruthless violations of an agreement with the Labor group to introduce eight hour day legislation, M. M. McBride, M.P.P., who was expelled from the Independent Labor Party in convention at Welland on Saturday, declared to-day that the "I.L.P. is on the way to the cemetery."

"It isn't any wonder the L. P. is on the way to the cemetery and that poor old Joe Marks had to borrow $100 to pay for membership buttons," said Mr. McBride. "Labor in Ontario will see that the hearse is called and this outfit is wiped off the political map when the time comes again to appeal to the electors." Mr. McBride continued, "They do not represent one-fiftieth part of labor in Ontario. This is shown by their depleted membership and the bankruption of their finances.

"Note the trend of the utterances at the Welland conference and it is easy to see into whose hands the L. P. has degenerated. President Buckley said from the floor that he spoke "with the reddest of the reddest of the reds" and would do so again. Delegate Kochmin declared himself as a revolutionary Socialist with a L. P. ticket in his pocket.

"So far as James Simpson is concerned I am glad the issue has been clearly defined between us. We all know the type of man he is. The first thing he asked me after I was elected in 1919 was to use my influence to get him a job with the government."

"I have been digusted ever since Labor made the alliance with the U. F.O. and while I assisted in making the alliance, I insisted on certain well defined conditions. These were ruthlessly broken immediately that we convened in the U.F.O. headquarters in November of 1919 and at that time I bolted from the conference in protest against the breaking of the very conditions we had introduced into the co-operative agreement. It was agreed that a joint committee of both groups was to be immediately appointed with the object of bringing down the legislation looking toward establishment of an eight hour day in such industries to which it would be applicable. The Government has appointed twenty different commissions since that time and yet have made no move toward the eight hour day proposition."

Touching on the appointment of G. C. Halcrow as house leader for the Labor group, Mr. MacBride declared that he had withdrawn his name after it had been placed before the group and had supported Halcrow.

Simpson Issues Denial.

TORONTO, Ont., March 28. — (Special to The Examiner.)—An unqualified denial to Mr. MacBride's allegation that James Simpson had sought his influence to get a job with the government, was given by Mr. Simpson to-day. "It is the most deliberate falsehood that ever was uttered by a man," declared Mr. Simpson. "There is absolutely no trtuh in it, it is simply the concoction of a diseased mind.

"No man who had the element of respect for himself would ever have said such a thing, because if there is one thing that has been entirely remote from my career in the Labor movement it has been the seeking after government jobs," continued Mr. Simpson. "MacBride should be asked to declare when and where the request he attributes to me was made." Mr. Simpson expressed the opinion that the former Mayor of Brantford had recently developed into a "desperate man."

LONDON DESERTS L. P.

LONDON, Ont., March 28. — (Canadian Press). — Steps will be taken shortly to form a new labor political party in London, which will include unorganized as well as organized labor. The Labor Representation Committee and the Independent Labor Party are the two political labor parties in the city at present. It is stated that a mass meeting of workers will be called shortly for this purpose, when the matter will receive thorough consideration.

GREEK FORCES MAKE ADVANCE

CAPTURE IMPORTANT JUNCTION AND TURK NATIONALISTS FLEE, ABANDONING WAR MATERIAL.

ATTACK IS HALTED

ATHENS, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—Afiun Karahissar, an important railway junction, south of Eski-Shesa, has been taken by the Greek forces from the Turkish Nationalists, says a Smyrna despatch. Many prisoners and large quantities of war material have been captured, the despatch declares, and the Turks are fleeing toward Kiutayah, fifty miles northward. The official statement giving details of Saturday's fighting says that the army east of Smyrna occupied a line running through Chesne, Chahabal and Balmachid and pursued the Turks to within approximately four miles of Afun Karahissar where the attack halted for the night.

The bullet which killed Gravel had previously killed Leopold Valiquette, and after slightly wounding Felix Dumont in the arm, lodged in Gravel's head.

LONDON, Ont., March 28. — (Canadian Press).—Members of the Letter Carriers' Association, in connection with the local post office staff, this morning drew up a letter to Premier Meighen, protesting against the proposed cut of 25 per cent in Civil Service bonuses. It was pointed out that the cost of living had not declined proportionately.

YOUTH OF 16 MARRIED WOMAN OF 48 YEARS.

Charged With Non-Support and Theft of Motor Car.

COBOURG, March 28.—Claiming that he was forced by his father to marry a woman of 48 when he was but 16 years of age, Clarence Ellis, aged 22, goes back to Bowmanville to-day to answer a charge of not supporting his wife. He is also accused of stealing an automobile. Ellis and his elderly wife lived together for a time previous to his spending three years overseas with the Canadian forces, and also for a short period after his return. Finally Ellis left his wife, taking with him the auto, it is alleged. He was arrested in Syracuse, charged with illegally entering the United States, and subsequently turned over to the Canadian authorities.

52ND BATTERY, MADE UP HERE, FORMS A CLUB

ORGANIZED IN 1916

The 52nd Battery, originally organized in Peterborough, held their first annual re-union in this city on Saturday and organized the 52nd Battery Association, culminating the whole affair with a banquet at the Empress Hotel at seven o'clock.

Oranized in Peterborough.

The 52nd Battery had its genesis in Peterborough. It was organized in February, 1916. The battery went into training at Barriefield Camp and, augmented by quotas from Kingston, Belleville and Ottawa, proceeded overseas in the Fall of that year. In the Winter the battery, as part of the 5th Division, went to France under the command of Major McCauley, of Montreal.

Saw Severe Fighting.

Major McCauley commanded the battery all through the twenty months' service in France, in which the battery was engaged in practically all of the big "shows." The 52nd maintained its unity through all of the fighting. Some of the most important engagements in which it took part were: Lens, Vimy, Arras, Amiens, Cambrai, Douai, Monchy and Nov. 11 found them in front of Mons. As one unit of the Army of Occupation, they were later in Germany, and in June, 1919, the battery was demobilized at Kingston.

Organized in Peterborough

Before it was "demobbed" the battery decided to organize an association, but nothing was done until recently. Peterborough men made up over half the strength of the battery, and so the local men were the prime promoters of the meeting to organize. The committee here who had charge of the arrangements were: Sergt. Sutherland, N. Allison, W. Yelland, S. Whitehouse, C. Telford and H. Gray.

Sergt. Frickle, of Belleville, interested himself in getting the outsiders to join in, and his efforts were well rewarded, for twenty-four N. C. O.'s and men and one officer, Lieut. Walker, of Toronto, joined in the re-union.

Officers Elected.

In the afternoon the visitors were driven about the city in cars, later going to the G.W.V.A. Hall, where the inaugural meeting of the 52nd Battery Association was held. Sergt. Frickle, of Belleville, was elected President; Major McCauley (who was unable to be present), Vice-President; Fred Trelore, of Toronto, Secretary, and committees were organized for Peterborough, Kingston, Belleville and Toronto. The committee in Peterborough is as follows: Sergt. Sutherland, Norman Allison and W. Yelland.

Banquet a Success.

The banquet in the Empress was highly successful. Norman Allison presided. Exactly fifty-two members of the battery were present, somewhat of a coincidence, as the number of the battery is the same. Various toasts were proposed and responded to. With bowed heads the toast to "Fallen Comrades" was observed. The old "cameradie" of the army prevailed and the happy re-union will not soon be forgotten by those who participated. Songs by C. Thorpe and S. Whitehouse and a violin selection by Ald. F. Whitehouse, accompanied by A. Nichols on the piano, were enjoyable numbers on the programme. Before the festivities were concluded, it was decided to hold the next battery re-union at Toronto, and the following year, if practicable, in Ottawa.

PRINCE OF WALES TO VISIT IRELAND

LONDON, March 28.—Canadian Press).—It is stated on sound authority that the Prince of Wales will open the new Ulster Parliament set up by the Home Rule Act that was passed at the last session of Parliament, and will also visit other district in Ireland.

THE VOTE MAY BE 1,600,000

PROPORTION OF WOMEN'S VOTE IN REFERENDUM WILL DEPEND ON PROVERBIAL "WASH DAY."

800,000 WOMEN VOTE

TORONTO, March 28.—(Canadian Press).—If every eligible voter in Ontario exercises his or her franchise at the coming referendum voting, which takes place three weeks from to-day, April 18, approximately 1,600,000 votes will be cast. Falling on Monday, the referendum should put at end the long controversy as to whether women are sufficiently interested in the ballot to forsake their household duties. On this will rest the proportion of approximately 800,000 women entitled to vote who will mark their ballots. Whether the housewife will forsake the proverbial "wash day" to go to the polls to clean up the slate of either side of the two factions remains to be seen. The outcome of the referendum depends on the straight majority of the votes polled. In 1919, when the Ontario Temperance Act was voted on, the total vote polled was 1,147,585, with a majority of 407,789 in favour of the Act.

POLICE SEIZE SEDITIONARY LITERATURE

DUBLIN, March 28. (Canadian Press.) — The headquarters of the Sinn Fein Propaganda Department at 11 Molesworth street, was raided on Saturday night by the police auxiliaries who effected what was officially described as the largest capture of seditious literature yet made in Ireland. Several tons of files, books and other documentary matter was removed in lorries by the raiders.

The office equipment of the raiders was most elaborate. Te department had numerous divisions, one of which daelt with propaganda in foreign countries, including Italy, Spain and France, according to the official reports of the raids.

Files of letters addressed to Sinn Fein agents and others in those countries were seized. Among the documents taken it was announced, was the latest decree of the Irish Republican Parliament proclaiming a boycott upon British agricultural machinery.

DRIVES AUTO OVER WHARF INTO WATER

PITTSBURG FARMER BELIEVED DROWNED IN KINGSTON HARBOR.

KINGSTON, March 28.—Edward McGarvey, a Pittsburg farmer, aged about 40 years, failing to return home yesterday morning, the police instituted a search for the missing man. Late in the afternoon his automobile was discovered in the water at the foot of Queen Street and his hat was also found floating in the water. It is supposed that he drove over the wharf, having mistaken the street for the one leading to the Cataraqui causeway, which would take him home. Search is being made for his body, and a diver will be secured.

REVISE NAMES ACCORDING TO THE DECISION

NO NAMES TO BE ADDED TO LOCAL REFERENDUM LIST EXCEPT BY PERSONAL APPLICATION.

WORK BEGAN TO-DAY

"I certainly won't take any names except by personal application," said C. R. Widdifield, one of the two revising officers appointed by Judge E. C. S. Huycke to revise the voters' lists for the referendum, to the Examiner this morning. The other revising officer is J. F. Strickland.

The revising officers began sitting to receive applications for the addition of names this morning, and the revision sittings will continue all week. Mr. Widdifield is revising the lists from M to Z, and Mr. Strickland from A to M. Persons are reminded that if they desire their names added they must apply in person, as both officers declare they will abide by Col. E. B. Biggar, Chief Electoral Officer's instructions to the letter, and these are that application must be made personally. It should be understood they state that the revising officers have no facilities to advise uncertain persons whether their name is on the lists or not. This can be ascertained from Returning Officer James Hall or from any person having a copy of the lists used in the Federal by-election in February. After ascertaining that they are not on the lists, the revising officer in whose category their name comes will hear their case.

The officers will sit in their offices from 10 to 12 and from 2 till 5 each day. A last-minute rush is not desired, and early applicants will have a much better opportunity of securing a full and unhurried hearing than at the eleventh hour.

FIGURED IN DIVORCE MUST NOW LEAVE TOWN

BROCKVILLE, March 28. — When Fred Beauvais of Montreal, was mentioned as correspondent in the Stillman divorce case a few days ago, he was about to become a salesman for the Coleman Baking Powder Company of this town. On the day preceding the announcement of the suit, Beauvais had answered an application to this end, and at a conference on the following day, announced that because of the publicity which he had received he would have to abandon his plans and leave Montreal.

RE-ORGANIZE HIGHLAND CADETS AT KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, March 28.—A movement is afoot here to re-organize the St. Andrew's Highland Cadets. In view of the expense of the traditional kilt, it is proposed to outfit the cadets in tartan trews, red serges and Balmoral bonnets, and, at a later date, when the financial condition of the corps warrants the expenditure, to adopt the glorious Scottish Highland dress, consisting of Kilmarnock bonnet and feather, kilt, sporran, plaid and white spats.

The first company of the corps has already been formed, and a second will be organized when No. 1 Company has been clothed and equipped.

The Motor Show Microbe

Volume 2. No. 2 — Daily Motto "Let's Go." — EXTRA

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE PETERBOROUGH MOTOR SHOW THAT THE PUBLIC SHOULD HAVE:

It is conducted by the Advisory Board of the Red Cross, at the request of the Peterborough Health Association.

All the Funds derived from the Show go to carry on the work of the Peterborough Health Association.

About two-thirds of the funds of the Health Association are obtained through the holding of the Motor Show.

And practically the activities of the Health Association are limited to the measure of success or otherwise of the Motor Show.

The Automobile Dealers of the City, through their energy and liberality, make possible the operation of the Show.

Hundreds of Citizens assist in its organisation, and in addition to the work they do, contribute in admission charges and to the other means of raising money, just the same as the general public.

Nobody wants anything out of it—nobody gets anything out of it, other than the satisfaction of knowing that during the Summer Months Dozens of Children and Adults are receiving care, attention, and proper food to bring them back to Health and Strength again.

SO "LET'S GO" TO THE MOTOR SHOW WHEN IT ARRIVES, AND DO OUR PART.

AT THE MERCY OF "GHOST" ROBBERS.

New System of Crime in Moscow.

RIGA, March 25. — (Associated Press.)—A new style of costumed robbery has been invented in Russia, according to a report from Moscow.

In Petrograd and Moscow strange companies have been established consisting of "ghosts" of devils and angels who robb belated passers-by in the streets, plunder apartments and murder the people.

The inventive genius of these diabolical companies went so far as the invention of special jumping board for "flying" over high fences.

One of the "ghosts" who was recently caught confessed that his company consisting of seven persons, murdered hundreds of people, and kept the property stolen from them in coffins at the cemetries.

PROF. J. HUXLEY TELLS HOW TO PROLONG LIFE.

Declares That the Age-Cycle Can Be Controlled and March From Youth Halted.

ELIXIR OF LIFE FOUND

LONDON, March 26.—Popular interest in the oft-discussed question whether it is possible to keep old age at bay indefinitely and correspondingly prolong the span of life has been revived by Professor Julian Huxley of Oxford. Julian is a grandson of the great Huxleys and inherits no inconsiderable measure of his talent for painstaking scientific research.

"The common-sense view of the life-cycle, drawn from the observation of man and the familiar animals," said Professor Huxley, "is that it proceeds always and inevitably in a definite direction with a definite plan. The normal life-cycle of man, for instance, is as follows: The individual starts as a minute single cell, then follows a period of rapid growth accompanied by differentiation, then growth without differentiation, then senility and finally death, which supervenes as a natural phenomenon, even if not through disease or accident."

Experiment had shown, however, that this process was not irreversible, and was not inevitably similar in all animals; that it was possible to modify the rate of growth and the length of the period of growth and thus prolong life.

"It has been shown," Professor Huxley continued, "that by alternately starving and feeding planarian flat-worms they can be kept not only within certain definite limits or size, as was to be expected, but also within certain definite limits of age. One animal has thus been kept the same age—that is the same lively activity the same form, the same type of behavior—for a time during which the rest of the brood have passed through 19 generations; a period which, translated into human terms would take us back to Chaucer. Thus age does not merely depend on the lapse of time; it is the expression of internal processes.

Elixir For Worms.

"The elixir of life so long sought in the Middle Ages has at last been found—but, alas! only for flat-worms."

As an illustration of reversal in mental life, Professor Huxley mentioned that in some shell shock and neurasthenia cases the patients revert to an earlier stage of mental existence, having the minds of children in the bodies of adults. "The most striking case," he said, 'was that of an Australian soldier who reverted to the condition of an infant, unable to walk or talk, and incapable of taking any food but milk. This is known as mental regression."

Professor Huxley held that numerous other examples showed that the apparent irreversibility of the life-cycle was only apparent, and that the ordinary type of life-cycle had been adopted as the most convenient but not as the only possible method of grappling with existence. In the case of mammals, the normal life of rats has been prolonged by about 40 per cent.

"Observation of life process," said Professor Huxley, in conclusion, "has given way to experiment as the chief method of research, and experiment is leading to control."

THREATENED TO HARM MAN O' WAR.

Admits His Guilt, Gets Three Months.

PHILADELPHIA, March 26. — Harry T. Lamey, of Chester, Pa., who threatened to harm Man o'War, Samuel D. Riddle's famous race horse, was sentenced here to three months in the Mercer County Jail at Trenton, N. J. Judge Dickinson said he was inclined to be lenient because Lamey had pleaded guilty and because the prosecution asked it.

Lamey admitted writing a letter to Mrs. Riddle, threatening her and the horse with bodily harm if he did not receive $10,000. He said he had planned to force payment, but did it only "out of curiosity, to see what the Riddles would do."

FILM STARS ASK FANTASTIC WAGE

BERLIN, March 28 (Canadian Press).—Alleged "fantastic salaries" demanded by German film stars has caused film producers so much concern that a move has been made toward limiting their pay. The moving picture companies, in making this announcement, gave out a list of salaries which they believe exorbitant.

The salaries of a few women reached 800,000 marks yearly, it is said, although the usual pay for first-class work is about 3,500 marks daily while employed. It is customary to hire even well-known performers by "the piece." Those under regular contracts are paid from 7,000 to 30,000 marks a month. Unknown players are paid as low as 150 marks a day.

TENTACLES OF SOVIET SPREAD

GENERAL STRIKE IN PORTUGAL WORK OF BOLSHEVIKS, THE PORTUGESE POLICE CLAIM.

ARREST ONE LEADER

LISBON, March 28 (Canadian Press).—The police claim to have discovered evidence that the strike on the Southern Railway lines which has been in progress for several months has been conducted under the secret direction of Portuguese Bolshevists.

They have arrested, as one of the Bolshevist strike directors, Miguel Correia, a former railway employee, and said to be one of the most active propagandists of Bolshevism in Portugal. The police had long been searching for Correia, who some time ago wasarrested in Spain as a Bolshevist agitator and brought to Lisbon by two Americans, belonging to the International Police, but who was set free.

Correia was captured at a meeting of workers along with a lot of evidence showing that the committee in charge of the railway strike had been financed by profiteering merchants in the towns affected by the strike. The purpose of these merchants is alleged to have been to prevent the shipment of supplies into their provinces so as to enable them to charge extortionate prices.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE IN TOKIO CITY

LARGEST CONFLAGRATION IN A DECADE ENTAILS LOSS ESTIMATED AT $12,500,000 ON SATURDAY NIGHT.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS

TOKIO, Japan, March 28 (Canadian Press).—The whole city of Tokio was imperilled on Saturday night by the greatest fire with which it has been visited in a decade. The conflagration destroyed a thousand houses in the Yotsuya district in the north-western part of the city, involving a loss estimated at twenty-five million yen (normally about $12,500,000).

Thousands of persons were made homeless, and 133 persons were injured.

The burned buildings included three hospitals, a bank, and several large business houses.

For four hours during the night, a violent wind drove the flames in the direction of the heart of the city, causing panic among the population over a wide area.

Four thousand troops aided the firemen in combatting the blaze, but it was only when the force of the wind subsided noticeably that their efforts to control the fire were rewarded with success.

Scenes of terror were witnessed in many sections as the course of the flames threatened widespread destruction.

The streets were choked with masses of despairing refugees from the districts already stricken, accompanied by carts loaded with furniture, the confusion being added to by the flocking in of sightseers from other sections.

Many of the half-frozen fugitives fleeing from the flames bore infants strapped to their backs.

The mounted police had great difficulty in restraining incipient panics.

As a measure of relief, the Imperial Gardens were opened to the sufferers.

Court in Squalor

MEMBERS OF COURT OF FORMER CZAR REFUGEES ON DALMATIAN COAST AMID FILTH AND DISEASE.

VESTIGES OF WEALTH

RAGUSA, Jugoslavia, March 28.—(Canadian Associated Press). — Friends of the late Czar Nicholas, members of the upper crust of society of Imperial Russia, princes, dukes, generals and barons are living in squalor in camps infested with typhus and typhoid here and at Cattaro Bay, on the Dalmatian coast.

Altogether they constitute a group of about 1,500 of the refugees brought out from the Crimea when General Wrangell's anti-Bolshevik army collapsed, and who have since been scattered about the Balkans.

Vestiges of their former Imperial grandeur peep out from their rags when costly jewels saved in their flight from the Bolshevists are brought out from the recesses of the old bundles composing their dirty, unkept baggage. Princes, princesses and generals sleep on hard cement floors, and barely manage to exist on the meagre allowance of food doled out to them. Their costly furs, once exuberant, but now scant and worn almost hairless, show the former riches of their owners.

The Associated Press correspondent visited several barracks of old forts and airplane hangars where the Russians are quartered. Generals could be seen in tatters waiting their turns for rations, and eating soup and stew out of mess-tins and then filling up on black bread. Their uniforms carried the insignia of Imperial Russia, with strings of medals across their breasts. Cossacks stood around in threadbare regalia of the old regime, wearing dilapidated astrakhan hats and tunics intended for British soldiers, while their riding boots were torn and ragged from long use.

The clothing of the women consisted of relics of better days. Some wore riding boots, the last footwear left from what once had been an extensive wardrobe. Some carried in their baggage Persian rugs which they had been able to save on their long pilgrimage. Once they become well enough acquainted with a visitor, they offer for sale such jewellery as they still possess, so as to tide themselves over this period of distress. Some of the women had linen bearing the Imperial arms.

HULL CLUBS RAIDED; BIG HAUL TAKEN

ROULETTE WHEEL VALUED AT $10,000 TAKEN IN ONE CLUB AND 28 "BLIND PIGS" ALSO BROKEN INTO.

SUMMONS SERVED

OTTAWA, March 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Operating on Saturday afternoon and night, Quebec Provincial detectives, with the assistance of a number of local residents of the city, raided ten clubs in Hull and 28 other blind pigs have been served with summons to appear in court on Tuesday. It was not only liquor that the raiders were after, but also wheels of fortune, crap games, poker dens, roulette wheels and other gambling devices which, it is asserted, have been running wide in a large number of so-called clubs. At the Outouais Club a roulette wheel costing in the neighbourhood of $10,000, which was not in operation, was seized and another was taken at the City Club.

REFERENDUM INJUNCTION IS DROPPED

PETITION TO HIGH COURT TO RESTRAIN REVISING OFFICERS FROM ACCEPTING ANY BUT PERSONAL APPLICATIONS.

MADE UNNECESSARY

TORONTO, March 28 (Canadian Press).—The petition to the Judge of the High Court to restrain revising officers from accepting any but personal applications for the registration of voters has been dropped.

The application was to have been heard on Wednesday in the Single Court, but instructions given to the revising officers on Saturday made this unnecessary.

T. L. Monahan, solicitor for Geo. Moore, applicant for the injunction, and the Citizen's Liberty League, obtained from Judge Coatsworth an undertaking that the revising officers would be instructed to receive only personal applications, and a letter was written to His Honour in reply informing him of the discontinuance of the application.

DESTITUTION EXAGGERATED

NEARLY 2,000 CANADIAN SOLDIERS IN ENGLAND ARE DESTITUTE BUT STORIES LARGELY IMAGINATIVE.

ARE BEING RETURNED

LONDON, March 28.—(Special to the Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service).—Rumours that thousands of Canadian soldiers are destitute in England and are unable to reach Canada have been cabled across the Atlantic by imaginative correspondents and thence transmitted back to England. To discover the truth of these stories, a representative of Cross-Atlantic to-day visited the Soldier Settlement Board and discussed the matter with the officials. That there is some truth in the stories is evident, that the numbers of the destitute have been grossly exaggerated is equally certain.

Careful examination of the records shows that of 25,000 soldiers who chose to take their discharge in England, about 2,500 are here without funds. The Board has applications from about 2,000 of these who desire to return to Canada by free passage, and almost all of these applicants might be described as destitute. Owing to the limitation of shipping space these cannot all be returned as speedily as the board and the applicants desire, but they are being sent back to Canada at the rate of about 100 a month at present, and it is hoped to increase this average when the summer sailing schedule starts. Those that are being sent back have all been guaranteed work, and this guaranty is regarded as a sine qua non before the Board will consider the application. The number of applications for return has dropped off recently, although about 200 a month are still being received, and of these about 130 were discharged in England, while the remainder have drifted into London since the armistice.

NEW MISSION FIELD CREATED

By Presbyterian Church in Mining Area.

THE PAS, Man., March 28.—(Canadian Press).—A new mission field will be created by the Presbyterian Church in the Flin Flon mining area, and arrangements have been made for William Holmes, of Manitoba College, to look after the spiritual needs of the miners in the north. Mr. Holmes will commence his work in the spring and will be given a "roving" commission to cover the whole mining section.

At the present time none of the denominations have missionaries serving the mining areas. It is the aim of the Presbyterian mission authorities ultimately to establish churches in the northern region as soon as the population is sufficiently large and stable as to necessitate this step.

WESTWOOD JUDGMENT RESERVED

ARGUMENT CONCLUDED ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON BY F. D. KERR AND B. D. HALL—DITCH AWARD APPEAL.

AN INVOLVED CASE

Judgment in the appeal of Matthew and David Breckenridge of Westwood against the award made by Fred Wilkins of Norwood under the Ditches and Water Courses Act, was reserved by Judge Huycke on Saturday afternoon, following the argument by F. D. Kerr for the appellants and B. D. Hall for the respondent, William Morris.

The main purpose of the act, Mr. Kerr said, was that substantial benefit should be gained by all parties concerned in any award made under its provisions. A requisite condition requires that any agreement made by the owners of the property involved shal be reduced to writing, signed by them and filed with the clerk of the municipality. In this case, Mr. Kerr pointed out, there was no agreement in writing. Matthew Breckenridge one of the owners of the mill pond at Westwood, had refused to sign anything without legal advice. Furthermore, it was self evident that he could not sign any agreement in the name of his brother David or the co-heirs of the estate.

Mr. Kerr asked that the award be set aside on the ground that it was partial, that Mr. Wilkins had shown favouritism; and also that it was a distinct violation of the property rights of the Breckenridges. Mr. Kerr said the effect of the award was to the detriment and disadvantage of the appellants without proper compensation either in money or results of the work itself. He asked Judge Huycke to find as a matter of law and fact that the point established by Wright in the Cardwell action some years ago, was the correct one.

His Honour asked if any effort had been made to bring the two parties together for the purpose of trying to arrive at an amicable settlement of the dispute.

"When we got together we were still far apart," Mr. Kerr replied. "They were unable to discuss the matter in a way that leads to results."

"It is clear that for a period of six months a year we are entitled to hold the water not only at 6 feet 9 inches but when the weather conditions are favorable, to at least three inches above that."

The Wilkins award, Mr. Kerr said, would prevent the appellants from raising the water in the mill pond to the height at which they had a right to hold it.

Mr. Hall contended that Mr. Wilkins had examined the Morris land, and had decided that the best and cheapest way to drain it was through the old ditch traversing the Breckenridge mill property. Thos. Cardwell was not a party to the appeal but to the award. Mr. Hall argued that it could not be said that Cardwell was favored. All the engineers admitted that Morris was entitled to have his land drained.

Mr. Hall said that furrows dug in the old ditch would be satisfactory.

"This is rather an expensive way of finding that out," Judge Huycke remarked.

"I dont submit that an argument was reduced to writing." Mr. Hall continued, 'but that the engineer did the proper thing when he tried to get the parties together. He says he understood from the township officials that there would be no difficulty, and that he was to go ahead.'

The clothing of the women consisted of relics of better days. Some wore riding boots, the last footwear left from what once had been an extensive wardrobe. Some carried in their baggage Persian rugs which they had been able to save on their long pilgrimage. Once they become well enough acquainted with a visitor, they offer for sale such jewellery as they still possess, so as to tide themselves over this period of distress. Some of the women had linen bearing the Imperial arms.

HULL CLUBS RAIDED; BIG HAUL TAKEN

ROULETTE WHEEL VALUED AT $10,000 TAKEN IN ONE CLUB AND 28 "BLIND PIGS" ALSO BROKEN INTO.

SUMMONS SERVED

OTTAWA, March 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Operating on Saturday afternoon and night, Quebec Provincial detectives, with the assistance of a number of local residents of the city, raided ten clubs in Hull and 28 other blind pigs have been served with summons to appear in court on Tuesday. It was not only liquor that the raiders were after, but also wheels of fortune, crap games, poker dens, roulette wheels and other gambling devices which, it is asserted, have been running wide in a large number of so-called clubs. At the Outouais Club a roulette wheel costing in the neighbourhood of $10,000, which was not in operation, was seized and another was taken at the City Club.

REFERENDUM INJUNCTION IS DROPPED

PETITION TO HIGH COURT TO RESTRAIN REVISING OFFICERS FROM ACCEPTING ANY BUT PERSONAL APPLICATIONS.

MADE UNNECESSARY

TORONTO, March 28 (Canadian Press).—The petition to the Judge of the High Court to restrain revising officers from accepting any but personal applications for the registration of voters has been dropped.

The application was to have been heard on Wednesday in the Single Court, but instructions given to the revising officers on Saturday made this unnecessary.

T. L. Monahan, solicitor for Geo. Moore, applicant for the injunction, and the Citizen's Liberty League, obtained from Judge Coatsworth an undertaking that the revising officers would be instructed to receive only personal applications, and a letter was written to His Honour in reply informing him of the discontinuance of the application.

DESTITUTION EXAGGERATED

NEARLY 2,000 CANADIAN SOLDIERS IN ENGLAND ARE DESTITUTE BUT STORIES LARGELY IMAGINATIVE.

ARE BEING RETURNED

LONDON, March 28.—(Special to the Examiner by Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service).—Rumours that thousands of Canadian soldiers are destitute in England and are unable to reach Canada have been cabled across the Atlantic by imaginative correspondents and thence transmitted back to England. To discover the truth of these stories, a representative of Cross-Atlantic to-day visited the Soldier Settlement Board and discussed the matter with the officials. That there is some truth in the stories is evident, that the numbers of the destitute have been grossly exaggerated is equally certain.

Careful examination of the records shows that of 25,000 soldiers who chose to take their discharge in England, about 2,500 are here without funds. The Board has applications from about 2,000 of these who desire to return to Canada by free passage, and almost all of these applicants might be described as destitute. Owing to the limitation of shipping space these cannot all be returned as speedily as the board and the applicants desire, but they are being sent back to Canada at the rate of about 100 a month at present, and it is hoped to increase this average when the summer sailing schedule starts. Those that are being sent back have all been guaranteed work, and this guaranty is regarded as a sine qua non before the Board will consider the application. The number of applications for return has dropped off recently, although about 200 a month are still being received, and of these about 130 were discharged in England, while the remainder have drifted into London since the armistice.

NEW MISSION FIELD CREATED

By Presbyterian Church in Mining Area.

THE PAS, Man., March 28. — (Canadian Press).—A new mission field will be created by the Presbyterian Church in the Flin Flon mining area, and arrangements have been made for William Holmes, of Manitoba College, to look after the spiritual needs of the miners in the north. Mr. Holmes will commence his work in the spring and will be given a "roving" commission to cover the whole mining section.

At the present time none of the denominations have missionaries serving the mining areas. It is the aim of the Presbyterian mission authorities ultimately to establish churches in the northern region as soon as the population is sufficiently large and stable as to necessitate this step.

MONDAY, MARCH 28TH, 1921.

WHERE IS THE FAULT?

Is it the home education or the school training or a combination of both that is responsible for the conduct of certain frequenters of the Public Library referred to by the Librarian in Saturday's issue, the defacing and multilation of books, the theft of pages from valuable reference volumes and other acts of vandalism? The conditions referred to are not peculiar to the library. Everywhere among youngsters and in many cases among their elders too, there is a similar disregard for the rights of others ,a wanton carelessness in regard to other people's property. Delivery boys take short cuts across lawns, youngsters, if they are not watched, help themselves to the flowers in the parks, loafers on the downtown streets begrim the brass railings and carelessly scratch matches on the new paint of the store fronts. So prevalent are these conditions that the question with which this article opens seems pertinent and timely. There is something wrong somewhere in our system of training and parents and teachers alike have a responsibility in that matter and should seeg to impress upon the young people the necessity of a more scrupulous regard for property that belongs to others.

FUEL CONTROL.

If, as is claimed, the office of the Ontario Fuel Controller is self-sustaining, because the system of license fees collected from the dealers paid the expenses of administration, there is some reason for wondering whether or not the Ontario government is showing good judgment in its decision to abolish the fuel control department. Mr. H. A. Harrington, who has been in charge of this work, has been able to familiarize himself with the duties of his position, and with the fuel situation, and undoubtedly the department has been of some service to the people of the province. The mild weather during the winter has perhaps minimized public interest in the fuel problem and there is not that appreciation of the value of control that would be found under more unsettled conditions. Nevertheless, if the cost of the department is fully met by the fees paid by the dealers there does not seem any necessity for haste in doing away with the fuel controller's office. It may be that next winter it will be necessary to re-establish the position and start all over again, which would mean building up a new system of control at short notice and perhaps a delay in functioning that would render the department useless in dealing promptly and effectively with a crisis.

A BRIGHT SUGGESTION.

Across the border there are still a few individuals who persist in misunderstanding the status of Canada and in exposing their total ignorance of the British Empire and the manner in which it is governed. One of these is Representative Clarence McGregor, who in a letter to Secretary of State Hughes calmly suggests that Great Britain might discharge part of her war debt to the United States by giving up to the Republic the part of Canada lying south of a line extending west from the western end of Lake Ontario to the junction of Lake Huron and the St. Clair river." What a bright idea? All the United States would get would be the entire Niagara frontier, the control of all the water powers on the Niagara river, the whole Ontario fruit district, the Welland canal and a few other little trifles like that. We would suggest that if Mr. McGregor can be spared from his public duties for a day or two—a man with his imagination must be invaluable— he had better come over and pay us a neighobrly visit so that at close range we can explain to him that Canada, either en bloc or by parcel, is not for sale, that Great Britain has neither the will nor the power to dispose of any section of the Dominion, and that, unbelievable as it may appear to him, the people of the district he refers to are not at all anxious to reap "the incalculable advantages" which he declares would follow the annexation of that portion of Canada to the United States.

THE REFERENDUM.

The controversy as to what procedure should be followed in adding to the voters' lists for the coming referendum names that were not found on the 1919 lists may be entertaining to those who take an interest in legal disputes of this nature, but the man or woman whose name is not on the list and who wants to get it there should not allow the argument that has been going on to prejudice the chance of registering an opinion on the important question that is to be voted on next month. The only safe plan is to go before the revising officer and have the name added; this operation is simple and requires only a minute or two, and there is the satisfaction of knowing that you have protected yourself so far as making sure that you will have a vote is concerned. There is no use in putting your confidence in somebody else to have your name added; the chances are that a personal visit to the revising officer will be insisted on and that may as well be done in the first place, avoiding all chances of a mistake. If a vote is worth anything it is surely worth the little trouble that is involved in looking after your own place on the list.

PRICE RECESSIONS.

Business is slowly muddling through the painful process of deflation. The weighted index number of the Department of Labour shows a reduction of 5½ per cent. in wholesale prices in February. The average decline of 167 commodities represents about 38½ per cent. since last May, when the prices reached the highest average.

Farm products are still at the bottom of the price list. Even wholesale food is disproportionately higher than the raw materials; while house furnishing goods, building materials, fuel and other essentials are far beyond hte average of grain, meat and cotton. Fuel and building materails are largely a matter of labour, and their index number of 218 and 277, compared with 129 for farm products, illustrate how the wage questoin affects the price readjustment and holds business back.

Food in the manufactured form, represents farm products plus the labour necessary to prepare it for use. It averages 21 points out of line with the raw material. The figures prove the futility of union labour's demand for cheaper living expenses while resisting the neecssary wage reductions.

Wages and prices are relative and interdependent.

This resistance to wage adjustments is delaying the return of business activity. Hopeful forecasts made last winter of an early revival cannot materialize even though the business activity is sound. It is doubtful if a burst of activity at this time would even be desirable while the adjustment of prices is so far from being complete.

There can be no partial readjustment—"a reduction of everybody's prices except ours". Liquidation must be thorough and nearly equal in all lines so that the excange value of wheat, labour and manufactured products will be at an equitable ratio—so that the purchasing power of one man may not be at the expense of another. Business can only "muddle through" until prices are brought to a level giving assurance of permanent activity and lessened unemployment.—Wall Street Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Easter Sunday rain is no respecter of hats, and the 1921 model can get just as wet as a last year's bonnet, as many Peterborough women found yesterday.

"A certain liveliness" is noted in U.F.O.-Labour circles. The situation will require careful handling or the two wings of the Ontario government may part company.

The Fable of the Fluker with the Gift of Chatter.
By Our Own George Ade

Once there was a man who had a One-Cylinder Brain which Missed but who had been born with the gift of Chatter. He started out in life by earning a Weekly Stipend of $12 per for Pushing a Pen for an Established Firm, and passed out with this increased to $30 per, minus 47 Overdue Bills, out of which to pay the Funeral Expenses.

But during his Earthly Stay he was in demand at all the Social Functions of the Neighbourhood from Afternoon Teas to Evening Soirees. At these he entertained the ladies with Small Talk and when left alone with the men put on a mask of Meditative Silence. The Flappers simply raved about him and the Elderly Dames thought him a Charming Man. On this subject the men were kindly silent.

In his Leisure Moments he wore a Cane and an air of Superiority and the local paper included his name in Among Those Present. Only those at the office and the men who knew him were Wise.

SCHOOL PUPILS HELD A DEBATE

LARGE OMEMEE AUDIENCE HEAR INTERESTING DISCUSSION.

OMEMEE, March 28.—On Thursday afternoon a very interesting programme was given in the school by the High school scholars. Mr. Harry Lamb acted as chairman. The first number on the programme was a debate, the subject being, "Resolved, that it is of advantage to a country to have scattered colonies rather than a compact territory." The affirmative was ably upheld by Mr. Orville Finlay assisted by Miss Mayme Brown, while Mr. Thomas Cassidy, assisted by Miss Mary Faulkner, had charge of the negative. The judges were, Mrs. (Rev.) Scott, Mrs. Mitchell and Mr. William Curry, who at the close of the debate withdrew to make their decision, which resulted in favor of the affirmative. Mr. Curry in giving the decision congratulated both sides on the able way in which they handled such a difficult subject.

The Glee Club.

The Glee Club favored the audience with two selections on the violin and Miss Mary Milloy sang a solo in a very pleasing voice.

Mr. Harry Lamb then spoke a few words, after which he presented a silver medal to Miss Rhea Courtney, donated by the Ontario Fire Prevention League for the best essay on "Prevention of Fire in Home and Factory." Miss Daisy Adams then read the composition.

The programme closed with God Save the King, after which all had the privilege of viewing the beautiful art display, the work of the pupils during the principal's term, which is a credit to both teachers and pupils.

Find the Arresting Idea

To make an effective newspaper advertisement you must get your impression over quickly and sustain interest throughout.

Proper presentation of advertising copy is almost as important as the decision to advertise.

People buy newspapers to read news. The news of the day may be absorbing, dramatic and sustained, as, for instance, during an election.

In your advertising you compete wth the best news stories and headlines for attention. On the other hand, your reader is in a receptive mood and prone to action. The whole structure of a newspaper deals with and inspires action.

Unless you have an arresting idea, therefore, how can you expect to compel attention? Of course, any advertisement is better than none, but there is a wide gulf in the effectiveness of good and bad copy.

The circulation of an advertisement is not the circulation of the newspaper, but of the number of people who read it. Therefore, the more people you can attract and persuade to read your advertisement the more effective it becomes.

And the margin of profit between good and bad advertising is so great that it merits all the attention you can give to it.

* * * * *

One of the most enjoyable things you can do is to spend an hour or so, a few evenings a week, thinking out a well-balanced daily newspaper advertising campaign for your store and your merchandise. And, having thought it out, carry it through regardless of other people's opinions or whims.

You have three of the best trading months ahead. Do, then, as we suggest and watch results.

hoop skirts were worn by those who first asked the druggist for, and insisted on having the genuine Favorite Prescription put up by Doctor Pierce over fifty years ago. Dress has changed very much since then! But Dr. Pierce's medicines contain the same dependable ingredients. They are standard today just as they were fifty years ago and never contained alcohol.

Beauty depends upon health.

Worry, sleepless nights, headaches, pains, disorders and weakness of a distinctly feminine character in a short time bring the dull eye, the "crow's feet," the haggard look, drooping shoulders, and the faltering step.

To retain the appearance of youth you must retain health. Instead of lotions, powders and paints, ask your druggist for Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

PHIPPEN, Sask.—"Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me when all other medicines failed. The home doctors could do nothing for me. I happened to see Dr. Pierce's advertisement in the paper, sent for the medicine, and felt a great benefit from even the first few doses. I took but a few bottles until I was entirely well. I cannot speak too highly of the merits of the Prescription." MRS. JANET BROWN, R. R. 1.

WAR WIDOWS ARE MARRYING FAST.

Reduce British Pension Appropriations.

LONDON, March 26. (Associated Press).—British war widows are remarrying so rapidly that the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Austen Chamberlain, expects to be able to reduce pensions appropriations in this year's Budget by ten million pounds sterling. This, however, is only one of the factors contributed to the anticipated reduction, but it is stated that thousands of women made widows by the war have again become wives, and thus automatically taken their names off the pension list. The pensions granted to widows of soldiers who died on active service are withdrawn when the widows remarry.

STOP THAT TICKLING IN THE THROAT

BY USING

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

That tickling in the throat sensation is most distressing and causes a nasty, irritating, dry cough that not only keeps you in misery all day long, but also prevents you enjoying a good night's rest.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks combined with the lung-healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mr. E. A. Price, Port Carling, Ont., writes: "For about a month last fall, I had a bad cold and cough and a tickling in my throat. I coughed nearly all the time. I tried different remedies and cough syrups, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before I had used two bottles, my cough was all gone, and gone for good. I have not coughed since."

Chapter 12

I went home from Mrs. Calvin's card party with an insistent determination to act. My pride was hurt. My feelings were as torn and bleeding as if they had been dragged through a veritable mental briar patch.

Emma opened the door in response to my ring.

"Mr. Allen telephoned about ten minutes ago that he would not be home for dinner tonight."

"Did he ask where I was?" I questioned sagaciously.

"Yes, Madame, but I could not tell him as Madame had not told me herself," Emma replied.

"I know, I had a reason," I said to myself, and the minute I had spoken I regretted it, fearing Emma had heard and perhaps understood. It was bad enough that my friends should know of my personal difficulties, but not the servants. I revolted at the thought of that.

Leonard not coming home. Fate was playing a strong hand against me.

I went to my room and sat for some time in meditation. The desire for action was growing more and more insistent.

I would see Alvah Fairchild. I hoped Leonard would hear of it, too. He deserved something like that. My wounded pride and jealousy were all of feelings. The back of my head mixed up in one tumbling, ugly mass ached and a sickening sensation gripped at the pit of my stomach. Oh, this was a terrible thing—this thing that could completely incapacitate one mentally, physically—and goodness knows, perhaps even morally!

Emma announced that dinner was ready.

I tried to eat something. It was a hopeless task with my feelings in such a riot. I thought I detected a mingling of sympathy and understanding in the expression on Emma's face as she removed the sparsely eaten dinner. One minute I longed for sympathy, and the next I was like a bristling kitten with every nerve and fibre on end ready to meet any advances with hostility.

The only relief I could find, was in the determination to make a trip to the city and if possible see Alvah Fairchild. The desire for retaliation was fastening its vice-like clutch upon me. Months afterwards how the memory of those terrible feelings burned into my conscience!

I went to my room and began to plan what I would wear to the city in the morning. My dark blue garbardine suit had just come home from the cleaners. I liked the way it fit me too. I would wear that. If only my grey-blue georgette waist was clean. I decided to do it up myself. It would give me something to think about. Inaction was beastly.

Emma had retired and I had the kitchen to myself. I attached the electric iron and left it to heat. The waist washed easily. I hung it up for a minute to dry a little and got out the ironing board. The iron was hot and the waist pressed beautifully.

I actually felt better. Just sitting and thinking of one's troubles does not solve the difficulties. I smiled to myself a trifle conceitedly at the thought of how I would look on the morrow.

A step sounded on the piazza. It must be Leonard. I ran to the door. No, it must have been at the next house.

When I went back in the kitchen little brown curls of smoke were coming from the iron where it rested on the back of my grey-blue georgette waist. I grabbed it up—but it was too late. There was a hole the size of the iron with brown, brittly edges.

I don't think it was solely the waist, but just everything culminating in that burn that brought the hot tears rushing to my eyes. Life was too hard! Long after I had crawled in bed, heartsick and discouraged, sobs shook my tired body—until at last blessed sleep claimed and quieted me.

CAMPBELLFORD GIRL GUIDES HELD SUCCESSFUL BIRD HOUSE CONTEST

THE PRIZEWINNERS—FARMERS IN VICINITY OF CAMPBELLFORD HAVE COMMENCED SPRING PLOUGHING—DISTRICT NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 28.—The bird house contest, held under the auspices of the local company of Girl Guides, was a decided success and those who were privileged to attend were delighted with the exhibition. There were over thirty entries, and one can imagine what a difficult task the judges were confronted with. After carefully examining the entries the judges, Miss Archer, R. N., Dr. Lillian Young and Mr. John Scott, who all are deeply interested in bird and bird life, gave their report as follows: 1st prize, Master Keenan; 2nd prize, Master Palliser; 3rd, Master Boyd.

The judges decided that quite a large number of the houses were much too large and some others were painted too brilliant colours. On the whole the houses showed careful workmanship on the part of the boys and grils, and will no doubt create a deeper interest in bird life. With the kind permission of the principal of the Public school, Mr. C. A. Moore, the judges will visit the Public school and demonstrate to the pupils the essential characteristics of an ideal bird house.

The young ladies served tea and sold home-made candy, and the afternoon was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number of parents and children present.

Spring Ploughing.

Quite a number of farmers in the surrounding district have begun their spring ploughing and if the fine weather continues, ploughing will be quite general next week The country roads are drying up nicely and automobiles are again becoming quite numerous on the country roads.

Mr. Frank Little, cheese maker at Brae factory, Seymour East, is the possessor of a fine new car.

Attended Course.

Theer is on exhibition in Mr. F. W. Woods' drug store, a very fine photo of the students who attended the short winter coures at Toronto University this year. Judging from the large number in the group, some of whom are known here, these courses are becoming more interesting and popular each year. The inspiration gained from meeting and associating with others similarly interested, gives us a broader outlook upon life.

BIRTH.—On Friday, March 25th, to Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, Seymour East, a daughter.

Matthew Galvin.

After a week's illness of pneumonia, there passed away one of the town's oldest and most respected residents in the person of Mr. Matthew Galvin. The late Mr. Galvin was born in Ireland and coming to Campbellford while quite a young man, he engaged in the grocery business and later followed the occupation of a drover.

The deceased, who is survived by his wife, was 83 years of age and up to the time of his illness was an active figure in town. He was a most devout member of St. Mary's church and interment will be made in Peterborough on Monday, 28th.

Revising Officer.

Mr. McGregor will be in his offics Ferris Block, each day from 10 in the morning and from 2 in the afternoon, beginning Monday, 28th, to April 2nd, where persons who wish to have their names added to the list may present themselves. Persons wishing to vote at the coming election should, without delay, see that their names are on the list.

The congregations in all the churches were unusually large and very fitting services befitting the day were held. The Easter music was uplifting and the very appropriate sermons carried the congregation back in thought to that first Easter morn and what it has meant to use.

Lacrosse Team.

A meeting of the juvenile lacrosse players was held on Friday afternoon to organize a team. Claude Hankinson, manager of the juvenile team, was acting chairman. A large number of the boys were present and business was quickly dealt with. Harold Horkins was appointed captain. It was decided that the manager should write to the various companies regarding sweaters, lacrosse sticks, etc. The team will not canvass the town for funds, as each player is to bear his on expenses. Many of the boys who played on the now famous "Bear Cat" juvenile team will be playing on the juvenile lacrosse team, but the new team will be entirely separate from the "Bearcats." Those who are eligible to play on the teams are: Harold Horkins, Jack Archer, W. Blue, A. Dickson, D. White, B. Reynolds, F. Reynolds, H. McArthur, L. White, T. B. Horkins, O. Sarginson, D. PASSED THROUGH HEART OF BOY AND SHOULDER OF MAN INTO SECOND MAN'S FOREHEAD.

MONTREAL, March 28. (Canadian Press.)—One boy was killed outright and two men were injured (one of whom may die) when a rifle in the hands of Arthur Hotte, was accidentally discharged yesterday at St. Martin, a village near Cartierville.

The victims were watching Hotte and some other men shooting at a tin can on a fence post. Hotte's brother, Napoleon, had attempted to take the gun away from his brother, when it went off, the bullet narrowly missing him. It struck Leopold Valiquette, aged 11, in the heart, and came out through his shoulder, passed through the arm of Felix Dumont, and finally lodged itself in the forehead of Ferdinand Gravel, aged 48, of Ste. Dorother.

The boy died almost instantly, and Gravel was conveyed to the Notre Dame Hospital, where his recovery is considered to be doubtful. Dumont's condition is not serious.

In Packages for Convenience In Bulk for Economy

There are three ways to buy Princess Soap Flakes. In the convenient package so handy for the kitchen shelf. By the pound for general household and laundry use. And in 25-pound cartons which allow a big price saving.

As Princess Flakes are pure, whole soap they go much farther than ordinary laundry soap. The user thus makes a double saving.

Curly white flakes—every particle soap

Princess Flakes are such pure soap and such fine soap that they are actually mild enough for toilet use. They even possess a refining touch of perfume.

They were perfected for the laundering of fragile blouses and lingerie—to cleanse the silks, crepes and chiffons that used to visit the dry cleaner.

They do such fancy washing without slightest harm to color or fabric. Each dainty garment washes out just like new.

But pure, whole soap is the efficient cleanser as well as one which is soft. So Princess Flakes make the most satisfactory of all-purpose soaps.

For general laundry use

In the washing machine—Princess Flakes are the ideal soap. Each curly flake dissolves to the last particle, making the stiffest of snowy suds.

Or in laundry tubs—the same rich suds takes out the dirt without rubbing.

Because they are pure soap and all soap, Princess Flakes go much farther than average laundry soap. This is real economy.

Because they are pure they save clothes. The rotted threads and thin spots which make clothes wear out so soon are not due to poor material, but instead to the destructive ingredients of common laundry soap.

By the package or by the pound

Buy Princess Flakes by the package to keep on the kitchen shelf—it is such a convenience! But buy in bulk for laundry use—by the pound or the 25-pound carton which allows the biggest saving of all.

But—begin using today—for fancy washing and general laundry work. Princess Flakes are the last word in soap—your money's worth in quality, convenience and actual soap value.

Why You Should Buy a Brunswick

The BRUNSWICK was the First and is still the Only Phonograph BUILT to play all Makes of Records, as the maker intended they should be played. This is accomplished by the invention of the "Double Ultona," which is a reproducer that combines the necessary features of the reproducers used for different Records—all in one—including proper point, balance, diaphragm, and weight. A simple turn of the Ultona, without change or delay, converts the Brunswick from one system to another. It is a marvellous achievement.

Then, the acoustic qualities embodied in the Brunswick all-wood oval horn (which is the only all-wood oval Phonograph horn) brings out all the delicate vibrations of tone that give music its real quality.

And the powerful Brunswick 4-Spring Motor that runs 27 minutes without winding ensures even running, less bother, and much greater durability; so when you buy a Brunswick it is bought for all time. Finally, the Brunswick Cabinets are masterpieces of perfection. In design, workmanship, and finish they are superb, for the Brunswick Company have generations of experience behind them in wood-working craftsmanship, and unlimited timber resources for the selection of perfect woods.

It is this combination of qualities and features that have made the Brunswick the "FINAL PHONOGRAPH"—all Phonographs in one.

TELLER E. BROWN LIKES THE FARM

Man Charged Wth Theft Comes to City to See His Solicitor

TORONTO, March 28.—Quietly and alone, Edgar Morton Brown, of 110 Broadview avenue, who was recently released from jail on bail after confessing to the theft of moneys from the Bank of Montreal, returned to the city Saturday. Mr. Brown has spent the past week with his family at his father's farm near Thomasburg.

"I have just come to the city for the day," Mr. Brown said, "and I am only here to attend to some private business and to consult my lawyer, Mr. Fletcher Kerr, concerning my case.

"I have very little to say other than that life on the farm has been a sweet relief from life as I have experienced it for some time previous to going there," he continued. "It is also working wonders for Mrs. Brown and my little son. They are enjoying every minute of their stay with my father and my mother."

"For the time being I have isolated myself from the city until such time as my case comes up for trial," he declared, "and until then I intend to get all the fresh air and exercise I can." He added that he would not have come to the city if it had not been necessary to come and look after some private affairs in person.

"I am leaving for Thomasburg to rejoin the family on the farm to-night," said Mr. Brown in conclusion, "and will be on hand when my case comes up for trial in court."

DAY OF VAMPIRE IS WANING, SAYS THEDA BARA, VAMPIRE EXPERT

NEW YORK, March 28. — The day of the vampire is waning, Miss Theda Bara declared in an interview here.

The actress, who has been absent from the scene for a year and a half, following a nervous breakdown resulting from overwork and the unusual strain of her roles, said she planned to return soon but not in the characterizations that made her famous.

Henceforth, she said, she will exemplify "the virtuous vampire."

"Personally, I would prefer to play 'puritan' roles such as Evangeline and Priscilla," she said. "The portion of the public which does me the honor of liking my work won't permit me to do that, however. Since I have been resting I have received more letters from 'movie fans' than ever before, and the tenor of these communications is:

"'Do not give up your vampire parts, but play them with a happy ending—the Magdalene's return to virtue.'

"I don't believe that any actor or actress is great enough to do exactly as they want to, in opposition to the wishes of the public. Pleasing the theatre-goers is the sole excuse for their existence. For that reason, I intend to follow the suggestions made to me."

Miss Bara was asked whether, in her belief, men or women had been most interested in her vampire roles.

"Women!" she replied emphatically. "Women who had been treated badly by men came to see me on the screen and felt, 'Ah, here is one of us who is able to treat men as they deserve."

Asked to what she attributed the changing sentiment of the American people from extreme materialism to sane morality, she said:

"No one can know. It is one of those incomprehensible, intangible things that we can only wonder at. We can't even know how long it will last."

MOVIE MEN ABOUT TO TURN NEW LEAF.

Make Screen Clean — Might Refrain From Telling Canucks U. S. Won War.

NEW YORK, March 28. —(Canadian Press).—The "movie" men are about to turn over a new leaf. They are very busy just now reforming themselves. Announcement was made this week that the members of the National Association of the Moving Picture Industry, which represents about 90 per cent. of the moving picture production of the Continent, have pledged themselves to make the screen "clean and wholesome." The subjects upon which they have declared a ban include:

"White slavery and commercialized vice; themes that make virtue odious and vice attractive; plays that would make drunkenness, gambling, drugs or other vices attractive, themes that tend to weaken the authority of the law; stories that might offend any person's religious, beliefs, and stories and themes which may instruct the morally feeble in methods of committing crime or by cumulative processes emphasize crime and the commission of crime."

Governor Miller has made a demand for a moving picture censorship in the State of New York, but this, of course, has nothing whatever to do with the sudden desire of the "movie" man to effect reform. Their only object, the announcement states, is "to insure against the production of questionable films and prevent the exploitation of pictures in a manner offensive to good taste."

In the matter of offending good taste, the "movie" men might well carry their reforms a little further for the benefit of their Canadian clients. They might, for instance, pledge themselves to discontinue informing Canadians through the medium of the film that the United States won the World War; they might eliminate the "U. S. Marines to the rescue" caption in films designed for display in the Dominion; they might practice a little reformation on the type of "Canadian Northwest" films which shows members of the Mounted Police Force attired in costumes reminiscent of the Ancient Artillery Company of Boston hunting half-breed murderers through the frozen wastes of Saranac Lake. They might recognize the fact that what may be considered good taste south of the boundary may be questionable taste to the north of the line. There is still room for reform.

FLOATING SAFES ON MAIL BOATS.

Invention Against Loss By Shipwreck.

THE HAGUE, March 26. (Associated Press). — The Dutch Indian mail steamers have just been equipped with floating safes large enough to contain all of the ship's valuables and registered mail. They look something like a cross between a floating buoy and a submarine, and are equipped to ring bells, shoot off skyrockets, flash lights, and blow horns.

The safe, the invention of a Dutchman, is claimed to be absolutely unsinkable, and, if cast overboard in the event of its ship sinking, it would go floating about the seas attracting attention to itself until its clockwork machinery ran down. It would carry a number of rockets, to be set at regular intervals and its machinery, it is claimed, would operate it for more than a month.

REAL SEA HORSE IS CAPTURED.

Caught in Trawl—Weight 1,000 Pounds.

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, N. S., March 28.—A real honest-to-goodness sea-horse weighing about one thousand pounds was taken in the trawl of the National Fish Company's steam trawler Venosta on one of her late trips to the "Banks". Neptune's equine was almost dead when taken aboard the Venosta and put up little fight, dying soon afterward.

The fishermen thought the monster had been carried out to sea on an ice field and had been worn out by his constant efforts in going from floe to floe. His tough hide was wrinkled and sagged, and like Kipling's bull seal "Oh! but he was old."

The so-called "sea-horse", associated in the popular mind with Davy Jones Locker and Mother Carey, is a relative of the common or garden variety of seal whose handsome coat is so dear to the heart of Mrs. and Miss Canuck.

Throughout the United States the American Legion is now represented by 10,200 posts and 2,150 auxiliary units.

DONE TO DEATH AT DOOR OF HOME.

YARMOUTH, N. S., March 28. —(Canadian Press).—If "murder will out," in the case of George Henry Perry, a retired sea captain who was done to death on the threshold of his home in Yarmouth on February 26, it is not unravelling the tangled skein quickly in spite of the exhortation of the Coroner's Jury that the Crown Prosecutor "use every means available, sparing neither time nor expense to bring the murderer to justice." Mystery as impenetrable as any that ever graced the pages of Edgar Allen Poe has apparently settled down on one of the most shocking crimes in the annals of Nova Scotia.

At ten o'clock on the night of February 26th, Captain Perry, who had been spending the evening at the house of a neighbor, looked at his watch and remarked that it was time he went home. An hour later his badly battered body was found in the snow at the rear of his house. He had been struck on the head "by some blunt instrument" while in the act of opening the outer door leading into the porch of his house, had fallen across a small deal table inside the porch where several additional blows had been administered, and then had been dragged by his feet into the yard. The Captain's dog dancing and yelping about the body had attracted the inmates of the house—Mrs. Perry, her daughter, Eleanor, and the young lady's fiancee, Mansfield Ross, who, rushing into the yard made the gruesome discovery.

The alarm was immediately given, a doctor summoned and the police notified. With the arrival of the doctor the murdered man's body was brought into the house, and subsequently the blood-bespattered porch was scrubbed out and the walk where the body had lain has sprinkled with ashes.

Then Inspector Horace Kennedy of the Halifax Detective Force was called in to clean up the mystery. He has been attempting to clean it up ever since.

MOCK TRIAL IN LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, March 28.— The mock trial held in the Methodist church parlors on Thursday evening was a great success. In spite of the inclement weather there was a good atendance and the financial results were excellent.

There was a short programme to supplement the mock trial which was much enjoyed. The following is the programme;

Overture—Miss Alice Hunter.
Solo—Mrs. D. H. McMillan.
Auction sale—Mr. Roy Green, auctioneer. The articles were donated by members of the brotherhood.
Pianoforte duet—Misses Jean Erskine and Eva McIlmoyle.
Duet— Mrs. McMillan and Mr. Rufus Payne.
Mock trial.
Solo—Mr. Rufus Payne.
Selected.
God Save the King.

The mock trial was the chief part of the programme and was very laughable indeed, the characters taking part being as follows:

Judge, I. W. Soakem—Rev. S. F. Dixon.
Counsel for Crown, I. B. Sweeney—R. A. Hirsch.
Counsel for defence, I. M. Wyndie—R. E. Greene.
Witnesses, Isaac Brotherhoodski—George Sherin; Miss Dolly Dimples—Unknown; Mr. Jim Dandy, Warren Payne.
Constable Ebenezer Hickup — Clarke Dixon.
Prosecutor, J. Brewery Hops — Jack Ridpath.
Court Clerk, Mr. T. H. E. Record —Ralph Payne.
Witnesses for the defence, The White Moll—W. Hendren; Subway Sam—Sam Sherin.
Prisoner, George King—Sherman McIlmoyle.
Jury was chosen from the audience.

Evidence Conflicting.

The evidence was conflicting as usual, but in the present trial resulted in a pair of prisoners, as Subway Sam became very much implicated in the crime charged to George King. The jury withdrew with the important solemnity of juries and in due course returned a verdict of guilty in both cases. Both prisoners were guilty and were sentenced by the judge to live in Warsaw for fourteen days.

Miss Dolly Dimples, who figured as the lady in the case, possessed the remarkable habit of taking her beaux to concerts and paying their way. Needless to relate, Dolly became a popular belle and was the cause of a great deal of jealousy among the young men of the village.

The judge did not close the court with his horrible sentence to the prisoners. He sentenced the crown counsel to build cement houses for all the members of the Brotherhood who are married or who expect to be.

The lawyer for the defence was sentenced to be hermetically sealed in a canoe and set adrift on the Kawartha Lakes.

The male witnesses were sentenced to take Dolly Dimples to the concerts and to pay their way, while Dolly was condemned to allow the young men to pay her way at concerts.

The court crier was sentenced to sing for forty Sundays in the Lakefield Methodist choir.

The constable is to be turned over to the town council.

The audience received a sentence also and one which will not be hard to carry out, viz., that they present themselves at the next Brotherhood entertainment.

The judge charge a fee of $2,000 for his services, said fee to be paid out of the deficit of the Ontario Farmers' government.

CONDITIONS OF POLLING REFERENDUM

OUTLINE OF THE REGULATIONS AND CONDITIONS GOVERNING VOTING ON IMPORT OF LIQUOR.

NO NEW LISTS

OTTAWA, March 28. — In five weeks on Monday, April 18th, the referendum vote on the Scott Act in the Province of Ontario, will be taken. Owing to the objection to having the vote taken on the lists used in the last Provincial election without revision or amendment, the vote in Ontario was not taken at the time last fall when four other provinces voted.

Upon being interviewed on the matter of lists to be used in the voting, Alexander Smith, barrister, gives an outline of the conditions as follows:

"For the purposes of the voting on the Canada Temperance Act, commonly known as the Scott Act, in the Province of Ontario on the 18th day of April, the Dominion Elections Act of 1920 will apply except insofar as such Act has been amended by an Act passed on March 3rd, 1921.

"This latter Act provides that the voters' lists to be used shall be the lists used in the Provincial general election, 1919. In rural parts any person now qualified to vote whose name is not on that Provincial voters' list for 1919 may, upon being sworn, and upon a neighbour being sworn on his behalf, record his vote on election day. There is no revision or change in the rural list previous to voting day. Other changes are as here specified for in the urban portions of the province the Provincial list of 1919 will be revised.

"The Act defines an urban polling division to be one which is wholly or partially contained within the places having a population of more than one thousand persons, and which places under the Provincial law are cities, towns, or incorporated villages.

"In these cities, towns and villages, the Provincial lists of 1919 are subject to revision before the county judge.

"If no objection is taken to the names that are on the names remain on. If an objection is made and the objection is established the name is struck off. Persons whose names are not on the Provincial lists of 1919 may make application to be put on, and if successful their names are placed on the list. They may apply at any sittings of the revising officer, and after viva voce examination their applications will be decided upon. They may apply without previous notice.

"For Scott Act purposes there will be no registrars or enumerators as provided in the general Act, but in cities, towns and villages due notice by public advertisement and proclamation will be given of the sittings of the revising officer.

"For the purpose of the Temperance Act vote in April a British subject who has resided in Canada for twelve months and in the province of Ontario for two months before the 1st of February, 1921, is entitled to vote.

"A person whose name is on the voters' list may vote even although he is not a British subject or 21 years of age or resident in the province. If he is not on the voters' list and applies to be allowed to vote in the rural municipalities he will have to swear that he is 21 years of age, a British subject, and has been a resident of Canada for twelve months and of the province of Ontario for two months.

"Similar conditions apply to persons who are not on the voters' list in cities, towns and villages, and who desire to get on, but a person cannot vote in a city, town or village unless his name is on the list before election day. If on the list he can vote even although he is not of age, or a British subject or a resident of the province, or of Canada.

"There will be no revision in the town of Aylmer or in the city of Peterborough as by-elections occurred recently in the constituencies in which they are placed. The lists there, however, will be corrected by the revising officer, which means that mistakes in spelling and the like will be corrected.

"Whether a Provincial by-election has occurred since 1919 the list there will be used as a basis instead of the list of 1919 and subject to the Dominion Acts of 1920 and 1921."

Manitoba Bankrupt

WALL STREET JOURNAL PREDICTS THIS IF PROVINCIAL BANKS ESTABLISHED.

LIKE NORTH DAKOTA

In the latest issue of the Wall Street Journal a prediction is made that if Manitoba persists in the establishment of a Provincial-owned banking system, Premier Norris will find himself at the head of a province which is insolvent. The New York paper goes on to say that Manitoba may well draw a lesson from the State of North Dakota, with its myriad of financial holes following the passing of the Non-Partizan League regime.

"But," continues the same paper, "Manitoba has an urban population equal to any emergency, a protection that her luckless neighbor (North Dakota) lacks."

This financial paper terms the Manitoba Provincial bank "a device for borrowing money from depositors at the highest possible rate consistent with apparent safety, and lending it out at the lowest possible rate to the members of local rural credit societies and farm loan associations."

This system will not last long, says the Journal. "Happily the Manitoba business is still small and not a little ridiculous. Long before it swells to the demoniac size and fury of its North Dakota neighbor, it will pass on and under," it concludes.

SITTING AT FEET OF DEAD DAKOTA.

Manitoba Has Progressive Urban Population.

NEW YORK, March 28. —(Canadian Press).—Commenting editorially on Manitoba's Provincial-owned banking system, the Wall Street Journal says:

"There is a remarkable similarity of racial and economic environment of rural exemption and all sorts of law and social structure between Manitoba and North Dakota. Manitoba has one protection her luckless neighbor lacks. She has an urban population equal to any political emergency.

"Manitoba has now what North Dakota is sorry she ever thought of —a Provincial-owned banking system, semi-detached from the Provincial Treasury, based on the strange economic device of borrowing from depositors money at the highest possible rate consistent with apparent safety, and lending it out at the lowest possible rate to the members of racial rural credit societies and farm loan associations.

"Sitting at the feet of the dead but unburied North Dakota corpse, Manitoba can absorb more lessons than one. It would be as true in Threadneedle Street as at Winnipeg."

RECORD ROUTES OF MACKEREL.

Will Continue Scouting Service of 1921.

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, N. S., March 28.—Far reaching results are anticipated from the continuation of the mackerel scouting service on the Atlantic coast this year. The system adopted last season will probably be the basis for the efforts of the fishermen's governmental assistants this spring. Last spring and summer information relative to the position of mackerel schools was wirelessed from the Cruiser "Hochelaga" to Cape Sable and Halifax, and thence disseminated by telegraph and telephone to Yarmouth, Shelburne, Lunenburg, Liverpool, Lockeport, Sherbrooke and intermediate parts.

The service promises to produce valuable data for biological research work, says the Canadian Fisherman, suggesting that a chart of movements of mackerel throughout the whole season will probably be made available to those interested.

1 Pill a Laxative, 2 Pills a Cathartic, 3 Pills a Purgative,

This is the Way Millburn's Laxa-Liver Pills Work.

You will never use any of the old griping, nauseating, sickening, purging pills, containing as they do calomel and other drastic mineral ingredients, once you use Milburn's Laxa-Liver, a pill that is purely vegetable.

Owing to the great care used in procuring the highest grade of drugs from which they are manufactured, they are as near perfect as it is possible to get a laxative remedy.

They work gently and effectively, without a gripe or pain.

If you are troubled with constipation, biliousness; driven to distraction with sick headaches, if your tongue is coated, your breath bad, your complexion muddy, your eyes yellow, have floating specks before the eyes, jaundice, itching, bleeding, or protruding piles, stir up your sluggish liver with a few doses of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

Mrs. Roy Mackie, Orillia, Ont., writes: "I desire to express my thanks for the relief I have had by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I had been suffering for some time from constipation and bad headaches. I tried all sorts of cures, which did me no good, until I was advised to try your pills. I got great relief after taking only a few doses."

RADIUM USED FOR FIGHTING DREAD CANCER.

Madame Curie Details Its Usefulness in Maladies Thought Fatal — Has Great Curative Value.

PARIS, March 28.—Although disinclined to talk for publication, Madame Curie, the world's foremost woman scientist, gave the following interview in the press on the eve of sailing for the United States to accept a gift from a committee of American women to purchase one gram of radium. Madame Curie is professor and lecturer at the Sarbonne, Paris, and was awarded the Noble prize for chemistry in 1911.

She is a small, pale woman of perhaps fifty, whose whole personality is a striking combination of gentleness and determination.

Madame Curie said: "I will go to America some time during the first fortnight in May, but the exact date has not been set, because I am awaiting the program to be sent to me by the committee, which I shall follow. I expect to stay about a month in all. I do not know exactly which cities I will visit, but certainly Philadelphia and the University of Pennsylvania will be included."

About her work at present, Madame Curie could say but little, except that naturally she was continuing "my investigations into the nature and application of radium." But Madame Curie made the, following important statements relating to the discovery of radium and its consequences: "Since its discovery some twenty years ago, the importance of the properties of this material revealed by radio elements has continually increased

Gives Out Heat.

"For instance, radio-active bodies give out heat. A powerful radio-active substance such as radium is a constant source of heat. It has been thought up to the present that the earth has been constantly cooling since its solidification. A study of radio-active elements shows, on the contrary, that not only is it not certain that the earth is cooling, but it is even possible that it is getting constantly warmer, and this changes all our opinion on the evolution of the terrestrial globe.

"It has been recognized that this discharge of heat from radium plays an important role in the thermal equilibrium of the terrestrial globe. It is known that radio-active substances such as radium are disseminated throughout the earth's crust in minute quantities. These quantities can be measured by electro-meters. These measures have esta ished that a given quantity of radium throws out heat sufficient to melt in an hour its own weight of ice. This heat, in numerical values is equal to 135 calories per gram of radium per hour. Thus one can calculate the heat given out by radium in the earth's crust On the other hand, the heat reflected into space by the earth is known—heat originating in the increased temperature of the earth towards its centre, and in the thermic conductibility of superficial rocks. It is found on comparing the two numbers that the radio-active elements in the earth's crust are more than sufficient in quantity to compensate for the loss of heat by radiation."

Curative Value.

Regarding the use of radium in the treatment of disease, Madame Curie said:

"Because the radium is so strong it was natural to try its curative value, for the chance to alleviate human suffering is never neglected. From the first trials the results obtained in certain cases were encouraging, and soon it was established that radium rays would cure a certain number of maladies, especially various affections of the skin, such as superficial ulcers, lupus, birthmarks, granulation of the eye-lids, etc. Other more difficult medical applications have required more time in order that their results should be sure and definitive. Thus good results have been obtained in treatment of arthritic and neurotic cases. During the war radium therapy was used in treating infected wounds and sores whose healing remained arrested.

For Fighting Cancer.

"But the most important result consists in the constantly increasing number of deep cancers treated by this method. This particularly difficult application has only developed slowly, but it now is certain that radium offers to us a powerful means for fighting cancer."

"Special institutions had been founded in America and England to centralize the application of radium therapy. In France we have no such institution. During the war I was led to instal at the radium institute a service of emanations for military hospitals to assure treatment of soldiers. This service, established several years ago, has continued to function even after the war, because it has been recognized as indispensable. Little by little it has been transformed into a section of radium therapy, under the direction of Professor Regaud. It is hoped that soon we shall have in France a service of radium therapy worthy of our country and its capital. The value of central service is particularly great, in that they alone permit the collection and centralization of sufficient records. By this means a sufficient number of observations can be made and classified to permit the study of vitally important problems like the cure of cancer."

e tulle edged with ruches of the ny material. A white gardenia is placed at the centre of the frills where its waxy petals lean against the fair skin of the bride.

White gardenias encircle the tresses of the bride, and above these blossoms a veil of white tulle is formally draped so that the face of the bride is covered. The bride's hands are partly hidden by white silk mitts, for in Victorian days they took the place of gloves. Another picturesque touch may be given to this creation by the carrying of a very formal bouquet edged with a very formal frill.

The gown, originated on Russian lines, gives a very different silhouette to the figure. It is made of white satin and follows the lines of the figure rather closely. Great richness, however, is given to this creation by the pearl embroidery. This is disposed in several panels which weight the sides, front and back. Similar embroidery also adorns the corsage, which is designed with very short sleeves. The neckline is interesting despite its lack of decoration.

A pearl crown wrought in Russian shape is prettily poised on the head, and from underneath falls a full length veil of thread lace. This, too, shows touches of ornament, for it is embroidered around the edges with pearls.

Long white kid gloves are worn with this gown, the wrinkly effect being quite decorative. Such a model, with all its essential accessories, is especially suited to the tall brunette.

The blonde will, I think, favor the bridal gown that is modelled along the beautiful lines of the mediaeval age. For this creation I have chosen silver cloth, as its shimmering folds lend themselves well to its fashioning. The long sleeves, the slender corselet-like bodice, and the diminishing train seem to accentuate the grace and the height of the wearer.

Around the low waistline is a broad girdle of pearls that matches the dainty edging of the gown. The head is draped with white tulle, which is also swathed about the lower part of the face. In the back the tulle forms a flowing train. A distinctive touch is seen in the two pieces of tulle that look like braids. These are enriched with pearls that are twisted among their folds, and as they hang down the front they add to the interest of the plain corsage.

The bride who wears this gown should carry a single spray of calla lilies, as this flower is more in keeping with the character of the dress than a formal bouquet or one from which great trails of smilax depend.

Of course, if you should copy any of these models you might vary the details in their making to suit your particular needs. The model just described might be developed in a heavy satin, if you preferred, and if you did not wish such a lavish girdle you might have it made of a heavy cord, or even pleated satin, which could be finished with some handsome fringe.

The Russian model, too, might be fashioned with less ornate embroidery should your wedding be arranged in simple style. But for the outstanding social affair the elaborate wedding gown is imperative.

For a Marrying Widow

The fourth gown that is illustrated is originated especially for the woman who goes adventuring for the second time in the realm of matrimony. It is evolved from chiffon in a delicate shade of gray. The trimming is achieved by the use of binds of gray satin.

The skirt is most attractively draped so that the soft folds of the chiffon gently envelop the limbs. A swaying train lends dignity to this model and permits an artistic display of the satin bind trimming.

The corsage is built over flesh-colored satin, which is edged with fine cream lace at the top. The rounded neckline reveals a panel opening in the front which affords room for the insertion of a small piece of the satin bind trimming.

The sleeves, with their wide bell-shaped cuffs, also lend themselves well to the display of this effective trimming. Gray gloves are essential for this creation, but a pleasing dash of color is introduced by the small cluster of orchids that the bride carries with her.

The hat of draped gray tulle is finished with a flare of Paradise that is of the same soft gray tone as the dress. Gray silk hose and slippers that show the approved cut complete this delectable costume for the woman who would enter the bonds of matrimony once again.

Other flowers in pale violet or heliotrope shades might be substituted instead of the orchids, for the matter of flowers is usually decided by the personal taste of the individual. There are many blossoms equally beautiful, from the butterfly-petalled sweet pea to the modest violet or fragrant heliotrope.

Satin Patterned in Self-Color Is This Gown of Gray Chiffon for the Bride Who Is Taking Her Second Chance at the Game.

A Little Round Bouquet of Gardenias and a Pair of Lace Mitts Add to the Picturesqueness of This Demure Bridal Frock.

The Fashion Forecast

Flowers and fruits in great numbers will be used on the dresses for May and June as lavishly as on the new hats.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE MEETING

MISS M. O'CONNELL, OF TORONTO, GAVE AN ADDRESS.

The Catholic Women's League held their monthly meeting at St. Alphonsus Lyceum on Sunday afternoon, with Mrs. James V. Gallivan, president of the society, in the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read, and encouraging reports received from Mrs. G. H. Popham, Mrs. V. J. McElderry, Mrs. Legendre and Miss M. A. O'Connell showing some good work done since the last monthly meeting. A vote of thanks was tendered by the meeting to Rev. Monsignor McColl, who has placed his hall in East City at the disposal of the League, and thanks was tendered also to Mr. J. O. LaPlante for his help to the ladies of the several committees. Miss Marguerite E. O'Connell, M.A., of Toronto Collegiate, was the speaker of the afternoon, and her address was a decided treat for the large audience assembled to hear her. Miss O'Connell spoke on a vitally interesting topic of the present day, her remark, "This is the day of the layman's mission," being the keynote of the entire discourse. The manifold help which woman can bring to this mission were dwelt on very convincingly by the speaker, who has a thorough knowledge and grasp of the subject. The different aids to this work, when undertaken by women zealous in the cause, were brought out in a masterly fashion, and the address was enriched by a number of apt quotations from the great masters of prose and fiction. The life of Christ, with its outstanding virtues of love of God and love of neighbour which it exemplified to the highest degree, is the shining example for all who would follow in the footsteps of the Divine Missionary. Altogether, this was a very scholarly and interesting talk, and a warm vote of thanks was tendered Miss O'Connell for her admirable exposition of a work very dear to the heart of the Catholic Women's League, to which Rev. Monsignor McColl added a few words of hearty appreciation. During the afternoon Miss Ernestine McManus sang an "Ave Maria" very sweetly, and Miss Lucille Doris rendered an instrumental solo. Little Miss Doris has an exceptionally fine touch for such a young performer, and her bright rendition of a difficult piano number was very creditable.

EASTER SERVICES IN PARK STREET

Easter services were celebrated by Park Street Baptist Sunday School in an open session, when an excellent programme was provided. The Sunday School orchestra, which played a number of fine selections, did much to make the occasion a success. Mr. Chapman rendered a very fine violin solo, a cornet solo, "The Rosary," by Mr. W. Forde, was much appreciated. Mr. Maurice Dunkley sang "Calvary" in excellent voice, and a beautiful duet, "Ashamed of Jesus," was given by Misses Wade and Goodwin. Rev. W. E. Morrow gave a short talk, and the session closed with a hymn and general prayer.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasoinally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken ,then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, the tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Do you know?

Agnes Ayres, who admits she ought to know, admits just as quickly that she does not know

And Jerome Patrick makes the same admission.

So does Ethel Chaffin, whose business it is, as designer at the Realart West Coast Studio, to gown women beautifully.

And so, too, do half a dozen of Miss Chaffin's assistants in her wardrobe departments.

Even Agnes Ayres' mother could not recall where nor how she stood when she was wedded!

Nor could Miss Ayres' colored maid, who had been married twice. "Ah guess ah stood somewha'," she grinned, "but ah was too fussed to know wha'!"

And that remark voiced the sentiments of the entire group. Those who had been married could not recall on which side they stood, and the rest—all of whom admitted they had attended a dozen or more wedding—were afraid to hazard a guess.

So the natural question is—do you know? Of course, you should! But do you.

Miss Ayres, recognized as one of the most beautiful women on the screen, has the leading role in William Desmond Taylor's current production for Realart, "The Furnace." In the course of the picture she is married at a fashionable high church wedding. Her gown is gorgeous, and it was during the taking of the "stills" of her in the bridal gown, with the groom beside her, that she made te interesting admission that she did not know on which side of the groom to stand

A dozen people were in the art gallery, and they argued the question pro and con for half an hour. Finally William D. Taylor was appealed to, and he gave the proper orders to the befuddled "bride and groom."

But the question still remains—

Do you—you who are married—recall how you stood at the ceremony?

And do you—you who are unmarried, but who have seen others wedded, remember, or were you too interested in studying beautiful bride to notice where the groom was, or whether he was there at all.

REV. DR. BETHUNE SUPERANNUATED

Served Fourteen Years on Staff of Agricultural College, Guelph

TORONTO, March 28.—Rev. Dr C. J. S. Bethune, an old servant of the Ontario Government, and for the past fourteen years professor of entomology, has been superannuated. The professor, who is in his 83rd year, was born in West Flamboro, near Dundas. Prior to going to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, he was headmaster of Trinity College School at Port Hope for 30 years. Dr. Bethune has always taken an active part in the work of the Church of England and for seven years was secretary of the general synod

Dr. Bethune was head boy at Upper Canada College in 1856, and that Col. G. T. Denison, the popular police magistrate of Toronto, was associated in the same form with him.

LOWER PRICES FALL, KNIT UNDERWEAR.

Indications Point to Reductions of About 50 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, March 28.—That prices for Fall underwear will be about 50 per cent. lower than the highest points reached during the 1920 heavy weight season, is now foreshadowed in those quotations already let out. The general market opening for Fall knitted underwear is scheduled for Monday next, and although standard New York State lines of ribbed goods are yet unpriced, still other figures released give a pretty good idea of how things are going. At least two southern manufacturers were offering ribbed merchandise at the rate of $9 and $10 a dozen, respectively, for 14-pound and 16-pound union suits. For separate shirts and drawers the same concerns were quoting $5 a dozen on 10-pound goods and $5.50 a dozen on 11-pound.

Fleeced underwear is more generally available to buyers than ribbed goods, and at prices which in some instances showed reductions of 40 to 50 per cent. from the 1920 openings. A synopsis of prices on certain well-known lines shows that men's fleeced union suits range from $10.50 to $13.50 a dozen, while the separate shirts and drawers, fleeced, range from $6.25 to $7.50. A well-known line of boys' fleeced union suits is based on $4.50 to $5.50 a dozen for size 20, rising 50 cents a dozen per size. Early buying of fleeced goods is urged in a statement made by an executive of one of the most prominent concerns in the market, who asserted that, even if the mills got under full headway at once, from 50 to 60 per cent. of a normal season's production would be lost because of the late start

CUT COMMUNICATION WITH DUBLIN

DUBLIN, March 28—(Canadian Press)—Armed men this morning simultaneously raided the post offices of the coast towns of Kingstown ,Blackrock, Dalkey, Killiney and Foxrock, suburbs of Dublin. The staffs were held up at the points of revolvers and telephones and other instruments were taken, the raiders giving receipts for them. The object of the raids was presumably to cut off communication with this city.

SPECIAL SERVICES ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

Holy week and Easter Day this year will long be recalled by the congregation. Owing to being without a Rector, many of the Lenten activities had to be suspended, and to make up for this a special effort was made through the whole of Holy Week when they were able to secure the services of Rev. Walter Cox, of Toronto, formerly Rector of Gananoque, Ont. Special services were held every evening with growing congregations each night, culminating with the church being well filled at all the services Easter Day. The festival opened with the celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a.m., at which service there was a record number of communicants. At 11 a.m. the church was well filled for morning prayer, Holy Communion and sermon. The church was beautifully decorated with plants and flowers. The musical service was well rendered by a full choir and showed the painstaking work of the organist and choir leader. The Easter anthem, "Christ our Passover, etc.," was sung in place of Venite. Before the sermon the choir sang the anthem, "King of Kings," which was rendered very acceptably. The sermon text was taken from Rev. i., 18: "I have the keys of death and of Hades" (R.V.), the preacher dealing with the theme from the standpoint of Easter Day. During the offertory Miss Green rendered the Holy City, which, with the beautiful organ accompaniment, was very pleasing.

In the afternoon the children of the Sunday School had a service all their own in the church, when they presented their results of the Lenten savings for missions. Mr. Cox gave them an address on "The Easter Lily" and what it symbolized.

Evening at 7 o'clock found another large congregation present, both anthem and solo being repeated, and the visiting clergyman gave a sermon on "Victory," taking the double text, 1st Cor. xv., 14: "If Christ be not risen then is our preaching vain and your faith in vain," and Cor. ii., 14: "But thanks be to God which always leadeth us in triumph in Christ and maketh manifest through us the Saviour of his knowledge in every place."

Altogether the services were of an inspiring character, and much enjoyed by all. Mr. Cox has promised to come next Sunday, when he will address the congregation on the "Challenge of the Resurection Life."

TWELVE HUNDRED A YEAR FOR COBOURG BANDMASTER

COBOURG, March 28.—Captain Hurt has been engaged as bandmaster of the Cobourg Citizens' Band, at a salary of $1,200 a year. This amount is to be guaranteed as follows: $500 from the Town Council, $500 by the Pavilion, and $200 to be provided by the Citizens' Band Committee. This action did not pass the Council without opposition. Reeve Corbett moved an amendment, which was defeated, that the Council hire no bandmaster, there is no need to employ this man; the proposition entails an expense that is uncalled for.

HOW PETERBOROUGH FARES IN COUNTY ROADSYSTEM

MAP
Showing the 1800 Miles of Roads in Ontario which have been designated Provincial Highways

Just study the above map! Those heavy lines do not represent railways, as one would imagine at first glance, but 1,800 miles of roads from Windsor to the Ottawa River, and from Niagara to the Severn River and Georgian Bay, with a network of connecting links practically serving every community of importance in Western Ontario. These roads are designated Provincial highways that will receive grants from both the Provincial and Federal Governments to create main vehicular thoroughfares worthy of the name; not narrow county roads, repaired in the main by dumping in their centre, under the statute labor principle, heaps of broken stone and leaving the rolling-in process to the passage of motor car, buggy or wagon, but broad highways of level and hardened surface, capable of carrying heavily ladened trucks, besides touring autos or lighter rigs and affording room for two vehicles to pass without one taking to the ditch, an unpleasant, not to say dangerous, means for avoiding collision.

That white area in above map, yclept (by courtesy maybe) Ontario—the area we mean—is not a desert as one might suppose from its appearance, but a portion of Central and Eastern Ontario, perhaps 150 x 100 miles in extent, as the crow flies each way, comprising that part of this fair Province, teeming with life, industry and expansion possibilities, but, so far as Provincial highways are concerned, is yet an arid desert of neglect, lying adjacent to a veritable oasis of government provision on its west.

Coming near home, to Peterborough City and County, with rich farms surrounding a busy industrial centre, to say nothing of electric power facilities and a beautiful waterway of scenic and transportation rivers, canals and lakes, all of which have been heralded by the Board of Trade as putting Peterborough—urban and rural—on the map for American tourists and capitalists, the present good roads scheme gives us but one Provincial highway, from Peterborough to Bewdley, Rice Lake, and thence to the Kingston Road, near Cobourg, a distance of some thirty miles, while Eastern Ontario itself is passed up with a mere sop of government patronage. As one correspondent to The Examiner put it, "Eastern Ontario should wake up and insist on a fair division of government favors." "Why," he says, "to look at the map it does not seem possible that Hamilton—the home of Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works—could have more highways running into and out of it, except it be one into Lake Ontario. Why this great disparity in treatment by the Legislature of Eastern Ontario compared with Western Ontario? Is it the result of a supineness on the part of Eastern members, or are we getting all we deserve? Of course, the Minister comes back at us with the reply to queries and requests in this connection with the reminder that it took Peterborough County fifteen years to appreciate goods roads, and now that their importance is beginning to be realized, Peterborough people must not expect to reap the benefit of such realization in full measure at once."

There is a good deal of common sense reason in the honorable gentleman's attitude. Peterborough County Councils have for years, either by procrastination or failure to grasp, like sister counties, the benefits underlying the Provincial highways' project, so far isolated this county from its progressive program. But now that an awakening has at last been effected, it is to be hoped that the present Councillors will put forth every effort to recover lost ground and secure for this county a fair share of the large Provincial and Federal grants toward such desirable highways now being or about to be distributed.

As regards the City Council, their position is outstandingly in favor of Provincial highways. They go further, and are co-operating with surrounding townships in the repair and maintenance of "good" suburban roads as links eventually with the main thoroughfares. Of the Joint Suburban Roads Commission Ald. Frank Whitehouse is the energetic Chairman, and he and his colleagues effected considerable road improvements around this city last year, for which the townships affected and the city pay fifty-fifty of the cost Mayor A. A. McIntyre, Aldermen Gordon and Whitehouse have vigorously pressed for and will continue to urge the talked-of Peterborough and Lindsay highway, in which they will no doubt have this community's endorsation. Then, Ald. G. N. Gordon, West Peterborough's representative in Commons, has promised to see what can be done along the line of constructing good roads along the Trent waterway route, and an effort will be made to bring pressure to bear on the Governments from Peterborough, its connecting municipalities, and also from Belleville and other lake front towns, to include Eastern Ontario more generously within the provisions of the Provincial Highways Act.

Such broad provincial and national highways as projected will constitute the consummation of a long and ever-growing need for new avenues of transportation, of which so immense a country like Canada can hardly have to many. The motorization of vehicles has inaugurated a forward movement in travel, for pleasure or trade, which will quicken this country's development and aid in bringing its yet untouched resources to market. Both agrarian and urban communities will by good highways be benefited—their interests fostered and enhanced. Districts as yet untouched and probably never to be touched by railways, will be linked together, hamlets and villages will spring up where now thought impossible; while quicker and readier access to each other's products is assured to rural and town municipalities alike in that system of well-constructed and efficiently maintained thoroughfares embodied in the Provincial highways scheme. But acquiescence and co-operation must come from municipalities themselves to reap such advantages. Let Peterborough County rise to the occasion and look at the proposition with the same eyes as have other far-seeing counties.

A farmer read of The Examiner writes pretty warmly on this subject—the foregoing quotations are from his pen—and he wants to know "why Peterborough's Board of Trade does not get busy in aid of the county as well as the city. They talk about the Trent Canal bringing tourists to this district; why, good roads would carry ten visitors to one coming by the canal." Wake up, is his concluding admonition.

In examining the above map, one sees that Peterborough's neighboring competitive towns—for industrial and tourist expansion—Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton and Belleville, are on the direct good roads route from and to the West, and this community cannot afford to stand denied so potential an influence for progress and travel preferment as Provincial highways offer. Then Lake Simcoe and Toronto (and incidentally Buffalo and Detroit) are connected in the plan, and this community should leave no stone unturned to secure, at the very least, a good road right-of-way from Toronto through Peterborough to the Kawartha Lakes, Trent Valley points, Trenton and Belleville, followed by the desired network of branches as time goes one. That one annex with Bewdley falls far short of this district's requirements.

RANGERS READY FOR FINAL ROUND OF SCOTTISH CUP

DEFEATED ALBION ROVERS IN SEMI-FINALS BY 4 TO 1—PARTICK AND HEARTS TIE—MANCHESTER CITY DOWN LEADERS OF FIRST DIVISION—DAY OF SURPRISES.

Chief interest ni the soccer world Saturday was centred round the semi-final ties for the Scottish Cup. As was expected, Rangers downed Albion Rovers at Celtic Park and the score was 4 to 1. The other game, between Hearts and Partick Thistle, ended in a tie, neither team being able to bulge the net. The game will be replayed during the week, but it looks as if the Rangers are going to pull down the cup. The trophy has not rested in Ibrox Park since the season of 1902-3.

Manchester City Won.

The English League games were full of surprises Saturday, but the biggest was the defeat of Burnley by Manchester City. The Hyde Road team whitewashed the league leaders to the tune of 3 goals to 0. The Arsenal were badly trimmed by the "Blades" on their own ground at Avenal Road. The United just popped in six goals to the two scored by the "Gunners." It was a visiting team's day in both the first and second divisions. The visiting teams in these two divisions got away with the full two points. The "Villans" trimmed Middlesboro on their own mud heap by 4 to 1. The "Spurs" accounted for the mighty Sunderland at Roke Park by 1 goal, while Preston North End shut out West Bromwich Albion, 3 to 0.

Birmingham Defeated.

It was the same tale in the second division, and teams that were fully expected to win had to bow to defeat. Birmingham, the leaders, were badly beaten by Barnsley, who are only third from the bottom of the table. Cardiff City and Blackpool, who were in the running for the honors, also went down before Port Vale and Hull City respectively. Bristol City jumped to second place by virtue of their victory over Leeds United at Eiland Road. The tailenders, Coventry City, also pulled a surprise by downing Bury and forcing themselves out of the cellar position.

All but one of the third division games went according to form. The exception was the victory of Reading over Merthyr Town.

Celtic droped another two points in the Scottish league, when they went under to Kilmarnock by 3 goals to 2. Hibernians ewre the top scorers in the league, netting the ball on no less than four occasions. The following are the scores:

TORONTO, March 28. (Canadian Press.) — While the Allan Cup comes east, the Abbott Cup, emblematic of the highest honours in junior hockey, goes west, in the possession of the Winnipeg Falcons.

Falling two goals short of the Falcons' majority secured Thursday night, Stratford led at full time 7 to 2 and only marvellous work in goal by Comfort of the Falcons, on Saturday night, prevented the cup from remaining in the east. Thus Falcons win the round by 11 to 9.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND.

SENSATIONAL PICTURE AT THE GRAND TONIGHT

Louis Joseph Vance's "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," the most powerful of J. Parker Read, Jr.'s Louise Glaum productions released by W. W. Hodkinson, which comes to the Grand Theatre, beginning to-day, is noteworthy among other things for its remarkable settings that even when void of characters in the story are riotous in color and action

Much of the action takes place in Soho, the French quarter of London, the Cafe Mignon in the picture being typical of the crudely-appointed coffee shops where visitors from across the channel are wont to gather, some to partake of their native dishes and others to feast their eyes upon some poor but beautiful damsel, without whom no Soho inn can be popular or profitable. Sonia (Louise Glaum), who knows nothing of her parentage or past save that Mme. Therese, owner of the cafe, has reared her, is the attraction for the curious Frenchmen.

Then the train of powerful incidents in "The Lone Wolf's Daughter" shifts to The Red Moon, ostensibly a low grade eating house in Limehouse, the heart of London's underworld, but in reality the rendevous of the most desperate band of murderers and plunderers ever assembled to wage battle on law and order. Here Prince Victor (Edwin Stevens), known as "the Emperor," away from his gorgeous estate, wields his power, with all his heartless hirelings pleading for a chance to aid in his scheme to loot the United Kingdom of its wealth and become its dictator.

"The Lone Wolf's Daughter," a sequel to "The Lone Wolf" and "False Faces," was produced under the personal supervision of J. Parker Read, Jr.

JOHN E. KELLERD COMING TO THE GRAND.

John E. Kellerd ,the eminent English actor, who will open a two days engagement on Friday, April 1, at the Grand Theatre, in Hamlet, has surrounded himself for the present tour with a company of unusual strength, including as it does a number of English actors and actresses of such established reputation, as Isabel Merson, who was formerly leading woman with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, and who appeared as Portia, Lady Macbeth and in other leading Shakespearean roles for several seasons during his London engagements, as well as on tour. Another actress of note in the cast is Miss Eva McRoberts, who was the original Teenie in "Bunty Pulls the Strings," when it was first produced at the Haymarket Theatre in London ,and who also apepared in England with H. B. Irving as Effie, in "The Professor's Love Story," and finally came to this country in Moffat's London Co., in "Dont' Tell." Mr. Stuart Black, who is appearing in the leading heavy roles with Mr. Kellerd, was formerly with Edmond Tearle, and with Sir Johnston Forbes Robertson, appearing with the latter in the Stratford and Avon Festival, and is an actor of recognized ability. Mr. Frank Hollins, who is now playing the leading juvenile roles with Mr. Kellard, was for a number of years prominent in the support of Sir Johnston Forbes Robertson; he has also been with Mrs. Langtry and Ben Greet. The comedian of the Kellerd Co. is George Tawde, who has long enjoyed a reputation second to none on the London stage. As will be remembered he created the role of Rab in "Bunty Pulls the Strings," at the Haymarket Theatre. He was also the leading comedian in Sir Arthur Butt's London production of the musical success Pamela, and with Henry Grattan's Review, and came to this country with Moffatt's "Don't Tell." He was specially engaged by Mr. Kellerd for the present tour. The company numbers 30 people and carries elaborate productions.

The familiar phrase, "When you are in Rome, do as the Romans do," was not forgotten by director or cast of the big picture play, "The Furnace," which William Desmond Taylor recently completed for Realart. Only in this case the city was London, not Rome."

This play is an English one, concerning a London society man and his giddy young wife, who had been a musical comedy favorite before her marriage, and retained her musical comedy disposition and tastes after that interesting ceremony.

Director Taylor is an Englishman, and one who knows well the conventions of English social life. He selected this sensational novel of British life, from the pen of one of Britain's most popular writers, and then, in Hollywood, California, set about the task of producing a faithful picture of English life. Only English types were chosen for the cast, and English settings, representing famous London churches, streets and places of amusement, were erected at enormous cost of both money and pains. English fashions were used in costuming the English-looking members of the cast; English atmosphere was obtained by paying attention to every detail from English tea-service to English makes of motor cars. This last item, by the way, was no small one, yet Director Taylor insisted that such details were entirely too important to be overlooked. Little English mannerisms were worked into the bearing and gestures of the actors, English customs are faithfully portrayed.

Julia Crawford Ivers wrote the adaptation and the picture is interpreted by an all-star cast including Agnes Ayres, Jerome Patrick, Theodore Roberts, Helen Dunbar, Betty Francisco, Milton Sills, Fred Turner, Mayme Kelso Lucien Littlefield, Robert Bolder and others of note. This big photoplay comes to the Allen Theatre in this city to-day for a two day run. Don't miss it.

AT THE REGENT.

LAVISH COSTUMES A FEATURE OF LATEST WASHBURN PICTURE

"The Sins of St. Athony" is Adapted to Screen from Popular Story.

Fashion's latest decrees in smart feminine attire will be seen in the jazzical screen comedy, "The Sins of St. Anthony," which will be the attraction at the Regent Theatre for three days, commencing to-day.

Bryant Washburn, the featured player, has the role of a slovenly, bashful young scientist who is turned down by his far charmer on account of lack of pep. In a wild attempt to prove himself a "live wire," he makes the acquaintance of the giddy show girls in the current musical show success and his life thereafter is just girl, girls, girls. Until he meets the little dancer of the entourage, who not only makes a snappy, up-to-date youth out of him but wins his heart as well.

Charles Collins is the author of the story, which appeared originally in a popular magazine and was scenarized by Elmer Harris. Margaret Loomis is the leading woman, playing the part of the dancer. The picture is a Paramount-Artcraft.

ST. PAUL'S CHOIR.

The specal musical services for Easter in St. Paul's church, were unavoidably postponed until next Sabbath owing to the absence of a number of the members of the choir who were out of the city. Notwithstanding this, the depleted choir responded to all their numbers in a very praiseworthy manner, with fine organ support. In the morning Mrs. McKee Bingham rendered a beautiful Easter solo in excellent voice and effect; and in the evening Mrs. Wells gave another pleasing festal solo. The regular Easter music will be given next Sabbath ,with Mrs. McKee Bingham assisting.

A CORRECTION.

In a 'Voice of the People" letter printed in our Saturday issue, signed "Joseph Crowe," the final paragraph contains the sentence, "Just as the Dominion Government is buying C.N.R. bonds at thirty years are doing." This should read: "Just as the Dominion Government is selling C.N.R. bonds at thirty years are doing.'

SUNDAY SERVICES ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

THREE CELEBRATIONS OF THE HOLY COMMUNION.

A beautiful spring morning greeted the worshippers who early went forth to meet their newly risen Lord in His appointed way. Easter Day, the greatest festival in the calendar, was very happily observed in the old parish church of St. John's. There were three celebrations of the Holy Communion—7 and 8 (plain) and at 11 a.m. (sung), the attendance of communicants setting up a new record for the parish. Dr. Blagrave was assisted all day by the Rev. J. O'Connor Fenton, of Presqu'ile. At the 11 a.m. service Dr. Blagrave spoke of the immense influence the fact of the Resurrection exerts all over the world, and pointed out that after 2,000 years the Easter spirit had caused denominations that a few years ago seemed to ignore the festival, now regularly observed Easter. The great lesson of Easter came home with great force to those who had followed our blessed Lord through temptation and trial during the Lenten season and had joined the sad procession to Calvary. At the choral evensong at 7, the Rev. J. O'Connor Fenton preached an able and helpful sermon, taking as his text the 6th verse of the 2nd chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians. The church was crowded both morning and evening, and after thanking the choir for their splendid work, the vicar remarked that he was tired but happy. The Easter festival music was well rendered by the choristers, particularly in the Choral Eucharist. The anthems were Dr. Martin's "As it began to Dawn," and "Awake, Thou That Sleepest," by Dr. Hopkins. Mr. R. J. Devey was assisted at the organ by his son, Mr. Cyril H. Devey, home on a holiday from the Sussex, N.B., branch of the Union Bank of Canada. A beautifully impressive service was that of the children at 3 o'clock. The hearty singing was delightful, and the individual presentation at the altar rail by each child of the mite box was a very real feature of the service. The choir boys had a special feature of the Easter festival, for Mr. H. Long presented each boy, sixteen in all, with a splendidly bound prayer-book for faithful attendance and good behaviour. The boys also wore small carnation sprays in memory of Master Barlee, a former choir boy, who was drowned many years ago. The altar and sacraium were decorated with many beautiful flowers, the gifts of friends of those who have gone before.

CANADA STEAMSHIPS MAY REDUCE WAGES

TORONTO, March 26.—That the Canada Steamships Company contemplate making a general cut in its wage lists was intimated here by the resident manager, Percy Grant. Mr. Grant stated, however that the company has not yet fixed a scale for all ratings of its employees.

'The rumor that the company is putting a thirty per cent. cut in wages into effect has no basis in fact," said Mr. Grant.

He could not say whether there had been any reduction or not so far as the captains and engineers were concerned.

"I do know, however," he added, "that the company headquarters at Montreal feel that a general reduction in wages is in order, although what this reduction will be has not yet been definitely decided."

LOCAL TEACHER SPEAKS ON THE COMING SCHOOL

ADDRESSES ONTARIO EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION ON "THE SCHOOLS OF TO-MORROW," IN TORONTO.

HOLDS UNIQUE HONOR

The Ontario Educational Association, which is holding its sixtieth annual meeting in Toronto this week, was addressed this afternoon by the president of the public school section, Miss Mina Ross, of the Queen Alexandra teaching staff, Peterboro. Miss Ross holds the unique position of being the second woman to be chosen as president of this, the largest section of the O.E.A. Her address: "The Schools of To-morrow," summarized, is as follows:

What share shall the rank and file of teachers have in this movement? Its ultimate success will depend upon them. What we are all striving for is a teaching that shall give more play to the individuality of the teachers and shall allow them to encourage the natural talents of the child. It is true there must be a system of some sort and the difficult problem is how to keep some measure of freedom within the system. The restrictions imposed by a prescribed course of study are deadening alike to teacher and pupil The work of the teachers would be ten-fold more interesting if their own individuality were allowed to count.

Teachers must never cease to be students. They must be conversant with the most progressive ideas in education. Each teacher should be an authority in her own work. The schools of to-morrow must be controlled by teachers who show from time to time as the years of experience pass that they have kept up with the march of educational progress, both theoretically and practically. It is likely that certificates to teach will be given for a short period of years only. Teachers will have to show a continued fitness to teach by taking courses of reading and study. A live teacher makes a live school. I should be loathe to think that these courses should always have to be taken in vacation time, when energy and strength are at a low ebb. The forty years experience required by the present Superannuation Act before a teacher can obtain full benefits of the annuity does not seem to allow any time to be taken off for the pursuance of studies, for travel or for observation of work and methods followed in places other than ones own, make the period thirty years instead of forty and let the extra ten years be spent from time to time in change of scene and environment and in study. It will work a revolution in the status of the teaching profession among other professions and will make teachers of experience sought after instead of them finding it difficult to get desirable positions at salaries which will give them the maximum amount of superannuation allowance.

Teachers must take a greater interest in child study—as to ways and means which will be most effective in developing their inherent tendencies. They must take more interest in the people of the community and

IMPROVEMENT IN BUYING SLOWLY ASSERTS ITSELF

More encouraging reports regarding business conditions throughout the Dominion continue to be received by Dun's Review from branch offices in the principal cities. The weather in many sections has favored retail demand for seasonable commodities, and sales of Easter merchandize have been well up to expectations at many points. The leading wholesale centres have been visited by numerous buyers, some of whom have operated with considerable liberality, and with a substantial volume of orders received by mail, many houses are busy making shipments of spring goods. Collections show improvements, and money, although still very firm, is in more liberal supply.

Weather conditions have stimulated retail trade at Montreal, and with wholesalers reporting the receipt of a satisfactory volume of spring orders, sentiment is cheerful. Collections hold up well. Easter trade in retail lines has been fairly satisfactory at Quebec, and the tendency in wholesale lines is toward improvement. Collections are still a little slow. Retail distribution continues to improve in Toronto, and trade in Easter specialties has been well up to the average. Wholesale business remains somewhat slow in some departments, but industrial activity is gradually increasing and returning confidence is reflected in more liberal buying by retailers of drygoods, furnishings, clothing, footwear and many other staples. Collections, except from the northwest, are fairly prompt.

The business outlook in the far west and northwest continues to brighten. Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina, Calgary and other centres reporting that stocks have been well reduced and that retailers, while still very cautious in their operations, owing to the unsettled price situation, are showing an increasing disposition to anticipate requirements. Collections continue slow.

CUSTOMS REVENUE DEPARTMENT TAKES OVER INLAND REVENUE ON FIRST OF APRIL.

INFORMATION MEAGRE

A consolidation of the Inland and Customs Revenue Departments, now located in separate quarters in the Customs Building, will take place on April 1.

Robert Hall, in charge of the Customs Department, has been notified that the Inland Revenue Department is to be taken over by him on April 1. Books and records will be taken over, and the Department of Public Works, at present in offices on Water Street, will be quartered in the former Inland Revenue office on the second floor of the Customs Building, if the offices are not required by the Customs Department. Other than the official notification of the change, Mr. Hall has no further information.

Changes had been mooted in the past, but the announced consolidation had come suddenly, he declared. Mr. Hall said an inspector was expected to effect the consolidation of the two departments, and in a week more information would likely be available.

"I do not know much about it," replied W. H. Buller, who is in charge of the Inland Revenue Department. "We have received no information here yet."

TRAPPERS WORKING EARLY THIS YEAR

SEASON IS SEVERAL WEEKS AHEAD OF THE AVERAGE—SOME PELTS HAVE ALREADY BEEN BOUGHT.

Reports from the trapping grounds of this district indicate a fairly large catch of muskrats. Some of the first pelts have already reached the city, but the bulk of the harvest will not be turned in until the second week in April according to the expectations of fur buyers. The trapping season is several weeks ahead of normal this spring. Usually the trappers do not quit the marshes until mid-April. They have until the 20th of the month to work and dispose of their pelts. Local prices are still quoted at $1.50, but some skins bring a litle better than that figure.

HOME AND SCHOOL MUST CO-OPERATE

SO SAYS PRESIDENT M'CREADY IN OPENING CONVENTION.

TORONTO, March 29.—(Canadian Press).—The importance of leadership from teachers and the value of the home and school or similar organizations in connection with the High Schools were two points specially emphasized to-day by President McCready in opening the addresses to the second annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations. Amplifying his chief point, Mr. McCready said: "Our best hope for getting ahead is in leadership from the enterprising teachers of vision who cannot do the best work for the communities in which they are placed, unless they have the co-operation of the parents and the home. To get this, there is no better medium than a Home and School Association or a kindred association."

LEGISLATURE MAY WORK INTENSIVELY

RE-OPENED THIS AFTERNOON AFTER THE EASTER RECESS.

TORONTO, March 29.—(Canadian Press). — When the Ontario Legislature resumed this afternoon, following the Easter recess, Nelson Parliament was sufficiently recovered to take his place in the Speaker's chair. Important business is on the programme for this afternoon, and it is expected that the Legislature will from now on hold intensive sessions in order to quickly dispose of the work in order to complete as early as possible.

EMBARGO WILL BE LIFTED, BELIEVES MANNING DOHERTY

RETURNING TO CANADA—SAYS 75 PER CENT. OF BRITISH FAVOR LIFTING IT.

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 29. — (Canadian Press.)—"A large section of the British Cabinet and more than 75 per cent. of the British people are in favour of raising the embargo on Canadian cattle," said Hon. Manning Doherty, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, this morning, on his arrival in Canada from England. He said that the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the matter seemed to him to be a satisfactory arrangement and he and his colleagues would do everything they could to support the Federal government in its representations to this Commission. He anticipated the embargo being lifted before July 1. Mr. Doherty said he was very kindly received in England.

MANAGEMENT OF ROADS AT FAULT

CHICAGA, March 29. — (Canadian Press.) — The root of the railway difficulty in the United States is not in national agreements but in the inadequacies of management, declared W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist of the railroad labor organizations, in presenting the railroad labor exhibits before the United States railroad board to-day.

MANY BODIES IN RUINS

CHICAGO, March 29.—(Canadian Press).—An explosion which wrecked a factory building on the south-west side caused five known deaths and injuries to several scores of other persons, according to reports received at the coroner's office here. Of the building where the blast originated, there was left only a pile of broken timbers and plaster. City police and firemen stated they could see bodies in the ruins. The cause of the explosion was not make known by the first reports.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Although overnight advices, especially as to industrial conditions, were more reassuring, leading shares were under pronounced pressure in the early stages of to-day's stock market. Motors, oils, steels, equipments, and tobaccos were the objects of renewed short selling. Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum, Crucible Steel, American Locomotive, American Woollen, and Consolidated Textile were lower by large fractions to 1 1-2 points. Motor Specialities, particularly the rubber tire division, also eased, and coppers and sugars reflected lack of support. Changes among rails were nominal.

Early reaction ranged from one to four points. The stocks most active were Houston Oil, Harvester, Transue and Williams, Central Leather preferred, Famous Players and Endicott Johnson. Before noon there was a spirited rally in which many losses were cancelled. The leaders in the recovery included included Atlantic Gulf, Crucible, Mexican Petroleum, American Woollen, General Asphalt and May department stores, all rising one to two points over yesterday's final prices. Rails were the only issues to hold back, being only ocasionally quoted. Enlarged offerings of call money at 6 1-2 per cent. were reported.

The announcement that the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., is to increase its dividend rate from 8 to 9 per cent stimulated bullish enthusiasm at midday. American Telephone rose 6 points and 6 per cent. bonds advanced 3 points. Other utilities gained from 1 to 3 points, and rails, especially the cheaper issues, also became active at 1 to 2 points gain.

American Telephone increased its gain to almost eight points later.

Advances elsewhere were fairly well maintained, investment rails sharing in the rise. The closing was strong.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, March 29.—(Canadian Press).—Transactions on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with the exception of those in Victory Bonds, were light and generally uninteresting, prices in the main being practically unchanged from those registered in the session prior to the Easter recess. Abitibi was the only stock to record a substantial price fluctuation, declining 2 5-8 to 39½. This issue was fairly active and no support was forthcoming. C.P.R. lost almost a point at 129 1-8, while Brazilian was slightly weaker. Steel of Canada continued to sag at 59 3-4, while Riordon lost a fraction at 109 7-8. Victory Bonds were quite active.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 29.—(Canadian Press). — Apprehension that freezing weather had done considerable damage to the new crop led to material upturns to-day in the price of wheat. A leading expert, however, declared that unless the roots were injured, no more harm would result than from running a mower over a lawn. Opening prices, which ranged from ½ to 2½ higher, were succeeded by further gains and then by some re-actions.

Corn sympathized with the strength in wheat. After opening ¼ to 7-8 higher, the market eased off a little and then hardened again. Oats were firmer with other cereals, starting unchanged to ½ higher and continuing to average above yesterday's finish. Weakness in the hog market operated as a drag on provisions.

Later, the corn market declined in the absence of any urgent buying. The close was easy, with May 63 5-8 to 63 5-8 to 3-4.

The difficulty of financing new export business was referred to, and speculators were active sellers on upturns in the wheat market. As a result, most of the advances failed to hold. The close was unsettled, with May 1.43 to 1.43¼, and July 1.26 to 1.26¼.

FOREIGN EXCANGE.

NEW YORK, March 29.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange steady; demand, 3.91 5-8. Canadian dollars, 11 9-16 per cent. discount.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, March 29.—(Canadian Press).—Nothing of interest developed during this morning's stock exchange and the close was devoid of excitement. Brazilian, which did not appear until later, remained unchanged, while Brompton closed at its opening figure. National Breweries was quiet throughout the morning at 38 1-8, as was also Riordon at 110. Other issues did not change.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, March 29 Canadian Press).—Receipts light and trade brisk. Heavy beef steers, $10 to $10.50; butcher steers, choice, $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $12 to $14.50; lambs, $13 to $15; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $15 to $15.25.

YOUNG GIRL WOULD MARRY FOR $1,000.

Needs Money For Vitally Important Operation on Mother.

TRENTON, N. J., March 29. — Needing $1000 to defray the cost of a vitally important operation on her mother, Dorothy Miller, a 16-year-old Trenton girl, offers to marry any refined educated white man who will furnish her with that sum.

She recently rejected the Philadelphia young man whom she had wired that he would be acceptable.

This suitor, whose name the girl withheld, called on her, but the interview was short.

"He was too tough," she said, "and I turned him down. He was impossible."

The young man told her that he owned a garage and had an income of $600 a month.

Miss Miller later received a letter from a Spanish instructor but his expressions of love were so passionate and extravagant that she said she did not want to meet him.

Besides horses, cattle, sheep, etc., Germany must supply the Entente Powers with bees, rabbits and sheepdogs. The demand shows no disposition to accept dachshunds.

Miss Emma S. Vary, of Concord, Mass., is one of the very few war nurses to possess a Victory Medal with five battle clasps. She served with the A. E. F. during the world war, and four of the clasps were awarded for her serving in field hospitals which were under fire in an offensive area, and the fifth for serving in a defensive area.

GAME COST $4.10

Four Celestials occupied the prisoners' docket in Police Court today, as the result of the police breaking up an exciting game of fan tan in a Charlotte Street laundry shop early Sunday morning. Charlie Chew interpreted for the Orientals, who pleaded not guilty. Finally, at 1.30, after several lively skirmishes between Mr. O'Brien and the Magistrate, the Chinamen were convicted and fined $5, and $4.10 costs. G. F. Strickland prosecuted for the Crown.

The Motor Show Microbe

WHY IS A MOTOR SHOW?

That is a fair question, and demands a fair answer.

Sometimes a Motor Show is held for purely mercantile purposes.

But the Annual Peterborough Show is a different kind of an animal.

It is a get-together, co-operative effort in which the Red Cross Society, the Automobile Dealers, the Health Association, and Hundreds of Citizens unite for the purpose of securing funds to assist in the work of the Health Association.

The revenue all goes to that purpose.

There is no institution in the city that is more deserving.

Scores of people who have been given a chance to find their way back to health will tell you that.

And as most of the funds of the organisation are secured from the Motor Show, it is apparent that the Show must be made a success this year if the good work is to be continued.

YOU CAN HELP by Boosting the Motor Show Everywhere.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

OMEMEE GIRL WINS STERLING SILVER MEDAL

ONE OF PRIZES FOR BEST ESSAYS ON FIRE PREVENTION AWARDED BY ONTARIO LEAGUE.

MISS R. M. COURTNEY

OMEMEE, March 29.—Georeg F. Lewis, Deputy Fire Marshal, of Ontario, has notified the principal of the Omemee High School, that one of his students, Miss Rhea M. Courtney was successful in winning one of the sterling silver medals given as prizes by the Ontario Fire Prevention League, for the seven best essays written by high school students in the province of Ontario on the subject of "Prevention of Fire in Home and Factory." This award has been made after the three judges, Mr Andrew Hewitt, president of the Ontario Fire Prevention League, Mr. W. H. Shapley, president of the Dominion Fire Protection Association, and Mr. J. B. Laidlaw, president of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, had carefully passed judgment on a large number of compositions submitted by the various high schools.

"You and your staff are to be congratulated," the Fire Marshal writes, "on the leadership displayed in interesting your students in such a thorough and practical manner on the important work of fire prevention. Miss Courtney is to be complimented on the excellence, breadth and conception with which she has treated this important patriotic subject. I sincerely hope that this will be an incentive for her to take an active leadership in the future in this movement for the general welfare of the community at large, thereby reducing the fire waste which is gradually but none the less effectively impoverishing our country.

"I am enclosing therewith the medal with Miss Courtney's name engraved thereon.

"I would suggest, if it meets with your approval, that the presentation be made either at one of your school functions or arrange to make the presentation at some other affair, as I believe some ceremony or formal exercise will be warranted on an occasion such as this. I am returning the essay and would also suggest that it should be printed in your local newspaper accompanied if possible with a photograph of the prize winner. Kindly send me a copy of the newspaper containing an account of the presentation."

THE ESSAY.

Following is the successful composition on Fire Protection written by Miss Rhea Courtney:

The aim of the Ontario Fire Protection League is to co-operate with the Provincial Government and the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office, for the purpose of promoting and improving methods of Fire Prevention and Fire Protection, to assist in securing proper safeguards against loss of life and property by fire, and especially to educate the young, that it is a patriotic duty to prevent fires.

Throughout North America Oct. 9th has been adopted as Fire Prevention day. This affords everybody an opportunity to help in the great clean up campaign. It was Oct. 9th, 1871, that Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over the lamp and started the greatest fire that Chicago has ever known. According to a new law passed Oct. 6th, 1919, negligence became a personal liability.

Prevent Majority.

The majority of fires might be prevented if proper precaution was

MAYOR FINISHES TERM AS THE "PUBLIC FOOTWIPER" OF TOWN

MARION, S.C., March 29. — A policeman's lot, sang the pirate chasers in the old operatic satire, "The Pirates of Penzance," is not "a 'appy one." But compared with the job of being Mayor of this town the "Bobbies" of the song were without a care, in the opinion of Palmer W. Johnson, just back to private life, after six years as "public footwiper," to use his own expression.

His retirement, Mr. Johnson announces joyfully, was by request. The folks indicated that they didn't want him as Mayor again by voting him down, and as editor of The Marion Star the ex-Mayor promptly shouted editorially, "Glory be."

"One," said Mr. Johnson, commenting on the ways of his fellow-townsmen during his six years in office and employing the plural tense sacred to editors and Kings, "called us a gentleman and was promptly slugged by one who said we were a bum.

"They heaped all the troubles of the universe upon our weary, bald pate—and then they lifted all our burdens from us by beatin' us at an election—glory be."

Here are some of the things the ex-Mayor noted during his six years as "the public complaint box and footwiper":

"We have settled land disputes, family disputes, dog disputes, and some unfair accounts.

"We have been insulted, disgusted, spat upon and imposed upon.

"We have locked up culprits for wrong-doing, and then envied them their place of limbo.

"We have been blamed for stopped sewers, blocked streets, heavenly showers, poor telephone service, and the present price of cotton.

"We have been cursed for cutting down trees, and threatened with death for allowing other trees to stand.

"We have been blacklisted for the bum work of one policeman, and ostracised for the sterling work of another.

"We have been called a liar until we almost believe it.

"We have become widely known as a grand rascal, an arch criminal, a desperado, a policy player, and a biggoted fool.

"We have been accused of attempting to give the Presbyterian Church title to the Town Hall.

"Mothers accused us of overrunning the town with dogs, and dog-owners blamed us with the deluge of babies.

"One bum wanted hogs in town. While another said there were too many hogs already.

"They cursed our name when mosquito time came.

"They yelled at us when the ditches ran over after having been filled to capacity by the good Lord.

"Thep blamed us for the many peculiarities of their neighbours' checkens, dog, manservant, maidservant, and mule.

"When the baby had whooping cough it was because we allowed the north wind to blow, and when it had colic it was because we allowed tho dope fiends to exhaust the supply of paregoric at the drug stores."

Easter Services.

Easter services at Christ Church were most largely attended, both morning and evening, and in the evening Rev. C. E. Clark preached a most forceful and helpful sermon from the Epistle of Jude, part of the 3rd verse: "Admonishing his people to earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered to the saints," his subject being, "Foes of Christianity."

The speaker classed some of the worst opposing foes of the church as (1) Mormonism, (2) Russellism, and (3) Christian Science. These, declared the speaker, are not believed in by the masses; they are short-lived, and though having a semblance of truth, are very destructive.

The musial part of the servie was The musical part of the service was rendered by the choir in an exceedingly able manner, and was joined in most heartily by the congregation.

G.T.R. DERAILMENT CAUSED BY STONE

TWO COACHES OF THE TORONTO TRAIN LAST NIGHT THROWN OFF TRACK AT CHARLOTTE STREET CROSSING.

A stone in the flange guard in the G.T.R. crossing on Charlotte street is believed to have been the cause of two coaches in the regular Toronto-Port Hope train as it was approaching the local station shortly after nine o'clock last night. On account of the heavy holiday traffic the train had an extra engine. Both of them passed over the switch immediately north of Charlotte street, and the front truck of the baggage coach also remained on the rails. The rear truck of the baggage car and the front truck of the first day coach dropped to the ties after scoring a deep furrow across the street.

The accident happened almost at the station platform, and thanks to the fact that the train was slowing up there were no serious results. The passengers in the first coach were jolted slightly as the wheels bumped over the ties, but no one was hurt, neither was there any apparent damage to the cars.

A new train was promptly made up, the express goods and baggage were transhipped occasioning a delay of about an hour. Fragments of a stone in the flange guard which is set on the inside of the rails at the street crossing were picked up by one of the bystanders. This was the only observable cause of the mishap, which in other circumstances might easily have had serious consequences.

FIRE BRIGADE HELD DANCE IN LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, March 29. — The Volunteer Fire Brigade held a very successful dance in the hall last evening. About 250 people were present. Owing to the very bad condition of the roads, very few from out of town were able to be present, but the crowd assembled seemed to have a very enjoyable time, and the dance was a success financially and socially. Music was provided by the Syncopated Four of Peterborough, and by Messrs. Miller and Lennox, of Lakefield, the latter looking after the square dancing. During the supper hour, an innovation in step dances was introduced by Messrs. Sullivan and McManus, which was very much appreciated. The patronesses were as follows: Mesdames A. W. Mackenzie, H. G. Fitzgerald, T. B. Marling, J. C. Smith, Wesley Sherin, J. Gibson, J. A. Strickland, Wm. Morrison.

Progressive euchre was enjoyed during the evening, the prizes being captured by Mrs. Braden Blewett, cut glass vase; Mr. Fred Moon, pipe and pouch of tobacco; Mrs. W. H. Stable, consolation prize of a toy fire engine.

THE CARE OF THE PARKS.

In the maintenance of the parks which are under control of the City Council, it is to be hoped that a niggardly policy will not be followed this summer. The principle of adopting the lowest tender, although generally followed, is not always safe. There have been instances where the tender was obviously so small as to render it a matter of great doubt as to whether or not the man submitting it could give proper attention to the work. Victoria Park, in particular, should be a beauty spot to which citizens should always be able to direct their visitors with pride. In the last couple of years it is unfortunately true that the park has not been as immaculate in its appearance as could be wished, and this year an effort should be made to bring it back to its former standard of neatness and beauty. The lawn especially needs more careful attention than has been given it in recent years, and satisfactory work cannot be expected unless there is sufficient remuneration to ensure that there shall be no neglect.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT FUND.

Although the situation in regard to unemployment has not materially improved, the special relief fund provided by the Dominion, Provincial and municipal authorities comes to and end on Thursday unless arrangements are made to extend the fund. When the relief was inaugurated it was hoped that the end of March would find the conditions sufficiently improved to allow of the fund being dropped, but, unfortunately, there is not much change in the situation. While work has been found for some of the unemployed, the calls on the relief work have not diminished as a result, for recently a number of families whose bread-winners have been without employment for months and who have been living on their savings until these have vanished, have been compelled to apply for assistance. These men have "carried on" independently of the fund as long as possible, but sheer necessity has finally driven them to take advantage of the offered assistance. The crisis has not yet passed, and the extension of the fund for two or three weeks may be necessary to meet the needs of the situation.

GETTING ON THE LISTS.

Mr. C. R. Widdifield, one of the local Revising Officers in connection with the referendum lists, announces that he will not accept any names for the lists unless personal application is made to him. Mr. J. F. Strickland, the other Revising Officer, will also abide by the ruling of Col. E. B. Biggar, the Chief Electoral Officer, so the point that has been under dispute is definitely settled so far as Peterborough is concerned, and the matter is now definitely up to the individual elector. Persons who have any doubt as to whether or not their names were on the last list should make sure by examining a copy of the lists used in the last Federal by-election, and if they find that their names were not on then, they can only secure a vote on the referendum by personally appearing before the Revising Officer this week. Mr. Widdifield is in charge of the lists from M to Z and Mr. Strickland from A to M, and both officials will be in their respective offices from 10 to 12 a.m. and from 2 to 5 p.m. each day this week. Electors who were not on the previous lists have then a fair chance to have their names added, and if they are without a vote when the referendum is taken next week, they cannot, not very well, lay the blame on any one's door but their own. Remember, nobody else can put you on the list; you will have to attend to the matter yourself.

LABOUR'S POSITION.

M. M. McBride, M.P.P., Labour member from Brantford expelled from the Independent Labour Party, retorts by declaring that that organization is on its way to the cemetery. However accurate that description may be, there are signs that the alliance between the United Farmers and Labour in the formation of the present Ontario Government is in a decidedly unstable condition. The Independent Labour Party is beginning to find out that promises made before an election have a habit of dropping out of sight afterwards. The Labour members of the Legislature have for the most part played politics by keeping subjects over which their Farmer allies are likely to differ with them out of the debates in the House, and controversial legislation has been kept in the background. In other words, many of the Labour members have apparently thought more of the interests of the Government than they have of those of the Labour forces whose candidates they were, and the Independent Labour Party is beginning to realize that fact and to demand action from their representatives. If their effort succeeds in projecting the eight-hour day controversy into Provincial politics, the situation will be decidedly unpleasant for both wings of the Government. So far, the two sections have got along amicably, mainly because the Labour group refrained from embarrassing their colleagues, but the introduction of the eight-hour day will be the beginning of the end so far as the alliance is concerned.

MONEY IN THE MAILS.

In St. Thomas recently a young man employed in the Post Office pleaded guilty to the charge of abstracting a small sum of money from a letter that passed through his hands in the performance of his duty. Offenses against the sanctity of the mails are highly regarded as of an exceptionally grave character, involving as they do the breach of an onerous obligation as well as the immediate crime itself. But in cases such as that laid against this particular offender, there is good and just reason to hold the carelessness of the public as in its measure responsible for delinquencies of this kind. Nothing is more common than to have envelopes posted containing what is evidently money, either notes or metal currency. Large sums are frequently sent through the post in this way, and it is plain that they offer a peculiarly alluring form of temptation to employees who are dishonestly inclined.

Dr. Lavell, who spoke to the Canadian Club on Monday night, laid stress on the fact that ninety per cent. of the inmates of Ontario prisons are there, not of deliberate intent, but as the victims of some sudden impulse acted upon without sufficient or, indeed, any consideration. If he is correct in this, and no one, probably, in Ontario equals him in experience and knowledge of crime and criminals, it is plain that remitting money through the mails, in a way that renders it easily recognizable but almost impossible to trace, exposes Post Office employees to a subtle form of temptation. Fortunately, very few give way to it, for the standard of conduct among Canadian civil servants is and always has been high. Still, unfortunately, direlictions of duty do occur, not without reproach to many people who have supreme faith in the inviolability of the postal service. But for the sake of the weaker vessels in the service, it would be well for the public, in all instances, to make use of the facilities for remitting money provided by the Post Office in various convenient forms. The few cents expended in buying a money order or a postal note is a safe and may be a profitable investment.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The weather man is just giving us a reminder that around these parts Summer does not begin in March.

European dancing masters are considering the elimination of the fox-trot and other American dances. Looks like a dull period for the jazz orchestras.

While Canadian labour forces are constantly endeavouring to decrease the working hours, it is significant that the Swiss Government, on account of the economic crisis, has found it necessary to authorize an extension of the hours in certain trades from 48 to 52.

Conditions in England, already none too good, will be infinitely worse if the coal miners stop work on Thursday as they threaten to do.

Fortunately, the hens are keeping right on with production. A falling market means nothing to them.

If the eight-hour day question is projected into the Legislature, the situation that will develop will give the Government many an anxious moment. And the Independent Labour Party seems determined to have it introduced.

Armies of Great Britain and France are restoring the sword as part of the equipment for their officers.

Good home made bread is the most palatable, wholesome and nourishing food in the world. It is far more economical than any other staple food. If people would eat less meat and other heavy foods they would feel better and help to keep down the cost of living. Bread made in the home with Royal Yeast Cakes is more nourishing and appetizing than any other. Nothing healthier for children and grown ups.

Scientists have discovered that yeast possesses remarkable curative powers due to its richness in vitamines—that by its use the blood is purified and enriched, and the resistive power of the body to disease greatly enhanced. Soak a cake of Royal Yeast for half an hour in a cup of luke-warm water with one teaspoon sugar. Then stir well and strain once or twice through muslin and drink the liquid. BETTER results will be obtained by allowing it to soak over night and drinking half an hour before breakfast. Repeat as often as desired. LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

A NEW BLOUSE—AND A LUNCHEON

Chapter 13

Leonard looked at me the next morning with a queer awkward expression on his face.

"Have you been crying, Noreen?" he asked kindly. "Your eyes look strange and swollen."

"Yes, I guess I have—it's nothing," I hurried to explain. "I tried to iron my good blue waist and burned a hole in the back." I felt foolish and decidedly like a baby, but I could not have him know the true cause of all my tears.

"That's a shame—but don't cry for anything like that," he consoled, getting up and putting his hand on my shoulder. I felt that he wanted to be even more affectionate, but our reserve had become so much a habit of late, it was difficult to break through. "I think I remember the waist," he went on. "Let me have a look at it and I'll try to get you another nearly like it."

"Thank you, dear," I said, but I almost wished he wouldn't be quite so nice about it.

"When are you going into New York again? Maybe you could get one you liked better than I," he suggested.

"I—I thought I might go today," I answered hesitatingly.

"Today?—all right, that's fine." He pulled out his wallet and slipped a $20 bill into my hand. "Think that'll cover it?" he said, leaning down and kissing me on the forehead.

In another minute the front door closed after him.

The $20 bill seemed to burn into the very flesh of my hand. Everything had the power to scorch and consume these days. Even one's thoughts were hot and searing.

Leonard's actions had nearly taken the impulse out of my planning. Still I had told him I expected to go to town and I could not very well back out now.

I substituted a good looking white silk waist for the demolished blue and caught the 10 o'clock train into New York City. The excitement of the spirit of adventure agitated me more than I cared to have it. I almost feared myself in these rash moods.

I did a little shopping, which took up the early hours. A new veil, some sewing materials, and then I hurried across Fifth Avenue to the little shop where I almost always bought my waists.

"Mrs. Allen, where are you bound for in such a hurry and looking so lovely this fine morning?" a masculine voice called over my shoulder, while a friendly hand caught me by the arm and held me back.

I turned and looked up into Alvah Fairchild's smiling blue eyes. I had hardly expected to see him at this early hour of the day, and the sudden meeting flustered me.

"You are not needing any false rouge with Nature's own at your command," he went on easily. His remark did not subdue my color and I tried to turn the conversation.

"I'm going to purchase a new waist and I'd value your taste and help in its selection," I said and was surprised at my own boldness.

"Gladly given, and thank you for the compliment," he beamed and his arm slipped through mine and guided me strongly across the Avenue.

His manner was very intimate, perhaps too much, but I did not fear it. On the contrary, I was quite enjoying the sensation.

Alvah Fairchild handled the waists with adroit fingers and displayed the bearing of one educated in the fine points of women's furbelows and finery. His taste, too, was exquisite and I found myself buying the waist of his selection.

"You are going to have lunch with me today?" he pleaded. I felt the power of his coaxing influence and I knew that I was not going to refuse him this time.

Tomorrow—The Shoe on the Other Foot.

DONT PAY A BIG PRICE FOR FOOD

The most expensive food is generally the poorest in real nutriment. Considering its high nutritive value, Shredded Wheat Biscuit is without doubt the cheapest food in the world today. It contains all the rich muscle-making elements in the whole wheat grain. The price was not pushed up on account of the war so we don't have to come down. Shredded Wheat contains more real nutriment than meat or eggs, and costs much less.

Two Biscuits served with hot milk make a warm, nourishing meal for the cold days. Delicious with sliced bananas or other fruits.

SPECIAL EASTER SERVICES NI THE OMEMEE CHURCHES

OMEMEE HIGH SCHOOL EXAMINATION RESULTS—VISITORS TO THE VILLAGE.

OMEMEE, March 29.—In the Methodist Church on Sunday morning a children's service was held. The church was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies and cut flowers, and the choir was arrayed in white. After the Scripture lesson, little Miss Eleanor Sherin gave a very suitable recitation, "The Heart of the Lily." Master Floyd Parsons also gave an Easter recitation. About twenty little girls dressed in white, and carrying pink and white carnations, marched slowly up around the pulpit, and as each passed they placed their flowers on the cross which had previously been erected, and afterwards sang the beautiful chorus, "Easter Chimes." The choir also rendered several numbers. Much credit is due to Miss Lila Parsons for the training of the children.

Evening Service.

The evening service was just as appropriate. Miss Rita Johnston sang a solo, "O Angel Fair," and Miss Marion Rea recited in a very pleasing manner, "The Master's Garden," while the organist played softly Mendelssohn's Consolation. Special music was given by the choir. The Women's Missionary Society held their annual thankoffering and occupied the centre pews in the chucrh. A special Easter sermon was delivered by tne pastor in keeping with the exercises.

BIG DANCE IN CAMPBELLFORD

CAMPBELLFORD, March 29. — The Easter Monday dance of the G.W.V.A. of Campbellford, held in the Opera House last night, was a splendid success.

The floor was in excellent condition, and the dance music was furnished by Blood's Orchestra of three pieces from Port Hope. The Opera House looked very pretty, decorated with Japanese lanterns and colored paper streamers, and the "moon" waltzes, with iridescent moonlight of every color, provided by a spot-light lantern, were special features of a splendid dance programme, which comprised twenty numbers.

The bad condition of the roads made the numbers of out-of-town guests fewer than would otherwise have been the case, but Campbellford itself was well represented at the affair.

The Patronesses.

The patronesses of the dance were: Mrs. Dr. Richardson, Mrs. G. Thompson, Mrs. George Dixon, Mrs. Dr. Haig, Mrs. G. W. Myers, Mrs. George O'Sullivan, Mrs. J. H. Linton and Mrs. B. P. Archer.

ROMANCE LAND IN INDUSTRY.

New $35,000,000 Oil Town in South Wales.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, March 24.—Renewed attention has just been called to the romantic story of the great industrial development in South Wales, a land of romance in industry, by the building of a new £7,000,000 "oil town" near Swansea with homes for a population of 1,500 workers.

The site of the new enterprise for the refining of oil brought there from the Persian gulf is Skewen, between Neath and Swansea, where vast oil refineries have been constructed.

There within a boundary wall 15 miles in circumference a great oil company has built a new town including stores, canteens, a post office and, in fact, almost every adjunct for the com ort and convenience of the workers and their families who are to inhabit the place.

The undertaking is described as among the largest and most ambitious ever known even in south Wales where the great advances in industry have yielded more fortunes than in any other part of the United Kingdom.

The town sprang into existence as if by a magician's wand on an arid waste, lying in a hollow basin surrounded by small hills. It is about 400 acres in extent and about five miles from Swansea. Towering tanks each capable of holding 1,000,000 gallons of oil now rear their heads above the village and at Swansea great docks and reservoirs have been constructed to receive the ships with their oil from the Persian fields and other oil-burning regions of the Near East. As received, the oil will be pumped thru pipes from Swansea through the new refining town and after refinement will be returned over the same route to Swansea for worldwide distribution.

This inaugurates an industry in South Wales which it is predicted will add new wealth to that already prosperous region.

Soldiers in the new German army are to be instructed in the principle of international law in time of peace and war, and the rights and duties of citizens.

Regulations for Taking the Vote on April 18

THE Parliament of Canada has recently passed a bill regulating the taking of the vote on the Referendum in Ontario on April 18. The points to remember are as follows:

1. Every British subject by birth or naturalization, man or woman, resident in the Dominion of Canada one year previous to February 1, 1921, and resident in the Province of Ontario for two months previous to same date, is entitled to vote, unless otherwise disqualified.
2. Voters' Lists used in the last provincial referendum are the lists to be used in this Referendum, subject to revision. Every voter in an urban polling division must be on the list, and will presumably be on the list only in the division in which he resides.
3. In incorporated cities and towns of 1,000 population or over, arrangements will be made for receiving applications from any who are not now on the list on March 29 to April 4 inclusive—except Sunday—when for six clear days officers will sit to receive such applications.
4. In rural polling divisions the voter must be either on the list or be put upon it as a resident and be vouched for as such by another resident.
5. Both affirmative and negative sides have the right to select scrutineers.
6. Women have the right to vote.

UNCLAIMED FORTUNES PROVE MYTHS.

Colorful Romance of Blake Millions and the Sheridan Estate in Public Eye.

CLAIMANTS LOSE.

LONDON.—That elusive unclaimed fortune, which has proved an irresistible lodestone to many claimants who believe they are rightful heirs thereto, will likely crop up once more in the public eye before long—The Blake Millions! In attempting to establish his claim to this property, at least one citizen of the United States has reduced himself to hopeless beggary and ended in a London poorhouse.

The "Blake millions," as they have been imagined by the many "heirs," actually amount to £250,000 or roughly one million and a quarter dollars. This money has been for upwards of a quarter of a century in the hands of the British National Debt Commissioners.

Its story is a colorful romance of special interest. It begins with the elopement, away back in 1880, of one Captain Robert Dudley Blake, son of a wealthy Northumbrian English baronet, with Helen Sheridan, a beautiful Irish girl, daughter of a Mayo peasant.

According to one account she was the manageress of the Tryawley Hotel in Castlebar; according to another she was dressmaker's apprentice in Dublin. She met and eventually eloped with Captain Robert Dudley Blake, son of Sir Francis Blake, second baronet of his line, and the head of a wealthy family of coalowners of Northumberland. The Blakes had Twisel Castle, in the country of Durham, and the estates of Tilmouth Park and Seghill in Northumberland.

The Irish Girl.

Captain Blake sent the Irish girl to school, and married her in 1831. He was disowned forthwith by his family, and shortly afterwards migrated with his bride to Ohio, where they established a millinery business. Some years later he inherited great wealth from his father and returned with his wife to England, where he rose to be a general in the army.

The Blakes' only child died in infancy and General Blake dying in 1860, left all his property to his wife, who, in September, 1876, died in London without leaving a will. Among her papers, however, various documents were found indicating some of her intentions as to the disposal of her property. Acting on these the Lords of the Treasury directed payment of about $93,000 in certain contemplated legacies, including $5,000 to the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, England's Grand Old Man. The Crown took possession of the estate and advertised for next of kin.

The Sheridan Estate.

Sheridan is a common Irish name, and it was not long before claimants began to appear. Seven bobbed up in 1877, but none could satisfy the Crown or the Courts that he was entitled to the property. Twissel Castle which formed part of the estate, was sold by the Crown to the branch of the Blake family represented by the present Sir Francis Blake, who since 1916, has sat in Parliament as Coalition, and who lives at Tilmouth Park, Cornhill-on-Tweed.

After law costs amounting to about $125,000, intending claimants to fortunes would do well to note this figure, had been defrayed, the balance of about a quarter of a million sterling or $1,250,000 was handed over to the Commissioners for the reduction of the National Debt.

Since that time many claimants have appeared on the scene, all claiming descent from one or other of Helen Sheridan's sisters, or from her cousins. Sheridans, Tooles, Doyles, and Brennans, they come in positive shoals. Two English claimants contended that Mrs. Helen Blake had no real right to the estate of Sir Francis Blake, third baronet, and that this portion of her property should come to them.

A pitiful story was that of the American claimant, Daniel Sheridan, who, when he was 70, in 1885, came to England, saying he was Helen Sheridan's cousin and a playfellow in her childhood. He left behind him in Quincy, Illinois, a farm of several hundred acres, some cattle and an oil well.

This old man lodged with a widow in Millbank for four years, exhausting his money and running up a long bill. The authorities rejected his claim and he finally was sent to the Lambeth workhouse. Somewhere about 1904 he took his discharge and vanished.

In 1892, certain Sheridans resident in Mayo employed Patrick Feeney, a schoolmaster of Marneen, Claremorris, to investigate the case. He held it proved that one Patrick Sheridan was a gardener in the employment of Philip Blake, of Brize House, near Claremorris; that in 1820 Capt. R. D. Blake came there on a visit and eloped with Helen, the gardener's daughter. This is not inconsistent with the Tyrawley Hotel story, but the Mayo Sheridans could never establish their case because the parish records of Balla do not go further back than 1820, and Helen Sheridan's birth or baptismal record cannot be found. If the Crown were satisfied of the relationship they would restore the money, in spite of the fact that it was handed over to the National Debt Commissioners so long ago

The new claimant to this much fought for fortune is Louis Northway, an Irishman in the fifties, a former member of the Metropolitan Police. He believes his mother, Marry Ann Northway, was a daughter of Priscilla Sheridan, younger sister of the beautiful Mayo girl who eloped with Captain Blake.

"It is a question of documentary evidence," he said when interviewed, "and so far as we have not been able to secure what is necessary, but I think with perseverance we may succeed."

HAND-IN-HAND WITH BUNCO GANG

Atlanta Solicitor Makes Serious Charges Against Officials.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 29.—Solicitor General John Boykin charges wholesale collusion or undue friendship of city officials with the "bunco gang" which has robbed Atlantans and persons from all parts of the country out of sums aggregating $1,000,000. Among those whom he charged with connivance with the bunco syndicate were City Clerk Walter Taylor, who, he said, had aided them to get a license for their base of operations.

Al Martin, Councilman, who, he said, was a warm friend of Floyd Woodward, leader of the gang, and who had been the recipient of a watch from him.

Aldine Chambers, member of the Board of Police Commissioners for years and leader of the Palmer forces in Georgia in his Presidential race. He was charged with helping get men out of prison who afterward became members of the gang. It will be remembered that it was Chambers who aided in getting von Rintelen, German agent, out of the Federal prison.

Lamar Poole, Chief of Detectives, who according to Boykin, winked at the operations of the gang, and whose men, it is claimed, warned the gang when raids were planned. On one occasion a sociable supper was arranged by the gang for the reception of the raiding officers.

John McClelland, now a member of the Police Commission, who, it is charged by Boykin, was supported by the "Sans Souci Club," of which the bunco men were the members, for the office of Solicitor of the City Criminal Court. It is stated that one man was brought out of Federal Prison and voted two days later.

James W. Maddox, former Chairman of the Police Board, was bitterly arraigned. Recently, when two police officers were convicted of the illegal possession of liquor which they had taken from a blind tiger, Maddox went on their appeal bond.

The gang is now broken up, and Boykin advised the people to keep it broken up, and first cleanse the police department.

CLARA HAMON FILM OPPOSED

FIGHT CENSORSHIP

ALBANY, March 29.— The appearance of Clara Smith Hamon, acquitted of murdering Jake L. Hamon in Oklahoma, as a movie actress, and State censorship of motion pictures were condemned here by members of the Executive Committee and officers of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League. The theatre owners, chiefly representing up-State cities, adopted the following resolution unanimously:

"This organization, being emphatically opposed to the exploitation of criminal sensationalism as illustrated in a proposal to film Clara Smith Hamon, takes advantage of the present meeting to protest against such exhibitions and pledges the full strength of its organized influence to prevent the appearance of such films on the screens of the theatres of New York State. In fulfillment of our earnest desire to protect our patrons, we respectfully warn the general public against investments in such unsavory productions, which necessarily invoke deserved condemnation and general disapproval."

The league completed plans for fighting the State censorship proposed in the Clayton bill, which has met the approval of Governor Miller, who has publicly declared that there is need for censorship.

After the meeting the League issued a statement saying in part:

'The motion picture exhibitors want clean pictures as much as anybody and have always advocated them, but they know that object can never be attained by the proposed bill which is not just, for equitable censorship of moving pictures, is an un-American as censorship of the press, and is an absolute insult to the intelligence and decency of millions of red-blooded American men and women who frequent our moving pictures to-day.

The proposed bill now threatening the existence of many picture houses would eventually impose a hardship on the motion picture-going public, who in the end must bear the additional taxation which the passage of the bill would involve. Our Executive Committee has been pledged the earnest and active co-operation of all the members of the Exhibitors' League in an intensive campaign to expose the sinister and selfish motives back of this measure. Despite the several traps cleverly laid for our association in Albany we do not intend to either walk deliberately into one or to help to catapult some of the reform agitators into $7,500 a year jobs as a reward for their trips to Capitol Hill."

CHARGED WITH HER HUSBAND'S DEATH IS ALLOWED BAIL.

Coroner Swears Out Warrant For Arrest After Inquest — Preliminary Hearing at Lachute.

MONTREAL, March 29.—The inquest into the death of Isaiah Edward Fletcher, who died at Brownsburg, after being wounded by a shot, fired from a shot gun alleged to have been fired in the hands of his wife, took place Thursday afternoon. Sarah Ann Wilson, wife of the victim was present. When the coroner's jury was not able to determine to what extent she was responsible for her husband's death, Dr. B. N. Wales, coroner for St. Andrew's district, swore out a warrant stating, 'I am informed and verily believe that at Brownsburg on the 15th day of March, 1921, Sarah Ann Wilson did kill and slay Isaiah Fletcher her husband.' Following the swearing of the warrant the woman was arraigned before Magistrate George Calder, and allowed her liberty on bail of $2,000, supplied by herself and George Richards.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was as follows: "The deceased, Isaiah Fletcher met his death as a result of a gun shot wound at the hands of his wife, at his home on Tuesday morning, March 15, but this jury cannot at present fix the degree of responsibility attaching to his said wife in that respect."

"I Have Done It."

George Alfred Richards who lives across the road from the Fletcher home in Brownsburg was the first witness called. He said: "On Tuesday morning, Mrs. Fletcher, wife of the deceased, came to my house and exclaimed, 'My God I have done it—I have shot the old man! I had to! I had to!' I rushed across to her house and found Fletcher lying flat on his face. He was saying, 'George, George, I am shot in the belly'. I turned him over on his back, examined him and discovered the wound at the pit of his stomach. The intestines were protruding. I asked him, 'Who did this?' He answered, 'the old woman shot me.' I said, 'Are you sure?' and he said, 'It is my fault, I told her to do it.' Then I left to summon some help and sent a messenger to the 'phone for a Lachute doctor."

Son's Testimony.

The son of the victim, Isaiah Edward Fletcher, Jr., the next witness said, "I was at work at the time and Mr. Arthur Gagon gave me a message to go home as soon as possible. I found my father lying on his back in the kitchen. I asked him if he knew me and he said, 'Yes'. The day before my mother showed evidence of having been crying. I heard him say to Mr. Calder. 'I am the aggressor and it was my fault."

In answer to a question put by one of the jurymen inquiring whether there had been trouble between his mother and father he stated it was only a few days previous when he said, "It is either my father or mother, sooner or later."

Harold William Butler, in charge of the First Aid Department of the Dominion Cartridge Company at Brownsburg said, "At 8:55 a.m., March 15, I received a call to proceed to the home of the deceased, where I was informed that a shooting had taken place. I was called to give first aid until the doctor arrived. I saw deceased lying on the floor supported by George Richards and James Mott, and saw his wounds were so serious that I was helpless to aid. I think everything for h is comfort was done. I asked deceased how the shooting occurred and he did not answer. The deceased's wife entered the room and remarked to the deceased that she was prepared to die with him. The deceased replied, "Don't be afraid, it was my fault. I aggravated you to do it." Dr. Drew arrived at 10:45 a.m. and took charge of the scene. I saw the gun behind the parlor door, with a discharged shell in the breach, and also saw two discharged wads on the kitchen floor."

Dr. John M. Drew, of Lachute, who attended the victim, said he had been called to the Fletcher home at Brownsburg to give aid. He had found Fletcher to be suffering from a severe wound in the abdomen, evidently inflicted by a shot gun shell. A large hole had been torn by the shot which apparently had been fired at close range. The victim had made no statement nor had witness seen Mrs. Fletcher.

Beware of Tender Gums

Unhealthy soil kills the best of wheat. Unhealthy gums kill the best of teeth. To keep the teeth sound, keep the gums well. Watch for tender and bleeding gums. This is a symptom of Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

Pyorrhea menaces the body as well as the teeth. Not only do the gums recede and cause the teeth to decay, loosen and fall out, but the infecting Pyorrhea germs lower the body's vitality and cause many serious ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

SAYS HISTORY PAPER MAKING DATES BACK ABOUT 6,000 YEARS

PROCESS OF CANADIAN PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY SHOWN ON MOTION PICTURES SCREEN, SUPPLEMENTED BY INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS BY MR. P. P. WESTBYE, M.E.I.C.

An interesting series of motion pictures depicting the various phases of the Canadian pulp and paper industry was shown at the Board of Trade rooms last Thursday evening under the auspices of the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

The pictures were supplimented by an instructive address by Mr. P. P. Westbye, M.E.I.C., Managing Director of the William Hamilton Co., Limited, describing the progress of the art of paper making from the primitive processes of anti-Christian times to the elaborate method employed to-day.

The Primitive Way.

The history of paper making, he said, dates back about six thousand years, when the ancient Egyptians made a sort of paper from "papyrus," a plant which was native to their country. This paper was made in most primitive fashion, by removing the outer rind of the papyrus, cutting the pitch in narrow strips, laying them crosswise upon one another, and matting them together by moist pressure. The product was a material not much resembling paper as we know it today. Papyrus was used in Egypt and India up until 1000 B.C., when its place was taken by parchment.

For an unknown period of time the Chinese have made so-called rice paper, and have used it as a medium for artistic expression. This paper was made from the pitch of the "aralia papyriferia," native of the Island of Formosa, and now cultivated in China. The process of making it and the product was quite similar to that of papyrus. Sir Josenh Hooker was the first to dispel, by microscopic analysis, the illusion that this paper was made from rice.

Interesting forms of paper or cloth are found, he said, among the islands of the Pacific; for instance, the "tapa cloth" of the Sandwich Islands. An excellent example of this handicraft, from the collection of Mr. Warner of the Western Clock Company of this city, was exhibited. This material was made from the fibrous bark of the paper mulberry.

Material Employed.

Mr. Westbye went on to say that more than four hundred different kinds of material are employed in the manufacture of paper and the final product finds its way into an almost endless variety of industries, from the manufacture of car wheels to the production of bank notes, and its employment by the skilful artists as a base for his brush. The most radical modern development of the art of paper making is the use of the fibres of wood. The application of this material for the manufacture of paper is commonly attributed to Reaumer in 1719. He found, by observing wasps building their nests, that they gathered the fibres of wood for this purpose. Examination under the microscope showed that the fibres were perfectly separated before being interplaced to form the material of the nest. Thus we find paper constructed upon the identical principals which underly our modern process and produced by the most primitive of all paper makers, even antedating the ancient Egyptians.

It is a comparatively short time since all paper was made by hand. The fact that the demand for paper increased by leaps and bounds and the introduction of machinery into the industry, caused attention to be drawn to the forests as a source of cheap and serviceable paper to meet all requirements.

Industry's Development.

The development of the industry to the place of importance which it occupies to-day has required the life effort and the genius of many men who did not live to enjoy the fruits of their labors. Take, for example, the two French engineers, Henry and Salle Fourdrinier, who spent their lives and their money experimenting with a paper machine, which is fundamentally the same as the paper machines in use to-day. Our modern paper machines are largely known as Fourdrinier machines. Here might also be mentioned such names as Jordan, Charles Hildeyard, Baysmaker, Jackson and Finson, to whose labors we owe the perfection in the processes of our modern paper making. Emmerson, no doubt, had such men in mind when he wrote, "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

When one looks back to the humble beginning of this industry, the shattered hopes of so many men, particularly in the engineering profession, one realizes how full of dignity, significance and truth is the noble conception that finds expression in Tennyson's verse, "We are the hires of the ages, the inheritors of all that has gone before us."

Mr. Westbye traced the phenoninal growth of the pulp and paper industry in this country. Canada, he said, is now the second largest pulp and paper producing country in the world and rapidly over-taking the United States, which holds the first place.

Canada's First Make.

Paper was first made in Canada in St. Andrew's, Que., in 1803. Canada's first larger paper mill was built in 1865, and produced one and one half tons of paper in twenty-four hours. To-day a modern pulp mill produces from 250 to 400 tons in 24 hours.

Prior to 1800 all paper was made from rags. Since that time wood pulp has formed a basis for all ordinary grades of paper, including that which is used for printing newspapers.

Canada's pre-eminence as a paper producing country lies in the possession of hundreds of thousands of acres of pulp-wood forests, and to conveniently located water powers.

Canada has the largest forest area in any country in the British Empire. Canada's forests embraces about 350,000 square miles of pulp-wood timber, estimated to yield 1,050,000,000 cords of pulp-wood. Canada has developed water powers estimated at about 2,000,000 h.p.

There are about 100 incorporated companies and other concerns in Canada engaged in the manufacture of pulp and paper. Their combined capital estimated at $250,000,000. which is a greater amount of capital than is invested in any other industry, with the exception of Hydro-electric power development. The total output of Canada's pulp and paper industry is about 100,000,000. It gives employment to about 30,000 employees. The its annual pay-roll is about $30,000,000. The pulp and paper industry of Canada sent about 5000men to the war.

In 1800 Canada's export of pulp nd paper products amounts to about $150.00. In 1910 they were worth $10,000,000. For the fiscal year ending with March 31st 1918, they reached the total of $72,000,000.

Canadian Mills.

The principal pulp and paper mills of Canada are located in the Provinces of Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and British Columbia. Spruce, balsam, fir, hemlock, jack pine, tamarack, poplar and basswood are used in the manufacture of pulp. Quebec's annual production of pulp-wood exceeds 10,000,000 cords. Ontario comes next with about 8,000,000 cords. It takes approximately 1¼ cords of wood to make a ton of paper. The spruce tree is best suited to the production of pulp, requiring 100 to 150 years to arrive at maturity.

Forest fires cause great loss to the Canadian pulp and paper industry and eat up millions of cords of pulp-wood every year.

Yield of Pulp Limits.

The best pulp-wood limits yield about five cords to the acre. Canada uses about 3¼ million cords annually. At the present rate of consumption and with forest fires prevalent as they are now, our pulp-wood supply can be conservatively estimated to last 100 years. With proper means of fire prevention this period could be extended to 300 years.

The Board of Trade Council room was filled to capacity by an appreciative audience and the pictures were greatly enjoyed by all. Unfortunately, some had to be turned away.

The thanks of the meeting were conveyed to Mr. Westbye for his address and for his having secured, through the kindness of Sir William Price and Mr. Carl Riordon, such an excellent series of films.

Log Driving Shown.

The first two films depicted the log driving operations of Price Bros. in the vicinity of Jonquiere in Quebec, showing the dynamiting of log jams, and other interesting features. These films possess high artistic value, the river, lake and forest scenery being very beautiful. The next films showed the handling of the logs after they arrived at the mill, slashing or cutting into short lengths, barking and grinding into mechanical pulp. The pulp was then shown in its various stages, screening, mixing with the proper quantity of sulphite or chemical pulp, filler, coloring and resin, until it was ready for the paper machine. Its progress through the paper machine was then shown, until it emerged as paper ready for shipment to the consumer.

Largest in World.

In this mill the logs are barked in sixteen-foot lengths, instead of in short lengths, and are stored in huge piles in the yard after being barked. The barking is done by the Thorne barber, the logs being agitated one against the other by large cams revolving under them. This process was evolved by Mr. Thorne of the Riordon organization. The logs then were shown being brought in from the piles, cut up, first into short lengths then into chips, preparatory to going to the digesters. The cooking, bleaching and screening processes were shown, tests being taken at different stages to make sure that the quality was up to standard. The pulp was then shown in process of being formed into a thick sheet containing only about 50 per cent. water. To attain this degree of dryness the sheet was shown passing over a large number of steam-heated drums about 5 feet in diameter and 12 feet long. Drums such as those shown are being made in Peterborough at the present time. At this stage the sheet was shown being cut into small sheets, stacked and baled ready for shipment. The last film showed the model town of Temiskaming, built by the Riordon Company for its employees, and laid out by the town planning expert, Mr. Thomas Adams. It showed the excellent type of houses which had been constructed and the entire absence of monotony in architectural treatment. The latter part of this film covered the Hydro-electric power development, showing the dam, pipe line and power house and also the turbines and generators on which the town and mill depend for light and power. Provision has been made for a future development up to 40,000 h.p.

Owing to the lateness of the hour, it was impossible to show all the films which had been secured. Everyone agreed, however, that the evening's entertainment had been one of high educational value and one of the most successful meetings of the Peterborough Branch of the E. I. C. was brought to a close. It is hoped that these films may be secured at a later date so that there will be an opportunity for those to see them who were unable to do so on Thursday night.

NEVER HEARD OF AN AIRPLANE.

Thought It Was Huge Bird, An Albatross.

(Associated Press.)

SAN JUAN DEI SUR, Nicaragua, March 28.—There are even yet in remote parts of the world people who never even heard of an airplane. Some of these people live in the little Nicaraguan village of Gigante, where the naval plane NC-6 was forced down by a hurricane while on its flight from San Diego, Cal., to Panama along with about a dozen other planes in January.

They thought the NC-6 was a huge bird, an albatross, which had come in search for some unfortunate mariner who had offended it and they hid in the woods for several hours.

Near the little cove where the NC-6 came down are two missing ranches. After the Associated Press correspondent had found the NC-6 he visited one of these ranches and asked the women if they had seen the plane arrive. One of them replied:

"Mio Dios, I should think so. At the sight of the horrible thing skipping over the white caps, without flapping its wings and spitting fire from both sides of its body and roaring like 20,000 bulls we all took to the timber where we remained for about four hours. We only came out when we saw a foreigner gentleman passing near where we were hiding."

The women added that before the great war, when sailing ships used to visit the Nicaraguan coast to load mahogany and cedar, the captains had told them of a wonderful bird called the albatross that was an inhabitant of the Southern seas and they supposed this bird had come after the offending sailor.

Over a hundred American girls are still in Coblenz, Germany, engaged in Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., Salvation Army and other welfare work.

SWORD DUELLING POPULAR AS EVER.

Every Student in Heidelberg Wears a Scar.

(Associated Press.)

HEIDELBERG, Germany, March 28.—Sword duelling in the University of Heidelberg is as popular and as common today as it was more than 500 years ago, when this oldest of German schools was founded. Virtually every student who has passed the first year wears a sword scar on the left side of his chin or the left cheek, or a bandaged head which advertises that the scar is in the making.

Duel do not always arise from anger or quarrels, but out of the necessity of providing the student with the diploma of sword prowess, or to give him sword practice which affords the students great delight. They are sometimes arranged, like a boxing bout, by fraternities which have developed certain differences of opinion. Five round duels are popular.

"Surgeons stand by to sew up the wounds after each round, which usually last a minute," said a Heidelberg man, who wore a deep scar on his chin. "If neither student is badly damaged, the fight will go the full number of rounds decided upon, after which the stitches the surgeons have taken will be counted and the man with the fewest stitches will be declared the winner.

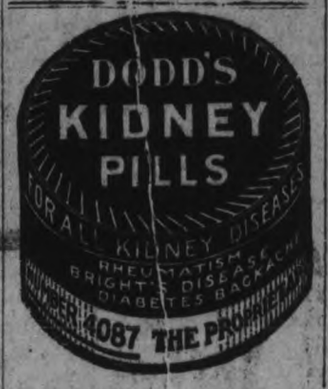
"Should, at any time during the encounter, a combatant dodge a sword stroke his opponent is immediately declared winner. That is the unforgivable thing in the students duelling code—to dodge a stroke."

Except infrequent combats between older students, when heavy swords are used, duelling in Heidelberg is not dangerous. The heads and necks of the fighters, and the abdomen, are protected by leather guards.

Some of the favorite duelling places are ancient cafes and beer rooms, the floors of which are always covered with sand, the walls lined with huge mugs and hung with engravings, old pictures, and trophies of the fight. These places are sacred to students and it would be a serious offense against custom of half a thousand years for a stranger to wander in and sit down in some storied chair.

The university is still a law unto itself, and the civil authorities of the town of Heidelburg never, under any pretext, interfere in student affairs. Punishment is administered to refractory students by university authorities. The university "jail" is now in the top story of the building. It is a custom for the student confined in one of these cells to leave his name and the date of his imprisonment written on the walls.

Unless the U. S. Government establishes a bureau to issue licenses and register pilots, American army, navy and civilian airplanes will be prohibited from flying over Canadian territory after May 1.



"You Are Looking 'All In'"

"YES, and that is just how I feel."

"What seems to be the matter?"

"Why, I had tonsilitis, and my whole system seemed to be poisoned and run down. So much so that I do not seem to gain strength."

"Will you let me be your doctor and do as I tell you?"

"I will do anything to get strong and well. I have been sitting here too long already."

"Well, you send to the drug store for six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and take one pill after each meal and at bedtime. Believe me, it will not be long until you feel the benefit of this treatment and find yourself gaining in health and vigor."

"How do you know?"

"I know from personal experience. After I had the 'flu' I was left just like you are now—all run down; could not sleep; the little food I ate did not seem to do me any good, and I was getting pretty blue."

"Yes."

"Well, my wife had been using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and insisting on me giving it a trial. You know the rest, for I was soon about again, as hale and hearty as ever. I have told lots of people about this Nerve Food, and never knew it to fail yet."

"You are to be the doctor in this case, so I will follow your advice."

"FLUKE" HAS KILLED SOME 20,000 SHEEP

CARDIFF, March 28. — Nearly 20,000 sheep have been killed recently in the Vale of Clwyd by a disease known as "fluke," according to a report to the Welsh Agricultural Council. Experts say the point of attack is in a certain class of snail, and that better drainage of the land is the best precaution against the disease.

CARRIED FIREARMS IN CAMP FIGHT—JAIL ALTERNATIVE.

OTTAWA, March 28 (Canadian Press).—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus for the release from custody of Alexander and Douglas Wilson, Ponsonby, Que., was granted by Judge McDougall in Hull.

The accused had been found guilty of carrying firearms in a lumber camp. They did not have a license, and, when they were tried before Justice of the Peace Louis de G. Raby, were fined $100.00, and costs, or three months in jail.

Counsel for the defendants contended that the alternative of a prison term was irregular, and the section of the statutes under which they were convicted provides for a fine for carrying firearms without a permit in lumber camps, but no provision is made for jail terms.

The two defendants have been liberated on $400.00 bail. The case will be continued on Tuesday.

taken. It is an old saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. The proper time to fight a fire is before it occurs. When attics, yards, cellars and out buildings are properly cleaned, all waste material and rubbish removed or destroyed, much has been done to prevent fire. Proper ventilation does much to prevent spontaneous combustion. The proper installation of stoves, pipes and furnaces, the regular cleaning of chimneys, proper receptacles for ashes and the screening of all open fires, does much to lessen the danger.

Many fires are caused by children playing with matches, filling lighted lamps, pouring coal oil in stoves to start fires, by using unclean lanterns, by having bonfires or burning brush on windy days, by excelsior and waste material used in wiping oily surfaces not being destroyed at once, by mistaking gasoline for coal oil, by cleaning articles with gasoline where there is excessive heat or blaze.

Gasoline is one of the most dangerous liquids that the majority of people have to deal with. With increased use there is increased danger and the greatest care should be taken wherever it is used. It should be buried under ground or stored at a safe distance from buildings. A quantity of sand should be kept near to smother fires as water only spreads it.

Heavy Losses.

Spantaneous combustion has caused the destruction of millions of dollars invested in grain, cereal plants, refineries, and indeed many a barn has been destroyed from the same source. Barns burned in this way are generally among the list of unknown causes. It may be explained as the ignition of a body by the internal development of heat without the action of an external agent. Proper ventilation, cleanliness, and by storing grains and hay in proper condition, will help lessen the cause.

Many fires have been caused by electricity, due to improper installing of lights, and fusing of cut-outs, switches, overloading circuits, electric irons, and by the ground wire not being in perfect condition. The inspection of all inside wiring in the province is necessary, and it is well to see that the law has been complied with in this respect.

The annual loss caused by lightning to a great extent, can be avoided by the use of lightning rods properly erected and suitable for different kinds of roofs. Records show that where the buildings are rodded the loss is comparatively small.

Making decorations and clothing fire proof for public festivities should be compulsory and thus save the loss of many lives and much valuable property. Harmless solutions may be obtained and when properly used are harmless to clothing and not injurious to the skin. It is possible by applying certain liquids to make wood non-inflammable, although it will burn slowly.

Forest Fires.

The most difficult fires we have to contend with are forest fires, as they have every chance to spread, and there is nothing in some cases, within thousands of miles to prevent them sweeping onward. Legislation is doing a great deal to protect the country against forest fires. The staff of Rangers should have the co-operation of every person in their great responsibility.

Campers should be careful to put out their fires before leaving because dry leaves and turf burns quickly when once started.

Nearly every home has a number of articles made in celluloid, ivory or a combination of these, and these articles are blamed as the causes of many household fires. They are very useful as well as ornamental, so it is hard to discard them. The only safe way is to keep them away from all fires and very great heat.

Fire Extinguishers.

Cities, towns, villages, manufacturing plants, large stores, and even residences, should have a proper fire extinguisher, as there are for sale different kinds suitable for every size of building. Certain chemicals may be purchased to add to water to make it more effective; also to prevent water from freezing where it is stored in barrels and tanks for fire fighting purposes.

Automatic sprinklers when properly installed in factories and in stores, with water supply at proper pressure and maintained in operative condition, has proven to be reliable and satisfactory.

Quick Action Counts.

In the case of fire quick action counts. If a chimney is on fire pour salt into it or treat with sulphur; close all draughts to prevent spreading. Fire drills in schools or in any other institutions, are a great benefit. In case of fire the children should be educated to march out systematically. Where there is a fire department locate the nearest fire alarm box and send the alarm to headquarters, and wait until the firemen arrive and direct them to the fire. When there is not an organized force the bucket brigade will render great help in many instances.

If caught in a fire cut off from escape do not jump unless as a last resource. Improvised rope should be made, as a safer way of escape when there is time. When entering a burning building every precaution should be used or else one more victim will be added to the list.

How to Rescue.

To rescue a person who is overcome with smoke use the fireman's lift or if there is not time for this pull the person feet forward. This tends to reduce the possibility of suffocation.

The first application to a burn should be sweet or olive oil, then dust with flour or baking soda. To exclude the air cover with clean linen or antiseptic gauze.

TURKS AGGRAVATE GREEK HINDRANCE

DESTRUCTION OF BRIDGES HAMPERING ADVANCING FORCES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 29.—(Canadian Press.)—In withdrawing before the Greek advance in Asia Minor the Turks are blowing up important bridges and tunnels on the Bagdad railway along their line of retreat. This is aggravating the transportation difficulties of the Greeks which it is predicted by prominent Turkish cavalry generals here, will be the cause of the ultimate failure of the Greek campaign. Greek naval forces, it was learned to-day, are on the watch in the Black Sea for Turkish transports in an effort to prevent the escape from Constantinople to Anatolia of Turkish officers and soldiers who, in view of the neutrality of the Allies in the hostilities between the Greeks and Turkish Nationalists, had petitioned the Allied authorities for permission to leave.

The woman who made the discovery and notified the police, says the parcel containing the body was not there two days before. It is believed that the little one had been dead for a month or more. The police are working on the case.

FUNERAL TO-DAY

The funeral of the late Mrs. G. W Hatton took place this afternoon from St John's Church to the Little Lake Cemetery. The impressive church service, conducted by Rev. Dr. Blagrave, was choral, part of the choir being present with Mr. R. J. Devey at the organ. Dr. Blagrave with the choir boys in procession, met the casket, and after a short but beautiful burial service, with the impressive lesson, preceded it once more to the waiting carriage. The voluntaries were "O Rest in the Lord" and the "Funeral March in E Minor," and the hymns "Nearer My God to Thee" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The "Nunc Dimittis" sung in procession fittingly concluded the solemn church service.

The United States invested $41,373,948,225 in the world war, or $670,000,000 more than any other Allied nation. Japan spent the least, with $481,818,000.

BODY MISSING MAN FOUND IN A BOAT.

Small Craft Frozen in Ice Since Last December—Believed Died of Exposure.

BROCKVILLE, March 29.—The decomposed body of a man, believed to be that of Norman Henry, aged 48, missing from his home in Massena, N.Y., was found on Sunday in a rowboat off Fraser's Point, on the St. Lawrence River, a few miles from Fort Covington. The supposition is that the body had been in the boat since it was frozen in the ice last December, when Henry and a companion undertook to cross the river, and both lost their lives. The dead man's pockets contained $235 in Canadian currency and $12 in American bills, which leads the authorities to disregard the talk of foul play which had arisen in some quarters. Henry is survived by a widow and four children, all resident in Massena.

Room For Another.

The jocular old party was about to board a tramcar on a pouring wet day.

"No, sir," the conductor retorted, "there's room for one more donkey. Jump on."—Tit-bits.

LITIGATION OVER CHRISTMAS TREES

HAROLD F. ANDREWS, OF ASPHODEL, IS PLAINTIFF.

In the County Court to-day, Harold F. Andrews, of Asphodel Township, is suing George A. Elliott, of Dummer Township, for $600.00 alleged to be owing him by defendant on a contract for getting out Christmas trees in December, 1919.

Judge E. C. S. Huycke is hearing the case.

F. D. Kerr is counsel for the plaintiff, and E. Gus Porter, M.P., of Belleville, for the defendant.

It is not often that Christmas trees get dragged into the law courts but the evergreens are apparently the cause of this entire action

The plaintiff first called to-day after all witnesses had been excluded from the proceedings, swore that he was approached by Mr. Elliott in November, 1919, and a Mr. Gardner of Chicago with a proposal to "get out" some Christmas trees they proposed to market in Toronto and Chicago. After a great deal of argument he declared he offered to take 1,3½ cents each for the trees he took out, and also, it was understood he could sub-let the contract if he so desired. He accepted the contract, sub-let it, got out the trees, but alleges when he came to collect his money Mr. Elliott refused to settle.

MONTREAL PORT OPEN EARLIEST ON RECORD.

MONTREAL, March 29.—All records were swept away yesterday when the St. Lawrence was freed of ice and the first vessel entered the harbour of Montreal. This is a month earlier than ever in the history of the port, the average time for the first arrival being April 25.

To-day the Department of Marine and Fisheries will start setting the buoys and it is likely that some of the vessels now on the ocean will be instructed to come to Montreal instead of docking at St. John or Halifax

THE APPEAL SUCCEEDS

Over $3,100.00 in Bank to Credit of the Salvation Army Self-Denial Fund.

As anticipated, the objective of $3,000.00 was reached last week. There are, still a number of cards to come in and which when received will no doubt increase the amount well over the mark as indicated.

The spirit of the people to give to the self-denial appeal was evidenced from the very start of the campaign. Very general from all quarters of the city and this willingness to assist made the collection of the contributions a pleasant part of the work. Contributions came from all sources. Employees of factories, heads of the firms, merchants and the staffs in the business places, all gave very cheerfully, with very few exceptions.

The special feature of the canvas was the splendid support received from a number of individual contributors who were all deeply interested in the work carried on by the Army in this city.

The canvass made by the teams on March 14th and the following day brought to the treasurer of the Fund, Mr. W. H. Dunsford, the sum of $1,050.00, a substantial contribution to the general total.

The committee desires to express its hearty appreciation for services rendered by all those who took part in the canvass and also tenders hearty thanks to all contributors to the Fund which made the appeal a success.

When it is considered that the objective reached is practically made up of a large number of small contributions, procurable because they were gone after, and that the work so involved was onerous, it is only due to mention that those interested in the campaign are indebted to the chairman of the committee, Mr. Robert Harstone, who had assumed responsibility that the appeal should be a success and who planned the method of collections. Mr. W. H. Dunsford, receiving treasurer, has the thanks of the committee for valuable service, involved in looking after the details and for time given to the Army fund.

The Army as a whole is deeply grateful for the support its objects has received, and it is understood that further acknowledgment will be made by the Army direct.

LAUNCH LIFEBOAT BY ELECTRICITY.

New Invention to Eliminate Delay.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 26.—(Canadian Press.)—An electrically-launched lifeboat which its inventor, Captain H. Wright, of the Isthmian Line Steamer Steel Maker, claims will do away with delay and confusion atending the launching of ordinary lifeboats from vessels in case of shipwreck or accident, has created much interest in coast shipping circles.

All that will be required, the captain said, will be for the officer on the bridge to press a button causing the lifeboat to swing out and drop to a level with the deck, where the crew and passengers can board. The boat is then dropped to the water. Self-releasing falls relax their grip and the boat is away.

GREEKS CAPTURE ESKI-SHEHR AND TAKE MUCH BOOTY

CONTINUE ADVANCE IN ASIA MINOR AGAINST TURK NATIONALISTS.

LONDON, March 29.—(Canadian Press).—Greek troops have occupied the city of Eski-Shehr, capturing many prisoners and a large quantity of war materials, says a Central News despatch from Athens.

ATHENS, March 29.—(Canadian Press).—The Turkish Nationalists suffered very heavily in the fighting which preceded the capture of Afiun-Karahissar by the Greeks, says an official statement issued here. The Turks fiercely resisted the advance of the Greeks, and made several counter-attacks, but the Greeks, using the bayonet, succeeded in driving the Turks from the city. The Greeks captured many prisoners and large quantities of war material, it is said. The occupation of Afiun-Karahissar, it is declared by newspapers here, makes the Greek march to Angora easy. The announcement of the Greek success was widely celebrated here.

SALE OF COAL IN SEALED PACKAGES.

To Eliminate the Short Weight Evil in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 26.—Sale of coal in sealed packages to eliminate the short weight evil was advocated by Robert Cassidy, K.C., citizens' counsel, in an enquiry into coal prices held by Alex. Henderson, government commissioner.

There were numerous allegations of short-weighting in coal deliveries, and one witness said that in many deliveries there was five to ten per cent of stone.

"I believe," said Mr. Cassidy, "the only solution is through the sale of coal in sealed packages, similar to the method by which the government proposes to sell liquor," and went on to state that he thought that could be effected by the use of crates holding one or two tons of coal, filled at the mines and delivered to the consumer in that manner.

HEADACHES

Make Life Miserable

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles one can have, and it is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

Headaches seem to be habitual with many people; some are seldom if ever free from them, suffering continually from the dull throbbings, the intense pains; sometimes in one part and sometimes in another, and then again over the whole head.

There is only one way to get relief from these persistent headaches, and that is by going direct to the seat of the trouble, for unless the cause is removed the headaches will still continue to exist.

The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters keeps the stomach, liver and bowels toned up is proof enough to show that it will eliminate the cause of the headaches.

Mrs. Harold Lanain, Owen Sound, Ont., writes "My system was out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another and am glad to say that it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to my friends who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy.

THE ALL ROUND CHURCH

INTO WHICH NONE CREEP, INTRUDE, OR CLIMB.

"In men whom men condemn as ill,
I find so much of goodness still;
In men whom men pronounce divine,
I find so much of sin and blot—
I hesitate to draw the line
Between the two, where God is not."

So sang Joaquin Miller in The Songs of the Sierras.

But who are those, whom "men pronounce divine"? They have all the ear-marks of those who—

"for their bellies' sake
Creep and intrude and climb into the fold.
Of other care they little, reckoning make
Then how to scramble on the shearer's feast
And shove away the worthy-bidden guests."

Thus spoke the great John Milton nearly three hundred years ago; and his words are as true to-day as they were when first uttered.

The Church "creeper" is one who seeks secret influence and submits to servility, to unawares, direct the minds of men.

The Church "intruder" is the one with a blatant tongue, and an insolent heart, who stalks about with a brass plate on his chest labelled 'O.T.A.,' a Bible in his left hand and a pistol in his right, meekly followed by an Attorney-General and Provincial Police.

The Church "climber" is the one who selfishly seeks honour, power and place, to be a legislative director, a Parliamentary Dictator, and to become one of the "Lords over the heritage."

These three—creeper, intruder and climber—have always renounced their faith in supplication and prayer to reform the hearts of men. To them, the duty "to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction" is a huge joke; and to them "to keep themselves unspotted from the world' is to walk abroad with lofty eyebrows and a proud heart, and to gather in liberal donations from the wealthy and the selfish.

It was these three who induced Sir William Hearst to attempt to reform the minds and hearts of men by Act of Parliament. It was these three who induced Sir William Hearst to pass an Act of Parliament inflicting a greater fine on a man who gives his friend beer and cheese and crackers on his own verandah than the villain who kicks his enemy into insensibility on a street lit with a tallow candle. It was these three who cheered the loudest in Massey Hall when it was announced that the sorrowing widow of a slain husband was disbelieved. It was these three who have sought to deprive the innocent of a fair and just trial in our courts of law.

They presume the innocent to be guilty. They care not for the suffering of his family. They rejoice in heavy fines. They delight in long term sentences. They want a moving picture of a neighbor in a piebald prison suit. These three, and the greatest of these is the Climber.

Under such leadership would it not be well that "men whom men condemn as ill," should knee, sit, stand or walk in the all round church with the creeper, the intruder and the climber, and openly confess:—

"We are all become as one that is unclean, and all our righteousnesses are as a polluted garment."

Doctors Say New Drug Makes You Feel 100% Better In Two to Five Days

Worth Millions to Suffering Humanity — Works Wonders on Headaches, Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatism, Kidney Pains, Etc.

Your complexion is not clear, you have pains between the shoulder blades, you are constipated, have no energy, no appetite, headaches, rheumatism, etc. These are all the well-known signs that your Liver is out of order, and is not excreting Bile into the Bowels, thereby causing all these pains and aches.

Doctors will tell you that 90% of the people who come to them for treatment have trouble due directly to the Liver. It is simple when you stop to think about it. When your Liver becomes inactive and fails to pour Bile into the intestines, your system is unable to excrete the waste, then the blood begins to distribute this waste throughout the whole system, striking at the weakest organ. Until this Liver trouble is overcome, you cannot expect to have perfect health, and life to you will be a drudgery.

Doctors recommend that you take one Tanated Calomel about fifteen minutes before each meal, or you may take two at bedtime, and you will wake up the next morning feeling tip-top. No seidlitz, salts, or castor oil are necessary to eliminate the Calomel, as it is self-eliminatnig.

Tanated Calomel is quickly assimilated by the system, and begins to act soon after taking. It has no bad after-effects, as nausea, sick headaches, griping, etc., but acts very mild and smoothly, causing a natural elimination of the waste, relieving your system of all this waste poison making you look and feel bright, alert, vigorous and vivacious again.

Tanated Calomel is sold by F. C. Weber. Druggist, Peterborough.

NEW LIQUID POISON, 3 DROPS TO KILL.

Death From Mere Touch of the Skin.

NEW YORK, March 29. — The Chemical Warfare Service has discovered a liquid poison so strong that three drops will kill anyone whose skin it touches, it has become known here.

Falling like rain from nozzles attached to airplanes, the liquid would kill everything in the aircraft's path, according to a high official of the service.

A description of what tht new war weapon would do, in the opinion of this official, follows:

"One plane carrying two tons of the liquid could cover an area 100 feet wide by 7 miles long in one strip and could deposit enough material to kill every man in that area, and if those on the ground were not protected by gas masks, the area of fatality would be many times greater.

"The only limit to the quantity of this liquid which could be made is the amount of available electric power, as nearly every nation has practically an unlimited supply of the necessary raw materials. It would be entirely possible for the United States to manufacture several thousand tons per day, if the necessary plants had been built.

"During the Argonne offensive the entire first U. S. army of 1,250,000 men occupied an area of approximately 40 kilometres long by 20 kilometres wide. If Germany had had 4,000 tons of this material and 4000 planes equipped for its distribution, the entire first U. S. army would have been annihilated in 12 hours.

thus get a better understanding of how to control the children. It is a well understood fact that to be able to deal effectively with a child one must be in sympathy with the influences that guide him and the tendencies that urge within him.

True Discipline

True discipline is the ability to do things independently, not submission under restraint. The teacher must be not a taskmaster but a leader in study and investigation. He should ask himself "What is there in me that will help each child?"

The teachers of yesterday were satisfied in knowing themselves that their work was of paramount importance. They did not ask or expect that it be given widespread recognition. To-day they are asking that their profession be recognized both socially and financially as one of paramount importance. The struggle is one and the task is proving itself to be one of serious proportions. To-morrow the fight will be won and then and only then will the teaching profession attract to its ranks those women and men who are most capable of performing their duties conscientiously and effectively. Service will be the keynote of every teacher. Teachers will then be recognized as the most important servants of the state. They will be paid salaries which will ensure an adequate means of living with a balance on the right side. They will have to be well paid if they are to do their share in the general work of social uplift.

The standard of the teachers of to-morrow will not be one of qualifications only, nor will it be one of sex. It will be that of proven experience and efficiency. They will teach because that is the thing they can do best. They will have more freedom as well as the child.

Practical Education

The present day condition of the world is one of chaos. Striving interests seek selfish ends regardless of truth and right. Bolshevist ideas are being inserted into the working world to an alarming extent The average labourer of to-day is practically uneducated. How are matters to be mended In the schools of to-day and to-morrow are the labourers and the mass of workers of every class of the future. Give them a happy childhood in the school. Present the various problems of life in such ways that the children will be conversant with the means of dealing with them intelligently. Open their eyes to the beauties of the world about thm. Have their school life one of free intercourse and free movemnt. In short, make it a natural means to a natural development. Make the subject matter just what relates closely to the world about him, his world. Teach him things not words. Teach him how to repect the rights of others, that they must be respected for school is not only a preparation for life, it is life itself.

In a word then the schools of to-morrow will be places capable in both town and country of providing all the requisites for the carrying on of modern education. They will be equipped with all the devices for holding and promoting the interest and enthusiasm of the child within them.

Inculcate Proper Ideals

They will be served by teachers whose most sincere desire will be to so wield their influences, so inculcate the proper ideals of living, so impress the importance of their mission in life on the community at large, that the cry on the lips of the citizens generally will be not "Let us get the cheapest," but let us get the best teachers and do all in our power to aid and assist them."

The chief criticism to be brought against progressive ideas is that they would be unfeasible in classes of forty or fifty. There is that difficulty, no doubt, we must admit that, but does the fault lie with progressive education or with a system that puts fifty children under one teacher? The cry then is — smaller classes would be more expensive and the public must learn to see that it is worth while to pay more and get education of immeasurably greater value.

This is a movement for you and me and its ultimate success is what you and I conspire to make it Shall we do our part to bring about a more practical and useful form of Canadian Educational Ideals?

DEFEATED FACTION JOINS COMMUNISTS

FOLLOWING REJECTION OF AFFILIATION WITH THIRD INTERNATIONALE BY I.L.P.

SOUTHPORT, England, March 29 (Canadian Press).—The minority faction of the Independent Labour Party, the extreme wing of the British Labour, decided at a meeting here to-day to secede from the Independent Labour Party and join the Communist Party.

The seceding element was defeated in the convention when it presented a report favouring acceptance of Moscow's conditions for affiliation with the Third Internationale.

AN ADDRESS ON THE "PASSION PLAY" BY REV. MALOTT

The open meeting of the Epworth League, held last evening in the Trinity Sunday School Hall on Reid Street, was made exceptionally interesting by the fine address given by Rev. F. E. Malott on the "Passion Play" of Oberammergau. This was an appropriate subject for the Easter season, and was made most attractive by the lantern slides, illustrating the village and the play, and by a book of views collected by the speaker, who witnessed the play on the occasion of its last presentation in 1910. A religious vow, taken by the villagers when ravaged by a destructive plague in 1634 was the beginning of this production, which has been faithfully carried out ever since, the play increasing in artistic value every decade. About 600 of the villagers take part in the presentation, which is carried out in the form of the old Greek dramas, each act opening with a chorus announcing the theme, followed by a tableau representing some scene in the Old Testament, which corresponds with the portion of the New Testament to be enacted immediately. The attempted sacrifice of Isaac by Abraham precedes the death of the Christ on the Cross, the suborning of false witnesses in the tale of Naboth's vineyard corresponds with the false witnesses brought against the Saviour, and the expulsion of Adam and Eve from the Garden of Eden is followed by the driving out of the thieves from the Temple. The play opens with the triumphal entry into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday, and enacts every scene thereafter, through the sacrifice of the Cross, to the Ascension, where an apparently glorified body is raised by invisible ropes.

Takes Eight Hours.

It is played from May 1st to October 1st daily, the presentation taking eight hours, from 8 to 12 a.m. and from 2 to 6 p.m. The theatre, capable of holding 6,000 people, is open at one end, and here the stage is placed, with a setting representing Jerusalem, with the Temple at the left, and two streets converging towards it. There are no hotel accommodations in the village, and the travellers who come from all over the world every ten years are looked after by the villagers. The proceeds of this play, after the payment of a small sum to each person taking part, are devoted to municipal purposes, and enough is realized from the production to pay the taxes of the village for the next ten years. The people take an earnest and unfailing interest in their wonderful play, and are taught by the priests to live virtuous lives corresponding with the responsibility which they feel devolves upon them. It is difficult to obtain players for the meaner characters, and the part of Judas Iscariot is extremely hard to fill. At the time of Mr. Malott's visit, he was told that the Judas of that year was one of the best men in the village, and the part of Christ in 1910 was taken by Anton Lang, considered one of the best portrayers of the Saviour ever seen. This little Bavarian village, situated in the mountains about 45 miles southwest of Munich, has become famous throughout the world for its presentation of the life of Christ, and people from the four corners of the world congregate here every ten years to witness the unique production.

During the evening, a vocal solo was rendered by Miss Doris Pilling, accompanied by Miss L. Elliott.

SIMPLE PHOSPHATE SUPPLIES STRENGTH AND ENERGY BUILDING ELEMENTS THAT MODERN FOODS LACK.

Just one or two little tablets of real organic phosphate dispensed in drug stores under the name of Bitro-Phosphate taken with each meal is probably just what you need to cause you to jump out of bed in the morning eager for the industrial battle of the day.

Modern foods lack sufficient phosphorus, and that is why 40 per cent. of men and women to-day are nervous, weak and run-down. Bitro-Phosphate is safe to take and McDermid and Jury or any good druggist can supply it at reasonable cost.

R., 27 miles northwest of here, was destroyed by fire early yesterday, the total loss being estimated in the neighborhood of $60,000. Sisson's general store with stock valued at $15,000, in a $10,000 building, was a total loss, the fire having started in the store.

GET ON THE LISTS IS PRESENT DUTY

A paragraph in an Ottawa despatch in The Examiner last night in regard to the referendum lists may possibly be misleading so far as electors in the City of Peterboro are concerned. An Ottawa lawyer giving an outline of the conditions remarked that there would be no revision of the lists in Peterboro other than correcting mistakes in spelling, etc. That is, of course, incorrect, and people who were not on the last list can have their names added by applying to the revising officers just as they can in any other part of the province. It is important to remember that point.

At a class banquet he pinched it several times, only desisting when a prominent speaker distracted his attention. Then he suddenly remembered, and reaching down gave the leg a vigorous pinch. Feeling no pain, he jumped up and cried: "It has come at last! My leg is completely petrified!" Whereupon the lady next to him leaned over and said: "I beg your pardon, but it is not petrified and it is not yours."

SPRING IMPURITIES DUE TO POOR BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine a Necessity at This Season.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year-round tonic for the blood and nerves. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills helps to enrich the blood. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink pills clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood most seriously needs attention. Some people dose themselves with purgatives at this season, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely gallops through the system, emptying the bowels, but does not help the blood. On the other hand, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood which reaches every nerve and every organ in the body bring new strength and vigor to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this Spring—they will not disappoint you.

MONARCHY IN AUSTRIA IS DYING HARD.

Considerable Royalist Activity Throughout Country — Carl Hopeful — Peasants Are Still Loyal

(Associated Press.)

VIENNA, March 29.—If monarchism is to come to Austria it must, like Bolshevism, come from without. This is the opinion of men whose business it is to watch and weigh royalist activity.

That there is royalist activity goes without saying. Carl (formerly Emperor) and his followers, the little court of semi and demi and near royalty and adventurous gentlemen of many nationalities he has about him in Switzerland, still intrigue and plot and perhaps hope. Here and in the other succession states a portion of the old aristocracy and great land owners and military swashbucklers keep up a more or less concealed restoration movement, but on the whole the monarchic sentiment is decaying.

Powerful Support.

It dies hard because it has powerful support in Austria from sources that come into intimate contact with the people in the daily life, and from exterior quarters as well, but observers say it has lessened decidedly in the past six months.

They attribute that condition to several causes. The royalist leaders are, to say the least, hardly an enterprising or very daring lot and also they are sensible enough to realize that even an anointed Hapsburg must have a treasury to successfully run a government and would present a sorry spectacle with bankrupt Austria and an estranged Entente. Then the assiduous propaganda and teachings of the socialist and other liberal elements have begun to take effect on the great body of the peasantry, always considered the backbone of the royalist movement.

Peasants Behind It.

From this statement may be expected the provinces of Upper Austria, the Tyrol and Voralberg. According to the best information the monarchist movement still centers there and the mass of the peasant population supports it. This may be attributed to the fact that these provinces lie open not only to the direct efforts of the Carlist propaganda from Switzerland, but the equally strong monarchic emanations from Bavaria.

While it has been two years of hard sledding for the republic as a whole and apparently there is a very rough road still ahead, the agrarian element has not been very badly off at any time. The farmers have made more money than they can spend and none of the many governments up to now have been able to take any very considerable part of it from them by taxes. They are enjoying luxuries for the first time in their lives because they can get their own price for their products and altogether the lessons of the new liberty are seeping into the vales and hills as well as into the factories and mines.

Alleged Plots.

Every now and then the Vienna press gives prominence in a scary way to the alleged plots of the reactionaries, to the comings and goings and meetings of Carl and his satellites in Switzerland, of the former archdukes and the princes of Parma and Bourbon, the former Empress Zita's two brothers who turn up occasionally in Vienna with little attempt at concealing their presence, of the former Austrian generalissimus Friederich, in Berne, his cousin Eugene in Basle, of the Chamberlains Chlumecky and the Count Berchtold, Forgatsch, Andrassy, Prince Windischgratz and all the other worthies whose vocations and privileges departe when Carl fled

Joint Protests.

Great prominence has just now been given a reported joint protest by the Czechoslovakian and Jugoslavian governments to the Helvetic Federal Council against the liberty of intrigue enjoyed by the Carlist refugees in Switzerland. The Vienna government keeps a pretty good watch on the group in Switzerland and much of the prominence given their activities is said to be inspired by the foreign office for its deterrent effect.

Even the formation of a new royalist party here headed by Count Resseguir and having for its avowed object the closer coordination of the various restoration movements attracted very little attention.

Hold Together Class.

In fact the general belief of foreign observers here is that in Austria at least the activity of the royalists has for its purpose more the holding together of their class and the protection of their common interests rather than any real belief they can put the yellow and black banner of the House of Hapsburg back on the Hofburg. Behind this, of course, lies the hope of some turn in European affairs that may give them a chance, and here lies the danger from without Dual Kingdom Again.

Should Hungary crown a king, or rather if she can find one to crown in view of Great Britain's veto of Carl which has rather upset the movement there, or should reaction effect a successful stroke in Bavaria, what the repercussion here would be is a matter of conjecture

It is well known that the aim of the more ardent Hungarian monarchists is another dual kingdom and they might try a bold coup on Austria. But there is no conjecture about the cold fact that any attempt to restore the monarchy or a monarchy in this republic would mean bloodshed. Not only would the liberal elements fight but there is no concealment of the program that Czechoslovakia is to throw troops into Austria in such an event, and if she becomes engaged with Hungary the South Slavs are to come to her aid.

Mabel Normand was in a reminiscent mood the other day. She told how in the early days of motion pictures she, the Gish sisters, Mary Pickford and Blanche Sweet, used to hold contests to see which could bring the tears the quickest. The loser had to pay for the 30-cent lunch with which they regaled themselves. Miss Normand said that Blanch Sweet nearly always won, for she could start the teardrops without a moment's hesitation. All of them are stars now and don't have to worry about the price of luncheons, but all still find their tear glands necessary in their character interpretations.—Detroit Free Press.

Teeth Shine

When the film goes—watch and see

Learn now how teeth look—how they feel—when you combat the film.

Get from your druggist, without cost, this ten-day test. Note the instant results, then look in ten days.

Millions have already done this. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Now show your home folks what clean teeth really mean.

The war on film

Dental science, the world over, is fighting a war on film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. And most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

Those troubles have been constantly increasing. The ordinary tooth paste does not end film, so the tooth brush has proved inadequate. Millions know how well-brushed teeth have discolored and decayed.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And, despite all brushing, few escape these troubles caused by film.

New ways to fight it

Now dental science has found ways to fight film, day by day. Able authorities have proved the methods efficient. Leading dentists everywhere now urge their application.

The methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. To millions it has brought a new era in teeth cleaning. And to every home a ten-day test is offered free, so all may quickly know it.

Quick, visible results

Anyone can see and feel what Pepsodent is doing. No old method of brushing ever brought such effects. So we let this test convince you.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied also, and at once. That is to neutralize mouth acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

The effects of Pepsodent come with every application. We constantly combat, in efficient ways, the teeth's great enemies. And millions of teeth are given new protection and new beauty.

Millions now show the effects

In every circle nowadays you see glistening teeth. Ask the owners. You will find, we think, that they are using Pepsodent.

Go get this free tube and try it for yourself. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Then let the children use it. Their teeth need it most. Very few children reach the age of 15 without some tooth decay.

WILD BOY FOUND IN REMOTE INDIA.

Resembles Kipling's "Mowgli," Suckled By the Wolf.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, March 29, (By Mail).—A wild boy resembling in some respects Kipling's character, "Mowgli," who was suckled by a she-wolf and grew up to be leader of the pack, has been found in a remote section of India, according to a story told in The Times. In this case, however, the boy is reputed to have been kidnapped by a leopard. He has been recaptured and his father is now keeping a sharp eye on him to see that he does not run away to the woods.

The Times credits the tale to Stewart Baker, who was recently in the undeveloped country round the Sachar hills on the northeast frontier of India where he was in charge of road-mending. It is customary in that region for the villagers to mend roads instead of paying taxes. Mr. Baker asked a villager why he did not do his share of road-mending.

The man replied that he was afraid to leave his village. His wife having died a short time previously, he had no one to take care of his little "wild son" who, in his absence, might run into the jungle and get lost. Mr. Baker paid the villager a visit and found with him a child about seven years of age, with innumerable white scars of tiny cuts and scratches all over its body.

The child's father told him that, five years before, the villagers of Cachari had killed two leopard cubs. The mother leopard had prowled about the jungle bordering on the village. A few day's later the mother of the child left it lying on a cloth while she went away to reap rice. In her absence the mother leopard carried the child off. The villagers searched for it but could find no trace of it.

Some three years later a sportsman killed a leopard in the jungle. He told the villagers that the leopard had two cubs. They searched the jungle and found the two cubs and with them the missing child.

It ran on all fours quite fast, dodged and hid in bushes with great agility and skill and bit and fought with everyone who tried to lay hold of it. It tore to pieces and ate with extraordinary quickness any village fowl that came its way.

In connection with the Armistice Day fetes in France this year it is proposed to name one of the streets of Paris Rue du 11 Novembre.

The Royal Canadian navy has 749 officers and men, and 4,734 reserves.

PETERBORO BASKETBALLERS HAVE LEAD OF 25 IN ONTARIO FINALS

BEAT WOODSTOCK Y.M.C.A. 39 TO 14 LAST NIGHT, SEELEY SCORING 21 POINTS AGAINST WESTERNERS---RETURN GAME ON THURSDAY NIGHT.

SHOULD WIN THE ROUND

The Peterborough Y.M.C.A. basketball team have a lead of 25 points to carry with them to Woodstock on Thursday night and the margin should be big enough to ensure them a victory on the round and the Ontario intermediate championship. In the first game of the final series, played in the local Y.M.C.A. gym last night, the Peterborough crew defeated Woodstock Y.M.C.A. by 39 points to 14, leading at the half by 18 points to 10.

The score would indicate a runaway game, but it was hardly that, for the westerners put up a stubborn resistance and in the early stages threw a decided scare into the Peterborough camp. They opened out at a furious clip and with some neat combination and accurate shooting had scored three baskets from the field before the Petes realized they had a battle on their hands. The home crew braced and ran in two field baskets and a foul making it 6 to 5, only to have the visitors come back with a pair of well-earned baskets, leaving the score 10 to 5 in their favour.

Then the local gang found themselves, and with the same speed, cleverness and snappy shooting that carried them triumphantly over Belleville, Queen's University and Toronto Central, they cut loose at a pace that carried the visitors off their feet. The close checking of the Petes demoralized the Woodstock combination and for twenty-six minutes they were held scoreless, failing to add another point to their total from the middle of the first half until there were only four minutes left to play in the second session. Meanwhile the home crew were piling up the score. They evened up the count after ten minutes had been played in the first half and added eight more points before the period ended, coming back in the second half with a straight run of seventeen points before the westerners could register a basket. Woodstock got two in a row then, but before the final gong Peterborough hung up another pair of field baskets.

The star of the game was "Chip" Seeley, who scored no fewer than twenty-one points for the Petes. He ran wild most of the game and his shooting was accurate at all angles. Altogether he ran in nine baskets from the field and tossed in three fouls for good measure, which is a pretty fair evening's work for a team, let alone one man. Tom Pogue, although his marksmanship was not as accurate as in the last game with Toronto Centrals, was responsible for four nice baskets. Stuart was a tower of strength, both in checking and in feeding his forwards, while the defence pair, Degraw and Russell Pogue, smothered their checks in good style, after the first two or three minutes.

Hastings, the elusive right forward of the visitors, was their top scorer and most effective player, getting three clever baskets early in the game, but he was well looked after for the balance of the game. The two guards, Thornton and Sedge, had their hands full in trying to take care of Seeley and Tom Pogue and had a very busy evening. Coles came through with two long range scores in the last half, the only points registered by the visitors in thirty minutes.

The game was well handled by Referee Birks, of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Basketball Association and Umpire Ross Dobbin of Peterobrough.

The line-up:

Woodstock.

Forwards — Coles (4), Hastings (6).
Centre—Hossack.
Guards—Thornton (2), Sedge (2.)
Sub—Talbot.

Peterborough.

Forwards—Seeley (21), T. Pogue (8).
Centre—Stuart (4).
Guards— Degraw (4), R. Pogue (2).
Subs—Darling, Jobbitt.

Woodstock displayed speed and cleverness at the go-in, and using a formation that was momentarily baffling to the Petes, they looked like a very dangerous outfit. The game was hardly under way before Hastings completed a clever bit of combination with an accurate shot from the side and first blood went to the visitors. A repetition of this play and a shot by Hastings from close under the basket gave them another tally and then Sedge, the left guard, slipped down the floor and accepting a perfect pass to the side, tossed the ball gracefully in for another score and the westerners were ahead 6 to 0. And they were not only leading on the score board, but they dominated the play and smothered up the Peterboorough attacks.

Tom Pogue gave the crowd their first chance to enthuse by a neat side shot, and Seeley came back with another, following up with a tally from a foul. That left it 6 to 5, but the visitors were still dangerous, and they proved it by two pretty baskets, Thornton, the right guard, getting the first and Hastings the second.

With the figures 10 to 5 against them the Peterborough crew braced, covering up their checks and finding the combination that has featured their games all season. Led by Seeley, whose shooting was most effective, they uncorked a spurt that carried them too fast for the westerners. Seeley started the rally with a pretty field basket, tossed in a foul and then another score from the field. That tied the score, with the first period exactly half over. But a tie was no use to the Petes and they proceeded to hang up a lead. To Captain Stuart fell the honour of putting his team in the lead, a pretty shot from the corner doing the trick. Seeley made it 14 to 10, and just to show that all the shooting ability in the local team is not possessed by the forwards, Russell Pogue and Degraw both rambled down the floor and bagged a basket each, leaving the figures 18 to 10 at the half.

The Petes were a much better team in the second period, although the visitors never let up for a moment. Seeley opened the fireworks with two baskets in quick succession, Stuart made it 24 to 10, and Degraw added another with a pretty one-handed shot from the side. Tom Pogue, who had not been having much luck in his marksmanship, decided to get in on the fun, and his litle effort added two more baskets to the Peterborough total. Seeley repeated the feat with two field tallies. With five minutes left to play Hossack, the Woodstock centre man, committed his fourth personal foul and was banished for the rest of the game. Seeley raised the Peterborough count to 35 by tossing in a foul and then Coles, for Woodstock, broke the Peterborough scoring streak of thirty successive points by a pretty long range shot. He repeated the feat thirty seconds after and the score was 35 to 15. Before the final whistle the Petes got these two baskets back, Seeley ringing up his ninth basket, and Tom Pogue completing the scoring by a pretty shot.

THE PRELIMINARY GAME.

In a curtain-raiser before the big game the Young Men's Club defeated the Collegiate Institute in easy fashion by 50 points to 22, leading half way by 22 to 6. The feature of the game was the great shooting of McLean for the Young Men's Club. The little forward's success in finding the basket from any old position was the biggest factor in his team's victory, for he netted no fewer than sixteen baskets from the field and threw in a foul basket as well, a total of 33 points. The teams were:

Young Men's Club—McLean, Bergoine, forwards; Hardill, centre; Tranter, Ecobichon, guards; Hopkins, sub.

Referee—Mr. Roper.

DOMINION BANK WINS BOGERT CUP

DEFEATS ROYAL OF MONTREAL 8 TO 5 IN HARD FOUGHT BATTLE.

TORONTO, March 29.— (Canadian Press.)—The Dominion Bank of Toronto are the first holders of the Bogert Cup. After three games the Dominion won the bank title of Canada from the Royal of Montreal last night 8 to 5 in a stirring battle. It was clean, hard hockey all the way and the big crowd was satisfied when the Dominion came from behind to win the trophy.

OTTAWA DEFEATED THE MILLIONAIRES

EASTERNERS WIN THIRD STANLEY CUP GAME 3 TO 2.

VANCOUVER, March 29. — Canadian Press.) — Showing once again that they prefer seven man hockey under coast rules to the eastern rules, last night attendance at the third game of the Stanley Cup Series slightly surpassed the ten thousand attending the first game.

Ottawa again defeated the Pacific Coast hockey champions by a score of 3 to 2, but it was not the team which went through last year's series here which met the Easterners.

Minus Skinner, their right goal getter, and deprived of the services of Macky, their rover, the millionaires yet managed to hold the eastern champions to a score of 3 to 2.

TRAPPING BEARS WITHOUT KILLING THEM.

Louis Joseph Vance's "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," the most powerful of J. Parker Read, Jr.'s Louise Glaum productions, which is being shown at the Grand, is noteworthy among other things for its remarkable settings that even when void of characters in the story are riotous in color and action.

Much of the action takes place in Soho, the French quarter of London, the Cafe Mignon in the picture being typical of the crudely-appointed coffee shops where visitors from across the channel are wont to gather, some to partake of their native dishes and others to feast their eyes upon some poor but beautiful damsel, without whom no Soho inn can be popular or profitable. Sonia (Louise Glaum), who knows nothing of her parentage, or past save that Mme. Therese, owner of the cafe, has reared her, is the attraction for the curious Frenchmen.

Then the train of powerful incidents in "The Lone Wolf's Daughter" shifts to The Red Moon, ostensibly a low grade eating house in Limehouse, the heart of London's underworld, but in reality the rendezvous of the most desperate band of murderers and plunderers ever assembled to wage battle on law and order. Here Prince Victor (Edwin Stevens), known as "the Emperor," away from his gorgeous estate, wields his power, with all his heartless hirelings pleading for a chance to aid in his scheme to loot the United Kingdom of its wealth and become its dictator.

"The Lone Wolf's Daughter," a sequel to "The Lone Wolf" and "False Faces," was produced under the personal supervision of J. Parker Read, Jr.

A very interesting picture is also being shown of the method used in trapping bears without killing them, which is very exciting. And a good Lyons & Moran Comedy rounds out a very enjoyable programme.

BALL PROSPECTS IN LINDSAY ARE VERY UNCERTAIN

Iff Lindsay baseball players (and they are the ones primarily interested) and fans generally, want to see the town represented in baseball circles this year, something should be done immediately by way of organization.

True, Lindsay has until the 15th to qualify for the Central Ontario League, but before this date the schedule must be drawn up and other business transacted, and the Central officials should be treated courteously and made aware of Lindsays plans.

On the other hand, if Lindsay is desirous of dropping out of the Central Ontario League this year, and forming a new four-team town league, placing the winners in the intermediate series of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, action must be taken by Thursday of this week.

Lindsay made a big splurge in the Central League the first year but the interest seems to have dwindled and it does look as if the town should get back to a good four-team town league and place the winners in the O.B.A.A. This would give Lindsay winners a chance to meet some of the best teams in the province.

There is also a great possibility of Lindsay placing a team in the Tri-County League with Lorneville, Beaverton, Canningtoi, Stouffville, Sutton and other teams.

It is time that something was done and it's up to the players to decide. How about a public meeting of fans and players on Wednesday night? Get busy.—Lindsay Post.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND

JOHN E. KELLERD'S FINE VOICE

For the correct interpretation of Shakespeare it is essential that a player must be possessed of high intelligence and of graces of voice and manner enhanced by skilled training in a hard school. Mr. John E. Kellerd, the eminent actor who is to appear at the Grand on Friday and Saturday of this week, had his training on the English stage, though he came to this country at an early age and played under Booth, Barrett and the masters of an elder day, whom such critics as William Winter declare he has surpassed. He is the one worthy exponent of the Shakespearean tradition on the American stage to-day. He was co-star with Mme. Modjeska in her long repertoire of Shakespearean plays and played Louis the Sixteenth in her wonderful production of "Marie Antoinette." He is the only player who ever presented "Hamlet" in a Broadway, New York, stage for 102 consecutive nights. It was of him that the San Francisco Chronicle wrote "Kellerd was a gracious Hamlet a forceful Hamlet. Better than Southern and far better than Mantell; he brought out the poetical—I was about to say literary—qualities of the role. He makes Shakespeare as orchestral as Berloiz found him in his symphonies. He touches tones and overtones not ordinarily released by mere words."

This season Mr. Kellerd has provided splendid productions and the costumes for all the plays are rich and ornate in their historical correctness, the supporting company numbers thirty people of whom the most prominent are, Miss Isabel Merson, formerly leading woman with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree; Miss Eva McRoberts, Miss Freda Brindley, Stuart Black, Frank Hollins, George Tawde, John E. McGregor, Charles Stevens, and Paul Terhune.

AT THE ALLEN

HOW DO YOU DO IT, CARTER?

At first glance it would appear impossible for a man to completely disrobe himself and prepare for bed while clutching all the time a large cotton umbrella. But Carter De Haven gets away with it in one of the excrutiatingly funny scenes of "Twin Beds," which is the First National attraction at the Allen Theatre to-morrow.

Of course, it isn't absolutely necessary for a man to hold his umbrella while preparing for bed, no matter how highly he prizes it, but in the condition in which Carter appears to be, in this particular scene, one can comprehend how any course of procedure becomes possible. (Or one could have comprehended prior to July, 1909).

Mr. De Haven never once loses his grip on the family bumbershoot and makes very good use of it after he finally stops the bed as it goes by and climbs in.

The picture has developed the multitude of comedy situations in a way hardly imaginable, and a rare comedy treat is promised to patrons of the Allen to-morrow.

UNUSUAL CAST IN NEW TAYLOR FILM.

"The Furnace," the new William D. Taylor production released as a Realart Special, is an unusually powerful photodrama. The picture, which opened to a crowded house at the Allen Theatre last night, is a big production in many senses of the word.

The theme is striking, the action and plot gripping and well portrayed by an all-star cast of notables, including such popular favorites as Agnes Ayres, Jerome Patrick, Theodore Roberts, Helen Dunbar, Betty Francisco, Milton Sills, Mayme Kelso and others. Big things are usually expected of such a director as William D. Taylor, who produced the picture, but the general opinion is that this time Mr. Taylor has smashed home a real winner.

The story revolves around the society marriage of a wealthy Englishman and a popular London actress, the confession immediately afterward that he married his wife merely because he had heard that she had threatened to sue him for breach of promise if he jilted her. Their subsequent estrangement and the many dramatic complications which follow before a reconciliation is effected make a very tense drama.

The picture is an adaptation by Julia Crawford Ivers of the new novel, "The Furnace," by the English writer, "Pan," which promises to create a sensation among fiction lovers and is just coming off the press. "The Furnace" will be shown for the last time to-day.

ALLAN CUP PLAYER DIES OF PNEUMONIA.

Melfort Wingham, member of the Saskatchewan University hockey team, which contested the Allan Cup preliminaries with Port Arthur at Winnipeg recently, is dead. He took ill with pneumonia almost immediately after arriving back in Saskatoon from his trip to Winnipeg, and died last Thursday.

Wingham is well known in Saskatchewan athletics. He was a member of the Regina Patricia team which journeyed to Toronto in 1919 and contested the finals for the Canadian Junior Hockey Championship.

A private in the National Guard of the United States is paid $100 a year for attending drill once a week.

WHY NOT SEVERAL ENTRIES FROM PETERBOROUGH FOR THE O.B.A.A.

PLENTY OF TALENT HERE FOR INTERMEDIATE AND JUNIOR DIVISIONS.

With the annual meeting of the O.B.A.A. schedule for next Saturday, local baseball should be well on the way to re-organization, but as yet very little has been done to get up steam. The prospects for a good season are bright and it requires only good leadership to bring out the best from the big field of talent that is available. There is no reason Peterborough should not be represented in at least three divisions of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association instead of in one only, as has been the case in the past. The Junior series would be a novelty that the fans would appreciate, and its introduction would help to meet some of the criticism heard annually—that of overlooking the youngsters. They should be encouraged and assisted in the great summer pastime. The age limit in the Junior series is under 20 years by May 1st. There is also the Juvenile series with an age limit of 18 years and a Midget series, the age limit being 17 years.

May See Factory League.

Just what form the City Baseball League will take remains to be seen. Some enthusiasts want a Manufacturers' League, made up of teams from the factories, with restrictions that would not permit Central Ontario League players to participate. Others who favor this league would use one or more Central Leaguers on each team, but would bar the pitchers. Then there is the proposal to operate a City League with the door wide open. But the supporters of this circuit do not want the state of affairs that existed last summer, when the Central Leaguers were conspicuous on two teams only. The senior team, will have to be considered, and the problem of deciding the players eligible for the lower loop must be handled carefully.

Intermediate O.B.A.A.

Prospects of entries from Port Hope and Lindsay for the Central League are not very assuring. If these clubs fails to enter teams, they might be disposed to enter an intermediate O.B.A.A. group with Peterobrough as the third club.

Organize Baseball Club.

The suggestion has been made that an organization might be formed to control baseball in this city, with an executive for each division or league. There are obstacles in the way, but none that are not insurmountable. The suggestion is worthy of consideration by those baseball promoters who appear to be agreed that this city is not producing its best in baseball.

She will be brought to Hartford from New Haven Tuesday to plead before United States District Judge Harland B. Howe, of Vermont, who is presiding in Hartford.

It is alleged that the woman took a package that had been deposited in a mail box by a rural delivery carrier at Colchester. The package contained several articles of children's wearing apparel, condensed milk, candy and a pair of gloves.

Mrs. Burdick is said to have admitted taking the package from the mail box, but said she had expected a package to be sent to her and thought that might have been the one. Through her inability to read well she thought it was addressed to her.

SEATS GOING FAST.

From advertisement in to-day's issue it will be noticed that the tickets for the first concert of The Peterborough Male Voice Choir on 5th April, in the Grand Opera House, are going fast. Last Tuesday the members reported close on 450 dollar tickets having been sold, leaving about 300 at this price to be sold, and these will be taken up, it is expected, before Friday next, the day for advance exchange of tickets by early purchasers. There are but a few of the 75 cent tickets left, so intending patrons should purchase tickets as soon as possible.

NO FEAR NOW OF INDIGESTION

A Host of People Seem to Thrive on What Used to Provoke Indigestion Before They Learned of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

When the stomach becomes sour, with gassiness and heartburn, due to indigestion or dyspepsia, relief may be had by one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Simply chew them, no hot water nor any other fillers for a stomach perhaps already too much overcrowded.

These tablets supply to the stomach the alkaline effect which is what relieves the sour acid condition. They also contain pancreatin to help digest the starchy foods such as potatoes, rice, oatmeal, white flour, etc.

Get a 60 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, have them on hand at all times and thus have no fear of indigestion or dyspepsia.

The fact that these tablets are on sale everywhere in the U. S. and Canada shows how generally recognized they are as an efficient and when the dyspeptic stomach needs a little help.

The first man to fall in the world war was Corporal Peugeot, on Sunday, August 2, 1914, at 10 o'clock in the morning, 30 hours before war had been declared. Peugeot, who before mobilization, was a French schoolmaster, was killed by Lieutenant Mayer, a German cavalry officer. A monument is to be erected on the spot where he fell, on the road from Jonchereny to Faverolles, on the border of Alsace.

France now has an acting army of 830,000 men, divided as follows: 570,000 Frenchmen, 160,000 natives of northern Africa, and 100,000 foreigners and native colonials.

BOSTON MAYOR PLAYS HOBO FOR A NIGHT.

Goes to City Lodging House to Learn Care Given "Down and Outers."

SLEEPS WITH FORTY.

BOSTON, March 29.—A weary man in an old brown suit and faded blue flannel working shirt, a shabby and shapeless hat, a stained old raincoat and muddy shoes entered the city hall and walked up to the door of the Mayor's office.

Here a policeman stopped the disreputable-looking person and it was not until the Mayor's secretary came out that the seeming "down-and-outer" was recognized as the Mayor himself. Andrew J. Peters, formerly member of Congress and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

In his worn and tattered garments, which proved an adequate disguise, Mayor Peters had spent the night at the Wayfarers' Lodge in the west end, to ascertain for himself how "down-and-outers" were treated at that institution.

The Mayor disrobed and took a shower bath in company with a few score of unknowns and slept in a room with thirty or forty strange companions. In the morning he chopped wood four hours for his breakfast, which he declared "tasted mighty good."

The Superintendent missed a chance to gain favor by failing to recognize his Honor, and rebuking the latter sharply when he tried to converse. On the other hand, a good-looking young fellow who was stopping at the lodge overnight made a hit by offering to help the Mayor chop his share of the wood when he showed signs of fatigue.

"Go to City Hall today and inquire for Mayor Peters," said the tired chopper to the kindly young man. "I've got a pull at City Hall and may get you a lift."

The young man appeared this afternoon and found a job with a downtown business house waiting for him.

Telling the story of his experience, the Mayor said:

"I stood in line at the lodge, and there were four men ahead of me. On going into the light I was a little shaky, but I saw in a moment that no one recognized me. I registered as John Stevens of New York and was given check No. 69. More men continued to come in behind me. The clerk at the desk was too busy to either recognize me or care who I was.

"After registering, I took my number check and went down stairs. Here we all stripped and our clothes were hung in the fumigating room, and we all took warm baths. We were then given each an undershirt, our hats, socks and shoes. I went upstairs to a room on the second floor, where I was given a bed. The beds had wire mattresses, with two blankets over them, and there were two thicknesses for covering and a small pillow. The beds were quite comfortable.

"Last night there appeared to be a larger number of men than usual and they kept bringing in extra beds and setting them up. Putting the iron beds on the wooden floor made quite a racket. They admit men up to 12 o'clock.

"I was told that there were seventy-five men there last night, and in the room where I slept there must have been thirty or forty men. The room was airy and well ventilated. Some of the men had colds, and some of them coughed badly most of the night. I slept fairly well, and I believe the others did.

"At an early hour this morning when it was still dark, a bell rang. I was told it was 5 o'clock, but, as I had no watch, I could not tell. We all went down stairs, put our night shirts in a pile, presented our tags and received our clothes back. Then I went out with the others to split wood.

"It didn't take me very long to dress, so I was at work in the wood yard from a few minutes after 5 o'clock until 9 o'clock when we went in for breakfast. Only about one-third of the men really worked and there was no official in the yard to see the amount of work done. Chopping wood is certainly an excellent way to get up an appetite for breakfast.

"The men who weren't working got the first table. They served a good breakfast. We had oatmeal with sugar and milk which was excellent, bread, which was excellent, and coffee which was not very good.

"I went up to the superintendent of the lodge, whom I have met there before, and wishing to make some pleasant remark, asked him if he didn't know a good many of the people who came in there. He gave me a cold eye and said 'I don't have to know any one, I don't want to.' He was at the door when I left and I said that I would come back some time and that I hoped he would remember me.

"I got interested in the young man who gathered up my wood. He offered to do the chopping for me, and no doubt he could have done a much better job He had quite a story. He had been working in the backwoods, and had come to Boston in a box car. I told him that I might be able to help him.

"As a whole the Wayfarers' Lodge is to be congratulated on the way it is run. The quarters are well kept and clean. I shall recommend to the council the expenditure of $42,900 to provide for additional showers, of which there are at present only three; better locations for the dining room, storeroom and kitchen. The dormitories also will require general overhauling, and there is needed a new lighting system and new ceilings."

JACK JOSEPHS IS GOOD LIGHTWEIGHT

READY TO SWAP PUNCHES WITH HIS OPPONENT

DULUTH, March 29.—The greatest lightweight ever developed in the Northwest! That's what they say of Jack Josephs, the Mill City whirlwind who has been going great guns during the past twelve months. Josephs, who is not yet 21 years old, and who has been in the boxing game less than two years, has engaged in more than 30 contests and has never been turned back. He started right with a jump and met the leading lightweights in this vicinity, scoring victories over Bobby Ward, Johnny Schaer, Johnny Noye, Solly Burns, and recently kayoed the clever Billy Carter.

Joseph's sensational rise up the pugilistic ladder of fame stamps him as a dangerous contender for the lightweight crown and rabid fight fans in this neck of the woods are already clamoring for a match between this youngster and Benny Leonard. Josephs shows great improvement with every fight and even at this stage of the game has evinced enough good form to stamp him as championship material. He is a rangy boy, fully developed, who boxes with the speed of a bantam and who can punch as good as any of the welterweights. His biggest asset, and that which has made him a prime favorite with fans who have seen him in action is his willingness to stand toe to toe and swap punches with his opponents from bell to bell. He is possessed with unusually great stamina and usually crowds thirty rounds of ordinary milling into a ten round bout.

Josephs, despite the ability which leads fans to hail him as a coming conqueror and crown wearer, is a modest youth. His habits are good and he is a home loving boy. He is smart enough to realize that his ring days will not be everlasting and he has already made several investments which net him a neat return.

AMERICAN COLLEGE CREWS COMPLETE PLANS FOR COMING ROWING SEASON.

Next Three Months Will See Unprecedented Number of Contests — Invite Winner of Oxford and Cambridge Regatta to Cross Atlantic.

EVENTS LISTED.

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 29.—Plans for the most ambitious rowing season ever undertaken by eastern college crews have been virtually completed and the next three months will witness an unprecedented number of such contests. The details for the dual and triangular regattas so far as dates and distances are concerned, have been well worked out but the Intercollegiate Regatta, scheduled for Poughkeepsie, is still subject to possible changes.

First Race.

The season will open with a race between the Universities of California and Washington on the Oakland Estuary on April 9, and while this contest is far outside the domain of eastern collegiate rowing, the result will be watched with interest. It is generally understood that the winning 'varsity eight will journey east to compete and the advent of Pacific Coast crews in eastern waters always adds a touch of the picturesque, giving intersectional flavor and snap to the Hudson River regatta.

Pacific Championship.

In the past, Washington, California and Stanford have met annually at Oakland in a race for the Pacific Coast championship. This year Stanford dropped crew work on account of the heavy expense. Rowing is not among the recognized sports at the other western colleges.

Both the Washington and California shells this year will have about half their seats filled by veterans. Washington reports the return to school of four of last year's eight, Captain Charles Logg, No. 7; Clarence Magnusson, bow; Russell Nagler, coxswain, and Louis Nederlee, No. 2. At California, four men, including Captain John Rogers will be available, it is thought.

Wisconsin Interested.

In the middle west Wisconsin has resumed rowing after a six-year lapse in inter-varsity sport and should the material warrant may enter an eight at Poughkeepsie. It is not unlikely that the winner of the Pacific coast championship race will stop off at Madison, enroute east, for a short distance race against Wisconsin. Should California be the far coast representative a dual race with Princeton, previous to the Hudson regatta, is also tentatively scheduled.

Invitations to England.

Both Cornell University and the Intercollegiate Rowing Association have extended invitations to the winner of the Oxford-Cambridge regatta, to be held on the Thames, England, on March 30, for either eight, to cross the Atlantic and row here. A race between Cornell and one of the English eights would be an extremely interesting international event staged at Ithaca. Could the winner of the English 'varsity regatta be persuaded to compete at Poughkeepsie the Hudson River races would take on world-wise importance.

Cornell, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Columbia are certain to compete at Poughkeepsie for the Intercollegiate championship over the three-mile course. A Pacific Coast College crew and Wisconsin are being tentatively counted upon as additional entries. There is also a chance that the Navy may enter its world championship 'varsity, which is likely to become a certainty should one of the English crews decide to row on the Hudson.

NEED OF GOOD ROADS IS HERE EMPHASISED.

Reaching Peterborough by Auto Next to Impossible.

PORT MOPE, March 29.—Starting for Peterborough with a motor hearse on Sunday evening, Mr. J. T. George had to abandon the trip after several unsuccessful attempts to negotiate the four miles of road between Fraserville and Springville, which he found impassable.

Returning, the big hearse stalled repeatedly. At four different points teams of horses had to be used to pull the car out. Mr. George spent the night at Fraserville, and returned to Port Hope next morning, the car coming in under its own power.

Mr. W. A. Russell and Mr. Sloan stalled in the same section, and had to be towed more than seven miles. The front spring of Mr. Russell's car was broken and every tire was blown. Reaching Peterborough by automobile is next to impossible.

187,000,000 DOZEN CANADIAN EGGS IN 12 MONTHS.

Stands Unrivalled in Poultry Raising.

OTTAWA, March 29.—The importance and magnitude of the poultry industry in Canada may be gleaned from the following figures, quoted by S. Frank Glass, M. P., at a recent "Billy" McNeil banquet:

Canada produced in the year 1920, no fewer than 2,224,000,000 or 187,000,000 dozen, equal to 6,233,333 cases or 15,555 car loads.

One extra egg consumed per head of population each week would add to production requirements, 468,000,000 eggs, or 21 per cent.

The total number of poultry in Canada in the year 1695 was 362 in Acadia.

In 1891 the total was 12,696,701; in 1901 the number was 16,651,337; in 1911 it had risen to 29,773,457, and in 1921, it was estimated at 45,000,000.

Canada has advanced in the poultry industry more than any country in the world.

The latest returns show that for the year the number of eggs imported was 6,515,928 dozen of the value of $3,051,833, or 46.8 cents per dozen, and exported 6,324,838 dozen of the value of $4,198,430 at 66.3 cents per dozen.

The total Oriental arrivals was 52,245 cases or 1,560,750 dozen.

Canada in Foreground.

"Canada stands unrivalled among the countries of the world in the matter of poultry raising, and the poultry division at Ottawa is unrivalled among the experimental farms in the world," said Mr. Glass.

"Britain is undoubtedly the future market for Canadian eggs. Having established standards for our egg products we will get a higher price in Britain than anywhere else. Canadian eggs are worth twelve pence per dozen more in the markets of Great Britain than those imported from South America.

In the House of Commons last week Mr. Glass, in a defence of the work of the experimental farms, said that the poultry industry had been largely developed through experimental farm work, and through the standardization act affecting eggs. Canadian producers were able to export eggs at a much higher price than that at which they could be imported, but the work of the experimental farms could not be measured in dollars and cents of profit.

United States this year will spend $1,045 in the form of a donation toward The Hague Peace Palace. To get ready for future wars, the Government this year will spend $861,291,800, or about 25 per cent. of the total appropriations.

GERMAN REVOLT WEAKENS; FAST DISINTEGRATES

MINOR OUTBREAKS STILL OCCUR IN CENTRAL GERMANY AND IN THE WEST, BUT BELIEVED REVOLT IS BROKEN.

STRIKE ATTEMPTS FAIL

BERLIN, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Advices from Central Germany state that the Communist revolt which appeared threatening last week is rapidly disintegrating into minor outbreaks. The declaration is made that the backbone of the projected revolution there has been definitely broken. The Communists are still interfering to some extent with railroad traffic at various junction points in Western Germany.

Sporadic strikes are reported from Halle and Jena, where the electric power plants are shut down and an attempt to tie up the Ruhr district has been made, but the latter attempt has thus far failed, except at Remscheid, where about half of the workers employed in various plants have failed to report for duty. Labor leaders identified with the majority, and Independent Socialist parties declare the attempts made by Communists to precipitate a general strike in large industrial plants in this city have failed. They say that the votes taken among the workmen showed an overwhelming majority in opposition to a walkout.

LONDON, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Fifty persons were killed in yesterday's fighting at Gevelsburg, Westphalia, while the police were dealing with a Communist rising there, according to Berlin despatches to-day. The town, which has been taken possession of by Communists, was recaptured from them by the authorities. Three persons were killed and five wounded in disorders at Mannheim. A Communist riot has been suppressed at Dresden. Ninety-two Communists were arrested. Dusseldorf despatches state that Communist activity in the Rhine region is increasing, and it is asserted some mines have been seized by the workers.

BERLIN, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—A despatch received from Essen says an extraordinary state of siege has been declared there. The despatch adds that the great Krupp Works are in operation, and that the street cars are running.

JUDGE SHOWS MERCY TO MAN OUT OF WORK AND FAMISHED, WHO HAD TAKEN FOUR LOAVES

MONTREAL, March 30.—A judge's prerogative of mercy was exercised to-day in Enquete Court, when Isaac Leascock appeared before Judge Lanctot, charged with stealing 4 loaves of bread from a shop in Clarke Street.

In the dock he presented a famished forlorn appearance, and when asked to plead, told a pitiful tale. He had been out of work for three months; his little store of money was gone, and he had not a friend or relative in the world.

"I was hungry," he concluded simply, "so I took the loaves."

Judge Lanctot considered that the time the man had spent in jail was sufficient punishment, and told him that he was at liberty to go.

Cambridge Wins by One Length Racing Classic on Thames

OXFORD LED SHORTLY AFTER THE START BUT THEY WERE BEATEN OUT BY A LENGTH AT THE FINISH.

WEATHER WAS IDEAL

LONDON, March 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Cambridge won the annual boat race with Oxford to-day over the four miie course on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake. Cambridge led at the start, but were overtaken by their opponents. The light blues regained their position at the end of the four miles, running out the winners by a length. The official time of the winner was nineteen minutes, forty-four seconds.

The weather for the race was ideal, the afternoon being a bright one and the water smooth, fanned only by a gentle south-westerly wind. The breeze was sufficient, however, to give a slight advantage for the first third of the race to the Oxford crew who, winning the toss, chose the Surrey side. An enormous crowd witnessed the event. The Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Prince Henry were on the umpire's boat.

To-day's race was the seventy-second meeting of the rival universities, Oxford having won thirty-nine times, Cambridge thirty-one, while on one occasion, in 1877, the race resulted in a dead heat.

The boat race is one of the great sporting events of England, which attracts attention from all classes, being an institution of the country to the same extent as is "The Derby."

In the early days a heavy style of boat was used, outriggers being first employed in 1864. It was not until 1875 that the present style of keelless boat was adopted, and the sliding seat was not made use of until 1873.

From 1839-1842 the course rowed was from Westminster to Putney. Since 1845 the contest has taken place from Putney to Mortlake, except in 1846, 1852 and 1863, when the course was reversed.

FROSTY WEATHER GOOD FOR SUGAR

A frosty night and a sunshiny day—this is the ideal weather for sugar-making, said a dealer this morning. The cold snap which commenced on Monday was just what was needed to ensure a good maple sugar crop, for the sap, which was running but feebly, has commenced to flow freely again, and the season, which promised to be fairly short, has been lengthened.

COMMITTEE ON PARKS MEETS

TENDER OF $900 OF W. RICKEY FOR CARE OF PARKS ACCEPTED AFTER SOME DISCUSSION.

SIDING PLANS APPROVES

The Railways and Parks Committee met before the Council meeting last night. Ald. H. Gainey was in the chair.

Ald. J. J. Turner, N. Phelan, and J. Crowe were the other members present.

John Kearns was heard, and asked that permission be given to the C.G.E. Football Club to play on the north-west corner of King Edward Park.

The matter was laid over to give the chairmen and members of the committee an opportunity to examine the field.

Tender of W. Rickey Accepted.

Two tenders were received for the care of the parks this season. These were from W. Rickey, $900.00, and Frank Wise, $985.00.

Ald. Turner could not get a seconder to a motion that Mr. Wise's tender be accepted.

Ald. Crowe's motion that the lowest tender, that of Mr. Rickey, be accepted.—Carried.

In the report of the committee, later presented to the Council, this appointment was not adopted, but will be referred back to the Council on Monday night.

Ald. Turner moved in Council that Mr. Wise's tender be accepted. After some discussion, in which Mr. Wise's record was commended, the motion was not voted on, and the whole matter will be rehashed on Monday night.

Get Price on Property.

The committee moved that D. J. Lundy, J. J. Howden, and J. Ellis be written to by the City Solicitor and asked for their best price on their property, on which they claim damages from the city in the construction of the bridge, with or without the buildings, and requested to reply by 13th April, 1921, with a proper registerable description of this property. D. J. Lundy offered his property for 7,500, provided the offer was accepted in 19 days.

Plans Approved.

Plans submitted by the G.T.R. of a railway siding crossing at Rink Street were approved by the committee.

COL. THOMPSON URGES CHANGE PENSION ACT

CHAIRMAN OF PENSION BOARD WOULD WIDEN SCOPE OF REGULATIONS.

OTTAWA, March 30.—(Canadian Press.)— Amendments to the Pensions Act, widening the scope of the regulations under which pensions could be paid to widows and children of soldiers, were recommended to the Parliament Committee on Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment this morning by Col. John Thompson, chairman of the Board of Pension Commissioners. The amendments provided that pensions should be made payable to dependent children and widows in event of a soldier dying of disabilities not attributable to war services and within a five year period from the date of the discharge.

At the session this afternoon, a Hamilton delegate outlined a scheme for settling tuberculosis patients in the Dundas Valley and stated that land had already been secured for this purpose. He proposed that the patients should secure money for house construction from the Ontario government and establish a workshop where patients could work under medical supervision and earn their living.

PLAN TO TAKE FURTHER STEPS AGAINST HUNS?

PARIS REPORT SAYS THAT THE BRITISH LEADERS CONFERRED LAST NIGHT ON THIS MATTER IN LONDON.

IS NOT CONFIRMED

PARIS, March 30. —(Canadian Press).—A London despatch to Petit Parisien says that Lloyd George, Sir Laming Worthington Evans and Field Marshal Wilson held a conference last evening, and it is believed in London that the question discussed was the extension of military penalties upon Germany as a result of her refusal to pay twelve billion marks in reparations before May 1 as demanded by the Reparations Commission.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES SAY BONUS NEEDED

PROTEST AGAINST GOVERNMENT'S ANNOUNCEMENT TO MAKE 25 PER CENT. CUT.

Requesting the Government to continue this year the bonus paid to Civil Service employees to meet the high cost of living during the war, the Peterborough Postal Employees have forwarded their protest to the Government's announced intention of reducing the bonus twenty-five per cent. immediately. From all over Canada the branches of the Civil Service have sent telegrams to Premier Meighen, urging that the bonus be paid in full this year. They plead that although there have been a few reductions in the cost of living the price movement has not yet become extensive enough to warrant the proposed cut of twenty-five per cent. The bonus to married men has been $420 a year. Some of the Post Office employees who are approaching the maximum salary and receiving increases that will eventually bring them to the prescribed limit will be hard hit by the withholding of part of the bonus, it is said. The annual increase of these men is $120, but if $105 is taken off their bonus they will get an increase for the year of only $5. The Civil Service staffs hope that their request will be granted and that the H.C.L. bonus will not be reduced this year.

REDUCE PRICE OF RESTAURANT EGGS

HEAVY PRODUCTION AND LOW PRICE REFLECTED ON BILL OF FARE.

The recent long decline in the price of eggs has re-acted in the restaurants to the benefit of the consumer. Paul Sariotis, of the Home Lunch, has revised the list of all egg dishes, including "ham and," omelettes, plain and variegated, sandwiches, western and otherwise, and has clipped five cents off the old prices. The other plain sandwiches have been reduced to the same basis of ten cents instead of fifteen, Westerns are 15c, Club House 35c, ham 10c, ham and egg sandwiches 15c and so on. The industry of the egg producers has been cordially welcomed by housewives, and is none the less gratifying to those who snatch a sandwich and glass of milk for lunch.

HITCH IN THE ARBITRATION

PROCEEDINGS IN CONNECTION WITH LOSSES ON CANADIAN BACON WILL BE DELAYED FOR SOME TIME.

ARE TO BE PRIVATE

LONDON, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Arbitration proceedings in connection with the losses on Canadian bacon exported to England under contract with the British Food Ministry during the closing months of last year will not be commenced for some time, it is now stated. Representatives of leading Canadian interests concerned have arrived here, but it has not yet been settled whether the Arbitration Tribunal will sit in London or Liverpool. The proceedings will be private.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT ADOPTED

D. G. MALONEY WILL TAKE OVER THE MARKET.

When he recommended the adoption of the Property committee's report to the Council last night, Ald. Jones moved that the recommendation of D. G. Maloney as market clerk be rescinded and Walter Fisher appointed. "I would sooner see Mr. Fisher there in the interests of the city. I have nothing against Mr. Maloney, but you know the trouble we have had this year and we know Mr. Fisher was a good man.

"I don't see any use in calling for tenders and then going back on them," asid Ald. Hamilton.

The vote of the Council split even on Ald. Jones' motion, accepting Mr. Fisher's tender, and Ald. Hamilton's amendment that the report be adopted as read.

The vote was—For motion, Jones, Turner, Whitehouse and Morrison. For amendment, Hamilton, Gainey, Crowe and Phelan. The Mayor voted for the amendment, confirming Mr. Maloney's appointment.

VOTE ON DAYLIGHT SAVING WILL BE SIMULTANEOUS WITH THAT ON THE STORM DRAIN BY-LAW.

FURTHER PAVING WORK

Three by-laws were introduced and passed by the City Council at its meeting last night. A by-law to authorize the construction of sewers on George street between Westcott and Romaine street, on Olive avenue from Perry to the end of the street and on Smith street from Stewart to Reid street, was passed.

Daylight Saving.

A by-law to take a vote of the electors on April 6 on daylight saving was introduced by Ald. Gainey and passed. No dates were mentioned in the by-law.

The question asked will be: "Are you in favour of daylight saving or not?"

Ald. Hamilton introduced a by-law to repeal the present by-law governing holidays and the salaries of the fire department to take effect on May 2.

Ald. Turner was the seconder.

Ald. Crowe could not conceive in legislation being passed by the provincial government that would make it impossible to reduce the firemen's salaries, but the City Solicitor assured him that if the bill was adopted the results would be as outlined. "If no salaries are fixed at that date you can fix them for yourselves later. This by-law will protect you to a certain extent."

A Safeguard.

Ald. Whitehouse—"I understand Ald. Hamilton's by-law is to safeguard ourselves."

"The only thing we can do is to protect ourselves," said Ald. Jones.

"It won't do any harm as far as I can see," said Ald. Crowe.

The by-law was passed.

Another by-law appointing James Middleton assistant city assessor, was laid over.

Permission to Install Gas Tank.

Applications were received by the Council last night from the Auto Repair Co., Charlotte street, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, Brock street, and H. W. Gray, Charlotte street, for permission to install gasoline tanks. After considerable discussion permission was given.

Machine Gunners Get German Guns.

Major Leonard Fraser, O. C. the 3rd Machine Gun Company, wrote the Council asking that the four captured German machine guns and ammunition boxes allotted to Peterborough be given to the company for purposes of instruction.

The request was complied with on motion of Ald. Crowe, seconded by Ald. Jones, the guns to be turned over to them subject to the terms imposed on the city.

Grant Billiard License.

A billiard license was granted to A. King.

Back Pay Due.

A motion was passed drawing the Russell-Townsend Company's attention to the back pay due the laborers on the bridge and the chairman of the special bridge committee, Ald. Hamilton, was instructed to see that this matter was settled.

Will Report on Application.

In the future all applications to have trees removed or any application referring to the streets will be reported on by the City Engineer by a motion of Ald. Hamilton's, seconded by Ald. Jones last night.

Temporary Finances.

The City Treasurer was authorized to make arrangements with the Bank of Montreal for such funds as are necessary before the taxes are received.

Complaints.

Ald. Gainey complained of tin cans and garbage being dumped into the ditch on Concession street in front of E. Courtney's house. City Engineer Parsons promised to look after this as he did a complaint by Ald. Crowe that the surface drain on McDonnel street from Park street to the boundary was not large enough.

COUNCIL PLANS NEW PAVEMENTS

WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED—START ON GEORGE STREET SOUTH.

The Council last night had a prolonged discussion on street paving, and Ald. Crowe, who took a leading part in urging speedy action to give the unemployed work, moved, seconded by Ald. Jones, that notice be given the ratepayers of the intention of the Council to pave George Street, from the C.P.R. to Romaine Street, Water Street, from Brock to Dublin Street, and McDonnel Street, from Aylmer to Reid. The motion passed, the Council being unanimously in favor of carrying on considerable paving this year.

Work Laid Over.

Ald. Whitehouse first brought up the matter. The Hydro - Electric Commission, he said, understood last year the city intended paving from the C.P.R. to Romaine Street, and went ahead with their part of the work. "I would like to know what the city is going to do in this matter?"

Concrete Paving.

"I think we ought to put down concrete," said Ald. Morrison. Ald. Phelan said that he believed concrete paving would be the most economical and satisfactory kind of paving. "It also gives local labor employment, for it does not take experts to lay it. I would strongly favor putting down cement."

"I'm convinced concrete paving is the best," declared Mayor McIntyre. In fact, nearly all the Council spoke in favor of a concrete paving programme by the city this year.

"There are arguments for and against all kinds of pavements," said R. H. Parsons, City Engineer. "There is no question at all that there are many things in favor of concrete, but I don't think where there is heavy traffic it will stand up like asphalt. People also think anyone can put down cement, which is entirely wrong. Concrete is the cheapest form of permanent pavement, and although in some places where there is a poor bottom, in Peterborough, with well-drained subsoil, he believed it would be very satisfactory if a two-layer top was put on." Mr. Parsons said it would take some time to prepare a report on the paving.

Ald. Whitehouse said the streets heretofore mentioned were the only ones with proper sewer connections ready to be paved.

Council Enthusiastic.

"I think calling for tenders is better than the city doing the work," said Ald. Phelan. "Why couldn't Mr. Parsons be preparing other streets for paving while we do these?" was Ald. Phelan's ambitious shot at the Council.

Mayor McIntyre was also in favor of going ahead with extensive paving. Around his section he believed the people wanted the pavement. He for one was prepared to pay for it. Ald. Crowe's motion was passed, the forerunner of definite action by the Council in the near future.

Weigh Fowl.

Ald. Jos. Crowe gave notice to the Council last night of a motion to require all fowl on the market to be sold by weight and to have a tag showing such weight tied on the poultry. Ald. Crowe said in other places this system had proved satisfactory and eliminated any possibility of an unfair bargain.

Last Night's Council.

Mayor McIntyre presided at last night's Council meeting. Other members present were: Aldermen Phelan, Jones, Whitehouse, Morrison, Gainey, Turner, Crowe and Hamilton.

POPE CONCERNED REGARDING IRISH

EXPRESSES CONCERN OVER DEPLORABLE CONDITIONS TO BEV. MANNIX.

ROME, March 30. — (Canadian Press).—Deep concern over the deplorable conditions in Ireland was expressed by Pope Benedict yesterday during his interview with Archbishop Daniel J. Mannix, of Melbourne, Australia, who came to this city from England, where he was in close touch with the Irish situation. The audience, which lasted an hour, was marked by the utmost cordiality.

MURDER SOLDIERS IN PRESENCE OF GIRL COMPANIONS

ONE GIRL FOUGHT FOR COMPANION'S LIFE IN VAIN.

DUBLIN, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—The murders of unarmed soldiers in Cork on the eve of the recent execution of Sinn Feiners were reprisals for the executions, says an official statement contained in a report of military inquests issued yesterday. The reports state that the soldiers in most cases were walking with girls on the outskirts of the city when they were attacked by men, who tore them from the girls and shot them in the presence of the young women, finishing the wounded soldiers off as they lay on the ground. In one case a girl fought vigorously with the raiders for the life of her companion, the reports say.

Captain William Good, a young former army officer, was taken from a carriage and shot dead at Timoleague, County Cork, yesterday. The usual spy notice was affixed to his body. The father of Captain Good was shot dead a fortnight ago.

DEVELOPING OF FOREIGN TRADE GOOD

ITALIAN MARKETS OPEN TO CANADA AND PROGRESS ALREADY MADE IN SOUTH AFRICA.

WEST AFRICA NEXT

(Special to The Examiner by Cross-Atlantic News Service.)

LONDON, March 30.—The wonderful increase in the trade between Italy and Canada during the past few years is indicated in a statement made to-day to Cross-Atlantic by W. M. Clark, Canadian Trade Commissioner for the Mediterranean and for Switzerland. The value of exports from Canada to Italy before the war amounted to about half a million dollars, said Mr. Clark, and these have risen until they amount to over fifty-seven million dollars. The Canada Steamships has begun an experimental service direct to Genoa, and if the offerings warrant it, a regular service will be begun between these two ports next month, while it is likely that the Canadian merchant marine will also run between these ports as soon as vessels are available.

"If Canada puts forth the same effort to secure trade in West Africa as she has done in the Commonwealth of South Africa, she will do a surprising amount of business with the Crown colonies of that region." This was the prediction of J. W. Egan, Canadian Trade Commissioner in South Africa, in speaking to a representative of Cross-Atlantic on his return from a tour of investigation into the resources and trade possibilities of the rich dependencies lying north of the Gulf of Guinea. "Few people, even in Canada, have any idea of the wonderful strides that have been taken in the development of trade between South Africa and Canada during the last two years," he continued. "In 1913, before the war, there were fourteen representatives of Canadian firms in South Africa, while to-day there are more than 250. During that time the trade has grown from $30,000,000 to $110,000,000 with every prospect of a record year for the fiscal period that will soon close.'

Search for the brides in this city and surrounding towns proved futile.

THE ABOLITION OF CONTROLLER IS UNDER FIRE

FERGUSON CRITICIZES DISMISSAL OF FUEL CONTROLLER AND DEWART ATTACKS FINANCING.

TORONTO, March 30.— (Canadian Press.)—It was explained in the Legislature yesterday that the government had abolished the position of provincial fuel controller because it was unnecessary and that further the Federal authorities had already taken similar steps with regard to its controller.

Conservative Leader Ferguson told the House he was sorry Fuel Controller Harrington had been dismissed. The office was self-sustaining and a very necessary one. The future with regard to the coal supply was none too bright and furnished good reason for continuing the office. Coal prices had taken a tumble at the mines and the present was a good time for an energetic fuel controller to prepare for a reserve supply.

The announcement that the province proposed floating a six million dollar bond issue was referred to by Liberal Leader Dewart, who took the position that the government should, before floating any more loans, take the House into its confidence, by explaining what its financial requirements for the coming fiscal year were. The Provincial Treasurer replied that the government's requirements for the present year would be presented to the House this week. He added that the Hydro would receive $29,000,000 and that the loan would be retired next month. Further details would be found in the promised statement now being prepared.

The Attorney-General's bill for protection of the children of unmarried persons passed the committee stage as did also his measure for the legitimitation of children by subsequent intermarriage of their parents.

The bill permitting appointment of women magistrates was reported.

Action for $600 against George A. Elliott of Dummer township, was brought by Haarold F. Andrews, of Asphodel in County Court before Judge Huycke yesterday for an amount alleged to be owing plaintiff on Christmas trees contracted for and delivered in December, 1919.

Counter Claim.

The defendant entered counter claim of about $300, alleging that a contract was made for only one car, not for two cars as plaintiff claims. Subsequently a bargain was made that both parties to the agreement share equally on all shipments.

There was a deficit of approximately $600 on the transaction. It is claimed that the plaintiff should meet his share of this for which Elliott is counter claiming. Plaintiff denied such an agreement.

F. D. Kerr is counsel for plaintiff, E. Gus Porter, K.C., M.P., of Belleville, for defendant.

Venture Unprofitable.

The Christmas tree venture was not profitable because of the high quality trees demanded in Chicago and Toronto. Plaintiff swore that defendant approached him in November, 1919, with a view to his "getting out" and delivering to defendant Christmas trees. Mr. Andrews said it was understood he could sublet the contract to other men. He was to receive 13 1-2 cents a tree, while the sub-contractors were paid 5. All he had to do was to see that the trees were properly delivered. On the one car for Toronto plaintiff said a fifty-fifty agreement was made, but this car failed to net anything after the freight was paid. In spite of determined efforts he could not collect the money alleged owing him he said.

To Mr. Porter he admitted that he got the most of the trees off Mr. Elliott's own property and along the township roads. He had permission to do this he said.

Numerous witnesses were called by plaintiff and defendant.

Judgment was reserved.

HOW TO BEAUTIFY HASTINGS TOWN

LECTURE ON HORTICULTURE ATTRACTS INTEREST—SOCIAL AND PERSONAL HAPPENINGS.

Hastings, March 30. — A large and representative audience assembled in the town hall on Tuesday evening to listen to the address of Mr. Moore of Toronto, on the subject of "How to lay out a Flower Garden." The lecture was made more interesting by the use of views, which showed the right and the wrong ways of laying out a lot. The speaker was certainly a master of his subject and by his enthusiasm lent inspiration to the work in which he is so much interested.

At the close of the address Rev. Fr. Bretherton, president of the Horticultural Society, moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his excellent address. This was ably seconded by Rev. D. Thomson, and the audience showed their apreciation by a vigorous clapping of hands.

Social Happenings.

A wedding of interest locally was solemnized on Monday at noon at the home of Mrs. S. Carter, Bridge street, when her daughter, Mrs. Mary Buchanan was united in marriage to Mr. Albert Brooks of Hastings. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. L. Hinton, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks left for a short honeymoon trp after which they will take up their residence in Hastings. Many friends here join in wishing them bon voyage through life.

Personals.

Miss Kathleen Howard of Toronto is holidaying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Howard.

Arrangements are in progress for an informal dance to be held in the town hall on Friday evening.

Mr. Walter Raycraft is in Rochester where he was called on account of family illness.

Mr. Wall of Peterboro called here yesterday.

Mr. Ed. Barrigan of Peterboro, is visiting friends in town.

Dr. Sutton of Norwood called here on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Cameron of Birdsal's were in town on Tuesday.

Miss Margaret Walsh is visiting friends in Peterboro.

GOVERNMENT MARINE HAS LOST GROUND

BUT HON. C. C. BALLANTYNE CLAIMS YEAR SATISFACTORY CONSIDERING DEPRESSION IN SHIPPING.

EARNINGS $781,400

OTTAWA, March 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minisetr of Marine, made his annual statement in the House on the year's operation of the Canadian Government merchant marine yesterday. The statement had been eagerly expected since the opening of the session and was followed with the closest attention. It showed that the total net earnings of the vessels in 1920 were $781,400, or an equivalent of 2.3 of the five per cent. interest on their cost. The net profits in 1919 by comparison were $1,406,000.

Mr. Ballantyne emphasized the depression which had fallen on the shipping world, freight rates had fallen heavily. Shipping comanies were faced with the double problem of a smaller cargoe offering and the highest operating costs ever known. Large numbers of British and American ships were lying idle. "Under all these unusual conditions," Mr. Ballantyne observed, "the Canadian government merchant marine may be considered to have had a very satisfactory year."

The government now had 47 vessels in commission and the completion of its programme would see sixty-three ships, with a total of 374,254 dead weight tons. Seven of these had oil fuel installation and thirteen had refrigeration spaces.

HUNS ADDRESS SECOND APPEAL

GENEVA, March 30.—(Canadian Press). — The League of Nations has received a second protest from Germany, calling attention to the continued occupancy by Allied troops of German territory. The note expresses the hope that Articles 12 and 17 of the peace pact will be applied, according to the preceding note of March 10. The new note is dated March 22, and is signed by Foreign Secretary Simons.

PRISONERS MADE THEIR OWN HOOTCH

WILMINGTON, Del., March 30.—A still was discovered today by Warden Plummer in the kitchen of the Newcastle county workhouse. The warden said he smelled something suspicious, and on inspection found two gallons of grape juice and corn cooking on the stove in the jail kitchen. Where the prisoners obtained the material for their attempt at distilling is a mystery.

GOVERNMENT THE VICTOR IN DIVISION

DEMANDED BY-ELECTIONS

OTTAWA, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—After four hours of heated debate the Government at an early hour this morning carried a division with a majority of 31. It arose on an amendment by the leader of the Opposition to a motion to go into supply, the result being: Against the amendment 89, for 58—majority 31. The Liberals voted solidly for the amendment, the Government followers solidly against and the National Progressives split.

It was shortly after the opening of the evening sitting that Mr. King presented his amendment, demanding the immediate holding of by-elections, and for a time so slim was the attendance following the Easter vacation, there was a probability of the amendment being but barely defeated. But as the evening wore along, more and more of the Government supporters appeared, and it became apparent that there was no possibility of a Government defeat. It was a debate of some bitter exchanges of accusations flung from side to side of the House of irony and sarcasm.

CAMPBELLFORD AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY MEETING YESTERDAY

SOCIETY WILL SEEK AN INCREASED GRANT—CAMPBELLFORD NEWS—GOOD PRICES REALIZED AT AUCTION SALE.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30.—A meeting of the Agricultural Society was held yesterday afternoon with President A. Hume in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary N. Stone. The members present were: Pres. Hume, Mr. N. Stone, Mr. Henry Watters, Mr. Jas. Runciman, Mr. W. A. Wynn, Mr. T. J. Horkins, Mr. Garnet Purle, Mr. Geo. Vanvolkenburg, Mr. Fred Keller, Mrs. W. A. Wynn, Mrs. T. L. Diamond, Mrs. John Govan.

The revision of the ladies' list was discussed and left in the hands of the lady directors. They are to revise the ladies' work and fine arts department and report at the next meeting.

It was decided that the agricultural ground should not be rented this summer. This was decided for the betterment of athletic interests, and to try and influence Havelock to arrange their half holidays so as to coincide with those of Campbellford.

A motion was made that Mr. N. B. Dickson and Mr. F. Keller be a committee to approach the athletic clubs and urge their co-operation in the matter of games, etc.

Mr. Cowell's offer to arrange a programme for the evening of May 24th was accepted. This programme promises to be entirely different from what has been produced here before and will be excellently received.

Increased Grant.

Messrs. Hume, Horkins, Curle, Locke were appointed a committee to wait upon the Seymour township council to ask for an increased grant. Messrs. Hume, Anderson, Horkins, Vanvolkenburg were appointed a committee to wait upon the town council to arrange for an increased grant. These grants will be necessary because the Society intends to enlarge and better the work this year.

It was decided to try and influence the football team to arrange a game with Warkworth for May 24.

The meeting then adjourned.

Sale Prices.

Yesterday Mr. J. Battisby conducted a sale at the farm of Mr. Ross McComb, Percy township. The sale was a success and prices were good. MR. DOHERTY'S MISSION.

Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture, has returned from England, where he has been endeavouring to have the embargo against Canadian cattle raised. He declares that he anticipates the lifting of the embargo before July 1st. However that may be, there are many people who are at a loss to understand why it was considered necessary for the Minister of Agriculture to depart on such a mission with the Legislature in session and with a general feeling existing that representation in regard to the embargo should come from the Federal rather than the Provincial authorities. The voyage of the Minister was undoubtedly an enjoyable one for Mr. Doherty, who was able to get his name in the English papers and get a glimpse at the latest Bond street styles, and he probably appreciated the sea air better than he would have the vitiated atmosphere of the Legislature.

THE PLACE OF SPORT.

The prominent place accorded organized sport at the annual meeting of the Ontario Educational Association—the first time in the history of that body when athletics occupied such a leading position in the deliberations of the organization—will be pleasing to those who long have sought to drive home the lesson that clean healthful recreation in the schools generally means much to any community. The development of the youth of Canada is incomplete if some regard is not paid to training the body as well as the mind, and it is gratifying to find that this fact is receiving proper recognition from the educationists of the Province. Supervised playgrounds for the little folks, ample facilities for sport in the schools and colleges, playing fields and athletic grounds for the young people, public swimming pools, public skating rinks and slides—these are no longer fads, but necessaries in any modern community. When such authorities as Rev. D. Bruce Macdonald, Principal of St. Andrew's College, and Major-General Sir A. C. Macdonell, Commandant of Royal Military College, unhesitatingly state their firm belief in the benefits that are to be derived from a sane participation in athletic sports there should be no hesitation on the part of laymen in subscribing to the same principle. Dr. Macdonald's declaration that a people which employed its spare time in healthful recreation and pastime would be a saner and happier people than if all its amusement were sought in moving picture shows and theatres, will impress the average citizen as unanswerable. The necessity, therefore, of municipalities providing as many facilities for healthful sport as possible naturally suggests itself. Peterborough has far to go along this line before it will reach the ideal that Dr. Macdonald undoubtedly has in mind.

TAKING CHANCES.

A gateman at a railway crossing has time to observe the habits and manners of the people who cross the railway track and his observations often contain a valuable lesson. One of these guardians of public safety has written to the Ontario Safety League, telling a partial story of his own particular crossing, with special emphasis on the night operation of automobiles. He says that hundreds of motors cross his "beat" between 7.30 and 11 p.m. and that scores of these cars have no tail light, or a useless one, that many have no lights, front or rear, and that "if a man is ashamed to have his lights lit, he should not drive a car." He continues: "Safety first! I think that motorists should be warned to slow down when approaching a railroad crossing. As you know some of those express trains run very fast and it sometimes is impossible to judge the speed. Now, if a man was to be stationed at some of these crossings at some time when traffic was the busiest, he would see the complaints we, as gatemen, make against the motorist, and fine a few of them. It would help to make the crossings more safe. The gatemen are all anxious to protect the public and also the railway company and you can imagine the difficult position it puts a gateman in when a motorist drives into a gate and breaks it, as most of the gates are interlocking and cannot be raised till the semaphore is lifted.

"I have been gateman for nearly a year and I have seen some close calls, some that would raise your hair, and I would hate to see anyone hurt or killed on any of these crossings, for I am sure I would never forget it to the rest of my days."

MADE IN CANADA.

Undoubtedly a realization by the people of Canada of the absolute necessity of purchasing Canadian-made goods would do much to mitigate the present industrial depression and relieve unemployment. Too many articles which can be manufactured in this country are being bought elsewhere, and so long as these heavy purchases in foreign countries continue, the Canadian manufacturers will have difficulty in maintaining their plants in operation at their normal capacity. The duty of the Canadian people is, therefore, plain—they must insist that, as far as possible, they be supplied with Canadian-made goods. And the Canadian manufacturers on their side must see that the articles they make are equal in merit to the foreign-made product and as nearly as can be of the same price. In addition, the manufacturers of this country, by their personal example, must show the way to the public. Sir Henry Drayton emphasized that responsibility in an address to the manufacturers some time ago, and his advice is re-iterated in a recent letter issued by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which, in part, is as follows:

"The Executive Council also asks if you are concentrating your own buying power on the Canadian market? Are your purchases helping to keep the staffs of other factories busy? If you do not, will your own staff be kept busy? If you buy imported goods unnecessarily, can you ask for other Canadians to buy your goods?

"Are you watching your purchasing department and checking closely what it buys in the way of equipment, machinery, tools and supplies? Are they domestic or imported, or, has the foreign engineer or salesman told your purchasing department what it should buy? Are you living in a 'Made-in-Canada' house, or, have you been influenced by foreign architects and salesmen to live in a 'Made-in-any-other-country-but-Canada' house? Do the members of your family spend their 'Made-in-Canada' money in Canada, or, do they make buying trips elsewhere?

"And, then, your own personal purchases—what about them? Remember, that your neighbours are watching where you buy what you need for your factory, your home and yourself. They will follow your example."

PARLIAMENTARY ECONOMY.

(Montreal Star.)

Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P. for West Peterborough, was asked by Mr. J. H. Burnham, former member for that riding, to start a movement to reduce the indemnity of Federal members. Mr. Gordon's reply, according to the press, is that it would be futile for him to make any such effort, the Indemnity Act having been passed by an overwhelming Government majority.

It is not recalled that the Indemnity Act was forced on Parliament in spite of the best efforts of a united opposition, in fact, the measure received rather a non-partisan welcome. Therefore, Mr. Gordon probably has more good reasons for his feeling of helplessness than he indicates in his letter to Mr. Burnham. By throwing himself into the fight, he would risk shots from the rear as well as in front.

But it would be unfair to use this indemnity question as proof that Federal members of Parliament as a whole lack the instinct for economy. Upon occasion, when a proper appeal is made to them, they can cut down national expenses. The civil servants would testify to that.

PILING UP THE COST.

The Boston News Bureau says: Every one of the 27 Building Trades Unions of Boston has its set of rules. These rules fitted together and applied to any large construction job cover the building with a complete web of limitations and directions. They cause conflicts both between employer and employed and between rival unions. If serious trouble ensues the adjustment is all in the hands of one party, not of both. The rule in one craft reads thus: 'In case of misunderstanding between engineer and employer in regard to wages or conditions, engineer shall refer matter to business agent, whose decision shall be binding till next meeting of union." That is, in the arbitration one party is represented, the other is not.

The whole vast web of rules is designed to dilate the pay envelope, dilute the amount of work done, and keep decisions of all disputes in union hands. How some of these rules work, stated in the shortest possible terms, is shown herewith.

The rules specify minutely just what each craftsman may do. Therefore, the plumber and his helper require the owner to send for a union carpenter to remove four screws and lift away a board so that the plumber can get at the leak; the waiting time all had to be paid for at union rates, of course. To keep excavations clear of water pumps have to be worked, and from time to time moved from place to place about the building site.

To move a pump "under the rules" requires the services of two steamfitters, two plumbers, three iron workers and one engineer, eight men for what one skilled and one unskilled worker could do in less time and just as well. Carpenters cut up the wooden forms into which concrete is poured; when concrete is solid the forms are stripped away; any plain laborer could tear them down, but carpenters must do the work at union rates.

Quantities of steel rods are used on buildings for re-enforcing purposes; only iron workers may place them; when on a Sunday the concreters on a recent job used ordinary laborers to shift slightly the position of a lot of bars the iron workers claimed their rights had been invaded and compelled the payment of double time for a day when they had not been anywhere near the job. Usually in cement work the finishers must idly wait some hours between placing the finish and the final troweling; certain ingredients placed in the finish will "hurry the set" and save time; the union rules prohibit the use of the time-saving method.

In the building trades all hours in excess of eight a day are overtime. On all the railways of the United States overtime is paid at time-and-a-half rates, but building labor in Boston gets double time, that is $2 an hour. Labor declares the intent is to prevent employers from exacting excessive toil from the workers. Yet experience proves that a smaller penalty is equally effective, and experience also demonstrates that labor likes the double pay and therefore "plays for" the overtime. The temptation is quite alluring.

Ridiculous illustrations are plentiful that show how the rule operates. The pump man spends the noon hour at lunch and collects $2 because the pump keeps on running although needing and getting no attention whatever. This man gets, therefore, $10 a day. Two men turn a switch and set an electric converter to going and turn the switch again to stop it, between times occasionally oiling the tender spots, and these two men smilingly alternate on 12-hour shifts on the job—no wonder, one gets $168 a week, the other $112.

An employer must have an engine repaired: a regular union engineer refuses to do the work on a Sunday, although thus he would most help the interests of his employer; other men tinker the engine; the union exacts payment at double rates for the absentee engineer for every hour worked by the other men—under the rules the engineer "claimed" the job as his and the union recognized the claim. Five of the Boston Building Trades Unions have a 40-hour, 5-day week, the painters, plasterers, carpenters, tile workers and lathers. Inevitably their rule tends to overtime, for with 22 trades working Saturday mornings the other five often must be called upon if delays are to be avoided. The workers seek jobs where overtime is likely to be plentiful; they charge favoritism when the overtime does not seem to be fairly divided up.

Is it any wonder that membership in these unions is thought of as a valuable privilege? The membership fee is high. It costs "somewhere round $100," payable in a few instalments, to get a union card. That was the testimony at the Chamber of Commerce hearings. Only a small number of aristocratic clubs charge more. No one is challenging labor's right to organize. But the initiation fee is significantly high.

These things all underscore the underlying fact that unionism, as regulated by the present rules, causes abnormal building costs. The party immediately affected is the owner. The parties ultimately affected are the whole people to whom necessarily the owner passes on the excessive charges.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

When Bebe Daniels, moving picture actress, gets out of jail, where she is serving a week for speeding, she will probably regard that as the most important "release" of her career.

A Port Hope moving picture theatre announces the showing of a film entitled "Deep Waters." It should have a peculiar interest for Port Hopers.

In the fight between M. M. McBride and the Independent Labour Party most people are neutral. They dont care how many names the opposing factions call each other.

The Brandon hockey team seems to have got "home" to Fort William, Port Arthur, Midland, etc., about as quickly as Varsity reached Toronto.

If your name was not on the last voters' lists you cannot vote in the coming referendum if you do not make a personal application to the Revising Officer. That is the big point to remember now.

Temperance workers are overlooking a good argument. The passing of the referendum should reduce the cost of building, for shallow cellars will once more be popular.

Hon. Manning Doherty will doubtless be glad to return to his mahogany suite in Queen's Park after his adventures abroad.

German workers are glad to work 44 hours a week for an average wage of less than $5. No wonder the invasion of German products is feared!

SUNSHINE CLUB CONTRIBUTION TO GRENFELL MISSION

The contributions for the Grenfell Mission Fund are still coming in, and the needs of the poor people who benefit by this fund seem to appeal to many different types. The very latest addition to the fund comes from a group of young ladies who have the nice "Pollyanna" name of the "Sunshine and Smiles" Club, and send the following note along with their contribution:

"We are four girls of the Sunshine and Smiles Club. On 19th March, we gave a small tea, and would like the proceeds, which is six dollars to go to the Grenfell Mission."

'To him that hath shall be given'—

Was the Biblical version of our modern saying: "Nothing succeeds like success." So it was with Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., who, over 50 years ago, gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equalled as a tonic for the weaknesses of women. Many women in every hamlet, town or city will gladly testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did them a world of good. Ask your neighbor.

Another of this great physician's successful remedies is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and, like the "Prescription," is now sold by druggists everywhere, in both liquid and tablets. This medicine was a success from the start, for the list of men and women all over the universe who have successfully used it for indigestion and as a blood tonic and system builder, makes an amazing total of thousands.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

THE SHOE ON THE OTHER FOOT

Chapter 14.

As we entered the large dining room at the Waldorf, the head waiter greeted Alvah Fairchild with a little salute of recognition and led us to a small side table against the farthest wall. I felt the charm of Alvah Fairchild's practised ability as an escort. The smoothness of his manner put one immediately at ease. Without hardly realizing it, I was soon eating quite a sumptuous meal, and enjoying it too.

"It is good of you to favor me like this," he smiled contentedly. "I find most American women are apt to be either extremely narrow or too ultra broad."

"You are not American?" I asked with surprise.

"One by adoption—I was born in England," he answered and went on, "I like America and the American women intensely, but the English woman has perhaps a more liberal mental attitude. American women are more tacit of their impressions."

"You think we are not frank enough," I sparred, toying with a fork.

"No—not that—you see, the difference is that the English tendency is to deal more in moral speculation and conversation than in the actual doing; while you Americans are quite proper in your conversation and extremely broad in your actions." He waited a minute, "I think the former attitude is healthier."

The truth of his remarks hit very near home and I could see his point plainly. Leonard and I were both doing things that we did not talk of—and yet was it not that very fact that would in time sever our affections? In fact, silence alone was making our actions wrong. I really had not felt at any time that Leonard had done anything that love and understanding could not forgive.

"I think the American women are very beautiful," he said, cleverly changing the trend of conversation. I guessed that he had followed my thought—or had he perhaps spoken of these things purposely? Whatever his motive, I did not resent it. I was sorry I had ever felt adversely towards him. Even Mrs. Darwood did not loom up so iniquitous while I was under his easy persuasion.

"Many an English woman would envy your lithe form and carriage," he went on with a natural air of flattery.

"You are a great jollier," I laughed "But don't stop—it's refreshing to one of my years. At my age a woman becomes quite vulnerable to masculine deception.

"I guessed differently of you," he said seriously. "The greatest thing you demand is honesty."

I waited a minute. "Seriously speaking, yes! But I don't want to be very serious today," I said slowly. "Please don't."

"As you like," he answered quickly "But don't think that men always require flippant banter from women, will you? Being with you seems to make me feel serious somehow," he said, and I almost laughed at his boyish fervancy. "I would like awfully if Mr. Allen and you would invite me out to your little home some evening." He paused a minute.

As Alva Fairchild walked up Fifth Avenue to Forty-second Street with me I felt contented and satisfied. I felt that seeing him had been perfectly proper. The only result had been a deeper and broader outlook on human nature, and I determined to tell Leonard of our meeting.

I just caught the 5:05 train. As I went through the gates my heart gave a little gasp of joy as I realized that it was Leonard's usual train. I walked through two cars and had about given up hope. Perhaps he was in the smoker.

Then I saw him—he was alone too. I slid into the seat beside him. My heart seemed near to his and very happy.

"Did you just get on?" He took my bundles from me. "I was wondering if you came in town today, but you didn't come in for lunch—or telephone—so I thought you had changed your mind about it."

"No, I met Mr. Fairchild and he persuaded me to have lunch at the Waldorf with him, and—I thought you might be very busy—so I did," I said, my spirits weakening as I watched his expression cloud angrily.

"What?" he said with suppressed wrath. "That Popinjay!" His lips pressed together narrowly. "A lot you thought I might be busy."

My heart sank. All the enthusiasm of telling Leonard faded into regret and disappointment. The rest of the trip home was made in silence.

MAN SAVES GIRLS MAROONED ON ICE

ATTEMPTING TO CROSS ST. LAWRENCE, GIRLS CUT OFF WHEN ICE BROKE.

ST. PAUL LERMITE, Que., March 30. — (Canadian Press). — Misses Marie and Germaine Rivest and Napoleon Provost had a narrow escape on the St. Lawrence River yesterday, when attempting to cross from this village to Repentigny, where they live. When half-way over the ice broke away from the banks and commenced to move down the river. Their cries for help attracted the attention of villagers, and inhabitants followed them along the shore, but were unable to help them. At last Clodomir Longpre put out in a boat, which at times he was forced to push over great blocks of ice, and succeeded in taking them off. He made the shore with considerable danger from the ice above.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

That $200 fine makes some men sober in two senses of the word.

Anybody can casually call a person of note by his or her first name when that person is not within hearing distance.

Some men talk so much about how they earned their first dollar that you would be led to believe that they committed larceny in order to accumulate the rest of their wealth.

This morning one of the reporters left a story of the condition of Peterborough's streets at this time of the year on the city editor's desk. It was promptly consigned to the waste basket, as the paper's policy excludes filthy stories.

English statesmen certainly differ from the brand grown on this side of the water. Recently a distinguished politician over there remarked that a speech, like a woman's dress, should be long enough to cover the subject and short enough to be interesting.

This Pollyanna drivel about every cloud having a silver lining may be a piece of insipid buncombe, but if the fact that the country isn't going to the bow-wows until we lose confidence in it could be inculcated into some of our Gloomy Gus business men the present period of trade depression might cease to look like the bottomless pit which it is not.

The Fable of the Man Who Had Arrived

By Our Own George Ade.

Once upon a Time there was an Individual who had had to get out and Dig early in life. He was possessed of all the Virtues set forth in the Inspirational Books and so he Succeeded. Having amassed his Pile, he Retired and moved in to a Residential District in order to enjoy the Fruits of his Labor. He found, however, that while he had been Grubbing those who had come into the Residential District before him had been getting Polished.

Nevertheless, he started out to be a Good Fellow. This was easy with the men as he had considerable Private Stock, but he found the Going Rough with the Fair Sex. He introduced himself to the Community by means of a number of Bun Feeds and Splurges. The Bun Feeds were Passable and induced some of his guests to Call Again. He had nothing else to offer them in the way of Entertainment, as he himself was a Glub, but he soon collected a little Coterie which contained a Prohibition Percentage of Blue Blood but was Short on Cash and glad of a Hand Out. This programme was continued for some time and he began to be Popular in this Set.

One day he awoke to the Fact that he, too, was running Short of Cash and, being gifted with a Modicum of Wisdom, he Pulled Up. But when the Hand Outs ceased his Popularity took a Tumble to about 99 points below Par.

DOES GOD CARE?

(By Evangelist H. D. Kennedy.)

Rev. J. W. Mahood, D.D., the noted American evangelist and co-worker with Dr. Wilbur Chapman, writes as follows regarding the book, of which the Examiner is in receipt of a copy:

"To find a religious book that has in it the charm of sustained and eager interest, from the first page to the last, is probably something unusual in these days. Yet that is just what one finds in "Does God Care?" by Evangelist H. D. Kennedy. The narrative follows the beautiful Bible story of Queen Esther, and the author has made the story to glow in such a way that there is not a dry or uninteresting page in the book. Written in purest, racey English and sprinkled with word pictures that leave an indelible impression on the reader. Here is a book that will live and will inspire everyone that is fortunate enough to turn its pages, with new faith in God to care for His own."

APSLEY CHEESE FACTORY OPENS

MEETING HELD THIS WEEK—APSLEY NEWS OF INTEREST.

APSLEY, March 30.—A well attended meeting to discuss opening the cheese factory in Apsley, was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening. Mr. Norman Lean presided, and in the course of his remarks said that all were anxious to see the factory running, and that it was a detriment to the country to have it closed. He would like to see it operating either as a cheese or butter factory. Mr. Norman James, the owner of the factory, said he could run either or both if he had sufficient patronage, but it seemed that the majority would rather ship their cream to Bancroft at 48c. a can than to the local factory. He quoted figures to show that it was more economical for the farmers to ship to the Peterborough Creamery than to Bancroft. After some discussion, in which the majority taking part gave it as their opinion that cheese making paid better than sending the cream away, considering the hard work of turning the separator, the chairman called for a vote. The result was an overwhelming majority for starting up the cheese factory, Mr. James agreeing to make at the same price as the last time he operated the fatcory. It was decided to hold another meeting on Wednesday the 6th of April to appoint directors and officers.

Dairy Activities.

A meeting in the interests of the creamery business was held at the Union Hotel on Good Friday evening, when the manager of the Bancroft branch of the Belleville creamery was present with a proposition to collect cream from the farms in this neighborhood. He offered to send a truck to collect cream to be taken to Bancroft. Patrons would be charged 2 cents a pound butter fat, and the creamery would pay 1 cent to cover the cost of transportation. Some of those present from the northern part of the township seemed inclined to accept the offer, but nothing definite was settled.

Easter Services.

The Easter festival was appropriately observed at St. George's church, with special services in the morning and evening. In spite of a severe thunder storm and a heavy downpour of rain which commenced at church time and lasted several hours, there was a record attendance at the morning service, with the highest number of communicants since the church was built. The church was beautifully decorated by the ladies of the congregation, while the surpliced choir of sixteen choristers acquitted themselves very creditably in the musical part of the services, which were fully choral, under the able training of Mr. E. L. Spence. Two anthems, "O Grave Where is Thy Victory," and "Awake Thou That Sleepest" were well rendered, the solo parts being taken by Miss M. Spence and Mr. E. L. Spence.

Loge Moving.

The logs to the number of about 12,000, gathered on the banks of the creek from local wood lots, have started on their voyage to Peterborough. Mr. John Coones has the contract to deliver them at Stoney Lake, and has quite a gang of men working on the drive.

Village Blacksmith.

Mr. Will Scott has secured the services of an efficient blacksmith, Mr. Duncan, and the smithy is the busiest spot in the village at the present time, and likely to continue so for some time. Mr. Scott's health has deterred him from working regularly at his trade all winter and there are great arrears of work to be made up.

Apsley Booming.

Apsley is beginning to boom. Mr. Roy Brown is building a garage and being well qualified for the work expects a busy season repairing and fitting automobiles.

Attended Service.

An old lady 74 years of age walked three miles through the mud on Easter Sunday morning to attend service at St. Stephen's church, Chandos and then walked most of the way home again through the pouring rain.

Social and Personal.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lean are spending Easter with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hales.

Miss Mildren Hales returned home on Friday after a three months' visit to friends in the west.

Miss Myrtle Windsor, who has been away for several months visiting in the west, returned home on Friday.

Mrs. H. Everett and Mr. Joseph Roberts, both of whom underwent operations in Nicholls Hospital, returned to their home in Chandos on Friday much improved in health.

GIRLS ARE BARRED WATCHING DRILLS.

BOSTON, March 29.—Because the East Boston High School cadets were slow to execute the movement "eyes right" when the girls of the school were spectators on the left, Principal Bertram C. Richardson has barred girls from watching drills.

A hundred lads absented themselves from formation recently in protest and a committee of girls waited on the Principal and requested that he reconsider the ruling. He declined on the ground that progress could not be made while the boys in the ranks divided their thought between dresses and drill.

With the girls out of sight, Principal Richardson thought the boys had a chance to master the manual and gain honors for the school in the prize drill next month.

CHURCH SERVICE AT MARK STREET

BOTH SERVICES WERE WELL ATTENDED—THE SERMON.

The largest congregation during the present pastorate took part in the service on Sabbath morning. The thank-offering in aid of the W.M.S. was more than fifty dollars. The music was very much appreciated. "Reason's Demand for Immortality" was the subject of the morning sermon, and was drawn from the text found in Luke XXIV, 5, "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" The following is a sketch of the discourse, given by Rev. G. E. Ross:

From Calvary to the Garden.

On Friday last we commemorated the sublime tragedy of the ages. Faith will ever gaze on that wondrous scene, with bowed head, and throbing heart, and falling tears. The interest thickens as we draw near to Calvary. 'Tis evening, and the crowd that had surrounded the cross for six hours, has broken up, and its members have gone away into the city, each with his own problem. We discern Joseph of Arimathea and the timid Nicodemus, assisted by those holy women, drawing out the nails and taking down the mangled body; we behold them wrapping him in clean, white linen, hastily girding him round with belts of spices; then putting him in his tomb, and departing for the Sabbath rest. To-day we shall go, by faith, to where Mary went on the morning of the first day of the week, when waking from her couch before the dawn, she hastened to the sepulchre of Jesus.

The Last to Leave the Cross; the First to Reach the Tomb.

Never did such a chaplet grace the brow of woman kind. Last at Golgotha, first at Gethsemane—this is your crown of glory, oh, women of God! You were the last to leave the rugged tree where burst the heart of the Son of God; but you were the first to behold the illuminated sepulchre, from which the triumphant Christ arose, with the keys of death, and life, of heaven and hell, of joy and immortality, hanging at His girdle. You were the last to look upon his bowed head, as the blood oozed from beneath the crown of thorns; and his voice murmured, "It is finished;" and now you are the first to hear His matchless words, "Go tell I am risen! Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel!" Come, then, oh daughters of Zion, come to the garden; but you will need no spices for the dead. A blessed surprise awaits you there.

That Garden Bower Knew No Death.

Those women came to the tomb of Jesus prepared to honour his dead body, but in seeking the dead, they found a living Christ. The grave is dark, cold, silent; full of all that is loathsome and repulsive. But the tomb of Jesus was open, empty, illuminated, occupied by angels; —it was a marble palace in minature, sanctified by Him who lay on its rocky pillow for three days and nights. Yes, and the down-flashing glories from the countenance of the risen and exalted Jesus, scatters the mists that hang around these solitary habitations of the dead, from which mortals shrink back with natural terror.

The Resurrection is a Mighty Miracle.

The resurrection of the dead is all a miracle. Nature furnishes nothing strictly analogous, since, throughout her realms, nothing that dies lives again. The transformation of insects are only different modes of life, not a change from death to life. The same remarks will apply to the return of spring after the dreary winter. Life does not come from death; it pierces through death. The difficulties of this doctrine are not more startling than are other doctrines of revelation. Life is antecedent to organism. Behind the glory of the rose is the organism; back of the organism is the life of the flower; behind the life is the plan; and back of the plan, the hand of Him who made all worlds.

Reason Demands Immortality, and is Justified.

Reason bases her demand on the universality of the idea. Man instinctively turns toward the thought of immortality, as the needle toward the magnet, as the earth toward the sun. Man's powers possibilities and longings would fain lead him beyond death, darkness and the grave. The current of belief in a future state has ever flowed through the channels of human thought. The Hebrews had their paradise. The Greeks had their Elysian fields, the Norseman sang of his Valhalla, the palace of immortality. The thought of immortality lives in monument, pyramid, in sarcophagus and storied urn, and has found expression in painting, in sculpture and in song.

Reason Demands Immortality by Virtue of Human Aspiration.

Man clings to life. The very thought of annihilation is paralysing. Darwin deplores the very idea of man ceasing to exist. If man lives not again, better for him to have filled the place of the oak or rock or rushing river. The robin migrates by instinct to the sunny south and finds what he sought, blue skies and sunshine and a summer home. God did not cheat that bird. Its longings were realised. The spirit within man yearns for a summer home beyond the winter of death and the darkness of the grave. His longings are deep as eternity and wide as the universe of God. Will this divine Father cheat man out of the realisation of his longings, and gratify the instinct of the bird? Verily, no.

God Has Stamped Immortality on the World's Best Thought.

"My tomb is not blind alley," says Victor Hugo. "It closes with the twilight to open with the dawn." "Earth recedes and heaven opens to me," says Moody. "Oh, death where is thy sting?" says Paul. "Because I live ye shall live also" says Jesus. "Never say of me that I am dead," say Browning. The belief in a future life has ever been strong, steady, and universal. Jesus has brought immortality to light by the Gospel. What a travesty on justice it will be if a man lives not again. Shall blind Handel never see the Messiah of whom he so grandly sung? Shall deaf Beethoven whose soul was tuned by a divine hand, never hear? Shall Livingstone not know the answer to his prayer for bleeding Africa? A few years ago I stood by the grave of my only boy. He was as dear to me as the red blood that warms my heart. As I turned away I blessed God for Him who is the resurrection and the life.

HAD AN ANNOYING HACKING COUGH

GOT NO REST AT NIGHT

Hacking coughs are wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest and keeps the lungs and the bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition that unless you get immediate relief the cough may become settled and serious lung trouble ensue.

There is no better remedy than Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for relieving all kinds of coughs or colds, combining as it does the lung healing virtues of the pine trees with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing and healing expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mrs. E. J. Ross, Penhold, Alta., writes "About three years ago I caught a very bad cold, accompanied with a sore throat and hoarseness. I was so hoarse that you could not hear me speak. I could get no rest at night with the terrible annoying hacking cough. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. I finally saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised so I got a bottle, and after using four of them my cough had all gone. Now I always keep it in the house."

"Dr. Wood's" is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, price 35c and only 60c a bottle. Manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE HIDDEN GOD GUARDS HIS SECRET.

Said French X-Ray Expert, a Martyr to Science.

PARIS, March 29.—"The hidden God who does not wish to give up his secret strikes down men who seek to take them," said Dr. Adolph E. Leray, chief of the X-ray laboratory in the St. Antoine Hospital, shortly before he died in Enghien.

Dr. Leray was a victim of what he believed to have been a successful effort to find protection from the X-rays which have caused the slow death of many scientists.

Research to afford protection to others was begun by Dr. Leray after his hands had become affected through the making of 35,000 radiographs in war work. Several of his fingers were amputated during his research work, but he persisted in it.

TROUBLE WITH GIRLS TO-DAY

Dr. R. Tait McKenzie of the University of Pennsylvania may be the world's greatest authority on the art of ancient Greece, but the "flappers" on Broadway say with bitter scorn that he does not know a darn thing about what girls wear underneath.

What do Peterboros belles say about it?

The trouble with girls to-day is corsets, says the Professor.

At that ever Broadway "flapper" contemptuously waived him out.

"Corsets," they sniffed. "Corsets! What is the man talking about? Our dear, cherished and quite proper mothers wore corsets. We don't wear corsets. That's out. Old stuff. The Professor may know all about Venus, but he isn't posted on us. Corsets! Huh! Try and wear them. Go to a dance in corsets and see how many times you will be asked to dance."

Perhaps the dear Professor bases his assumption on the undue display of "boned" wear in ladies' wear stores. He would have no cause to change his mind if he visited Peterborough.

List girls! Prof. McKenzie says your ideal of beauty is all wrong, and, furthermore, he maintains that those college boys who are in town now on their Easter vacation can show you up when it comes to physical beauty.

Girls, if you want to retain your beauty you must ban corsets, French-heeled shoes and exaggerated gowns that try to suggest balloons. The Professor says these, with that string of beads of yours, make more different the retention of natural lines.

He goes on to say:

"Men, as a rule, wear clothes to cover themselves. Women, very often, wear clothes to seem what they are not. By that I mean that a woman who has a naturally excellent figure imagines that she should distort it in order to wear properly the fashions of the day. Men, I am glad to say, seldom do that.

"After all, it comes down to a respectful human body. The Greeks, as we know, paid it almost divine honors. The greatest gift of the gods was a magnificent body, and they thought beauty, health, strength and virtue almost synonymous. Likewise, size was considered important; many of the heroes were described as of great size, a thing considered apparently indispensable where the greatest perfection was thought of.

"Our American college men, then, follow to a great extent this respect of worship of their bodies, and do what they can to keep them in the best condition. But too many women, in fact, most women, think less of health and strength and development than of making a stunning, fashionable and elegant appearance.

"This, of course, inevitably leads to a neglect of pure physical culture, which alone can make people approach the ideal. The small, delicate, angular, modish figure may look very well in a modern gown, but she would hardly look like much unadorned."

Mrs. Alice M. Dexter, of Edgartown, Mass., is the only licensed woman operator of a motion picture machine in the United States.

WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN SOLD FOR $75; STILL IS THROWN IN CHICAGO HUSBAND DISPOSES OF FAMILY TO BEAT COST OF LIVING—BUYER ARRESTED FOR MAKING WHISKEY, LOSES PURCHASES AND IS FINED $500.

CHICAGO, March 30.—Husbands worried by the cost of living should consider the shrewd expedients of the great West Side of Chicago. Out there, unfettered by convention, they have less rigid home economies than you'll find in more pretentious districts. It is a system profitably to be studied.

There is, for example, the lesson in saving given to-day by Julius Marcuska. Marcuska found himself hard pressed by landlord, grocer, gas man and butcher. His wife and two children were eating faster than he earned. He had to choose between increasing his revenue and decreasing his expenses.

Did he, after the American fashion, seek leisure time employment? Did he walk to save carefare, starve to save gas, move to save rent?

He did not.

"You're single," he said to John Pedruszo, "and I'm married. You don't know how unlucky you are. Why, a wife does away with board bills and the kids will run down to the corner to get beer for you and you don't have to pay for laundry."

John marvelled.

"You see how it is," Julius continued. "Now, how much will you give me for my wife and kids?"

"Oh! I don't know," said John. "Fifty dollars?"

"I should say not," Julius retorted. "A good, strong wife and two fury kids for fifty dollars? Nothing doing. But I'll tell you what. Make it seventy-five, and I'll throw in a still you can make whiskey with. What you say?"

John answered by handing over $75 and the deal was closed. Unhappily for the purchaser, however, the conventional police heard of the trade. They arrested Pedruszo and made Marcuska take back his wife. Finding the still in the wife buyer's home, they notified the Federal authorities. To-day Pedruszo was taken before Judge Landis, charged with violation of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Sure I made whiskey," he said in bewilderment. "What for would I buy a still? And why don't I get that woman back? I paid for her."

The Judge exploded.

"Men like you are a menace to the country," he said. "You came here from Russia to escape tyranny and you repay us by breaking our laws. You are fined $500."

Marcuska? Oh! He's back at the old stand, $75 richer and once more equipped with a cook-laundress-seamstress wife and two errand running kids.

SUFFERED ALL A WOMAN COULD

Mrs. Meyer Finally Found Relief and Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Orange, Cal.—"I always feel very grateful to you, as some twenty years ago three doctors said I had to have a serious operation. I had a tumor, and ulcers which would gather and break. I had displacement so badly that I could hardly sit down at times, and it seemed as if I suffered everything that a woman could suffer. Then some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it until I was well and saved from the operation. I have told women of your wonderful medicine times without number, and I am willing that you should use these facts and my name if you like. I also used your Compound during the Change, and I can do all my own work but the heavy part, and can walk miles every day as I help my husband in the office."—Mrs. J. H. MEYER, 412 South Orange St., Orange, California.

WAS ALMOST NERVOUS WRECK, STATES NURSE

Mrs. Stamore Returned From Overseas in Terrible State of Health—Tanlac Overcomes Her Troubles, She Says.

Mrs. Henrietta Stamore, a graduate nurse, residing at 213 Niapier Street, Hamilton, Ont., adds her voice to the hundreds of others in her profession who have already endorsed Tanlac. During the World War, Mrs. Stamore went overseas and was so untiring in her canteen and hospital work that she came near wrecking her health.

"On arriving in Canada in December, 1919," she states, "I was almost a complete nervous wreck. I was in such a condition I could hardly stand the train ride from Halifax to Hamilton. My appetite was gone, I could not sleep and felt as tired in the morning as on retiring at night. My condition was so distressing I did not know what to do.

"One of my girl friends told me to try Tanlac and it seemed from the start to be just what I needed, as my appetite improved and I began to gain strength. All my troubles are gone now and I just feel fine. When meal time comes I am always ready with a good appetite, and I believe I am eating more than I ever did before. Tanlac has certainly helped me wonderfully, and I can recommend it to anyone suffering from a weak, rundown condition."

Suicide Wave.

CHICAGO, March 30.—Statistics show that 254 married persons and 112 single persons committed suicide in Chicago from January, 1920, to January, 1921.

The Coroner's statement accompanying the statistics gives domestic troubles and financial worries as the cause for the greater portion of the deaths.

The Stirrup Broke.

BOSTON, March 30.—Mounted Patrolman William J. Lamb, Back Bay Police Station, met Gertrude M. Galla, daughter of a wealthy paper mill owner, at Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, when the latter's stirrup broke and her horse ran away. The incident occurred at Fenway, nearly a year ago. Marriage papers were filed by the couple recently.

Criminal Taxi-cabists.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Hundreds of men with criminal records have been found operating taxi-cabs in this city as licensed chauffeurs, according to William McAdoo, Chief Municipal Court Magistrate. Increased numbers are seeking licenses, he said, and recommended measures to prevent renewals. In the last three years 875 applicants were found to have criminal records.

PHONOGRAPH'S SECRETS REVEALED AT HEINTZMANS

Brunswick Week Is Drawing Big and Interested Crowds

This is Brunswick Week at Heintzmans (Royal Bank Buildings, corner Hunter and George streets.) For anyone who desires to become more closely acquainted with the construction of modern phonographs the special exhibit being shown all this week is wonderfully interesting. The instrument being demonstrated is the Brunswick, "All Phonographs in one." The remarkable way in which this phonograph has captured public favor is due to certain exclusive constructional features which all combine to certain exclusive constructional features which all combine to produce a pronounced tonal superiority and unique versatility.

One of these features is the all-wood oval horn, constructed entirely from choice woods without nails or metals in any other form.

Another is the Ultona, a scientifically designed tone arm and reproducer which plays each make of record with the precise needle, correct diaphragm and exact weight. The owner of a Brunswick can play any make of record without taking anything off or putting anything on.

Still another exclusive feature of the Brunswick is the 4-spring silent motor. It is absolutely noiseless. It plays 27 minutes on one winding. The springs are so arranged that even if two of these were to break the motor would keep on running.

These features and a great many others are being most interestingly demonstrated during "Brunswick" Week at "Ye Olde Firme."

A visit to the exhibit is well worth while for anyone, especially for those who already own a phonographs but are not any too familiar with its method of working.

As a climax to this interesting exhibit, Heintzmann and Co. are offering unusually easy terms on the purchase of any model of the Brunswick Phonograph. This takes the form of a "Deferred First Payment Plan."

The regular terms for instance on the model No. 110, at $205.00, would be $20.00 cash and $12.00 a month, but for this week only, they are offering to place the phonograph in your home immediately for a down payment of $10.00, and the balance on convenient terms.

So during Brunswick week only, you can have a beautiful all record Brunswick placed in your home immediately for only $10.00 down. When such easy terms are available for such a well known instrument, no home in this locality need be without a Brunswick.

RABBI MEETING IS OF IMPORT

MOST IMPORTANT EVENT SINCE THE DESTRUCTION OF SANHEDRIM IN THE FOURTH CENTURY.

HISTORICAL COMPARISON

JERUSALEM, March 30.—(Associated Press).—Opening of the Rabbinical Congress for the reconstruction of the old Superior Court, which will deal with all Jewish religious questions, is regarded throughout Palestine as the most important event since the destruction of the Sanhedrim in the fourth century. Furthermore, the Jewish press has compared the speech of Sir Herbert Samuel, the High Commissioner, delivered to the congress, with the first appeal of Nehemiah after the return from the Babylonian captivity.

The congress will elect the members of the new High Court, composed of eight members, four chosen from among the Sephardin and four from among the Ashkenazim. There will be two presidents.

Norman Bentwich, the legal Secretary, presiding at the first meeting of the congress, gave a historical account of the development of Jewish law and the constitution of the rabbinical courts throughout the centuries. He pleaded for certain reforms to meet modern conditions.

Governor Storrs of Jerusalem greeted the congress in Hebrew, declaring Christendom would never forget its gratitude to the Jewish religion.

The Sanhedrim or Beth Din, which appears to have begun in the time of Ezra and Nehemiah after the return from the Babylonian captivity, enjoyed a period of great authority under the presidency of the important officials, commonly called "Patriarchs of the West," in contradistinction to the religious chiefs of the Mesopotamian Jews, descended from those who did not return to Palestine and who were called the "Princes of the Captivity" or the "Exilarchs."

The Sanhedrim came to an end under Roman persecution in the fourth century. Its duties were to decide questions of religious law, to arrange the calendar and to provide the King with correct copies of the Torah. The Sephardin are the Ladino-speaking Jews of Spain, Tunis and Saloniki, while the Yiddish, speaking Jews of Poland and Germany belong to the Ashkenazim. Both parties will find a common tongue in modern Hebrew, which is now one of the official languages of Palestine.

TO BE TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION

THE CAUSE OF MANY ILLS

If you do not feel well and go to your family physician, one of the first things he will do is to ask you to hold out your tongue. The reason for this is that the condition of the tongue shows the condition of the stomach and bowels.

If you allow your bowels to become constipated you will have bilious attacks, sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, heartburn, water brash, etc, and those troublesome piles which cause so much annoyance and misery.

Keep ouyr bowels moving regularly and you won't be sick.

In Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills you will find just the remedy you require for this purpose. They are purely vegetable and do not gripe, weaken or sicken.

Mr. James S. Harris, Box 9934, Halifax, N. S., writes: "For two years I sugered with constipation. I could not get anything to cure me, and hardly anything would give me even temporary relief. One day my uncle induced me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and even brought me a vial. I tried them without much faith, but I soon found that they were doing me good, and after using the second vial I was relieved of the trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price, by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DISCUSS STREET LIGHTING PLANS

ALD. CROWE HAS POOR OPINION OF LOCAL SYSTEM.

Out of a scathing condemnation of Peterborough's street lighting by Ald. J. Crowe, a resolution that the Fire, Water and Light Committee discuss with the Utilities Commission improvements in street lighting and the possibility of turning off the lights in daytime, was adopted. Ald. Crowe declared that this city was one of the most poorly lighted in the province. "It seems to me we're the laughing stock of the country," he said. He suggested having every veranda lit as in Orillia. "I think there should be a special committee to see about that," said Ald. Jones. "It's up to Mr. Crowe to move his committee." "I don't think I can do any better than appoint the Fire, Water and Light Committee," said Ald. Crowe, and so Ald. Morrison's committee will, in the near future, spend an evening with the Utilities Commission to discuss ways and means of better street lighting.

New Lights.

The Council approved of placing two lights on Antrim, between George and Aylmer Streets, last night, and one or Bethune Street, on the first pole south of Perry Street.

"AUNT MATILDA" AT KNOX CHURCH

The Volunteer Bible Class of Knox Church put on a very fetching little play last evening, entitled "Aunt Matilda's Birthday Party." A bachelor girls' apartment is the setting for the playette, where preparations are in progress for the visit of the eighty-year-old aunt. Another visitor to a flat above appears, and complicates matters for a time, but the real aunt finally arrives and straightens everything out, with a final tableau by the entire cast of the Canadian and British flags. The young ladies took their parts with splendid success, and a large audience received the different numbers with enthusiasm. Mrs. C. Clark and Mrs. W. Smith, pianist, received bouquets during the performance. The following is the programme for the evening:

A SORE MOUTH

Or Pyorrhea Quickly Relieved By "ABSORBINE JR."

Are your gums sore and tender? Do they smart or bleed when you brush them? Are they slipping away from the teeth? When your gums get in this condition, they need something to kill all germs in the mouth—something to change the spongy, bleeding flesh into firm, healthy tissue.

As one Dentist writes:—"ABSORBINE JR." has a future for dentists in the treatment of Pyorrhea."

Used in diluted form, "ABSORBINE JR." makes a mouth wash that destroys germs, heals the gums, prevents decay. Clean and refreshing in taste and odor—and being a vegetable germicide, is absolutely safe.

Arthur and Jack Conley, Hotrum and MacFadden were sent for trial on a charge of robbery and violence. The same evidence was given as that presented at the inquest on Sabine's death.

TENNANT TRIAL BEGAN TO-DAY

MRS. WOOD ON STAND TO TESTIFY REGARDING DEATH OF HUSBAND.

BROCKVILLE, March 30. — Canadian Press.) — Mrs. Ida Elsie Wood, the widow of Robert Wood, for whose murder Derrick Tennant, aged 79, is facing trial at the spring assizes here, before Justice Lennox, spent this morning in the witness box, undergoing examination not only in connection with the incidents of the crime, but also reviewing the treatment of Tennant, her uncle, since she and her husband went to live with him.

H. A. Stewart, K. C., for the defence, is endeavouring to establish insanity. Mrs. Wood denies ever having annoyed her uncle but said that all his troubles were imaginary. Evidence in this connection is to be offered by a commission composed of Doctors Edward Ryan, of Kingston; W. K. Ross, and W. E. Harding, Brockville, who have examined the prisoner.

Dr. E. S. Bissell testified that on his return from overseas he found Tennant a different man. He accused the Woods of having taken his bank book, of not getting enough to eat and the house being cold. Tennant told the witness the bread was stale. The Woods', Tennant said, sat up at night in order to keep him awake. He got even by pounding the floor with a club which he kept in his room. Tennant told the witness that when there were neighbors in the house the Woods were very nice, but when they were alone it was the opposite. The case is proceeding.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, March 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Price tendencies were irregularly higher at the opening of to-day's stock market, yesterday's rally being for the most part well sustained or extended. Rails and Oils were the leading issues, with Food Specialties and Utilities. American Telephone forfeited a very small part of yesterday's substantial gain but Coppers continued to ease as a result of a brisk advance in trade.

Preliminary quotations for Foreign Exchange gave promise of an active day in that quarter. British and Italian rates approximated their maximum figures for many months.

Profit-taking and pressure from shorts caused re-actions throughout the list within the first hour. American Telephone was freely supplied at a 2 point decline. Harvester lost 1 3-4, Sears Roebuck 1½, and Oils, Coppers and Leathers 1 to 1½. There was little trading in rails, but this group also yielded, Union Pacific falling one point, and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico 1½. Moderate purchases of tobaccos and cheaper rails resulted in variable recoveries before noon, but this was again off-set by the heaviness of specialties, particularly textile and chemical issues. Call loans were again offered at 6½ per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, March 30.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange steady; demand, 3.93. Canadian dollars, 11¼ per cent. discount.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, March 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Market this morning was very uninteresting. Abitibi went up three-quarters of a point to 40, while Brompton advanced a half to 34 3-4. Laurentide was weaker by half a point at 85 1-2, while National Breweries closed fractionally stronger at 38 1-4. Spanish River weakened 1-4 point during the morning and closed at 75 1-4.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange was extremely quiet this morning, stocks showing practically no change in prices, with the exception of Dominion Steel Corporation and Abitibi. The former advanced one point to 46, while Abitibi was higher by 7-8 at 40. C.P.R. was under pressure, selling down a substantial fraction to 129.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—The fading away of the misgivings about crop damage led to a moderate downward swing of prices to-day in the wheat market. The majority of the reports indicated that no harm had been done by the recent low temperatures. The apparent absence of any new export business counted also against the bulls. The opening prices, which varied from a one cent decline to ½c advance, were followed by setbacks all around.

Corn gave way with wheat and reached the lowest prices yet for the present crop. After opening ¼ to 5-8 down, the market continued to sag. Oats were easier owing chiefly to the action of other grains, starting a shade to ¼ off and then descending further. Provisions lacked support.

Subsequently an unusual depression in the corn market had a bearish effect on wheat. The close was heavy, with May $1.39 3-4 to $1.40, and July $1.21 to $1.21 1-4.

Liquidation on the part of rural holders developed in the last half of the day in corn. Prices closed weak with May 61 1-4 to 61 3-8 to 1-2

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Receipts light; trade brisk. Heavy beef steers, $10 to $10.50; choice butcher steers, $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $12 to $14.50; lambs, $13 to $14.50; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $14.25 to $14.75

BASEBALL SITUATION SHOWS SIGNS OF CLEARING IN CITY

A JUVENILE SERIES ASSURED—EFFORTS TO IMPROVE THE GAME.

The baseball situation here has made some progress since the publication in the Examiner of suggestions that would tend to improve the game this season. A juvenile O.B.A.A. series is practically assured. This series which would take in players under 18 years of age May 1st is preferred to the junior series, as players eligible for the mediate series There will be no dearth of entries for the intermediate section.

Mercantiles Will Be Strong

The Mercantile League which enjoyed a successful season at Nicholls Oval last year, will be doing business again this coming season. Here is a league that has been very much overlooked. The four teams, Cressman's, who won the championship, Westclox, Barrie's and Lock Works, served up a bill of fast ball, and developed promising material. This league should be secured for the Intermediate O.B.A.A. series. It is said that Chris Bergoine will do the back-stopping for the Cressman nine.

Another entry would be the winner of the East Peterboro Baseball League, and still another, the champions of the Manufacturers' League, should such an organization be formed. Here is a group that would furnish the fans with a lot of good baseball, and would be the best means of developing players.

Clubs Getting Busy

Canadian Generals are holding another baseball meeting this week, and the Wm. Hamilton A. A are ready to step in to action at any time. De Laval are coming stronger than ever, following their splendid showing in the City Hockey League.

DIVER MAINTAINS BODY IS IN SEWER

CIVIC DEPARTMENT CONCLUDES FRUITLESS SEARCH BY BOAT.

MONTREAL, March 30. — Donat Choquette, diver of Verdun, who made the first search for the body of Lilly Manning, the eight-year-old girl who is supposed to have lost her life by falling down an open manhole on St. James Street opposite the St. Antoine Market, is of the opinion that the body of the girl is still in the sewer, despite the statement to the contrary made by officials of the sewer department.

In reply to a letter from Alderman Llon W. Jacobs, K.C., for further information, Choquette personally came to the office of the Alderman. He was shown the statements made by civic officials but maintained that the body of the little girl was still in the sewer, and that he was willing to go and look for it, provided the city paid his expenses and fee.

Two men in a boat made a thorough search of the sewer, taking grappling irons. They report that they searched all through the sewer, and that it is their opinion that the body of Lilly Manning has floated out into the river through the open flume.

The sewer department at the City Hall reported that as far as they were concerned the search for the body of the little girl had been dropped, except that a lookout will be kept at manholes, in case the body has floated into some secluded corner. However, the opinion is expressed that the body is not in the sewer.

WHAT DID YOU DO IN GREAT WAR, DADDY?

HANDIEST ANSWER GIVEN TO EMBARRASSING QUESTION.

LONDON, Eng., March 29. — —(Canadain Press.)—The handiest answer yet given to the embarrassing question, "What did you do in the Great War, Daddy?" is contained in "Burke's Handbook to the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire."

Altogether the Order has a total membership of 25,419.

There you will find Sir Basil Zaharoff, who planted great professorships as freely as an ordinary man will plant bulbs.

A few pages back you will find Inspector Wensley, of Scotland Yards, who "investigated explosions on land and sea" and arrested numerous felons.

There you will find George Robey, whose services are modestly abbreviated.

An interesting entry is that of Celia Violet Bosville Macdonald of the Isles. Under the heading "war work,' we read: "Teaching a class of policemen Morse and semaphore signalling."

You can read there about the man who got the O.B.E. for controlling all cheese in the country, and the colonel who got the O.B.E. for controlling all the hydrogen.

BOY SCOUTS HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Followed by a Tasty Supper—Address by Prominent Men.

The Boy Scouts of St. Andrews Troop held their second annual meeting last night, March 29, after which they enjoyed a delightful supper and also sent an appreciable supply of edibles to the Protestant Home. The evening closed by a few words from Mr. J. John, Mr. J. I. Allen and the Rev. Jas. Rollins. Mr. John also gave a couple of splendid recitations.

BIG FIGHT MORE A JOKE EVERY DAY ON OTHER SIDE

BIG MONEY OFFERED FOR THE FRACAS—THE UNKNOWN.

LONDON, March 30.—Loud jeers and hoarse laughter greeted the publication here of a cable from New York announcing that "Walker Percival, representing Solly Joel, the South African millionaire sportsman, has offered Tex Rickard half a million dollars for the Carpentier-Dempsey fight."

In the first place, London sportsmen don't know who Percival is, and because Joel himself is on the way back to South Africa, they have not been able to confirm the report through him. In the second place, Percival's knowledge of England's sporting geography seems rather muddled, judging from his proposal to hold the bout at the famous Epsom Downs race track, a "free-for-all course," at which it would be impossible to erect sufficient stands to make the event pay. Accordingly, it is not at all clear to British minds where the purse would come from.

The Evening Standard, in a moment of ridicule asks: "Why risk rivalry with the Derby? Why not remove the Nelson column from Trafalgar Square and stage the event there?"

It is said the date for Eugene Brosseau's appearance in New York is April 21.

In the middle of a regular hurricane of rumors about the site for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, Tex Rickard was still keeping his secret to-day.

About a half dozen bidders for the bout were maintaining they had the promise of the impressario, and a new entry joined the list in Broken Hills, Nevada, a silver mining town that wired the bout would be worth $800,000 to her.

Something may be known officially to-day, but that has been expected every day for a week.

John W. Snyder, promoter of Cumberland, Maryland, who insists he is assured of "second choice," said that Rickard promised to let him know to-day how much chance the coal miners had to see the championship fight.

Rickard still maintains that he has not reached a decision. He brands all the site, regardless of all the publi- not fond of all the speculation over the site, reagrdless of all the publicity the show is getting.

"A lot of these rumors are hurting me," he said to-day. "Opposition to the fight has already been started in some of the places mentioned that I haven't even considered. If I had decided finally on the site I would announce it at once."

Jack Kearns, Manager of the champion, sides along with Rickard in saying that no definite conclusion has been reached. Beyond saying that he feels sure the heavyweights will come together on this side of the Atlantic, he will not even hint at the place.

"Rickard hasn't consulted with me about the place," he said to-day. "When he reaches a decision I feel sure he will confer with me before making the announcement. That is not necessary, however, as we have assured Rickard that we are with him and are willing to go wherever he chooses."

BASEBALL NOTES

NEW YORK, March 30.—If the form the Yankees have been showing in their series of exhibition games against the Dodgers can be accepted as a true indication of what may be expected of them when the American League campaign opens, it is assured that Miller Huggins will lead a real pennant contender in the coming jamboree. The playing of the team thus far has exceeded the fondest hopes of even the most rabid supporters of the club. Both on offense and defense the team has shown impressive strength. Little has been left to be desired in the all around work of the combination.

There has been little doubt at any time about the attacking power of the club. From the outset it was generally conceded that Huggins had one of the strongest arrays of batting power and run scoring strength in the American League, but there was some doubt as to the strength of the team on the defense. This, however, has been dispelled to a great extent by what the team has shown in its jousts with Wilbert Robinsons Brooklyn outfit.

The Yankee pitchers seem to have rounded into form much earlier than was expected. The ideal training weather they have experienced in the South has been largely responsible for this, and there is every reason to believe that they will be ready to uphold their end of the burden when the teams are sent away on the long championship grind the middle of next month. The work of the twirlers has lifted a heavy burden from the mind of the diminutive manager. It was feared that much of the attacking power of the club might be discounted by weak work in the box. But it now appears that there is no longer any reason to entertain such misgivings. It seems to be fairly certain that Huggins has an array of able pitchers, who are primed to make things exceedingly unpleasant for opposing batters.

Brooklyn, of course, is not as strong as it was a year ago. Uncle Robbie is surrounded by drab troubles, but the team is sufficiently powerful to furnish the Yanks with a real test. For this reason, then, the work of the Yankees has been highly gratifying and a wealth of promise is held out by the team. Enough has been learned of the Yankees' ability to convince New York that it will be represented by a club that should be in the thick of the fight for the flag through the entire schedule.

PRESENTED O.H.A. CUP TO VARSITY TEAM

At the complimentary banquet to the Varsity hockey team, winners of the Allan Cup, given by the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association in the King Edward Hotel last night, Mr. R. M. Glover, past president of the O.H.A., presented the silver trophy emblematic of the senior championship of Ontario. Each of the players also received an O. H. A. gold medal as a souvenir. The city of Toronto gave them sea lion club bags, lavishly supplied with accessories, and the S. P. A. presented them with gold-headed canes.

LOCAL BILLIARD CHAMPIONSHIP TO-MORROW NIGHT

G.W.V.A. A TEAM AND CALEDONIANS PLAY-OFF FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

A very interesting and exciting billard match will be played to-morrow night in the Great War Veterans' rooms, under the auspices of the local Billiard League. Throughout the billiard schedule many a pleasant and enjoyable evening has been spent in the competition to become the city champions. The possible number of points is 60, but at the end of last week it became known that the Great War Veterans' A team and Caledonians tied for first place with 40 points each, which now compels the respective teams to play off a deciding match to declare the winners of the league. This is the first year that a billiard competition has became a real live issue and the billiard executive anticipate twice as many teams next winter in the league. In fact, some of the local billiard parlors contemplate organizing a manufacturers' billiard league next winter.

Arrangements have been completed so as to get the first game started at 7.30 prompt.

THREE TEAMS ENTERED IN LACROSSE GROUP

PETERBORO IN THE INTERMEDIATE SERIES WITH HAVELOCK AND CAMPBELLFORD.

Of the eighteen clubs which have registered in the intermediate section of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association, three are from this district: Havelock, Peterborough and Campbellford. In the junior group, Hastings is expected to put in a team, with Havelock and Campbellford also represented. Peterborough is thus assured of a first round series of games. The executive of the local club meets tonight and will receive the report of Harry Tudhope, who attended the annual meeting of the Association last week. Other preliminary business will be taken up. All the members of the executive are reminded of this meeting.

BISLEY'S FUTURE TO BE IMPERIAL ONE

WILL EXTEND ITS FIELD OF NATIONAL WORK.

LONDON, March 29.—The 61st annual report of the National Rifle Association states, in regard to the future of Bisley, that since the war it had become apparent that the conditions under which the association pursued many of its activities in the past had changed, and the council had now determined to take such steps as would extend its field of national work and bring its operations into line to meet changed national requirements. To that end it had sought and secured a closer co-operation with all branches of the Imperial Services. The council express regret that, in spite of the appeal made early in year, the financial situation continued to cause great anxiety. There was again a heavy deficit on the revenue account of £1,647, and on the practice ranges account, £588, making a total loss on the year's working of £2,235. To meet the liabilities of the association the council had arranged with the bankers for an overdraft, which now amounted to £3,640. The amounts received during the year from entrance fees, pools, and practice shots were £8,904, as against £6,532 in 1919. Money and other prizes amounted to £7,030, against £7,021 in 1919.

Lieutenant Colonel P. W. Richardson, the commandant of the British Rifle Team which visited Australia and South Africa, in his report on the tour says that the general standard of shooting in Australia was high. He strongly recommends that the next team to go should prepare for at least a year before hand. Preference should be given to men under 35 years of age. It was the younger men who came out top of the aggregates and who were most consistent in their shooting in the bright lights of Australia and South Africa, the older men being more affected by climatic change and by the fatigues of rapid travel and strenuous shooting.

"THE LONE WOLF'S DAUGHTER" PROVES A FASCINATING STORY OF MYSTERY AND INTRIGUE.

Louis Joseph Vance's thrilling story, "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," is being shown in film form at the Grand this week, and delighting big audiences with its action and mystery. It is an engrossing story of plotting and intrigue, with many of its scenes laid in Limehouse, the centre of London's underworld. Louise Glaum does magnificent work in the title role, and associated with her is a splendid cast that includes Edwin Stevens. "The Lone Wolf's Daughter" will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night. On Friday and Saturday Mr. John E. Kellerd, famous Shakespearean actor, will be the attraction at the Grand. He will be seen in "Hamlet" on Friday evening, "The Merchant of Venice" at the matinee Saturday, and "Macbeth" on Saturday night. His supporting company this year is the strongest he has ever offered the public.

AT THE GRAND.

A SWORD WITH A HISTORY.

There is a curious history attached to the sword worn by John E. Kellerd, the Shakespearean actor, in the character of "Hamlet," which he is to present at the Grand on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Originally the property of the great English tragedian, William Charles Macready, it at one time passed into the possession of Edwin booth. It was given by Booth to Eben Plympton, who was his favorite leading actor, both in England and America, and was given by Mr. Plympton to Mr. Kellerd with a message, a part of which was, "You are a real fine tragedian—you improve." Mr. Kellerd considers it a highly prized possession and has worn it in all his presentations of "Hamlet" since it was given him.

AT THE ALLEN

ALL-STAR CAST TO SUPPORT DEHAVENS IN "TWIN BEDS."

Claimed to Be Costliest Play Ever Produced for Screen Use.

There are several points of unusual interest concerning the film version of the wholesome bedroom farce, "Twin Beds," which Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven have transferred to the screen and which comes as the latest Associated First National attraction to the Allen today.

In the first place, the play by Margaret Mayo and Salisbury Field, is said to be one of the costliest ever purchased for screen use and a vast amount of money has been expended by the director in order to make the production adequate.

In choosing the company to support the DeHavens the greatest care was used, with the result that the production has a very nearly all-star cast.

With William Desmond in the role of the jealous Mr. Hawkins, and Helen Raymond, the English comedienne, who created the role of Signora Monti in the London stage production, playing that part, and with such favorites as Katherine Lewis, Lottie Williams and William J. Irving, it is no wonder the production bids fair to fulfill all that has been claimed for it as one of the season's big successes.

AT THE EMPIRE.

"THE LAW OF THE YUKON."

Unusual Photodrama Shown Thursday is Directed by Charles Miller and Heads Fine Bill.

The programme Thursday at the Empire Theatre features as the principal attraction, Charles Miller's screen production, "The Law of the Yukon." It is based on the famous poem of the same name by Robert W. Service.

As the title suggests, it is a story of the early days in the Yukon region when the gold fever drove many men and a few women of all classes to this hitherto unexplored section of the American North-West in the hope of getting a share of the precious yellow metal.

The story is indeed a gripping one, and the rugged frozen background alone is well worth seeing. The cast, which does not feature any particular star, gives an exceptional performance. This seems to prove that a photoplay, if it has a good story and capable direction, will stand on its own merits without a star—and "The Law of the Yukon" surely does just that.

The character contrasts are exceptional and Mr. Miller deserves much credit. There is no need of telling the story here. Read the poem and then see the photoplay.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Doris Warren, the dearly beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren, who departed this life the 30th day of March, 1920:

Just one year ago to-day
We watched our loved one fade away
From this earth to heaven above,
Where all is glory, all is love.

For two whole years she did suffer
With a sweet and quiet grace
Was in her every motion
Looked from her patient face.

Cross her hands in humble fashion
O'er her white and spotless breast,
Then leave her in her beauty
To her long untroubled rest.

But oh, the bitter change,
Oh the blackness of this night,
Unbroken by a dawning
By the promise of the light.

We shall sleep but not forever
There will be a glorious dawn,
We shall meet to part—no never
On the resurrection morn.
Thy will be done.

—Inserted by Father and Mother and Loving Sister Violet.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Dorris Warren, who passed away March 30th, 1920:

The mother gave, in tears and pain,
The flower she most did love;
She knew she would find her again
In the fields of light above.

O, not in cruelty, not in wrath,
Did the Reaper come that day:
It was an angel visited this green earth,
And took our flower away.

—Inserted by her Aunts and Cousin.

MAJOR W. T. McMANUS WILL RETIRE TO-MORROW

After Thirty Years' Service in the Canadian Army.

KINGSTON, March 30.— Having served 30 active years in Canada's army, Major W. J. McManus, instructional cadre, M.D. No. 3, retires to-morrow, March 31st. The Major began his career in the Duke of Cornwall's Own Rifles, Vancouver, B.C., but his most important service was rendered during the great war 1914-1918. He left Vancouver in August 1914, where he was an insurance broker, in charge of a draft for the Royal Canadian Regiment, and in September went with the unit to Bermuda. When the unit was relieved for service in France, Major McManus was pronounced medically unfit, owing to defective vision and was sent to Halifax in November. Here he took up duty in the Royal School of Infantry as chief instructor until April 1916, when he was transferred to the instructional cadre, M.D., No. 3. He did splendid work during the duration of the war. Since the armistice, he has been employed on re-organization, and organized and carried on schools of instruction for the newly-organized active militia units.

Major McManus was a highly qualified officer, holding certificates from officers' training schools in England, and his thorough knowledge of military law, and procedure, together with his zeal for the welfare of the service, made him a most valuable member of the district headquarters staff.

The initial entertainment of the Catholic Women's League, a card party held at St. Alphonsus Lyceum last evening, was a great success. About 200 people attended to play euchre and five hundred. The decorations of yellow, white and mauve were very artistic, and the refreshments were exceptionally dainty. Much credit is due the ladies of the different committees who worked hard to make the evening such a success. The president and first vice-president of the association, Mrs. J. V. Gallivan and Mrs. G. H. Popham, received. Mrs. G. White and Mrs. J. T. O'Connell had charge of the pretty refreshment table, charmingly decorated with bright yellow daffodils, the ladies looking after the service and numerous card tables were Mrs. Legendre, Mrs. Daly, Mrs Ed. Conroy, Mrs. R. Sheehy, Sr.; Mrs. Jno. Coughlin, Mrs. J. W. Fitzgerald, Mrs F. P. McNulty, Mrs. F. Hickey, Mrs. E. J. McCarthy, Mrs. P. J. Doris, Miss M. A. The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's church held a very pretty spring festival yesterday afternoon in the Sunday school room, in which children from the various Sunday school classes took part. A spring dance by children trained by Mrs. Massey-Cooke was very dainty, followed by a flower drill by Mrs. Barns' girls, and a farmyard drill with little ones dressed as bunnies and chickens. The Tom Thumb wedding, with Grant Breckenridge as the minster, and Margaret and Jack Allison as the miniature bride and groom, was a cunning little representation. The children were afterwards given a little tea party, while the grown-ups had refreshments in the tea-room, charmingly decorated with cherry blossoms.

Miss Helen Halstead has gone to Toronto to attend the Re-union of Faculty of Education at Hart House.

A gay little dancing party was given on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. R. W. Cormack, 361 Park Street, for Miss Jeanne Cormack and Miss Margaret Cameron, Mrs. Cormack and Mrs. Cameron receiving. About 50 young people enjoyed an evening of dancing and dainty refreshments, the decorations being carried out with the spring-like yellow daffodils.

WEDDING BELLS

BLACKWELL—SEWARD.

Married very quietly at St. Judes Anglican Church, Toronto, on Easter Monday, March 28th, at 3 p.m., Eric James Blackwell, son of James A. Blackwell and the late Mrs. Blackwell, and Eleanor Alford Seward, daughter of the late Lewis Seward and Mrs. Seward.

BOVILLE—PEARSON.

Lakefield Methodist Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Easter Monday evening, when Elsie May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Pearson, of Lakefield, and William Nesbit Boville, of Ottawa, were united in marriage by Rev. S. F. Dixon.

The bride entered the church, accompanied by her father. She looked winsome in her wedding gown of white georgette crepe and bridal veil. She carried a shower bouquet of pale pink roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Vernie Pearson, who looked very dainty in pale pink georgette crepe, over pale pink silk. She carried a bouquet of forget-me-nots and cerise roses.

Mr. Ernest Thompson, of Toronto, supported the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Walter Nugent, Wellington Pearson, Henry Batten, Robert Northey and James Pearson.

During the signing of the register Miss Trucie Pearson, of Peterborough, sang, "I Love You." The organist was Mr. K. S. Madill.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents on Bridge Street. About sixty guests were present.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Boville left for a trip to Toronto, the bride travelling in a navy suit and mink fur and a sand duvetyn hat.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Boville will reside in Ottawa.

The groom's gift to the bride was a rope of pearls; to the bridesmaid, an ivory clock; to the groomsman, cuff links; and to the soloist, a platinum brooch, set with sapphires.

FINNEMORE—GRIFFIN.

A quiet wedding took place in Lakefield at the home of the bride, on Monday at 6 o'clock in the evening, when Edith Isabelle Everest Griffin was united in marriage to Charles Ward Finnemore, only surviving son of Dr. C. W. Finnemore, Rev. F. Vipond, rector of the parish, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate friends. The bride wore a taupe cloth suit with a tulle and satin hat to match and was unattended.

After the wedding breakfast the happy couple left for Peterborough where they will make their home, followed by the good wishes of hosts of friends and well wishers.

YOUTH AND HEALTH

Young people in the first flush of life are apt to pay little attention to their health. This was evidenced during the war when so many young men apparently strong and healthy, were found unfit for military duty. It is your paramount duty to take care of your spine so that you may not only enjoy health but will also be in a condition that you can do as much good in the world as possible. A young man who is continually sick, or a young woman who complains of ill health all the time, should be the exception and not the rule.

On the other hand, you may be apparently healthy NOW and yet your spine may be far from normal. You may have some vertebral subluxation (displacement of the small bones) which will in the future cause you serious trouble. These subluxations cause nerve pressure, thus preventing the vital force from flowing uninterruptedly to the various organs. The result is Dis-ease in that organ which is not supplied with its full quota of vital force. The chiropractor locates the subluxated vertebrae, and with his bare hands, adjusts it to its normal position. The pressure on the nerve is lifted, the vital force again flows uninterruptedly to the various organs and HEALTH IS THE RESULT.

Young people are very often not aware that they have any vertebral subluxations. They think that such "might occur" in those who are really sick, but as for themselves, they don't yet feel sick.

99% of the human race have more or less subluxations, some so slight that they are not apparent except to the skilled fingers of a competent chiropractor. REMEMBER, AN ADJUSTMENT IN TIME SAVES NINETY-NINE. YOU WILL THUS ward off serious trouble in the future, will enjoy Health and be able to get the best possible out of life.

ADVERTISING

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The rainbow was the first great advertisement. It had position. It had color. It held out a promise of benefit in effect: "I shall not drown you again if you behave." And then it had the value of repetition, because it is repeated in the same position and color and promise after every rain.

The next big advertiser was Caesar when he wrote on the walls of Rome for the people to read, just what the senators were doing in the senate chambers. These advertisements of old contained the elements necessary in all great advertising, which are:

Advertising must be seen; it must be read; it must be understood; it must be believed; it must be create a want.

Advertising is difficult because you must make the man stop thinking as he thinks and make him think as you think and interested in the thing you are interested in. It is easy to interest a man in himself. If your advertising convinces him that it is good for himself, you have him sold.

Suppose a man had the privilege of whispering in room for $2.00, or yelling for $10.00, and he chose to whisper. He took five whispers for his $10 instead of one good yell. What would you think of him?

Domestic prosperity depends on what we can sell to the outsider. Good advertising creates a want and a desire abroad, and thus creates employment, prosperity and happiness at home.

Don't take it for granted that the other fellow knows all about what you have. Few of us ever know enough, and many of us never know anything. Don't be afraid to keep on telling the world what you have. You have got to keep it up.

Advertising is the heartbeat of business. If you stop a man's heart, he dies. If you stop advertising, business dies!

Bacon said, "reading maketh a full man; writing an exact man, and talking a ready man," and let me add: "Thinking maketh a real man!" One great trouble with our American life is that we have invented every device to save us the trouble of thinking.

CHAMBERLAIN IS UNOPPOSED

RE-ELECTED FROM WEST BIRMINGHAM BY ACCLAMATION TO BRITISH COMMONS.

GOVERNMENT LEADER

BIRMINGHAM, March 31. — (Canadian Press.)— Austen Chamberlain, recently elected government leader in the House, resigning the Chancellorship of the Exchequer, on being appointed Lord Privy Seal, was formally re-elected to Parliament to-day from the west division of Birmingham. He was unopposed. Changes in his official status necessitated his seeking re-election.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—Weakness prevailed at the opening of to-day's Stock Market, the leaders of the oil, steel, equipment and motor groups being among the first to give way to increased pressure. Prospects of tigher money rates encouraged shorts to extend their commitments within the first half-hour. Losses of one to three points were sustained by Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Royal Dutch, Crucible, Harvester, Baldwin, Studebaker, Chandler and Kelly-Springfield Tire. The re-action extended to rails, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific losing one point each.

In the absence of more than moderate support and short covering, prices continued to recede during the morning. Extensions to early losses ran from one to two points. Crucible, Mexican Petroleum, Houston Oil, General Asphalt, American Smelting Preferred, Baldwin, American Car, American Sugar, American Woollen and Leathers and Tobaccos comprised the more reactionary issues. Almost the sole exceptions to the downward trend were Atlantic Gulf and Sears Roebuck, the latter rising 3½ points. Call loans opened at 6½ per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, March 31.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange heavy; demand, 3.92¼. Canadian dollars, 11¼ per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 31.—(Canadian Press). — Wheat prices to-day fell to the lowest level which has been touched this season by May and July deliveries. Selling pressure was general and buying was only of a scattered sort. Prospects of a big yield of winter wheat had much to do with emphasizing bearish sentiment. Opening prices, which varied from 2½ decline to ¼ advance, were followed by numerous fluctuations within the initial range.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat and sold at new low record prices for the season. Corn opened ¼ to 3-4 and 7-8 off and later sagged a little more. Oats displayed relatively greater weakness than corn, starting ¼ to 5-8 down, and afterwards descending rapidly. Provisions were firm owing to higher quotations on hogs.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—General weakness was shown by practically all stocks traded in this morning on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Dominion Steel Corporation, in fairly active trading, forfeited its gain of yesterday and closed at 44, this figure representing a loss of two points since last night. Reflecting further hesitancy on the part of New York traders regarding rails, C.P.R. added 1 1-8 points to its recent decline. Closing at the low mark of the morning, Locomotive lost a point at 81 and F. N. Burt a good fraction at 104¼. The other side of the market was represented by Duluth Superior, which jumped two points to 17. Abitibi regained yesterday afternoon's loss, closing at noon at 40.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, March 31.— (Canadian Press.)—Cattle receipts light, prices steady. Heavy beef steers $10 to $10.50; choice butcher steers, $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $12 to $14.50; lambs, $13 to $14.50; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $14.25 to $14.50.

FORDNEY BILL NOT ALONE IN AFFECTING US

MEASURE TO RESTRICT IMMIGRATION INTO THE UNITED STATES ALSO TO COME BEFORE CONGRESS.

TARIFF PREDOMINANT

WASHINGTON, March 31. — (Canadian Press.) — A number of measures of interest to Canada are slated to come before the special session of Congress called by President Harding for April 11. In the list are the emergency tariff bill of unhappy memory, and the bill to restrict immigration to the United States. Both of these bills were passed at the last session of Congress and both were vetoed by Mr. Wilson among his final official acts as President.

The emergency tariff measure, known as the Fordney ibll, was designed to place so high a tariff on farm products entering the United States that such products would be virtually excluded altogether. The view taken by its promoters, or rather the view announced by them, was that this would be an effectual measure of protection for the farmers of the United States. Opponents of the bill and their name was legion declared that the measure would never become law, but was merely a political dodge to enlist the sympathy of the agricultural population for the new Republican administration. These opponents said that it was only another plan to exploit the farmer politically, tried and true tactics employed on innumerable occasions by legisaltors of all time.

The Fordney bill had a lively time in both houses of Congress and ran the gauntlet of every tariff theory in Washington. It became considerably amended before its final passage, but still retained the feature to which Canadian farmers objected most, a duty of 40 cents a bushel on wheat.

In its new incarceration, the bill will be known as the Young bill, being named after Representaive Young, Republican, North Dakota, chairman of the sub-committee which is to present it. Despite a flood of requests from senators, representatives, business concerns and farmers' organizations, the measure is to be presented to Congress exactly as it stood when it finally pasesd early in March only to be vetoed by President Wilson. One of the many requests for new features in the bill came from the flour millers of the United States, who asked for a compensatory duty on flour. The Underwood law imposed a duty of ten cents a bushel on wheat and the compensatory duty on flour was 45 cents a barrel, being ten cents a bushel on the four and one-half bushels necessary to make a barrel of flour. In this case the millers asked for a specific duty on flour that would meet the duty paid on a sufficient number of bushels of wheat to make a barrel of flour.

It has been agreed upon by the leaders of the Congress, and approved by President Harding, that the anti-dumping legislation bill will be incorporated in the emergenoy tariff measure and that the operation of the latter will be restricted to a period of six months, within which time it s expected that permanent tariff legislation will have been completed.

The immigration bill that was vetoed by President Wilson just at the close of his consulship will be brought in at the special session in the same form as formerly passed by Congress, Republican leaders have announced. It will provide for limitation of immigration into the United States on a percentage basis, and there is little likelihood that the plan for absolute cessation of immigration for a certain period will be revived.

Tariff matters will play a large part in the work of the session, in addition to the features already mentioned .Hearings on the permanent tariff will be carried on, and there is a measure in prospect for adopting American valuation as a basis of customs duties on imported products. Tax revision, a live issue at the present time, will be undertaken, although the form it will assume has not as yet been determined? The old movement to adopt a budget system of financing government expenditures is to be revived.

Bills of general public interest that will await a chance to sift through include those for the re-appointment of the house membership, packer control, protection of maternity and infancy, soldier relief, education, reclassification of government jobs and re-organization of government departments. Some effort is expected to amend the Volstead law in the hope of making it more drastic.

Those familar with the legislative programme as mapped out say that the calendar will not be cleared by late summer, at which time they are counting on a recess or adjournment until December.

Charles Negotiates For Former Throne; Conflicting Rumors

REPORTED THAT HE HAS PROCLAIMED A MILITARY DICTATORSHIP AT STEINAMANGER AND HAS 15,000 TROOPS.

OTTO STUMBLING BLOCK

STEINAMANGER, March 31.—(Canadian Press)—Premier Teleky and Count Andrassy, former foreign minister, have been in debate the whole day here with Charles on the conditions under which the latter would be willing to sign a formal abdication. It is said Charles is insisting that the stipulation of the validity of the claims of his son Otto shall be recognized and embodied in the Hungarian law.

VIENNA, March 31.—(Canadian Press)—It is unofficially reported here that Admiral Horthy, Hungarian regent, has resigned and will let events take their course, but the report is not confirmed. It is also reported that ex-Emperor Charles is on his way to Budapest from the frontier and that the army adhering to his cause is on the move.

Reports were received by various newspapers here today that ex-Emperor Charles had proclaimed a military dictatorship at Steinamanger and that General Lehar was said to be ready at the head of fifteen thousand troops to march on Budapest and by force, if necessary, restore Charles to the throne.

A SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL EVENING

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAMME WAS PROVIDED BY PIPE BAND.

Under the auspices of the Peterboro Caledonian Club an excellent social evening was spent last night in the Woodmen of the World Hall, before a very good attendance.

The chairman, Mr. G. O. Cameron, in his opening remarks introduced the company to Mrs. Hyde, the well known pianist, who rendered a number of excellent pianoforte accompaniments, with precision of a master.

Mr. Frank Clarke entertained the audience with banjo selections that called for "an encore."

The well known local choir singer, Mr. John Anderson, was heard to advantage in appropriate Scotch selections.

Mr. John Smith played the "Peterboro Caledonians" on the bagpipes, which was written and composed by Mr. W. Weatherstone.

A favourite song of the Scots people, "Hundred Pipers,' held them to a high pitch of excitement, when Mrs. Maurice Park rendered it in excellent manner that was responded the "Sword Dance," "Highland Peterboro's favorite individual dancers, the Misses Hardie, danced the "Sword Danec," "Highland Fling," and 'Scaum Tribhhus," in the real Scots fashion that met with a very hearty applause.

Mr. Robert Hendry gave two of Harry Lauder's songs that appealed to all by joining in the chous, more especailly "The Boys that Fought and Won.'"

During the evening the pipe band rendered "Highland Laddie," "Kenmuirs Awa'," "Barren Rocks of Aden," and "Athol Highlanders."

At the close of the entertainment handsome donations were given to the Pipe Band Fund.

DAMAGED PROPERTY.

LINDSAY, March 31.—Although two boys denied the charge of breaking a lock and window in the express room of the C.P.R. Station, Magistrate Bradford accepted the evidence of their guilt as conclusive, and fined them each $2 and costs.

FOR PNEUMONIA.

A reader of the Examiner has handed in the following as a successful treatment for pneumonia, which comes within the reach of all:

Make a ball of cotton about the size of a small marble, saturate it thoroughly with alcohol, then drop about six drops of chloroform on it; then cover it lightly with dry cotton, hold it to the mouth and inhale the fumes, inflate the lungs, and it will open and expand every lung cell instantaneously.

This was the treatment followed by an old German professor in Bavaria, who declared that he had never lost a patient with pneumonia in a practice of forty years, and that his treatment gave immediate and permanent relief.

SUPPLIES FOR WRANGEL CEASE

FRENCH GOVERNMENT CUTS OFF PROVISIONS FOR REMNANTS OF ANTI-BOLSHEVIST TROOPS

DISPOSITION UNDECIDED

PARIS, March 31. — (Canadian Press).—The French Government, in accordance with notive given several weeks ago to General Baron Wrangel, former anti-Bolshevik leader in South Russia, ceases to-day to furnish provisions and other supplies for the remnant of General Wrangel's army encamped before Constantinople. No agreement has been possible concerning the disbandment and disposition of the troops, and offers of Brazil and other countries to furnish employment to the men have not been acted upon.

HE'S PARTICULARLY GLAD.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 31.—D. E. Ciphers, an aged war veteran, is particularly glad that Warren G. Harding is president of the United States. In a letter to Mr. Harding he explains the reason. Mrs. Ciphers cast her first vote when she marked her ballot for President Harding, and promised in case of victory to keep a constant supply of pies in the Ciphers household. She has kept her promise, and therefore Mr. Ciphers, who is particularly fond of pie, is rejoicing.

DOMESTIC INFIDELITY.

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press). — Asserting that the press of the United States is "filled with sickening accounts of domestic infidelity of persons claiming high positions in society," District Attorney Lewis has given a warning that he will institute criminal proceedings against a party to a divorce action who admits a guilty act. "One or two convictions, with penitentiary sentence, would have a salutary effect upon these people," he said.

FOR A DUSKY MAIDEN.

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press).—G. Washington Taylor, 2923 Creston Avenue, The Bronx, coloured, swam the Hudson at Dyckdar Street, guided by the song of Lilian Tibbets. She had promised to marry the first of two suitors who accomplished the feat. When Taylor landed, he was met and embraced by the dusky maiden.

THE GREATEST ASSEMBLAGE OF CHURCH DIGNITARIES EVER AMASSED ON THIS CONTINENT

CANADA REPRESENTED

BALTIMORE, March 31.—(Canadian Press.)—The greatest assemblage of church dignitaries ever massed on this continent attended the funeral of James Cardinal Gibbons here to-day. In the great procession which formed for the pontifical requiem mass, were numerless priests and mitred heads of a hundred dioceses. A numer of representatives of Canadian churches were to the great gathering. To-day were held two ceremonies. One was the great church assemblage at mass and the other the simple burial service in the white marble crypt under the sanctuary of the Cathedral of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary. At ten o'clock the whole city dropped every activity for a minute in respect to the late distinguished ecclesiastic.

CONEY ISLAND SEASON OPENS.

Hundred Thousand There . Easter Sunday.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Coney Island attracted about 100,000 visitors Sunday. All the Island amusement places were open, with the exception of Luna Park. The warm weather lured big crowds to the beaches, where 2,000 bathing suits where rented, but only a few braved the cold ocean water.

Twenty-five extra police were on duty, but there was little call for their services. One well meaning man brought a small boy, whom he had found wandering alone about the island, to the police station beleiving that the urchin was lost.

"Hello, Frankie," the lieutenant on duty at the Coney Island Station exclaimed when the boy walked in. "What's the trouble?" When Frankie's benefactor explained that the boy was lost there was a roar of laughter from the police at the station house. "Lost?" repeated the lieutenant. "Why Frankie was born here and he knows every corner better than we do." So Frankie, whose name was known to the police, was ordered to run home.

ANNULLED MARRIAGE.

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Elizabeth Voight, 7 Van Cleef Street, has been granted an annulment of her marriage to Robert Voight because her husband, immediately after the wedding, informed her that, instead of living with her, he intended to go and live with hs mother.

Mrs. Voight, in her suit, raised strong objections to keeping a husband who was so tightly tied to his mother's apron strings.

Voight told the Court that he had married only because his mother had made him tdo so.

LADIES' AUXILIARY HELD A MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y.M.C.A. took place yesterday afternoon. These ladies, who look after the replenishing of the linen in the dormitories of the Young Men's Christian Association, had arranged a pillow-case shower, and were pleasantly surprised at receiving a much larger number than anticipated, nearly seven dozen pillow-cases being donated by different members of the society.

REPORT MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says we must keep feet dry; avoid exposure and eat less meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

AWNINGS, TENTS AND CAMP EQUIRMENT.

The New Peterborough Company Shipping Out Large Orders From Peterborough.

The wisdom of establishing another new industry in Peterborough for the manufacture of canvas goods, such as awnings, tents, sails and camp equipments, is being proven by the frequent shipments of these goods to different sections of the province. A representaive of the new Canadian Tent and Awning Co., of 376 Water street, informed the "Examiner" that their factory has been working up to its full capacity during the past month, on hurried orders for awnings, tents and other canvas goods required for spring and which have been made up to specifications. It is stated that the new factory, which has been fitted up with labor saving machinery and first quality materials, has booked a wide range of encouraging orders to follow soon, and that their prospects for further orders are of the most encouragng character. An order for $2,000 of canvas goods was received this week. 1d

Committee Inspect the County Roads.

Mr. F. Bowen, Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, Mr. H. Baptie, Road Commissioner, and Mr. Greer, Superintendent of Roads, were in town Wednesday and inspected the county roads in this vicinity, also a piece of road near town, which is to be taken over by the county and anoth- Road and Bridge Commission is up and Bridge Commission is up against a stiff proposition as they are expected to maintain and construct roads where necessary over a mileage of 375 miles, on a grant of $120,000. They think that they should have at least $200,000 because the increased cost of material, labour, etc., makes it almost impossible to do more than maintain the present roads with such a large mileage. They intend to complete the lower part of the county road south of Campebllford to Malery's Corners. They also intend to construct three new steel bridges with fifty foot spans and one cement bridge of 15 ft. span, also to rebuild three wooden ones. They have to construct four miles of new road between Trenton and Carrying Place. They report that to repair the damage done to bridges by the high water and flood caused by the late heavy rains will need nearly $50,000.

May Flowers.

Mr. J. M. Ferris picked May flowers in the woods on Easter Sunday.

A delegation of Mr. N .Dickson, Mr. F. Keller and Mr. T. J. Horkins were sent to Havelock and arranged matters with the Havelock club so that there will be an exhibition lacrosse game here on May 24th, and a return game in Havelock on June 3rd.

Hayden Denike.

Friends here yesterday were shocked to learn of the sudden death in Amherstburg, Ont., of Mr. Hayden Denike, brother of Mrs. F. W. Wood, of towwn. The late Mr. Denike was the son of the late Rev. R. B. and Mrs. Denike, of town, spent all his boyhood days here. He was employed in Mr. F. W. Wood's drug store for a time, afterwards going to Stirling and Warkworth, where he engaged in the drug business for himself. He was married to Miss Della Eaton, daughter of the late Mr. A. O. Eaton, also of town, who survives him. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. F. W. Wood, of town, Mrs. Fennell of Havelock, and one brother, Howard of Dartford. The deceased Mr. Denike was a man of most genial disposition and was beloved by all who knew him. Interment will be in Campbellford.

Funeral Saturday.

Miss Grace Stewart, B.A., and Mr. Jas. Allan left to-day for Toronto, where Miss Stewart will meet her mother and sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Macdonald, who are accompanying home the remains of her late father, Mr. Jas. K. Stewart. The body will be taken to Bonar Law station, thence to his home in Rawdon. The funeral will take place to Burnbrae cemetery on Saturday. Mrs. Stewart and family have the sincere sympathy of the town and community, where they are so well known.

The Markets.

The back of the high cost of living is slowly but surely being broken. Eggs took another drop this week, selling here for 27c. trade and 24c. or 25c. cash. Maple syrup was selling yesterday at $2.50 per gallon. Dairy butter is 55c. and oleomargarine 35c. Potatoes 75c.; some merchants have quite a supply on hand. Sugar took an advance however, of 50c. per cwt. and is now selling at $11.50.

Social and Personal.

Major H. G. Clifton, Peterboro, Hydro-Electric Inspector, was in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson of Havelock, formerly of Campbellford, were in town yesterday. Mr. Thompson has purchased the Havelock Creamery from Mr. R. S. Southworth.

Mrs. Henry Dunk and family whose sale of livestock and implements took place yesterday at their farm east of town, are moving into the house on Rear street, lately occupied by Mr. E. Turner.

Miss Elsie Smith, who is attending the Normal School in Peterboro is home for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Maybee of Healey Falls, spent Wednesday in town with Mrs. Maybee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson.

Mr. D. A. Montgomery spent Sunday in Belleville.

Mr. Jos. Whitehead of Long's, Ltd. Stirling., spent Sunday in town.

Mr. Andrew Peeling, who has been spending the winter in Florence, South Carolina, with his son, Mr. Charles Peeling, has some interesting stories to relate of his trip and visit in Carolina where the negroes so largely predominate.

Mr. J. F. McGregor, revising officer ,s kept busy these days adding to the lists those not on the list who are qualified to vote on the referendum on April 18th. Canvassers, too, are busy looking up those who might be indifferent or not familiar with the procedure to have their names entered.

Mr. Gordon Barrie, manager of the Dominion Stores, Cobourg, spent Good Friday at his home here. Gordon is one of the many local boys who are making good in the business world.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hoover returned on Monday from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Church, in Orillia.

Mr. Thomas Barrie has his new house near the north end of Front Street, almost ready for occupancy, and it will not likely remain long unoccupied as houses have been almost at a premium for the last few months.

CHARLES DEMANDS HUNGARIAN THRONE

BERLIN, March 31.—(Canadian Press.)—Former Emperor Charles arrived in Budapest Sunday with a demand that the reins of the Hungarian government be turned over to him at once and ordered that the palace be made ready for his reception. Charles left Budapest Sunday night, chagrined at the refusal of the Regent to abdicate and bitterly disappointed because he was not received with the demonstrations of joy which he had expected.

Appearing at his former palace the Emperor sent his card to the Reichsverweser, Admiral Horthy, about two in the afternoon. "The King desires to see the Reichsverweser," was the message that astonished Admiral Horthy as he sat at lunch. Accompanied by the formal marshal of his court, Count Hunyadi, Count Erdoedy and Col. Jarney, the Emperor waited until the Governor's lunch period was ended, in the waiting room where formerly others had awaited his arrival. Horthy spent an earnest three hours dissuading the former Emperor from his rash demands, advising him that he should make his application for his throne to Parliament.

"Between the king and the people I will take my stand with the people," declared the Admiral.

"KISS OF JUDAS IS IN THIS BILL"

TORONTO, March 31. — (Canadian Press.)— Unanimous protest against the adoption of the McCrea bill was voiced at a meeting of the Hydro-Electric Association, held yesterday, and a resolution condemning the proposed measure was laid before government later in the day. President J. W. Lyon, of the Association, said the bill aimed to give the Ontario Railway and Municipal this power to increase street car fares irrespective of any agreement existing between the municipality and the company. "The kiss of Judas is in the bill," he declared.

ROLLO'S BILL BEFORE HOUSE

FINALLY AMENDED AFTER BEING UNDER FIRE FROM OPPOSITION.

TORONTO, March 31. (Canadian Press.) — The Drury Government's proposal for the establishment of provincial labor employment bureaus met with combined Liberal and Conservative opposition in the Legislature last night.

The bill to this end went through its second reading the other day, but when it reached the committee stage yesterday a determined onslaught was made on the measure.

The upshot of the prolonged discussion, however, was that the bill was reported with an amendment providing that an empolyer must guarantee any railway fare advanced by the bureaus to the prospective worker.

It was also decided that the scope of the advisory council should be governed by the existing act.

A bill which is sponsored by Hon. W. R. Rollo, who expressed his personal views that all private employment agencies should be closed down —provides among other things:

For the establishment of a provincial employment service council and local employment service councils.

For defining the scope af activities of such councils.

For payment of travelling expenses and the fixing of the per diem alowance to the members of the provincial council and in the transacting of the business of the council.

For advancing the travelling expenses of persons travelling to their place of employment through the Ontario government employment bureaus and the conditions under which such advances for travelling expenses may be made.

NOT POSSIBLE TO AVERT THE MINER STRIKE

SITUATION IN BRITAIN SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE TO SOLVE WITHOUT STRIKE OF THE COAL MINERS.

CONFERENCE YESTERDAY

LONDON, March 31 (Canadian Press).—A coal strike seems inevitable on 1st April, when notices of the mineowners of the termination of contracts in order to enforce a reduction in wages will expire.

The executive of the Miners' Federation met yesterday and resolved to instruct all branches of the Miners' Union to cease work. The executive then proceeded to the Board of Trade, where an interview was had with Sir Robert Stevenson Horn, the President of the Board.

The miners demanded that the Government subsidise the industry so as to enable it to pay wages greater than the present profits, and also advocated the pooling of profits for the benefit of the less profitable mines.

Sir Robert Horn, on behalf of the Government, declined to consent to the subsidy. He said most of the other great industries were in a worse position than the coal industry, and that it was impossible for the State to provide such help.

Herbert Smith, vice-president of the Miners' Federation, on behalf of the Miners' Executive, then informed Sir Robert Horn of the decision to withdraw all workers, including pumpmen and engineers from the coal pits.

GAVE OSHAWA LAD A CHANCE.

OSHAWA, March 31.—Pleading guilty to the theft of an automobile from Frederick Ormiston, and a sporting rifle from Joseph Long, Magistrate Willis permitted the release, on suspended sentence, of Charles G. Elviss, aged 17, a Brooklin lad.

The Magistrate was influenced to give the lad a chance by restitution having been made and prosecution costs paid, together with an appeal for leniency from leading citizens.

YET HOUSES ARE SCARCE.

The Oshawa Housing Commission are advertising homes built under the municipal housing plan for $100.00 down and the balance of the price payable in instalments extending over twenty years at 5 per cent. interest.

SEES A TARIFF WAR WITH U.S.

NORMAN ANGELL, BRITISH ECONOMIST, CONSIDERS TARIFF AGAINST CANADIAN WHEAT SHORT-SIGHTED.

CLOSE WELLAND CANAL

(Cross-Atlantic News Service.)

LONDON, March 31.—"America's action in the matter of a tariff against Canadian wheat is extremely short-sighted, and in case such a tariff becomes effective Canada could retaliate by closing the Welland Canal to American shipping."

This statement, made last night by Norman Angell, noted author and economist, in a speech delivered before a large assemblage, is arousing considerable comment in British as well as Canadian and American circles.

Norman Angell has recently returned from an extended stay in America, during which time he visited Montreal and Toronto, and while many people disagree with his views, especially in matters concerning the war, yet he is admittedly one of the clearest thinking economists in Britain to-day.

Retaliation by closing the Welland Canal would do inestimable damage to scores of American cities in Montana, the Middle West, and it would probably lead to a tariff war, the consequences of which would be disastrous.

JURY ACQUITS TENNANT; BUT FINDS INSANE

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MURDERING ROBERT WOODS, AFTER TESTIMONY OF EXPERTS THAT HE SUFFERED SENILE DEMENTIA.

TO BE HELD, HOWEVER

BROCKVILLE, March 31. — (Canadian Press.)—After a short deliberation a verdict of not guilty on the ground of insanity was returned by the jury last night in the case of Derrick Tennant, aged 79, charged with the murder of Robert Wood at Caintown on February 7 last. Justice Lennox directed that Tennant be held in the local jail until the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor regarding his disposal be known. The defence admitted that Tennant had shot and killed Wood, but pleaded insanity as justification.

Mental experts declared that Derrick Tennant was suffering from senile dementia marked by hallucinations of constant persecution by Woods. Dr. E. Ryan, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, Kingston, and Dr. W. K. Ross, superintendent of a similar institution here, were the experts who gave testimony. Both agreed that Tennant was suffering from senile dementia. The accused told them that on the night of the murder he was much upset bp delusions regarding noises in the house in the midst of which he heard the reports of a gun.

Imagining that he was being attacked he opened the door of his room, seized his shot gun and fired at a figure in white, which he perceived in the darkness. Dr. Ryan declared that Tennant believed he had fired in self defence and had barricaded the door of Woods' bedroom to prevent an attack. To examining physicians Tennant explained his attempt at suicide by stating that he did not want "to go back to that hell again," meaning the Woods' house, where he believes he had been persecuted by means of his bedroom being moved, the house being cold, the food bad and inadequate, and noises frequent. In particular did he object to card playing to which he was opposed on principle, and which he said kept him awake.

NOTICE.

The members of I.O.I., No. 122, Lakefield, are asked to be present at the funeral service of their late Brother John Stuart, on arrival of the funeral by motors leaving Peterboro at 2:30 o'clock, Friday afternoon, April 1st. By order, Worshipful Master. 1d76

THE ONLY ISSUE.

As usual, when a question of this kind is under discussion, all kinds of theories and opinions are being dragged into the arguments over the coming referendum. Just now much is being heard of "Government control" as the most satisfactory method of dealing with the liquor problem. It may be, or it may not, but at all events what has Government control to do with the question upon which the people of Ontario are entitled to vote on the 18th of April? There is only one issue, only one point to decide, and a simple "yes" or "no" is all that is required. The electors of the Province have to say whether or not they are in favour of prohibiting the importation of liquor into Ontario, and no other angle of the problem is under consideration. What is to be gained then by arguing about different methods of dealing with the liquor question? They are not before the people in the vote that is to be taken and have nothing more to do with the referendum that has the relative merits of Scotch or Irish whiskey, if, indeed, they have as much. A controversy over Government control, when that method is not an issue, is simply a waste of time and effort.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Taking advantage of the fact that a money by-law is to be voted on on that date, the City Council has decided to submit the question of daylight saving to the ratepayers on April 5th, giving the people a chance to say whether or not they want the system operated locally during the Summer months. The Aldermen have acted wisely in adopting this course, for the will of the majority will settle the question, and that is the democratic way of dealing with such matters. As to the advantages of daylight saving there is much variance of opinion. The sporting fraternity is solidly in favour of the scheme, and a vote taken in some of the factories shows many workmen who want daylight saving. On the other hand, there are objections from many people to the local inauguration of Summer time, especially in view of the fact that the system is not to be operated on a national basis, and the railways will operate on the old time. Cities like Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec have, however, adopted daylight saving on their own account, regardless of the action of the railways. The Council will let the people of Peterborough settle the question for themselves and both advocates and apponents of the scheme should be satisfied with the opportunity of expressing their views at the polling booths.

CITY AND COUNTRY.

"What we want is to get the city people and the farmers more together and have more confidence in each other. Let the city people take more pride in the farming country around them and let the farmers do the same with the city and everything will go better."

So writes Mr. R. N. Scott, well-known Smith farmer, whose letter to The Examiner complaining of recent editorial articles in regard to the U.F.O. appears in another column of to-day's issue. The Examiner heartily echoes this sentiment of Mr. Scott's. We have no quarrel with the farming community and recognize that the general prosperity of Canada depends largely upon co-operation and fair dealing among all sections of the Dominion's population. The city and the country are interdependent—anything that advances the prosperity of one must necessarily benefit the other—and there is no logical reason why there should not be the best of good feeling between urban and rural dwellers when they have so many interests in common. It is precisely because of its recognition of these facts that The Examiner is inclined to question the value of the farmers' political movement as a factor in bringing city and country together. The building up of a political machine on a class basis, the candidates of which are chosen by representatives of farmers' clubs, and by them alone, is not a promising contribution to a campaign of drawing city folks and farmers into closer relationships. On the contrary, it is more likely to have the effect of postponing of the coming together of the two classes that The Examiner and Mr. Scott both agree to be in the best interests of the whole community.

THE VIMY MEMORIAL CHURCH.

Many Peterborough people should be interested in the movement to erect a memorial in loving memory of the Canadian soldiers who fell in Northern France, to take the form of a memorial church to be built in Lens, France—a proposal that is explained in the letter published below from Rev. Canon Shatford, D.C.L., O.B.E., and Rev. Prof. Charles Bieler, D.D., O.I.P. The reference to the ministers of the city may perhaps leave the impression that they are not sympathetic in their attitude towards the matter. However, in explanation, it may be said that at the time this plan was brought to their attention there were other pressing calls being made upon the people, and while the proposal was endorsed and approved, the consensus of opinion was that the more urgent appeals should first be dealt with. Doubtless the ministers will be glad to co-operate now in any local effort on behalf of this splendid movement.

The letter from the Central Committee to The Examiner is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Editor,—

"Your readers have certainly heard of the plan to build at lens, France, a Vimy Memorial Church as a sacred memorial to the 60,000 Canadians fallen in Northern France during the Great War, and a gift to the Protestants of that country, who have lost one hundred and fifty of their church buildings in the invaded area, and are in the direst straits to rebuild them.

"The ministers of your city were asked to take an offering for this scheme on the 14th of November last, but ministers are often shy of appealing for money from their congregations and no contributions has so far come from your city.

"We feel that we cannot rest until we have put the question squarely to the laymen of your city and asked them if they are satisfied that their city should remain outside of this national movement.

"We would suggest that a returned officer take the lead and arrange a meeting of ministers and laymen to discuss the question, and, if possible, an offering should be taken in all the churches on the 10th of April, which corresponds to the fourth anniversary of the Vimy Ridge victory, or on one of the following Sundays, or that a house-to-house visitation be organized by a local committee: Offering envelopes may be sent on application from the headquarters of the Vimy Memorial Church Campaign, 740 University Street, Montreal.

"If no local committee can be constituted, private subscriptions might be sent to the Honorary Treasurer, Brig.-General J. G. Ross, C.M.G., 142 Notre Dame Street West, Montreal.

"Your city will certainly join in this patriotic and Christian enterprise and earn the honour of having its name inscribed on the list of Canadian cities and towns which have contributed to the erection of the Canadian Vimy Memorial Church.

"Yours sincerely,
"ALLAN P. SHATFORD,
"Chairman.
"CHARLES BIELER,
"Secretary."

IMMIGRATION AND INDUSTRY.

From labor circles in every city in the Dominion comes an appeal for the restriction of the flow of immigration towards Canada. The business depression, and a certain amount of resulting unemployment is the argument advanced. From E. W. Beatty, on the other hand, comes the suggestion that the acquisition of new citizens in this way is the best solution of the difficulties of our national railways. The President of the Canadian Pacific said a few days ago that without immigration the prospects of the Canadian National lines were, in his opinion, hopeless, and any legislation which would stem the tide of desirable immigration must inevitably pile up further deficits. It was, he said, an aggressive immigration propaganda that built the Canadian Pacific Railroad, and he claimed that Hon. T. A. Crerar, Leader of the National Progressive Party, struck the right note when he declared before the Canadian Club in Montreal recently that a wise and vigorous policy of immigration would help solve the problem.

Mr. Beatty added: "I quite agree with those who object to immigration of city-bred continentals of poor physique and doubtful health, who would at once drift into slums, or of large communities of foreign-born who frankly declare that they do not intend to assimilate with English-speaking Canadians. But the gates of Canada should be opened once more not only to the British, French and United States immigrant, but also to the Scandinavian and the more desirable type of continental." He pleaded also the cause of the skilled mechanic, in addition to that of farm hands and domestics, on the ground that Canadian industry would be handicapped in its progress without them. He concluded: "Policies which are perfectly appropriate in the case of the United States, would not necessarily be applicable to this country. By all means let us exclude the undesirable immigrant, but admit those who in time will contribute to this country's commercial prosperity and economic strength."

How are we to reconcile these arguments from both sides? Clearly it can only be a temporary state of affairs which would justify the closing of the door to eligible newcomers. Our Quebec compatriots and our agricultural citizens are furnishing this country with an increase in population, but the cities of Canada are rapidly joining the class of great centres of population which do not maintain themselves by natural growth. They have drawn indefinitely upon the rural districts while the French-Canadians have spread beyond their native Province into Ontario and the West. Canada, however, can absorb a steady but substantial growth in both city and country. For a permanent immigration policy the policy of liberal restriction is the best.

While there will no doubt be some unemployment as long as prices continue to fall, a movement covering a period of years, in the Summer-time at least this will be scarcely noticeable. Legislation cannot be sufficiently elastic to adjust immigration to seasonal changes. In fact the influence of the new arrivals on the industrial situation each year can scarcely be large. Conditions frequently are reversed within a few months, before new legislation or even administrative changes could be put into force. Our immigration policy will on the whole be more satisfactory if framed in the light of Canada's needs over an extended period of years.

Some changes in the regulations governing the admission of immigrants are understood to be under consideration at Ottawa, however. These will, it is stated, maintain or increase the money regulations at present in force, and will admit only bona fide farm workers and domestic help. Immigration from the British Isles, France or the United States will, it is reported, not be hindered by the new regulations, but the bars will be kept up against immigrants from Central Europe. An important clause will deal with the admission of skilled labor. In the case of mechanics of all classes, the proposal is said to be to admit only such men as there is an actual demand for in any line of work.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The daylight saving by-law and the referendum next month will give Peterborough people a chance to express their opinions both on sunlight and moonshine.

Footpads do not favour daylight saving, for it cuts one hour off their working time.

The Council's decision to go ahead with a programme of street paving is to be commended. The best roads are the cheapest in the long run, and for some years many of Peterborough streets have been paved only as the road to Hades is said to be paved—with good intentions.

Property owners who are not profiteers have no reason to oppose a measure to prevent the collecting of exorbitant rents.

There are no prisoners in the Guelph County Jail. The bootleggers up that way must make enough to pay their fines.

STILLMAN'S WIFE TO NAME ANOTHER WOMAN IN SUIT.

Her Attorneys Said to Have Obtained Affidavits Concerning a Rival to Mrs. Leeds.

NEW YORK, March 31. — Attorneys for Mrs. Anne Urquhart Stillman have decided to make a new motion in her defence against the divorce action of James A. Stillman, President of the National City Bank, it was learned here, and will seek to submit additional affidavits, alleging intimacy on the part of Mr. Stillman with a woman other than Mrs. Florence H. Leeds, whom Mrs. Stillman named in her first amended answer to her husband's complaint.

This action, which was taken to indicate the intent of Mrs. Stillman and her attorneys to press their counter-offensive as the most effective way of meeting the banker's attack, was said to have been decided upon at a conference of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys in New York City last Friday, at which representatives of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft and Stanchfield & Levy of this city, and of Bleakley & Brennan of Yonkers were present.

Every effort has been made to keep secret the name of this alleged "second woman" in the hope on the part of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys that the presentation of her name would be as great a surprise to Mr. Stillman's lawyers as were the affidavits bringing in the name of Mrs. Leeds.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Nowadays when a man does a little original thinking the whole fraternity of retailers of second hand ideas arises to call him "an opionated cuss."

"That American professor's assertion that women are becoming taller," remarks the Backfence Cynic, "merely is further proof of the theory of evolution. When the manners of Peterborough men compel them to reach for the straps on the crowded street cars it is only natural that eventualy a taller type be evolved.

Now the test of actual comparison has been applied to the phonograph why not place a woman and a phonograph in the same room and see which would run down first?

LIVELINESS IN AUTO BUSINESS.

Practically Every Plant in Detroit Has Resumed Full Time.

DETROIT, March 31.—The automobile trade has picked up gratifyingly, practically every plant having begun operating on Monday on a hundred per cent. production schedule. Orders are coming in rapidly, men are being re-employed daily, and departments being built up to a normal basis as fast as the men are taken on.

The Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co. both plants of which have been operating 90 per cent. normal for several weeks, will go on a 100 per cent. basis.

The Hupp Motor Car Co., which has been running "full handed," but only on 90 per cent. production, will go to normal.

The Studebaker Corporation, which has been running five days will begin operating six days per week from 1st April, and the Ford Motor Car Co., which has received orders for 90,000 cars to be delivered in April, as against 80,000 this month, is already employing nearly as many men in its Highland Park plant as it did when it closed down in December.

The Federal Motor Truck Co. is now on full time production.

Four per cent. of the output of steel in this country is consumed in the production of motor vehicles.

Approachable and Considerate

The so-called dignity of banking carries with it, to the minds of some people, an impression of reserve, which has, at times, actually prevented them from becoming depositors. As a matter of fact, a Bank is a business institution, conducted on business lines by practical, successful business men who are both approachable and considerate. It is a pleasure to do your banking at The Merchants Bank.

AGED WOMAN INJURED BY A SIDEWALK BICYCLIST.

KINGSTON, March 31.—Knocked down by a lad riding a bicycle on the sidewalk of Alfred Street, Mrs. S. Morrison, aged 73, was picked up unconscious and suffered a wound on her head calling for the application of several stitches to close it. The injured woman had just left her home when the lad ran her down. It is contrary to law to wheel on sidewalks but no action has yet been taken against this offender.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

TEARS—AND A KISS

Chapter 15.

Leonard's peevishness over my meeting with Alvah Fairchild flattened all my efforts to be communicative. First I was stunned, hurt, that he could place such an interpretation on my actions, and then I was genuinely angry. He had no right to jump at such conclusions. Why, I had twice the right to be angry with him!

My thoughts were in a wild medley. I was strongly tempted to see Mr. Fairchild again. Leonard, if he wanted to be so unreasonable, could understand that my rights were as good as his. But why would he take a stand like this if his own actions were not seemly?

Gossip! Other people's tongues! They were all wrong. I would not believe them. I understood now of course—it was a business proposition, he had to see Mrs. Darwood. Any goose would know that. It was not always pleasant to do business in an office. They could talk better out somewhere—dinner perhaps.

My reasoning was becoming saner, less clouded. But in spite of everything, little demon thoughts of—dinner at the Ritz—late, unexplainable homecomings—would send black clouds lowering across our conjugal happiness.

Oh, why had Leonard acted so decidedly unreasonable because I had had luncheon with Alvah Fairchild? He had closed the doors of understanding. We might have talked—straightened things out much better.

Now he was more reticent than ever. He did not stay out as often in the evenings and I actually had the impression that he was staying home to watch me. I longed to put my two arms about him and say—"You great big foolish boy, my love and faith in you are far beyond the reach of these petty people. We must, must believe in each other." But I couldn't. I didn't seem to be big enough, and I hated myself for it.

The longer we remained silent the more tense the atmosphere became. Our meals were perfunctory affairs of torture.

"I'll have the butter if you will pass it to me," Leonard would say in an injured manner.

I did not know whether to laugh or cry, and when I would meet his uncongenial mood with a like manner I would spend hours of unhappiness and regret afterwards.

If I wanted something I hated to ask Leonard for it and would either go without or ring for Emma.

"You might pass me the rolls," I found myself saying with an acrid emphasis on the word me, as Emma entered the dining room in answer to my summons.

Lately I had tried to dispense with Emma'd presence at meals as far as possible. Servants were so apt to gossip.

"Nice way to speak before the servant," Leonard remarked curtly as Emma left the dining room. "It's bad enough without having it wholesaled over the back fences," he said dryly.

"I know—it was stupid—but you are so cross—and, and irreproachable!" I sobbed. "I'm so lonely." Then I burst into tears.

Leonard was at my side in a minute I thought I heard him mumble something under his breath about—"that damn cad." Then all his sullenness and indifference slipped suddenly from him. He was down on his knees beside me in a minute.

"Don't, don't cry, dear. Everything is all right, little wife. I'm just an old bear—and I'm worried dreadfully over business." He put his strong arms around me. "Forgive me, dearest?"

The doubt and unhappiness of those last dreadful days was soon mitigated. With my tears had come the washing away of all our sorrow.

"I didn't mean to cry, dear," I pleaded. "I know how men hate a woman's tears, but I've missed our old time talks so, and the tears would come," I said dabbing my eyes with a little wad of dampened handkerchief.

"Let's forgive and start all over again, dearest," he responded, as our lips met in a long kiss of happiness.

Tomorrow—Leonard Talks of the Case.

For Beauty's Sake

Remove that film-coat from your teeth

Teeth cannot glisten with a film-coat on them. You who want white teeth must learn how to remove it.

This week your druggist offers—free—a new way of teeth cleaning. Millions now employ it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Go make that test. One week's results will be a revelation.

Film—the great enemy

But this is more than a beauty question. Film ruins millions of teeth. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste cannot end it, so the tooth brush has left much of it intact.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All these troubles have been constantly increasing, because brushing failed to end that film.

Now a new dental era

Dental science, after years of research, has found ways to combat film day by day. The methods have been proved efficient by many careful tests. High authorities endorse them. And millions of people now employ them, largely by dental advice.

These methods are combined in a tooth paste called Pepsodent. Together they combat the film as nothing else has done. And they are fast bringing, the world over, a new era in teeth cleaning.

That is the tooth paste you are urged to test. See the instant results—watch the effects for ten days. Then decide for yourself between the old ways and the new.

The unique effects

One ingredient of Pepsodent is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling. The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied also. That to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

The Pepsodent effects come with every application. Day by day they fight the teeth's great enemies. And teeth are protected as they never were before.

See and feel it act

Present this coupon for the 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

The results are quick and apparent. A little book tells the reasons for them. For your own sake learn how much they mean.

Now daily used by millions

Millions of people are now using Pepsodent. You can see the results wherever you look—in glistening teeth.

Women who think their teeth white now should see how they look with the film gone.

With men who smoke the films are apt to be particularly discolored. They will see the most conspicuous results.

But children need Pepsodent most. Their teeth are most subject to decay. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be daily applied from the time the first tooth appears. It may save them troubles life-long in effect.

FREE

This week only

At any drug store named below, a 10-day tube of Pepsodent. Simply present the coupon. Let this new way prove itself. Judge by results what it means to you. Learn now the way that millions know to whiter, safer teeth.

POTATOES NEVER LOWER IN PRICE.

Good Draft Horses Selling Briskly at $160 and $200—Report of Farm Conditions.

Essex reports farmers in that county plowing sod before the middle of Marlh. The season generally is regarded as being more forward than usual.

The roads, however, have been almost impassable for the past few weeks, and as a consequence, marketing has been slow.

Grey reports that ewes are lambing, and that many twins are coming. Horse buyers are also busy in that county, and a number of animals have been bought at good prices.

Peel says: "Farm horses at sales are selling briskly at from $140 to $160 for common, and from $160 to $200 for good draft sorts, while typy drafts buy from $200 to $250.

Peterborough observes that many of the cattle shipped out recently have been more or less unfinished, and that prices have been low, ranging from 5c to 8c a lb., while Peel quotes butchers' cattle at 9c a lb. and extra heavy steers at 11c.

Glengarry reports a large numbers of calves being marketed at prices running from 12c to 13c a lb.

Lambton says: "After one week's work in the Scrub Bull Campaign in Bosanquet, which was formerly a beef-raising township, there was a demand from farmers for information in reference to the dual-purpose Shorthorn. This proves the contention that the farmers are leaning a little more toward dairying."

Jersey grade cows at a recent sale in Peel brought as high as $215.

Prices of milk to producers vary with locality all the way from $2.20 to $3 a cwt., for 3.5 per cent. butter fat quality.

Bacon hogs are relatively scarce, but are comparatively low in price. On the other hand, brood sows are in good demand at auction sales, according to Kent, Simcoe and Peel Representatives, the latter quoting prices ranging from $75 to $125.

Fodder supplies are holding out well in every district reporting. Prescott and Russell stated that some farmers are using molasses with dry roughage for feeding live stock, and with good results.

Potatoes were never lower in price. Peterborough states that a shipment was made from that county last week at fifty cents a bag, and Huron speaks of local deliveries at the same price. The general figure stands around a dollar.

Essex says that practically the entire local tobacco crop is still in the hands of the growers.

Sweet clover is selling at from $2.50 to $2.75 a bushel in the county of Grey; some farmers say they will hold their supply over for a year.

Kent reports that while Fall wheat is looking well in most parts of the county, the Hessian fly is reported to have done considerable damage to the early-sown fields in the Merlin district. The other Representatives reporting are on the whole hopeful regarding prospects of the crop if it escapes Spring heaving, as the fields are steadily improving in color.

SEED IS SOWN IN SIDNEY TOWNSHIP

BELLEVILLE, March 30.—The earliest sowing of grain in this district is reported from Sidney township. At the end of the last week, G. A. Ketcheson sowed oats. Ploughing has been in progress throughout the week.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF FARMS ORGANIZE.

Affiliated as a Junior Section With the U.F.O.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the farm young people of the district surrounding Peterborough was held in the S. O. E. Hall, Hunter Street, on Monday evening, March 28th, to organize a junior section of the U. F. O. (a branch of the U.F.Y.P.O.).

Officers were elected and a programme arranged for their next meeting, to be held on Monday, April 11th, in the S. O. E. Hall.

After a brief business meeting the local branches of the U.F.O., U. F. W. O. and U.F.Y.P.O. will hold a joint meeting, of which a special feature will be a debate by the young people. Also, the U.F.O. are making arrangements to have Mr. F. C. McRae, Agricultural Representative, give a slide of moving pictures.

Vivian Milburn is President of this new organization and Earl H. Petrie the Secretary.

FIRED CANADIANS.

RENFREW, March 31.—American immigration officers recently visited the big extensive paper plant at Newton Falls, N.Y., and ordered a number of men from Renfrew who had been employed there during the winter to give up their jobs and return home. Report has it that this action was taken in compliance with the United States Alien Labor Act.

BETHEL LEAGUE VISITED OMEMEE

INTERESTING PROGRAMME WAS PROVIDED—OMEMEE NEWS.

OMEMEE, March 31.—The members of Bethel League came up on Wednesday evening last and had charge of the League service in the Methodist Church. The meeting opened with a short prayer service. Miss Cora Switzer gave a splendid paper on "The Bible," while Miss Florence Reid gave another excellent paper. Mr. Ira Switzer favoured the audience with a solo and the Misses Green and Faulkner and Messrs. Eugene Switzer and Herb. Jackson rendered a quartette in a very pleasing manner. Mrs. McCarroll accompanied the different selections on the piano. Refreshments were served at the close by the Omemee League and a social hour spent.

A return visit of the Omemee League to Bethel will take place on the third Thursday in April, when an interesting debate will be put on.

Held a Concert.

The concert put on by the Omemee Athletic Association on Monday evening attracted a very fair crowd, considering the condition of the roads. The proceeds amounted to about $100.00. The orchestra is well worthy of mention, with Mrs. Hume accompanying on the piano, as is also the pretty choruses.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

In alighting from a moving train, on which he had been stealing a ride to the crossing, Stephen Delehey, of Orono, aged 18 years, narrowly escaped death. The lad slipped and fell with his head lying on one rail; but fortunately the slowly moving wheel crowded his head to one side after inflicting a deep cut requiring several stitches.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST APPENDICTIS ATTACK

Appendicitis is an intestinal infection often due to old, retained waste matter. Even though bowels move daily, poisons may accumulate in the system for months. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-i-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and brings out mater which might start an appendicitis infection. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach and chronic constipation. Adler-i-ka brings out matter which you never thought was in your system. McDermid & Jury and E. L. Payne, druggists.

Jury Recommends Protection of the Entrance to Kingston Wharves

KINGSTON, March 30. — The coroner's jury enquiring into the death of Michael Edward McGarvey, who was drowned Saturday night when he drove his auto over the wharf into Kingston harbor, have given the following verdict:

"Michael Edward McGarvey came to his death accidentally by drowning, and we recommend that gates or some kind of protection be placed at the entrance to wharves at the foot of streets to prevent similar accidents; and that a copy of the verdict be forwarded to the city clerk"

BEWARE WORTHLESS CHEQUE ARTISTS.

Ontario police are warned to watch for a couple of men who are making a tour of the country and cashing at stores worthless cheques charged on the Bank of Montreal, with Militia and Defence stamped on with rubber stamp, all payable to an ex-private, and amount printed with Protective Printing Machine. The men when asked show discharge papers.

These men visited Stratford merchants recently. One of them is described as being about 35 years of age 6 feet in height, 200 pounds wearing dark overcoat with velvet collar, soft fedora hat, square shoulders, thin face. The other is described as 28 to 30 years of age, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches in height, 170 pounds, peak cap, good suit, or Ulster overcoat.

MOTHERS, BE CAREFUL

Much of the trouble in weaning the baby is developed by the use of a cheap and unsanitary nipple. The NOBILITY nipple is sterilized and is sanitary, transparent and non-collapsible. It is put up in a separate box with a red band on each nipple. You will meet with the doctor's approval if baby uses NOBILITY nipple. t t s.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

The ROCKING CHAIR as a CURE for "NERVES"

THE rocking chair, which has been formally approved by the French Academy of Sciences as the most hygienic of all chairs, is now recommended by that body for general use in both offices and homes.

Not only does the scientific world now acknowledge that the rocking chair is a tested aid in the practice of therapeutics, but standard and popular literature offer much testimony in support of the rocker as an influence for peace and domestic tranquility. Herewith is offered in evidence four lines of a popular poem, dear to the days gone by:

"Mother, come back from the echoless shore;
Take me again to your arms, as of yore;
Over my slumbers your loving watch keep;
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep."

Chaucer says:

"The cradel at hir beddes feet is set to rokken."

Dryden offers this testimony in his translation of Ovid's epistle, xi.:

"High in his hall, rocked in a chair of state,
The king with his tempestuous council sate."

Shakespeare:

"Sleep rock thy brain."

Dryden:

"His fellow, who the narrow bed had kept,
Was weary and without a ricker slept."

W. M. Baker, in New Timothy:

"He has extracted a particularly important one, and leaning back in his rocking chair, that cradle for grown-up babies—he is obeying my Lord Bacon and inwardly digesting the same."

In the times of Charles I. the Court Rocker was a distinguished official.

"Rockabye Baby Upon the Tree Top," which has soothed most of us in the beginning, is a time-tried lullaby. Anybody who has ever had a good chance to judge knows that rocking in a chair in the old home kitchen is the poetry of motion.

The position of a person seated in a rocking chair is declared to be physiologically the most correct, since the normal position of the skull on the spinal column is preserved at all angles of inclination of the chair. This being the case there is no mechanical obstruction to the breathing, no matter what position the sitter adopts. The rocking chair has long been regarded as an American fad.

An illustrious French scientist-physician told the world recently that the much-to-be-envied women who spend their vacation months at hotels do not waste what time they spend rocking, talking, sitting and knitting on wide and airy verandas.

But exercise—that is the key to health. Not the only key, it appears. The porch rockers have chosen the better part, says this French physician. They relax and rest and enter into harmony via the undulations of the rocker.

Porch rocking being an American diversion and "nerves" being largely an American problem, a physician having to do with American nerves would seem to be the obvious source of information regarding the benefits of using a rocking chair. Dr. Flavius Packer, a New York physician who conducts a sanatorium for persons afflicted with nervous ailments, should have something of interest to say on this subject. When asked about the effect of rocking chairs on nerves Dr. Parker said:

"Well, I'll tell you an incident. I was visiting a friend in New Hampshire. A little girl was in disgrace and her mother sentenced her to a certain corner of the room to sit and be silent. She plumped down into a little rocking chair, which was the gift of an uncle. She rocked furiously for a time, defiant and rebellious but obliged to be speechless. We were amused and interested and soon noticed that the motion of the chair became less violent and more regular. Presently she called her mother and asked whether she might come to her. Her mother assented and the child said she was sorry. She had acquired understanding and calm by rocking.

"A student of human nature may learn a great deal of a mortal under stress by seating that individual in a rocker and observing the manifestation of nervous or muscular disturbance. Under conversation a listless one may hold the rocker motionless. More often as the interest or grievance is piqued the individual rocks furiously, gradually reducing the motion to calm as serenity develops. Now, in that case, would you call rocking a symptom or an influence?

"The sailor has his hammock—on the principle of the rocker—and the cavalryman his saddle. The seasoned mariner and the seasoned rider find these seats restful.

"The straight seat is more fashionable than the rocker, I think," Dr. Packer continued. "The straight front corset does not permit the form to relax into the comfort of the rocking chair. And I think our modern young women are less serene than their grandmothers were. Compare the fidgety disposition of the young woman condemned by fashion to seek one dimension in her figure, with the girls of gracious curves and tranquil disposition who charmed our male ancestors. The even-tempered, old-fashioned mother, who had a wise knowledge of life from living it normally, rocked her restless infant to sleep in a cradle. Some parents have scrapped the cradle—but it will come back. The babe of the future will be rocked to sleep again while mother sits in her low rocker and busies her hands with something equivalent to the knitting of other days. It may be with holding a book on science, a brush or with the operation of a soundless typewriter."

Next Dr. Packer described an old Atlantic seaboard home, some of which are still in existence.

"The kitchen is sunny," he said, "and the kitchenette and alcohol stove for cooking have not invaded the precincts of the surviving homes. I know kitchens in which the odors sacred to the last generation, used to preserv... and fruit drying, are something more than ghostly. They still have their big fireplaces and the old black rocking chair with a picture of roses down its wide back panel. And the rocking chair is still the throne of a white-aproned mother. Why, when I was a boy there was a big rocking chair in every kitchen. And there were no bungalow aprons, just the wide apron tied around the waist.

"From that gracious seat of authority were dispensed understanding and forgiveness and sympathy and comfort. Father sat and oracled from his stiff arm chair near the other window, and mother healed and soothed and blessed from her rocker. Mother understood father and interpreted him. And all went well. I do think the rocking chair is entitled to its share of credit. I only wish that porch rockers could, under existing general conditions, have the privilege this passing type of women had, of swaying by kindness and serenity, superinduced by the rhythmic motion of that blessed old chair.

"If one may use the term now, I would say that the rocker chair is 100 per cent. American. It has moved from sunny kitchen to shady porch, but it is still with us. I do not think you will find it in use in other countries except as a novelty." If I did not remember having read of it in tales of olden times I would call it another Yankee invention. I am sure in its perfected form it is essentially American, and if you find yourself worried (the doctor's eyes twinkled) take a rocking chair to a sunny window and think it over. The solution is likely to come. At any rate, all I have to say about the rocker is that I think it has made a case for itself in practically every American home."

"Our Modern Young Women Are Less Serene Than Their Grandmothers Were. The Even-Tempered, Old-Fashioned Mother, Who Had a Wise Knowledge of Life from Living It Normally, Rocked Her Restless Infant to Sleep in a Cradle."

WHY NOTHING STANDS STILL

THOUGH a great deal has been written about the new theory of relativity, it is doubtful whether one person in a thousand has any idea of its meaning. The first thing to grasp is that all words expressing size, distance, or speed have no absolute meaning. For example, it is not correct to say that anything more than six feet long is big, and describe anything less as small. You speak of a huge gooseberry and of a small hill, although the hill is obviously thousands of times larger than the gooseberry.

Little or small can be applied quite correctly to houses or baby elephants. In the same way great, big, huge or enormous are rightly used in describing certain mice, beetles or even cheese-mites. It is readily seen that a big mouse is one that is large in comparison with, or in relation to, ordinary mice; a little house is small in relation to normal houses.

These words of size are all comparative or relative and cannot be given a definite meaning in yards and feet and inches.

What of speed? The earth has a circumference of about 24,000 miles, and it revolves once in twenty-four hours. Therefore, the surface of the earth must have a speed of 1000 miles an hour. Do you call this slow or rapid motion? Rapid, of course.

Now look at the small hand of a clock, which you must watch carefully if you wish to detect its motion, since it is moving slowly. But the hand makes a complete revolution in twelve hours, while the earth takes twenty-four hours to revolve. The hand is moving twice as fast as the earth! It is only because the surface of the earth is so much more distant from its centre that we call its motion rapid. Its actual turning speed is only half that of the hour-hand of a clock.

Here is another amazing fact. You cannot say that anything is fixed, motionless, or at rest, unless the words are used relatively or comparatively. You say, for instance, "I am standing still," but are you? The point on the earth's surface on which you stand is moving at 1000 miles an hour; further, the earth, besides revolving on its own axis, is traveling forward on its path round the sun at the rate of about eighteen miles a second, and you are moving with it.

Scientists explain that we can perceive motion only if we can see objects which are moving at a greater or less speed than our own. We know that we are moving in a railway train, because we can see fields, trees and houses flashing past. But we seem to be standing still on the earth's surface because the only objects we can see outside the earth—the sun, the moon, and the stars—change position so slowly that they give us no idea of motion.

Lord Haldane said a short time ago that it was conceivable that a man in a fast-moving train might really be at rest, while the landscape and the rails themselves were moving. It seems a remarkable statement, but it is not difficult to see that it is true. Imagine a train moving across the continent from east to west at 1000 miles an hour; as the earth is moving in the opposite direction at the same speed, the train is really motionless, while the rails, being fixed to the earth's surface, are moving.

A similar thing occurs in a well-known stage turn, in which a cyclist rides his machine on a track formed by an endless belt which passes over rollers. When the rollers revolve, the path moves rapidly, and the cyclist, by dint of furious pedalling, is able to keep in one position upon it. You can see by his actions that he is traveling very quickly, yet his position does not alter. In relation to the stage and the auditorium he is standing still; in relation to the track he is moving at a considerable speed.

Does a LOVELESS LIFE Mean a LENGTHY ONE?

OF all white children born in America the average age at death will be 60 for males and 63 for females, writes Arthur Beninton in the Popular Science Monthly. The officials of the Life Extension Institute will prove to you that the expectation of life for men and women who have passed 40 has actually decreased and is steadily decreasing.

One has but to glance at the faces of a group of women of high society toward the end of the season to see the ravages that high living and late hours have wrought upon them. "It is the pace that kills." Many learned physiologists have speculated upon old age and its causes, and have written treatises to prove that we are all potentially immortal and might live for hundreds or even thousands of years if we could avoid—oh, so many things! And they have pointed to the lives of famous old men as examples of what we ought to do to attain to their extraordinary length of days. The classic example is that of Cornaro, who lived comfortably to the age of 98, his secret being his diet, in which he limited himself to 12 ounces of food a day. Another example is Count Greppi, an Italian senator and former diplomat, who was hale and hearty in his hundred and first year. Count Greppi then said his rule of life was to allow himself no sensations—he declared that he had never loved!

Dr. E. E. Rittenhouse says that there are always 1,500,000 Americans ill with preventable diseases; that four out of every ten deaths are preventable or could have been prevented.

According to Dr. E. Lyman Fisk, of 28,000,000 men between 18 and 60, 8,500,000 show evidences of approaching disease or already have it.

It is illuminating to read the causes of death. In 1917—a typical year in which the figures were not complicated by the war—14.2 of every thousand persons in the United States died; out of every hundred thousand deaths 153.2 were from diseases of the heart, 149.8 from pneumonia, 146.4 from tuberculosis, 107.4 from kidney troubles, 82.9 from apoplexy, 81.6 from cancer, 79 from diarrhoea, 25.3 from diseases of the arteries, 17.2 from influenza, 16.9 from diabetes, 16.5 from diphtheria, 16.3 from bronchitis, 108.8 from accidents of all sorts. Arterial diseases and diabetes show an increase that is really alarming; for in 1900 only 6.1 per 100,000 died of the former and only 9.7 of the latter. These, with those of the heart and kidneys, are diseases that result directly from the strain and stress of modern life.

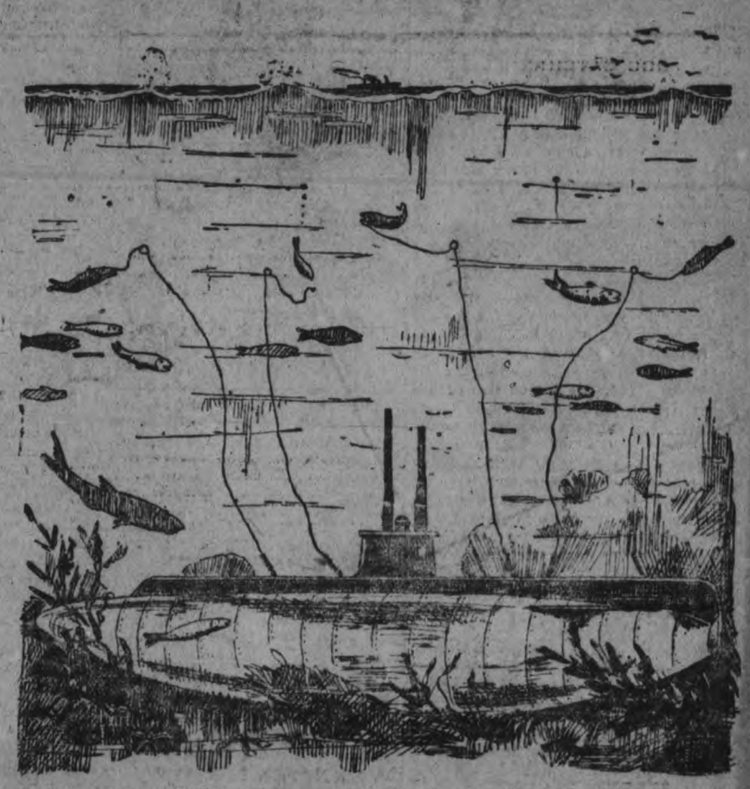
Going FISHING in SUBMARINES

FISHING with inverted lines from the decks of American submarines is the newest pastime among members of their crews operating in the Pacific ocean from the Los Angeles submarine base. The boats make frequent practice trips between Los Angeles and Santa Catalina island. The water in this area averages about 90 feet in depth, and is one of the finest fishing grounds of the Pacific coast. Frequently the boats dive to the bottom, and lie there with their motors shut off while practicing submarine signaling, torpedo-tube routine, and the like.

The upside-down fishing is done in a very simple manner, as a writer in Popular Mechanics explains. Prior to making a dive the men arrange their lines on the deck rails of the submarine. The hooks are baited, and are strung out on the decks to be carried upward when the boat dives, by a float attached near the hook.

Since any fish that takes the bait cannot be removed until the boat comes to the surface, the lines are fastened to the deck rail by coil springs. This practically eliminates the chance of losing the fish by its breaking the line, or tearing the hook out of its mouth. Thus the baited hooks "dangle upward" when the submarine is resting on the bottom of the sea—then along comes a fish, swallowing the bait and snags himself.

The method of submarine fishing recently was given a try-out by an electrician aboard the submarine "H-5." He baited four lines prior to making a dive and when the boat came to the surface he had three yellow-tails, weighing 24, 28 and 32 pounds, respectively. A fourth fish had taken the bait, but got away.



To Fish from the Deck of a Submerged U-Boat, Floats Carry the Baited Hooks Upward, the End of Each Line Being Attached to a Spiral Spring on the Deck, to "Play" the Fish, Which Cannot Be Removed Until the Submarine Comes to the Surface.

How DISEASE Is SAID to BEGIN

THE crude and bizarre ideas of disease that were slowly developed into the medical conceptions of the cultivated oriental races, and subsequently evolved into the medicine of the classical period of antiquity, reach far back into the period of the prehistoric ages. As early as 4000 B. C., a sort of medical knowledge was already so well established, so that the existence of disease must have been recognized ages earlier. The discovery of the beginnings of the history of medicine does not reveal the beginnings of disease on the earth. Did it precede man or was it contemporaneous with him? To such questions the newly recognized study of paleopathology is addressing itself.

Germs are said to be among the oldest inhabitants of the earth. R. L. Moodie defends the thesis, however, that disease did not exist with the most ancient bacteria. They were harmless, as are most of the present-day bacteria. According to this paleontologist, disease did not become especially active until the present age of the earth had been attained by nearly three-quarters of its duration. That is, disease, so far as animals and plants are concerned, explains a writer in The Journal of the American Medical Association, has been active only during the last quarter of the earth's history. We cannot imagine that there were no accidents with resulting injury to early mankind; indeed, the fossil remains give evidence of such misfortunes. According to Moodie, however, disease in the guise of bacterial invasion was not a part of the life history of primitive man.

It is interesting to speculate on the characteristics of life and living at a period when disease was at its very beginnings. Moodie's picture is a tranquil one. So firmly guarded, he writes, were the primitive animals of the first ages of the earth that no disturbing influences entered into their existence. Only when racial old age, and the introduction of other antagonistic influences disturbed this natural immunity, did animals see the new factor of disease enter into their lives.

Shivering to Keep Warm

DO you know that every time you shiver it is just one of nature's little dodges for keeping you warm? It is the cold which first excites the nervous system just as heat generally soothes it, and shivering consists of a number of small quick to-and-fro movements, which sometimes become quite regular—as you experience when your teeth chatter—of most of the muscles of the body.

One good reason for shivering, however, is that it helps to make you aware of cold as you might not otherwise be, in order that you can take steps to protect yourself. It does this by keeping the brain awake and making it aware that something must be done.

Then there is another very good reason for shivering, physicians explain. Whenever a muscle works a certain amount of heat is produced—in fact most of the heat of the body is produced in the muscles—and though shivering often makes you realize that you are cold yet it really helps to keep you warm, for all the tiny muscular movements are producing heat.

This can best be illustrated in the case of a person who refuses to move about in cold weather in order to keep warm. When he persists in keeping still, the brain, as it were, takes the matter into its own hands, and in spite of his stubbornness does what little it can by causing his muscles to shiver.

Is the EARTH Really Being MADE OVER?

THE world is in process of being made over climatically and geologically as a result of recent tremendous seismatic disturbances in the Arctic seas and northern Asia, according to a statement by an eminent French scientist, Prof. Guillaume Bigourdan, president of the committee on longitudes.

"We are traversing a period of volcanic disturbance similar to that occurring before the creation of man and which caused the disposition of the present continents, oceans and chains of mountains," says Prof. Bigourdan.

"While we need not anticipate any abrupt alterations in the earth's surface, there is undoubtedly a possibility that new groups of islands may appear in the Pacific ocean and that others may disappear. The cycle of seismatic evolution is likely to extend for a period of hundreds of years, eventually completely transforming the geological and climatic conditions under which the earth is governed.

"These disturbances may be expected in a zone of subterranean energy extending from the Mediterranean sea to the Indian ocean and eastern Asia, finally involving the entire Pacific coast line of the American continent which will likely be particularly affected. However, resultant earthquakes and eruptions of long dormant volcanoes are unlikely to rival in severity those of 2000 years ago."

WHY There Are MANY VARIETIES of HONEY

IT IS the popular belief that there is only one kind of honey, but this is a great mistake. Not even is all honey sweet. Apiarists will tell you that there are more kinds of honey than you think. There is honey that is black and sour; honey that is red; honey that is poisonous; honey that is green and honey that is rose color. Nearly everyone has eaten honey that is white, and most persons know honey that ranges in color from pale yellow to brown.

Honey, a beekeeper explains, is of many flavors, depending on the kind of blossoms the bees work on. Light honey is gathered from clover, apple, locust and other early blossoms, while dark honey is made from nectar the bees gather from the flowers of buckwheat, golden rod and other autumn flowers. Honey obtained from the blossoms of white clover is generally greenish yellow and excellent in flavor, and so, too, is that honey which bees in the British Isles obtain from the bloom of heather. The color of that honey is a dark and rich yellow. Honey also varies in color and flavor with the breed of bees which makes it.

Honey made out of the flowers of the rhododendron and the wild azalea is irritating and narcotic. From the mountain laurel or "calico bush," which grows plentifully in the mountain and foothill regions of the United States, wild bees make a honey said to be harmful to man.

One of the famous varieties of honey is that called Maltese, because produced in Malta, and there it is said the bees feast mainly on orange blossoms. Another famous honey held in high repute in Europe is "Norbonne," and the bees make that from the flowers of rosemary and related plants.

Shrub for Tanning Purpose

A SHRUB growing principally in the go fields of Australia has been found to po sess properties suitable for tanning pu poses, according to The World's Salesman, a Yo kohama commercial magazine published by Americans. Leather tanned by the extracts from this shrub is adjudged equal to the best, being especially useful in lining hats. Excellent samples of fast dyes have also been extracted from this shrub.

An extensive area has been granted, over which the bush will be stripped to feed tanning and extracting works.

JACK MINER IS OUR JOHN BURROUGHS

Three Thousand Wild Canada Geese Just Ending Visit to Him in Essex County.

BIRDS LOVE PLACE

The Owner of the Sanctuary Is Their Friend, Doctor, Dentist, and Osteopath.

By FRANK YEIGH.

CANADA has a John Burroughs in another John, otherwise known as Jack Miner.

He's our Canadian Burroughs in his love of nature, his open-mindedness, his big heart, his habit of hospitality and his sympathetic touch with every beast of the field and fowl of the air. As a dog knows his master, so a bird knows his benefactor, and thousands of winged creatures have Jack Miner on their list of friends. He is known among them, all the way from Mississippi and Louisiana and the two Carolinas to our Northland backyard of the Hudson Bay parish.

Ask any one of the three thousand wild Canada geese at present sojourning at Jack's bird sanctuary, up in Essex county, and the gander daddy of each goose family will honk his gratitude on his and their behalf.

I was up at Uncle Jack's bird ranch the other day and, while he was mending the broken wing of a mother goose, I slipped over to pond No. 1, crowded to its cement edge with hundreds of fat and glossy beauties, and asked them straight what they thought of Jack Miner and why they thought what they thought. It was all done "unbeknownst" to him, though his bird-loving little son Jaspar (he of the curly hair in the film, who feeds the robin from his hand) had his youthful eye on me.

Gander Tom Johnston answered for his thousand fellow and sister birds. Tom honked his reply in eloquent terms and amid much wing-flapping applause and noisy trumpet calls from the rest of the flock.

"It's this way," said Tom, when he had silenced the noisy brood, "this bird you call a man issued invitations some years ago for us geese to visit him on our flights south and north. You see, we're real Canadians, like the Indians, and we're proud of our name of the Canada Goose. But we were suspicious of his intentions. Other two-legged birds had tried to feed up on lead pills, forced into us from a long iron stick, and it sent lots of us to our bird heaven. But we looked him over and decided, on his looks, to take him at his word and we're still taking him. I remember the first flock that ventured to try him out. 'Good-bye, brothers,' honked some cheerful relatives, when they sailed on and we sailed down on the Miner farm, "we'll never see you again.'"

Free Meals For All

"ANY trouble with him?" you ask. "Not a hint or a bit. He's kept his word to the birds; he's been a father, mother and rich uncle and sympathetic aunt to thousands of our winged tribe; he's our doctor, surgeon, dentist and osteopath."

"Anything else?"

"Well, rather. In our goose language, he's a honky-dandy. It's one continual banquet—corn-on-the-cob twice a day, brought right to our feeding-ground, with water to drink and dessert pickings in the adjoining fields. Why, I've put on two pounds of weight since I flew here from Georgia, where I and my family wintered. It's our winter resort. Ever see our name in the Social Column of the Wild Goose Gazette?"

Tom had an exciting time later on that night. He was on patrol duty beside his mate. Among the tributes Jack Miner pays to the Canada gander is his loyalty to his nesting partner. It is a case of faithfulness unto death, if need be.

First, Klondyke, the Miner Airedale, chased a stray cat to and under the barn. The cat, in running for its life—a streak of black in the dark—nearly bumped into gander Tom who, in turn, pursued the terrified pussy, who is still running. Then Klondyke, coming too near the nest, Tom took after him, and the dog also ran. It was Tom's bad night as he caught sight of Jack and me watching the cat-dog-and-goose mixup. Our turn then came, as he hissed and honked at us in disgraceful language and, with extended wings, flew at Jack. But Jack spoke him fair, told him, in the gander's own tongue, not to get excited, and sure enough the big bird backed to the side of his perturbed spouse, folded up his wings and put the soft pedal on his acrimonious tongue. And Tom will stay loyally by his post for the weeks necessary to produce a new family.

It was just after sundown that a commotion among the three thousand geese in the three sanctuary ponds announced their evening flight to Lake Erie, three miles away, where, a mile from shore, they would have a night's sleep in safety on the calm waters. A wonderful flight it proved to be, as battalion after battalion of birds took to the air with a rush of wings that sounded like rustling silk. Swish—swish—swish, as flock after flock—some in scores, some in hundreds—circled aloft and then headed, V-shaped, for the lake. Wild trumpet calls from the gander leader filled the still night as they marshalled their families. So they sailed into the twilight world of the west, mounting higher and higher as they flew over the intervening No-Man's Land so as to be safe from any stray pot-hunter.

The Great Sun-Up Flight

BUT Jack's bird ranch was by no means deserted. He has planted a row of trees especially for the robins and hundreds of the chirping breasts filled the branches for the ...ertins disappeared into their birdhouses, after a fight with the sparrows; doves centred in the barns, and then a lonely blue heron streaked athwart a clear sky—detached from all his feathered brethren—to a safe marshy retreat.

So we humans, after a good night look at Venus and the dipper and a sky crowded with star worlds, and after a rocking-chair hour before a log fire, joined the geese and the robins and the Wyandotte hens and Tom and "Klon" and Jasper's grey and black squirrels, in the beautiful land of sleep.

"Hi, there, are you awake?" came the startling challenge from Uncle Jack at an unholy early hour the next morning. What a wonder-world sleepy-heads miss! The sun was sending out a few scouts of light; the silver grey of the morning was crowding out the black of the night, when my host suddenly cried, as we stood in a field, "Listen! hear him? see him?"

"Hear—see, what?" City folk are blind and deaf anyway. It was the herald of the wild goose army—the advance gander acting as the official announcer, as the three thousand flew high over the Miner sanctuary and settled, again in families, all ready for the corn breakfast that was ready for them.

So we watched, in a thrilling silence, the aerial flight between the break-o'-day and sun-up, until Uncle Jack spoke: "I say, friend, the wild Canada goose knows a heap more than some of us humans do," as he looked at me in a most personal and penetrating way.

By the time this article appears in The Star Weekly, Uncle Jack's three thousand visitors will have started on their annual non-stop flight to Hudson's Bay—except Tom Johnson, who is staying behind, to oversee, in a proper parental way, the expected new arrivals from eight plump eggs in the nest on the north side of the barn.

The President of Hayti

HERE is President Dartignenave of Hayti. If he lives through his term, or two years more, he will have the distinction of being the first president of Hayti to serve his full term of seven years. All the others have been either murdered or killed by bandits within a short time after their election. President Dartignenave can thank the U. S. marines, now in Hayti, for his comparatively long official life.

DEAN OF SENATE PLANS REFORM

Senator Power, the Oldest Member, Thinks Senators Should Be Elected.

ALTHOUGH the much criticized Senate of Canada is composed of men, for the most part, of advanced years, all with the exception of five have been appointed during the Laurier, Borden, and Meighen administrations. The senior five are: Senators Power, now the dean of the chamber, Belduc (speaker), Poirier, Lougheed and Montplaisir. The four last named alone survive of those appointed during the premiership of Sir John Macdonald.

Hon. Lawrence G. Power, of Halifax, now the senior member, has seen forty-five years of service as a senator, and is the sole survivor of the period when Mr. Alexander Mackenzie headed the government. Unlike a great number of his colleagues he served no apprenticeship to politics in the House of Commons, but was appointed directly to the upper chamber and was looked upon as a very youthful member; though he had thirty-six years to his credit it was the fashion to speak of him as the "boy senator."

Born close on eighty years ago at Halifax, he was educated at St. Mary's College in that city and in Ireland, whence his parents came, at the Catholic University, and at the Harvard Law School (LL.D.). He was active in politics and municipal affairs, and was a member of the senate of the University of Halifax. In the Senate of Canada he rapidly acquired a leading position both as a debater and practical statesman and so it was but an almost inevitable step, twenty-five years after his entrance to the chamber, from the floor to the speaker's chair, and he filled the office of president with dignity and general acceptance for four years. His long experience in the Senate, though a staunch upholder of the bi-cameral system of legislation, has led him to the conclusion that a change in the constitution of the Senate is desirable and has no hesitancy in declaring his views and explains them in effect as follows:

Aim to Get Big Men.

PRESUMING that in such matters it is as well to "go slow and let the people think," he says: "Consideration of any reform of the Senate must be preceded by an examination of the weak points of the House of Commons where it is seen that bills and resolutions are too frequently imperfect, too carelessly passed, and through defective drafting need great revision by some competent body outside the 'popular' house. Too frequently excessive party spirit or appeal to local feeling is been instead of a single eye to the public good. Sometimes, too, measures result from panic, temporary considerations or for the promotion of local or personal interests. There never was a time when a revising chamber was more required than at present, and while the Senate does its work well it has a tendency to be timid and does not display proper independence. And it has a weakness of a serious character arising from the fact that when a government has been in power for some time appointments of its supporters only become too numerous and the chamber out of balance and likely to become partizan."

Asked how he would correct the weaknesses of the present chamber Senator Power expressed the opinion that there should be ninety-six districts created to be represented by the present occupants, and as vacancies arise each district should elect a senatorial representative, the Senate and Commons voters' list to be similar as well as the electoral procedure, save that the senators would be elected for life. There should be no addition to the numbers, and the system once in operation would remedy the defects of that now existing. It would make the Senate more independent and less timid in action and as the constituencies would be three times, or nearly so, as great in population as those of the Commons this would result in the selection of men of sterling ability and professional and business standing in the community.

Little Stories of Well-Known People

A LITTLE boy said to the Hon. Hartley Dewart, leader of the Ontario Liberal party, "Why do people take different newspapers? Is it because of their politics?"

"Very often. What is your daddy?"

"My daddy is a Liberal, sir."

Mr. Dewart clapped him on the back approvingly. "That is fine. And you are going to be a Liberal, too."

"No, sir; the Globe hasn't any funnies."

In one of his recent speeches, J. J. Morrison of the United Farmers of Ontario, came to a pause with the following: "You can't fool all the people all of the time."

Whereupon a powerful voice from the audience flung at him: "So that is the reason you do not believe in making it a People's Party."

The Hon. W. R. Rollo, minister of labor of Ontario, was accosted by a little girl of his acquaintance.

"I know what a minister of labor does," she said.

"Well, what does he do?"

"He preaches to everyone else to work."

BIGGEST U.S. LIAR

MR. J. W. DAVIS, the retiring American ambassador to Great Britain, recently told an amusing after-dinner story concerning one of his countrymen who entered a train in the United States carrying a large and varied assortment of fishing tackle.

There was one other man in the carriage. He looked up.

"Been fishing?" he inquired.

"Sure thing. Just come from Massachusetts."

The other man raised his eyebrows. "But it's the close season for fishing there," said he.

"Oh, I never worry about that," was the answer. "I go just the same, and I get trout that size. Huge fellows." He indicated a size.

"Yes, that's all very well," said the other. "But do you know who I am?"

"No."

"I'm the game steward of Massachusetts."

"Indeed? And do you know who I am?"

"Can't say I do."

"Well, I'm the biggest liar in America."

MUTE IN PARLIAMENT

FOR nineteen years Sir Courtney Ilbert, who is retiring, has been clerk of the British House of Commons. He has described himself as the Commons' "professional mute, obliged even to refrain from strong language through long and dreary nights of debate."

Sir Courtney is fond of the story of a constituent who listened from the strangers' gallery to a speech by his member.

Meeting the M.P. afterwards, he said, "There are some parts of your speech that I find it hard to understand."

"Point them out," replied the member, who was a bit of a wag. "I'll rewrite the other portions. I intended the entire speech to be that way."

Palmists Read The Prince's Hand

They Tell Him He Is Fond of Nature and Beauty and That He Will Live Long.

LONDON, ENG.

THE Prince of Wales spent a crowded two hours at the ex-service men's exhibition at the White City.

Not long after he entered "Professor" James, late of the 4th East Surreys, invited him to have his hand read. The Prince smilingly held out his hand and laughed heartily when he was told in solemn tones, "You are fond of the opposite sex, good-natured, very thoughtful, possessed of big ideals, and keen on sport."

"Very true and very flattering," was the Prince's comment. "What is your fee?"

"Sixpence, sir," replied the palmist.

The Prince, wishing to pay more than the usual fee but having no change, turned to his equerry, borrowed five shillings, gave it to "Professor" James and passed on smiling.

Prof. Conrad Lyle also read the Prince's hand. He said: "You have a wonderful long life line and fairly good health throughout your life. Any little weakness that you might have would occur in the upper part of the chest. The head line droops towards the mount of the moon, denoting a keen imagination.

"You would have done well if it had been necessary to take up horticulture, poultry farming, cattle breeding, or anything near to nature. The nearer you get to nature the better it will be for you.

"You have got good powers of organization and of control, and would be very successful in controlling others.

"You are very artistic and fond of beauty in your surroundings in all forms, and you should be good at drawing, designing, painting, and music. Music, especially, is well shown, but more an appreciation of music than cultivation."

The Prince agreed to this, saying he was "very fond of music, but did not like practice at all."

A BRITISH OIL KING

FANCY boxes covered with shells and inscribed "A Present from Margate" laid the foundation to the fortune of Sir Marcus Samuel, the British oil magnate, who has just retired.

His father sold these boxes to holiday-makers and was thus able to send his son abroad, where he acquired the commercial knowledge which brought him millions.

LEMIEUX'S TWO SEATS IN QUEBEC

Have Brought Him Into Trouble in Commons — A Distinguished Parliamentarian.

A SUPREME ORATOR

Something of Laurier's Grand Manner—His Speeches Choice Essays — His Record.

By H. GRATTAN O'LEARY.

MR. RODOLPHE LEMIEUX, whose representation of two constituencies in the Commons has brought him before the committee on privileges and elections, is among the decreasing number of distinguished Canadians in parliament. Although a comparatively young man, he has been in the House of Commons for a quarter of a century; has been solicitor-general, postmaster-general, and minister of marine; has worthily represented the Dominion on the stage of international affairs; has been honored by the governments of France and Japan; and to-day, with reputation assured, sits in parliament as the intellectual successor of Laurier, a brilliant career still ahead of him.

Mr. Ernest Lapointe's many brilliant qualities have recently brought him to the fore as a potent figure in French Canada, but they have not been sufficiently outstanding to dim the light of Mr. Lemieux's supremacy. Mr. Lapointe is eloquent, ardent and practical, but his oratorical gifts are inferior to those of Mr. Lemieux, his experience and knowledge sparser, his prestige less great and his personality less interesting. There is something of the atmosphere, of the "grand manner," of Laurier about Lemieux. Like Sir Wilfrid, he is a lover, and a master, of the best in English literature; has the same admiration for the British character and constitution, the same reverence for the great figures and achievements of mid-Victorian Liberalism. It is always a pleasure to sit in the press gallery and hear a speech by Mr. Lemieux. His addresses, mostly delivered without notes, are really the choicest of essays, enriched by quotations from the noblest in British literature.

His Political Heroes

GLADSTONE, Peel, O'Connell and Bright are his political heroes, although they sometimes have a place in his speeches with the great writers and statesmen of France; and not even Dr. Michael Clark excels him in the art of apt quotation. Mr. Lemieux's oratory, indeed, is one of the prized possessions of a House of Commons conspicuously barren of orators. Less direct and practical than Mr. Lapointe and Dr. Clark, more florid than Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his ardent, impassioned, sometimes tempestuous style has an irresistible appeal to the ear. Although at his best when denouncing his foes, or dwelling upon the glories of the Liberal past, some of his finest addresses have been upon other and less conflicting themes. Of this class was his oration upon Laurier, which will take its place among the finest flowers of Canadian parliamentary eloquence. Its close—directed to the Quebec members who sat with tear-dimmed eyes behind him—has an elevation and a solemn beauty that would not be unworthy of Lincoln or Bright. He was speaking a last farewell of French Canada to her greatest son, and said:

"We say farewell and we thank you. We thank you for having thus gathered around you your own people, the descendants of those Canadians of old, the last to give up the fight in that last battle, who, with souls anguished by defeat, escorted the Marquis of Montcalm from the gates of Old Quebec to the Chateau St. Louis. We thank you for having lifted them up to you and invited them to share your glory.

"Farewell. Close to your resting place, amid maples and poplars, adorned by the coming spring with luxuriant foliage, we shall many of us congregate to pray in the tongue of your ancestors. The field wherein you lie, whose tender embrace you received, will be light to you. For it is part of that native land whose history is three centuries old and whose motherly womb will some day cover our meanness with its vastness and shroud our nothingness with its perennity. Adieu!"

The Famed Lemieux Act

BUT it is not alone in the sphere of eloquence that the career of Lemieux has been great. He gave to Canada one of its most practical pieces of legislation, famed the world over as the Lemieux Act; and under his administration the postoffice had its most prosperous years. In the war, too, he was a tower of strength, and although his opinions on conscription were not those of the majority of his countrymen, the death of his only son on the battlefield told that his heart beat true; and so doughty an opponent as Sir Sam Hughes has paid tribute to his services and his patriotism.

The circumstances under which his representation of two constituencies are brought before the committee on elections, hardly do him credit. His position, certainly, is hostile to his professions of Liberalism, and a denial of the principles of really responsible government. Nevertheless, while all should desire to see Mr. Lemieux deprived of one of his seats, few should care to see him deprived of both. The House of Commons can ill afford to lose much of intellect or talent. It has row upon row of men who, cold, hard and unimaginative, know little of parliament's traditions, and are careless of them; it has all too few with the culture and the love and knowledge of what government means that distinguish Mr. Lemieux.

Mrs. Catterson: "Yes, and I didn't please any of them."

THE CONFESSIONAL: Uncensored Talks With Big Men About Themselves

No. 32.—SIR GEORGE FOSTER

By Emil Longue-Beau.

THE appointment was after lunch at his office in the west block. On Wellington street, near the entrance, I was overtaken by Sir George, who was always a brisk walker.

"These historic buildings are beginning to look almost out of date, don't they?" he asked, noticing my gaze at the structure whence he has observed the late morning sun now during nearly ten solid years. "They were fine when I first used to come here; but, compared with the new Houses they seem dingy, and scarcely fit the times. Let us go in through the basement door. The elevator comes down there, and saves the climb up the steps. It's not quite as public as the other way—more suited to a confession," he concluded, with the dry humor that has seldom overflowed, though it has always been available.

Soon we were in the room of the minister of trade and commerce, and Sir George began to talk about himself, first remarking that he supposed it was better to give out than to be drawn out.

"Do you know," he began, "when I look around and back, I think I must have come out of the Ark. I was elected a member of the house of commons thirty-nine years ago. I became minister of marine and fisheries in 1885, and was minister of finance when Sir John Macdonald died, and I carried the bag until the grand old party came to grief in 1896. To have been minister of finance under five prime ministers is something of a record. When I reflect on the changes I have seen since 1896 it isn't wonderful that those years of my prime seem antediluvian. Why, I had been in the cabinet four years before I was married. The third time I went to England on official business I felt as if I was carrying all the financial responsibilities of the world on my shoulders; for my job was to arrange a loan of eleven million dollars. White and Drayton would spend that much before shaving in the morning. I have budgeted for about only half of what we seem likely to regard as a normal deficit on our side-lines of national finance, the national railways."

"Well, Sir George," I broke in, "it is a unique experience to listen to Sir Noah, though you never emulated your ancestor who once got drunk."

"I imagine Noah became a prohibitionist after his intoxication," replied Sir George, "though, long before his lapse, he had sense enough to come in out of the wet. But I was a prohibitionist as soon as I came to years of discretion. I forsook a professorship to lecture on temperance. Though I have since had many other wide interests I have never forsaken my first evangelistic love. Drink was never a temptation to me. "Wine, women and song" has an alluring sound; but it never got farther than my ears. For forty years I have been able to fill up on a blue book and a biscuit. I am still a believer in the efficacy of water."

"You are a Baptist, I believe," said I.

"Yes, in moderation," was the answer. "The Baptists are very strong in parts of my native province. In some counties they are as preponderant as the Catholics are in Quebec. But, though I helped to form the Baptist Union while I was in the political wilderness, I prefer to be called a Free Christian. I have always been in the Conservative party, but have also always been a bit of a radical, in comparison with some of my friends. You knew Nicholas Flood Davin?"

"Not personally, but very well by repute. He used to look upon wine when it was red."

"Poor Davin," said Sir George. "He was our most brilliant man, though Sir John used to say that if he had had a little common sense he would never have been heard of. Whatever he did with wine he had sound views about women. In 1895 he moved a resolution in favor of women's suffrage. Though I was in the cabinet I supported it; and received a good deal of chaff from some of my colleagues. I sometimes wish that chaff was the worst stuff given me. I wish also, if I must be candid, that I had done more chaffing and less blistering. My, but I had a tongue in the old days, and I used it in a way that deserved the double edged compliment paid me by a Toronto paper—that I was the most effective debater in parliament; but nobody loved me when I sat down."

"What would you teach a class of young politicians who desired to serve their country more than they wanted to aggrandize themselves?" I enquired.

"Well, that's rather a large order," responded the parliamentary daddy of them all. "I don't think I'll answer that directly, but will draw a little on what a long and sometimes bitter experience has taught me. It is quite true that at one time, and speaking politically, nobody loved me—I might have been a fat man. Maybe I would have mellowed sooner—and you know I have mellowed, glory be—if I had had experience of how the modern generation beings up father. My friends tell me it's a great thing to be taught some of your p's and q's by your own bright children, who reflect some of your own faults sufficiently to make you realize how much they, as well as you, have missed. Borden's first cabinet was strangely lacking in paternal experience — did you ever notice that about half of us couldn't muster a son or daughter between us?"

"Andy Broder frequently commented on it."

"Did he? Borden never noticed it. As to myself, not having been born with an excess of geniality, and being of a frugal mind, and always, too, something of a solitary—another misfortune—I never associated very intimately with my fellow members. Lecturing on prohibition is apt to beget a certain austerity, unless you happen to have a disposition like Pussyfoot Johnston's. They used to say I scarcely ever spoke to our supporters during the session, unless they spoke to me. I was aloof with my friends, and unnecessarily bitter with my opponents. That wasn't all my fault. The party orthodoxy led you to accuse the other side of faults of which unlimited gall was the least. You developed an excess of spleen yourself. But, to be fair to the George Foster that was—and he wasn't really a bad chap—I must say that a man with something more than the average gift of speech, and a turn for dissection, doesn't always realize the distance between his articulation and that of ordinary individuals—Pardon me for being as blunt as that, but you are not looking for false modesty. Such a man was I. Things that hurt the other fellow didn't strike me as particularly out of the way, because I was quite willing to take as good as I gave; but very few could pay me back in my own oratorical currency.

"I won't go into the details of how I came to see that the kinder side of life is the better side—I mean publicly, of course, for on the domestic side I have had great good fortune, which remains with me. The difference with me is remarkable. I don't think any man in this House of Commons has a single unkindly thought towards me; and I haven't an unkindly feeling towards anybody there; though it's quite a trial sometimes, to suffer fools gladly."

"You spoke of the disadvantages of an unusual gift of speech, Sir George. May I ask you how you rank yourself as a speaker?"

"You certainly don't want me to err on the side of reticence, do you?" he replied. "I may tell you I don't rank myself as highly as I once did; though, to be open with you, I really think I speak better than I ever did. On this continent we have too much supposed that oratory is the mere multiplication of resounding words. New Brunswick in my youth was very subject to Yankee influences; and I suffered a little in that way. I've been told that a city editorship would have compacted my style.

"I am at my best in a sustained argument that I have had time to prepare. At other times I'm too verbose and have too few original ideas. While I have always had a remarkable facility I never had much originality. I can't at the moment recall any phrases of mine that have caught the public fancy. I am not a coiner of phrases that stick.

"As we are on the candid side, perhaps I may tell you a story about my speaking that has not been told before. Just after being elected for North Toronto in 1904, I presided at one of the temperance meetings that were then held Sunday afternoons in Massey Hall. I hadn't anything new to say, and after going on some time I said I wouldn't stand longer between the audience and the speaker of the day. 'Hear, hear,' came from a voice on the ground floor. I did not stop as soon as I intended, and, though the comment struck me rather forcibly at the time, I thought no more of it until several years afterwards I met the commentator, who recalled the incident."

"Rather an unpleasant man?"

"Not at all," said Sir George. "He told me that he was not then a resident of Canada, though he became one shortly after. He was spending a week in Toronto that Sunday and dropped into the meeting unexpectedly. He thought I was very laboriously trying to say something about temperance, and succeeding in really saying nothing. His interjection was intended to speed up the meeting. As I still went on, he said, he asked the man sitting next him, 'Who is this old windbag?' and got the answer, 'That ain't no windbag; that's the honorable G. E. Foster.' So, you see, I had one admirer, even if it was my off day."

"But why repeat such a story so long after the event?" I asked Sir George.

"Just a little vanity, on my part," came the genial response. "My former critic was something of an artist, as well as a very frank man. He added that he gave me that piece of old information because he had frequently heard me since and wanted me to know that his judgment had been absolutely reversed on experience."

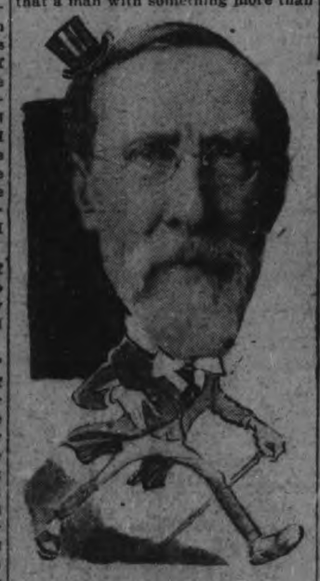
"Quite decent of him," I said.

"More than decent," from Sir George. "I had so seldom been a chairman that I forgot that brevity is the soul of presidency. It is a mistake to suppose that whenever you are on your legs people expect a full speech from you. Occasionally it is better to send them hungry away than to surfeit them with discourse. I've been learning a good deal these last dozen years. Fortunately I had become a grateful pupil in the hardest of schools before we returned from the bleak hills of opposition in 1911. But it was good—mighty good—after fifteen years, to be able to put your foot once more under the dining table of a private car.

"Of course, even then, everything wasn't lovely. I don't mind telling you I would like to have been minister of finance again. But I took White's elevation philosophically. And, if I haven't made the mark I hope to make in the commerce department I think, on the whole, the country has done well by my service. Two of my characteristics, though, I shall never cure. I hate to spend public money; and I want to do too much of the work of my office myself. I simply can't help answering letters that I should never see; and I'm afraid to do bold and costly things that would not have been possible in Canada's penurious days."

"For instance?"

"For instance early in the war we talked largely about capturing a goodly share of Germany's export trade. A convention of manufacturers was proposed. To launch a campaign to that end, I asked a well-known trade propagandist to handle the matter. He told me several thousand dollars should be spent on familiarizing the public with the idea, before the manufacturers assembled at Ottawa. That frightened me, and the convention didn't meet. Still, my department has done more advertising in my time than it ever did before. We spent barrels of money on 'Eat an apple a day' advertising. I wonder what would have happened if Borden, in 1911, had taken a suggestion that was made by one of our Liberal allies who had himself made a fortune while he was in politics. It was that Melvin Jones, head of Massey-Harris and minister of trade and commerce. How little the country knows of what it has missed!"



Sir George always was a brisk walker.

The reader will not take too literally the observations of leading men about themselves recorded by Mr. Longue Beau, but will understand that they are what the speakers would be likely to say confessionally.

THE TRENT WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION SHOWS THE POSSIBILITIES OF UNITY

The Trent Waterways Association—now in the second year of its existence and showing no decline of interest—affords proof of the contention that the Trent towns can co-operate in an enterprise that promises one and all of them equal returns.

It was formed for the definite but rather limited purpose of advertising the water route and resorts along the Canal from Orillia to Belleville. Grants have been ungrudgingly given by the various municipalities who have joined together in this organisation, and the funds are used to pay for advertisements in magazines that appeal to tourists in the United States and Canada, particularly to those owners of motor boats who can afford the leisure of a holiday spent in idling along the lower waters of the Trent and the lakes of the Kawartha district.

Not Merely a Pleasure Ground.

Only one phase of the aspirations of the people of the Trent towns is expressed in this Association. They do not wish to convey only the idea that this is a playground of Ontario as attractive as Muskoka or the Rideau. This consideration appeals to themselves, perhaps not so strongly as it should, but it takes no account of the material assets of the same scenic waterway. Tourists may be potential manufacturers, and some of them may be actual manufacturers seeking rest, but the Trent towns nearer Peterborough want a more definite connection than that with the heads of prospective or possible industries. They regard themselves as more than a break in the scenery. They have an abundance of electric energy to sell, and some of it is the cheapest in the Province. They emphasise their central location in Ontario, and they seek a serious hearing of their claims. Here, as elsewhere, industry comes first, and the Trent towns not only offer advantages they deem desirable for factories, but also a great natural garden affording diversified and simple recreation after labour at the smallest expense.

The lakes, rivers, and canal are at the very doors of many homes throughout this district, and it is no exaggeration to say that many garden plots abut on the water. In brief, the Trent towns believe that they have more than the average gifts of nature easily accessible to their people, and they want publicity for them.

The Trent Waterways Association is giving this district a measure of publicity that may not bring direct tangible results in the form of industrial inquiries. Its purposes do not range so widely as that; but it is leading tourists to the Trent and Kawartha waters in increasing numbers—and who can determine the accumulative effect of this modest venture in publicity? Looking at it in a more general sense the establishment of this association demonstrates that the Trent towns have a community of interest, that they can work together and in harmony in an undertaking that requires financing without the assurance of large returns.

An Example and Perhaps a Nucleus.

It is a bond of unity which, if it endures, may lead to broader and larger activities. Public spirited citizens of these towns come to know one another forming personal contacts that represet commmunity contacts that represent community contacts into community sympathies and a mutual understanding and appreciation that have been too long absent in this district, to differentiate it from the highly organised sections of Western Ontario, for example. In other words, the Trent towns are starting rather late to get together, that is, on attempted permanent basis, and with confidence in themselves and in the resources they wish to exploit, there is nothing to prevent them broadening out in their co-operative efforts, whenever they feel the impulse that demands a stronger and more extensive concerted action. The Trent Waterways Association evidently realises this fact that if these towns don't boost themselves, no one else will.

PREMIER HUGHES SAYS AUSTRALIA BEHIND IMPERIAL DEFENCE SCHEME

WILL PLAY HER PART AND CONTRIBUTE DUE QUOTA TO EMPIRE'S NAVAL FORCES—PREMIER'S SPEECH IN AUSTRALIAN PARLIAMENT

NEW YORK, April 26 (By Canadian Press).—Australia's stand in regard to the naval defense of the Empire was definitely stated by Premier Hughes in his recent speech in the Australian parliament in which he dealt with the questions to be discussed at the forthcoming Imperial conference of the Dominion prime ministers to be held in London in June. "For Australia," he said, "there is no alternative but participation in a scheme for Imperial defense in which we will play our alloted part and contribute our due quota."

The text of Mr. Hughes speech has been received by the Australian commissioner here. Premier Hughes dealt with several problems in which Canada is vitally interested and which are expected to come up for solution at the gathering of representatives of the Empire in London. Following are extracts from his speech dealing with matters inter-Imperial, which have not been reported in Canada by cable:

"There seem to be an impression that they have special claims as experts on all things pertaining to the constitution, that the forthcoming conference has been called to consider the question as to how to effect some great constitutional changes. These critics protested against the Australian representative being armed with plenary powers without giving parliament a change of approving or disagreeing with my views.

Actual Position.

"The actual position is somewhat cruel anti-climax to these self-appointed constitution mongers whose burning desire is to substitute for the present system a brand new constitution framed by themselves. The conference has not been called to even consider constitutional changes. That matter will be set down for consideration at the earliest next year—but probably at a later date. It is painfully evident from articles which have appeared in the press and in magazines—which have occasionally been enshrined in more permanent form, that to a certain type of mind the constitution of the British Empire is far from what it should be.

"One object of these enthusiastic but inexperienced persons, is to redraft the Empire constitution and substitute for the present empirical allegical structure fashioned by time and the circumstances under which we have lived and flourished, a constitution built according to some logical plan which they have devised. When challenged they repudiate any desire to establish some kind of Imperial parliament. They want to gild the pill. Falling short of a grandiose scheme for an Imperial parliament they hint at a central council endowed with powerw over various parts of the Empire. They seem to think it necessary for the Empire to be held together by some Imperial council or by some legal formula. They forget that it has existed for centuries without any of these things. They fail to realize that a thousand formulas of Imperial councils would not keep the Empire together if either Britain or various Dominions desired to drift apart."

Surest Way to Destroy.

"I think that there is nothing more certain that the surest way of destroying this mighty Empire which is one of the chief bulwarks of civilization, is to tamper with it's constitution. The complete autonomy of its parts is the foundation upon which its unity rests. Neither Britain nor the Dominions are prepared to yield one jot or tittle their perfect freedom to govern themselves in their own way and from this assurance of perfect freedom for each of the several parts, ensues the spiritual unity which binds us together.

"The relations between Britain and Australia today are as differenttas those existing a hundred or even fifty years ago, as is the world today different from the world then existing. The strength of the ties binding us together lies in this fact. There is no rigidity yet bars of triple steel are as wax compared to the tenacity and strength of the ties binding the different portions of the Empire together. The June conference has been called to deal with the Empire defense—particularly naval defense, with the question of renewal of the Japanese treaty, with the foreign policy in regard to wireless, etc. The Japanese question involves foreign policy in general and renewal of the Japanese treaty in particular. This being so the question of constitutional changes does not arise, and no good purpose can be served by mere academic discussion.

Foreign Policy.

"Until quite frequently the foreign policy of the Empire was shaped entirely by Great Britain. The Dominions had no power over it. No doubt, any other course was practically impossible. Britain was and is still the predominating partner. She was the mother to whom all her children looked. These, although sturdy youngsters have not reached maturity. Since any foreign policy for the Empire must depend upon naval power and the British by the Dominions to a voice in the Empire foreign policy was hardly justified. Time and circumstance have changed the position. Five years of war have done more than a generation of peace to develop the national spirit of the Dominions. The manner in which the Dominions [illegible] and maintained armies larger than Great Britain had ever before put into the field put the seal upon the new status, which not only Britain but the world has now acknowledged.

Consult Dominions.

"The statesmen of Britain were the first to recognize that Dominions should be consulted on such acts of foreign policy as right in future involve them in war.

"For another reason too, besides that of their increasing population wealth and importance, the relations of Great Britain and the Dominions regarding foreign policy have been materially changed. It is out of foreign policies that wars are hatched. Before the war the great burden of Empire naval defense rested upon the shoulders of Britain, but the debt and sacrifices resultant from the war made this no longer possible. The Dominions have claimed the status of nations. They have earned the right to be so considered by their war efforts. They have lost tens of thousands of men, incurred debts amounting to hundreds of millions of pounds but neither in men or money, are their losses as heavy as Britains. The British navy is not needed for the defense of Britain alone but of the whole Empire, including the Dominions. Britain has told us plainly that she cannot longer bear the expense of maintaining this great navy and that the Dominions must share this burden. No request could be more reasonable, and for Australia, there is no alternative but participation in a scheme of Imperial naval defense in which we play our alloted part and contribute our due quota. I am of course, dealing with the question of naval defense from the standpoint of Australia. I think the position of New Zealand is for all practical purposes the same.

Safety in Naval Force.

"The safety of Australia rests upon and adequate naval force. The commonwealth cannot provide this from her own resources. Britain on the other hand can no longer afford to bear the burden of a navy sufficient to ensure the safety of the whole Empire—and has therefore informed her Dominions that she expects them to bear their fair share. This is the position and it leaves no room for argument except as regards the details of the scheme to be adopted. Any scheme of Imperial naval defense must necessarily provide for the defense of the Pacific Ocean, as it is there that the present and future of Australia is to be decided. Whatever the splendour or greatness, menace or trial, the future has in store, good and evil alike will come to us from the Pacific. Naval defense is for us a Pacific question, and our foreign policy must concern itself closely with the aims and aspirations of the peoples and countries surrounding that mighty ocean.

Republic Impossible.

"In considering this question of naval defense we must remember how far the Empire itself is dependent upon sea power. From the constitutional point of view the thing which holds the Empire together is the Crown. The fundamental truth is that the Empire is impossible under a republic government. As the Dominions have developed their legislators have claimed wider and wider powers which Britain with her traditional policy has always granted. Today while the Dominions are accorded place in the family of nations and seats in the assembly of the League Nations on a footing of equality with other countries, constitutionally [illegible] are one by virtue of having one K[illegible] We in the Australian commonwealth now call ourselves a nation. So we but in the same breath we decl[illegible] ourselves part of the British Empi[illegible] These apparently inconsistent declarations combine at once our history a[illegible] our circumstances. Whatever materi[illegible] prosperity or greatness we have, hav[illegible] come because of our partnership in t[illegible] British Empire, which in turn depend[illegible] for it's very existence upon the Britis[illegible] navy.

"When we speak of the British Em[illegible]pire there is no delusion as to that upo[illegible] which it's existence and greatness d[illegible]pend. It depends upon naval powe[illegible] and Australia's exsitence depends up[illegible] adequate naval defense. The navy[illegible] what the people of Britain make it, [illegible] it is vital to us that it shall remain[illegible] great navy.

"The conference is therefore impor[illegible]ant because we as Dominions may hav[illegible] express our opinion as to what it mean[illegible] to us. The question of a satisfactor[illegible] scheme of Imperial naval defense is on[illegible] literally of life and death to Australia."

OTTAWA, March 31.—(Canadian Press.)—Divergent views upon the question of a proper immigration policy for Canada and upon the Allied subjects of the eight hour day in industry and the unemployment situation, were expressed in the Commons yesterday. Discussion of these topics was precipitated by A. L. Deslauriers, Montreal, who offered a resolution pointing to the existence of unemployment in the country and declaring that all immigration should be suspended until a normal condition of affairs is established.

Mr. Deslauriers called for the discontinuance of all advertising for immigrants by the government. He was inclined to agree that immigrants in tending to engage in agriculture or domestic service should be admitted to the country. He felt, however, that the unwillingness of farmers to give more than seasonable employment to laborers would prevent married men from coming to Canada and that many men fitted for agriculture and already in the country might be encouraged to return to the land.

Generally speaking, representatives of the rural ridings were not inclined to favor drastic restrictions upon immigration. Some were inclined to believe that the need for farm labour could be to a large extent met from the ranks of the unemployed in urban centres. Others like J. M. Douglas, of Strathcona, however, favored the "open door," and the repeal of the requirement that every immigrant be possessed of $250 in cash.

MRS. JAS. SCOTT AND SONS GET PURSE OF MONEY.

From Admiring Friends and Neighbors on Eve of Departure to Farm Near Peterborough.

CLYDESDALE, March 31.—Just prior to the removal of Mrs. James Scott and sons, Michael and James, to a farm a few miles from Peterborough City, a number of their friends and neighbours assembled and presented them with a purse and the accompanying address:

Mrs. Scott and Sons:

Dear Friends,—We, your friends and neighbours, have assembled on the eve of your departure to your new home to express our regrets at losing you from our midst.

Mrs. Scott, who has lived in our community for almost half a century, has always taken a keen interest in social undertakings, and her going away is much regretted.

Michael and James, who have been with us since their infancy, have likewise taken an interest and been co-workers in all social and industrial activities.

To say you all will be missed is merely a mild expression of our true sentiment. We have all retained the horrible word "missing," which conveyed so much anguish during the years of the Great War; and even now, we feel our loss with the same pangs of sorrow.

As a token of our friendship we beg you to accept this purse, in company with our best wishes for your future health, happiness and prosperity in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the community—Allen Caldwell, Michael Cleary, Dennis Mahoney.

Reply Was Fitting.

In a very fitting manner Mrs. Scott replied with a few well-chosen words. This was followed by a selection of very appropriate songs, such as, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," "Auld Lang Syne," and others.

OSHAWA THE GOOD PART OF HIS PLEA.

No Town in Ontario So Free From Bootlegging.

OSHAWA, March 31. — Six months in jail with hard labor was the sentence imposed by Magistrate Hind on John Bozka, an Oshawa foreigner convicted of keeping liquor for sale. Accused's counsel, Mr. D. A. J. Swanson, put up the plea that defendant, although convicted a week ago on a similar charge, held the impression that he was not doing anything wrong by importing liquor into the Province. Mr. Swanson also declared that there was not another town in Ontario so wonderfully free from serious charges of bootlegging as Oshawa.

Voice Of The People

Editor, The Examiner:

Sir,—An insurance man took issue with me a day or so ago over this matter of issuing debentures to settle for the debts incurred in building the bridge. He maintaining that to issue and sell the bonds for a term of forty years would be more profitable to the city than to send them out on a twenty year term. Adding, he did, bless his business, that insurance companies having funds to invest much preferred the longer to the shorter terms. No doubt, for reasons, but we are not issuing these bonds to oblige the insurance company, except so far as we may oblige ourselves. If it will pay us better to ignore the wishes of the company, or any firm, why not in Sam Hill do so. It being assumed, and there is nothing so far in sight to imply otherwise, that the company, or any bonding institution, will make a lower rate of interest than the market is offering just now.

Crystalized, the question is, what shall we make, or save, by making the bonds for forty years over the position if made for twenty years. The amount to be sent out is $230,000.00.

Now the average citizen is only concerned in results, not with the minutia of financing. So we will condense the explanation into as brief a statemet as possible. And we face just two alternatives:

If the debentures were sold on a 6 1-4 per cent. basis, then the city would get, for the 40 year term, $1,079.00 more, or over, the 20 year period, assuming that the $230,000.00 of debentures be all so sold.

Let us look at this matter in the form of a statement, that may, comparatively present the calculation, it being remembered that we are dealing with the financial problem on the basis of what is in sight as to possible offers for the debentures:

A 6 1-4 forty year debenture, if sold to cost the city 6 1-8 per cent, the city would receeive for each $1,000.00	$1,018.60
For a twenty year debenture, sold on the same basis	1,014.30
Or, a difference in favor of the 40 year term	4.30
And for $100,000.00 the advantage would be	430.00
A 6 1-2 forty year debenture sold on same basis would receive for each $1,000.00 ..	$1,055.80
And for a twenty year debenture, on same basis ..	1,042.90
Or a difference in favor of the 40 year term of	12.90
And for the $130,000.00 lot sold, advantage would be..	1,677.00
And for the whole $230,000.00	2,107.00

Now this follows, and please fix your municipal attention on the fact, that for the present advantage of receiving $2,107.00 the city would enjoy the privilege of paying to any company loaning or advancing the money $236,000.00 more than we should pay if we issue the debentures for the 20 year term. How do you like it? And the only additional amount to the tax bill for the 20 years would be two-fifths of one mill on the dollar of assessment. Practically forty cents on each thousand of assessment.

Of course the argument is advanced that we should leave it to posterity to pay substantially for the bridge and this despite the fact so far, that posterity has as yet done nothing for us. But children, now attending the junior classes in school will find, that at the age of thirty years, if they in the meantime have found out that Peterborough is really not too dear a place to live in, will have other and ample liabilities to to provide for.

If they are equally as anxious to get into municipal debt as their fathers are, just now, dear knows where the total bill will end up. We are told not to muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn, (though the thing is not cultivated very much now-a-days), but the ox may go on strike and decide to end his days somewhere else. Besides we are going to hand the same posterity the share of the cost of the filtration plant and the sewage disposal plant, and one or two other fixings, and throw in a few parks for good measure, let alone disciplining the Downie street creek. The less we trifle with paying for the bridge, now that we have it on our backs like an Old Man of the Mountain, the better it will be for us in a municipal sense. Now will you be good.

Of course this intervenes, that our insurance friend may have something good up his sleeve that may be worth while. If so will he respectfully trot it out. Maintain his claim by offering a rate of interest at say, 3 1-2 per cent., something alluring and lucrative for the city. If he will do that same thing then we will at once commend and further investigate.

In fairness to his contention I may add that so far as I know the city has not as yet asked for offers for these debentures. Should it do so presently, and receive bids, then we shall see what we shall see.

Respectfully,
F. H. DOBBIN.

Protestant Home,
Peterboro, March 28, 1921.

Dear Sir: May I submit herewith some opinions recently given by eminent medical authorities on the question of the value of alcohol used medicinally?

Dr. Margaret Patterson, recently a Presbyterian missionary in India, says that in an attack of plague there the doctors who administered alcohol lost a large percentage of their cases from heart failure. In the hospital of which she was the head, absolutely no alcohol was used, and no patients were lost from that cause. Dr. Patterson's present address is 97 Walmer Road, Toronto.

To her I am indebted for the following quotations: Dr. C. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., in an address as President of the American Medical Association, said: Medicine has reached a period when alcohol is rarely employed as a drug, being displaced by better medicines. "Alcohol's only place to-day is in the arts and sciences."

Dr. Howard L. Kelly, Professor in Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, said: "Liquor in all its forms and used for any purpose whatsoever, I believe to be an unmitigated evil. It could be abolished with profit. Alcohol is only prescribed to-day by the older physicians who still prescribe from force of habit."

Sir Victor Horsley, England's famous surgeon, said: "No one who has closely investigated the action of alcohol in recent years prescribes it now. Everyone will feel relief when it is abolished."

Dr. R. C. Cabot, Professor of Medicine in Harvard University, said: "I believe that alcohol has no uses in medicine and I always advise my students to use more reliable remedies."

Professor S. Weir Mitchell says: "Many men have been killed by the alcohol given to relieve disease."

Col. L. Melvin Maus, Medical Corps, U. S. Army, says: "After a careful study of alcohol, as a beverage and as a medicine, I have been unable to discover one single beneficial or useful purpose it serves in the human economy. Alcohol diminishes the efficiency of the heart muscle. This discovery alone ought to banish it from the field of use."

Dr. Osborne, Professor of Therapeutics in Yale Medical College, said: "Alcohol is not a heart stimulant. It has no tonic action. Alcohol causes a patient to feel better only by its strong narcotic effect and this feeling of betterment is followed by depression of all the vital activities; namely, there is mental weariness, circulatory weakness, loss of appetite and impaired function of all internal secreting glands."

These are strong, unqualified and authoritative statements, Mr. Editor, from masters of their porfession. They can be easily verified. Another example might be adduced: In Ontario during the first and most fatal outbreak of the "Flu," liquor was not easily obtainable. In Quebec there was no restriction on its use; and the highest proportional death rate in the Dominion was in the City of Montreal.—Q.E.D.

Yours truly,
A. M. Lancaster.

WEST INDIES MARKETS OPEN TO OUR TRADE

BUT INADEQUATE STEAMSHIP FACILITIES HINDER DEVELOPMENT AND THE UNITED STATES PROFITS.

JAMAICA IS ANXIOUS

LONDON, March 31.—(Cross-Atlantic News Service.)—Hon. Lionel Coke, M.P., partner in the firm of Samuel Dobree and Sons, one of the oldest West Indian bankers in London, has just returned to this country from Halifax after an extended trip to Jamaica and other West Indian ports. Seen by a representative of Cross-Atlantic to-day Mr. Coke said that Jamaica was most anxious for the extension of trade relations with Canada but that the West Indian merchants were considerably handicapped by the poor steamship service between the two countries.

Mr. Coke said that his firm had made arrangements to open an office in Halifax with the object of doing everything possible to stimulate the trade in the West Indies from Canada. At present he said, the American exporters are getting the cream of the business and he urged the necessity of improving the steamishp facilities as a sine qua non for the securing of a major portion of the trade. "Unless the steamship service is improved," he declared, "Canada cannot hope to get any large share of the trade which America is now developing and incidentally making a profit over."

PALE AND SALLOW

A Condition That Always Comes With Watery Blood.

Women's work is never done. She starts with the housework as soon as she rises in the morning and is generally busy up to the time she retires at night. The work must be done whether she is feeling well or not. It's sometimes a monotonous grind for the healthy, normal individual, but it becomes almost intolerable at times if the daily routine must be gone through with when the body cries out with pain, when stooping produces dizzy spells and nervous headaches are frequent. A large portion of the suffering among women is due to poor, watery blood. Once the blood loses its quality the nerves begin to protest, for the nerves are nourished entirely by the blood. In this condition a reliable blood tonic is the best treatment, as is shown by the experience of Mrs. N. D. Morrison, St. Esprit, N.S., who says: "I was in an extremely nervous and run down condition. I had headaches, my circulation was poor, and my complexion pale and sallow. I would become breathless at the least exertion, and was able to do but little of my house work. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and soon found they were helping me, and after continuing their use for a time I felt as well as ever. Since that I take the pills occasionally and always find benefit."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RACE RIOTING IS NOW FEARED

THREATS OF NEGROES FOLLOW ALLEGED EXPOSURES OF SLAVERY ON GEORGIA ESTATE AND MURDERS.

INVESTIGATION ASKED

COVINGTON, Ga., March 31.—Preparations for starting an immediate investigation by the Newton County Grand Jury on an alleged plot to arraign negroes against the white residents as a climax to the unearthing of a "death farm" on J. S. Williams' plantation ,near here, were being made to-day. Decision to present the matter to the Grand jury followed the receipt of threatening notes by white people, warning them to beware of a negro uprising, officials stated.

Persistent reports in circulation here tell of an alleged confession said to have been made by a white man, revealing a plot through which public opinion would be turned against the negroes in an effort to aid the cause of Williams, who is expected to be placed on trial here for the alleged murder of farm hands on his plantation.

While no official announcement has been made of the confession said to have been given the officers, it was charged to-day that the notes informing white citzens that the negroes would attempt to "wipe out" several sections of the country were sent to arouse resentment against the blacks.

Williams Collapses.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 31.—John S. Williams, the wealthy planter, on whose Jasper county estate the bodies of 11 negroes have been found, was in a state of collapse in the Fulton tower yesterday as the authorities dug up the pastures of his lonely estate in the search for corpses of more "slaves."

"Let me alone, please leave me alone," he yelled at the newspapermen as he emerged from the jailer's office where he had been questioned. Tears streamed down his cheeks, and he glanced wildly from side to side. Wiliams is a giant in stature and apparently about 55 years old.

Prison authorities were alternating in questioning Williams and in interrogating Clyde Manning, negro, who is said to be the "Simon Legree' of the plantation. Williams secured negroes from the jails by paying their fines and then put them to work on his ranch, where he held them virtually as slaves, it is charged. Those who attempted to escape to inform authorities are alleged to have been killed.

Manning, the police say, has confessed to killing nine negroes and doing other "dirty work" for Williams.

The arrest of Williams' three sons Julius, Huland and Marvin, in connection with the wholesale murders is expected. Warrants for their arrest were said to be in the hands of officials.

Demand Investigation.

NEW YORK, March 31.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People made public to-day telegrams to President Harding and Govenor Dorsey, of Georgia, which allege that the peonage system is generally exisent in most southern states and particulary in the Mississippi area. President Harding is urged to authorize a is very much like the egg market—partment of Justice "of peonage conditions, in Jasper County, Ga. where John Willams, a white land owner, is alleged to have killed, eleven negroes who threatened to testify against Williams regarding peonage."

GIVES DOROTHY $1,000 WITHOUT THE WEDDING.

Canadian Officer Also Offered Same Sum For Relief of Mother.

TRENTON, N. J., March 31.—Among the letters received by Dorothy Miller, 16 years old, who offered to marry any white man who met her requirements as to refinement and education and who would give her $1,000 to permit her mother to have a vitally needed operation performed, was one from a Canadian army officer, stating he had independent means and offering to give the loyal girl the money for her mother's sake. But Dorothy at the time was overjoyed at having been informed that a well-to-do man in St. Paul, Minn., who refuses to disclose his identity, had announced he was mailing her a $1,000 certified check and that the girl would not have to marry him to cash it. The unrevealed benefactor, it is said, declared the girl's readiness to sacrifice herself to save her mother's life made a strong appeal to him.

"If this is true," said the girl's mother to the reporter who conveyed the news to her, "I believe I won't need any operation, but will die from happiness." As an afterthought she added: "Dorothy has a good reason now for turning down all her suitors."

Dorothy was so overcome with happiness that at first she could not talk, but when she recovered she exclaimed: "Oh, I am so happy now that I will not have to marry a man just for money."

The girl threw her arms about her mother's neck and cried out: "Oh, mother, won't it be wonderful. Most likely the check will be here to-morrow, and then you can go to the hospital and have the operation performed at once.

"It is just like a fairy story. I must have a fairy godmother who is looking after me," she shouted as she danced about the room.

The Peterboro Health Association

Deformity of any sort is a cruel thing to be burdened with through life, but it seems doubly hard when parents are obliged to watch their children handicapped by some bodily defect. A little girl with two club feet is just about the saddest thing one might shrink to see anywhere, particularly if she is a pretty little fair-haired, blue-eyed baby, otherwise quite normal. This little girl was brought to the attention of a certain Peterborough society by a mother who felt unable to face alone all the trouble and expense attendant on an operation. They immediately took steps to have the little thing admitted to the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto, with the result that the poor little bones were straightened out, and the child now runs and walks as other children do, instead of stumping along in the sickening way that marks the progress of many a sad-footed little tot. Just one of the good works of the Peterborough Health Association which nobody every hears anything about.

At Hazel Brae

Some of the 32 trunks which accompanied the last arrivals to Hazel Brae are still occuping space on the front verandah of their new home. Of all shapes and sizes, they are interesting looking boxes with their bright red "Wanted" and "Not Wanted" labels, for "Dr. Barnardo's Party," and their general air of businesslike expectation. The 32 young ladies, ranging from ten to sixteen years of age, who came out with the last party on the Canadian Pacific S. S. "Scandinavian," are already ensconced comfortably in their abiding-place, all washed and freshly groomed after the ocean voyage. Smallpox broke out on the vessel coming over, and 140 of the passengers succumbed to more or less severe attacks of the disease, but the Barnardo party fortunately escaped without any illness, beyond a couple of days' visitation from the usual unpleasant mal de mer, and the boys and girls seemed to take a great interest for the balance of the nine days' voyage in the games and amusements provided for them. One of the boys was born in Hamilton, and a member of the girls' party, Doris Mead, whose birthplace was Montreal, has now also returned to the land of her fathers.

The girls, who were just finishing their dinner when seen yesterday, are a bright lot of youngsters, with their blue pinafores and neatly-braided hair. There was only one pair of glasses visible in the entire assemblage, and the proverbial English roses bloomed on every cheek. Their eyes were bright and sparkling, and they were the merriest group of girls seen for a long while. When Mrs. Hobday, the wife of the Superintendent in Toronto, who brought the girls over from England, came into the dining-room, the girls rose with one accord and clapped their hands softly. They seem to be very fond of this lady and of the young women at the home who have charge of them. One little girl, with a shy manner, has a very good voice. This prim little lady would like to be a teacher, and doubtless will find a way to achieve her ambition, as so many of the Barnardo girls who come out to Canada have done before her. Grace was sung softly by the whole gathering, who had just finished polishing off their plates in a very thorough manner, and then some of them ran immediately to their lesson books at the other side of the room, while others started to stack up the plates and cups in the most businesslike manner. The black and white cat with the green eyes, who is always stalking some unfortunate bird or chipmunk around the grounds, has already made friends with the new arrivals, and was receiving a large amount of petting with the same innocent look it wore on the occasion of a former visit when its chief concern was the capturing of a small brown sparrow on a low-hung branch. The children like Hazel Brae, they say. They have accomodated themselves to their new surroundings at once, and are as much at home already in Canada, to all appearances, as if they had always lived here. A fresh-faced English nurse, Miss Bradley, who came over with the party, stood and smiled at the youngsters, along with the genial Mrs. Hobday, Miss Sandiford and Sister Wood, and they smiled back with their nice white teeth and shining faces in full view, a merry, well-fed, happy looking bunch of new Canadian citizens, who have no fears at all for the future, and whose number is far from sufficient to fill the demands for their services which come pouring in from all sides to the busy Secretary of the home.

Peterboro's Blind

Many people are surprised to learn of the number of blind people who live in Peterborough, thirty altogether, some living in total darkness and others with still a ray of light remaining to them. A young Peterborough lady, Miss Ethel Stevens, of East City, goes about among these people, teaching them ways to brighten their dull lives, and bringing with her an inexhaustible patience and enthusiasm for her merciful work. She has a point of view which is rather unusual. Instead of trying to instruct her pupils in her way only, as is the popular system of teaching, she finds out just what method will suit them best, and adjusts herself to that. She has learned to use her own left hand in many ways, so as to accomodate a blind pupil who was unchangeably left-handed.

Short Skirts

An eminent physician once remarked that there would be fewer illnesses among women if the ladies would keep their throats and ankles warm. When one considers the entire absence of collars, the fashion of wearing the coat open in the coldest of weather, the silk stockings and low pumps visible with the thermometer at zero, one wonders why there isn't more sickness rampant throughout the land. And now comes the ultimatum of the Swiss insurance companies to the effect that wearers of short skirts and low-necked gowns will have to pay higher rates of life insurance than those who do not. The shorter the skirt or lower the decolletee, the higher the insurance rate will be. But even if a lady, when applying for insurance, should appear in a high-necked choker and a trailing hem, how are they going to provide legislation to make her continue in this fashion once the policy is secured? Anyway, high collars are most uncomfortable. The day will probably never come when they will be universally worn. The five or six-inch erection of the olden days, reinforced with whalebones, which covered the throats of our grandmothers, was an instrument of torture and a constant cause of headaches and high blood pressure, and a pretty white neck was an impossibility in those days. And then there is the long skirt. I walked behind a long skirt just the other day. This lady's ankles, if they ever blush, do it quite unobserved, and she may wear the heaviest of hose and ugliest of shoes. No one will ever know. Her skirts touched the ground on every side, and germs galore must have a permanent abiding place in the dusty hems. Of course, there is the happy medium. One might wear low collars and short skirts without any danger of incurring the displeasure of an insurance company, and still be quite happy in conscience and mind, but a happy medium isn't spectacular.

Not Popular

Children are not very popular. That is, outside of their immediate family. Anyone who has listened for the space of two or three hours to a minute recital of the baby's method of expressing delight has no doubts whatever of most children's popularity in their own homes, but when a man with a family tries to rent a house, he finds out. A family man can't rent an apartment. That is an impossibility in most places. There is no place for growing youngsters in the modern two-by-four, "with bath," and even in houses nowadays, little ones are not deemed an accession by an means. Then there is the servant problem, directly affected by the size of your family. The ladies in domestic service at present do not ask immediately what pay you give, or the nature of their household duties. The first question is usually, "How many children?" The modern spirit of self-assertiveness and bad manners evidenced in so many children may be a cause of some of this difficulty, but there are still households where Mr. Wilson's pet theory of self-determination has not extended to the small members, and there are quite a number of children growing up with a fine train-

Brown's Job

Something to think about for every man who has a "job."

Brown is gone, and many men in the trade are wondering who is going to get Brown's job.

There has been considerable speculation about this. Brown's job was reputed to be a good job. Brown's former employers, wise grey-eyed men, have had to sit still and repress amazement as they listened to bright ambitious young men and dignified old ones seriously apply for Brown's job.

Brown had a big chair and a wide flat-topped desk covered with a sheet of glass. Under the glass was a map of the United States. Brown had a salary of thirty thousand dollars a year. And twice a year Brown made a "trip to the coast" and called on everyone of the firm's distributors.

He never tried to sell anything. Brown wasn't exactly in the sales department. He visited with the distributors, called on a few dealers once in a while, and made representative talk to a bunch of salesmen at all parties at the office in... had agreed upon the important... the date for the disclosure of the site of the contest.

Brown wasn't in the credit department, either, but vital questions of credit usually got to Brown, somehow or other, and Brown, would smoke and talk and tell a joke, and untwist his telephone cord and tell the credit manager what to do.

Whenever Mr. Wythe, the impulsive little President, working like a beaver, would pick up a bunch of papers and peer into a particularly troublesome and messy subject, he had a way of saying, "What does Brown said? What does Brown say? What the hell does Brown say? Well, why don't you do it then?"

And that was disposed.

Or when there was a difficulty that required quick action and lots of it, together with tact and lots of that, Mr. Wythe would say, "Brown, you handle that!"

And one day the Directors met unofficially and decided to fire the Superintendent of No. 2 mill. Brown didn't hear of this until the day after the letter had gone. "What do you think of it, Brown?" asked Mr. Wythe. Brown said, "That's all right. The letter won't be delivered until to-morrow morning and I'll get him on the wire and have him start East to-night. Then I'll have his stenographer send the letter back here and I'll destroy it before he sees it."

The others agreed, "That's the thing to do."

Brown knew the business he was in. He knew the men he worked with. He had a whole lot of sense, which he apparently used without consciously summoning his judgment to his assistance. He seemed to think good sense.

Brown is gone and men are now applying for Brown's job. Others are asking who is going to get Brown's job — bright, ambitious young men, dignified older men.

Men who are not the son of Brown's mother, nor the husband of Brown's wife, nor the product of Brown's childhood—men who never suffered Brown's sorrows nor felt his joys, men who never loved the things that Brown loved nor feared the things he feared—are asking for Brown's job.

Don't they know that Brown's chair and his desk, with the map under the glass top, and his pay envelope are not Brown's job? Don't they know that they might as well apply to the Methodist Church for John Wesley's job?

Brown's former employers know it. Brown's job is where Brown is.

"A Beauty Sleep"—and then

"A Beauty Breakfast"

Try it for 30 days—to prove

This is what thousands do at the direction of experts to win back the healthful rose tint to pale cheeks—as told by the editor of a famous magazine which is read by half a million women.

They take regular exercise, sleep regular hours, and then start breakfast with stewed raisins. The raisins are plump, delicious fruit-meats stewed so the juice forms a luscious sauce. Note recipe printed on this page. A more alluring fruit dish never has been served in any home—nor any other food that's more effective in this way.

Read opposite what Dr. J. H. Kellogg, an authority who has made a life-time's study of foods, thinks of the raisin. You'll serve stewed raisins every morning when you know the good they do.

Luscious nuggets of food-iron

Raisins are nuggets of food-iron—and food-iron is an essential to good blood.

Get what you need of it each day, and an incomparable, natural rose tint on the cheeks is the reward—nature's irresistible attraction—the good looks of good health.

No need to imitate with rouge when nature thus provides.

Youthfulness is the real beauty, as every woman knows. And good blood is the first consideration. Women of fifty often look but thirty if that natural rose tint is still there.

Stewed raisins are mildly laxative also. Those who eat them regularly are apt to have the clear, white skin that sets the color off—unmarred by blemishes or sallowness.

Great sanitariums serve stewed raisins to rheumatic patients when other fruits might disagree.

So this simple but effective food is one of the most important that any woman ever used. Try daily for a month and see. Begin tomorrow morning. Look in your pantry now.

Let every member of the family have stewed raisins.

Be sure to mail coupon below for "100 Raisin Recipes," a valuable free book that every woman ought to have.

Stewed Raisins

Cover Sun-Maid Raisins with cold water and add a slice of lemon or orange to each half pound. Place on fire; bring to a boil and allow to simmer for one hour. Sugar may be added but is not necessary as Sun-Maid Seeded Raisins contain 75% natural fruit sugar.

What Dr. J. H. Kellogg says:
(Dr. Kellogg is head of the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium.)

"Raisins are served on the Battle Creek Sanitarium Table every day. A pound of Raisins has twice the food value, an equal amount of iron and seven times as much food lime as a pound of choicest lean steak. The sugar of Raisins is much more wholesome than cane sugar, requiring no digestion and being absorbed in one-fourth the time required for ordinary sugar. If the American people would eat more Raisins and less meat the results would be better digestion, less rheumatism, less Bright's disease, less heart disease, greater efficiency and longer life."

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Always use Sun-Maid Raisins for your every cooking need. Made from California's tenderest, sweetest, juiciest table grapes, noted for their fragile skins.

Packed in a great sun-lighted, glass-walled plant. Sweet, clean, wholesome American raisins—the kind you know are good.

Three varieties: Sun-Maid Seeded (seeds removed); Sun-Maid Seedless (grown without seeds); Sun-Maid Clusters (on the stem). All dealers. Insist upon the Sun-Maid Brand.

Your Daughter

IS your daughter at that critical age, approaching womanhood, when nothing is so important to her as mother's care and mother's advice?

It is during this time that her whole future health and happiness may be at stake.

With most girls this important development takes place at a time when school work is most exacting and the nervous system is consequently under a most severe strain.

An enormous quantity of rich, red blood is necessary to meet the demands of the system, and, this failing, there is the development of anaemia, chlorosis or some form of nervous trouble, such as St. Vitus' dance.

Most mothers now know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and the promptness with which it enriches the blood and builds up the nervous system of the growing girl.

It is mother's duty to see that a reasonable amount of rest and sleep is obtained, that the food is wholesome and nutritious, and that the treatment is used regularly and persistently so as to keep up an abundant supply of pure, rich, nourishing blood.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food 50 cents a box. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., are on every box of the genuine.

WARD PATTERSON IS PRESIDENT OF ONTARIO BASEBALL ASSOCIATION

HIGH HONOUR FOR PETERBORO MAN, WHO IS UNANIMOUSLY CHOSEN TO PRESIDE OVER DESTINIES OF THE BIG BASEBALL BODY.

MEETING ON SATURDAY

A great deal of interest is being taken this year in the annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, which will be held in Toronto on Saturday next, in the Canadian Foresters' Building at 22 College street. It is expected that the meetingt his year will be attended by more delegates than ever before, and that more leagues will be represented and will seek affiliation. Secretary M. B. Dulmage of Guelph, has received applications for affiliation from all parts of the province, and it is known that other leagues will be present at the meeting and will make application there.

The meeting will open at ten o'clock in the forenoon and a number of prominent gentlemen who have been connected with amateur sport in Toornto and other places, are expected to be present to address the delegates. Among these will be Dr. Bruce Macdonald, President of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada; P. J. Mulqueen, the chairman of the Ontario Athletic Commission; James A. Morris, Hon. President of the O.B.A.A., John DeGruchy, President of the Ontario Football Union, while Mayor Church has signified his intention of being present to welcome the delegates.

For Betterment of Sports.

There are a number of very important matters to be considered; some of the proposed amendments to the constitution tending to be for the betterment of the sport in the province, its extension, etc. These were pretty thoroughly discussed at the meeting of the Executive held here on February 12th last, but there are one or two which have been received which will create discussion.

One of the most important questions to be taken up will be the classification of the various leagues and associations. Last year and in the years pevious there were a number of leagues which participated in the senior series which, when it came down to the semi-finals and finals were simply outclassed and the result was that the games did not prove a drawing card and the teams and the association lost money. This year it is proposed to put some of the leagues in the intermediate series. The senior series, however, will not be lacking in interest, as with such leagues as the Hamilton Amateur Baseball Association, the Toronto Amateur Baseball Association, the Inter-County League, the Niagara Distrct League, the Central Ontario League, the Georgian Bay League ,and the Northern League, in line, there will be plenty of fast baseball.

Robbins Reires.

There will be a change in the officials of the Association. Frank Robbins of Hamilton, who has been at the helm for the past two years, will retire, and his place will be taken by Ward Patterson of Peterboro, who has been vice-president for two years. His nomination was the only one received for this position, and he should make an excellent president ,as he has taken a very active part in amateur baseball, and as a member of the sub-committee of last year is thoroughly conversant with the workings of the association.

Theer are two nominations for the position of first Vice-President, Pat Kennedy of Toronto ,and A. E. Verral, also of Toronto. For Second Vice-President there are also two nominations, William Snyder of Hamilton, and D. P. McFarlane of Hariston, President of the North Wellington League. There was but one nomination received for the position of secretary, M. B. Dulmage of Guelph, being endorsed by all the leagues ,and he will be elected by acclamation. "Joe" Walsh of Toronto, will also be elected Treasurer by acclamation ,as he was the only one nominated.

FINE TRIBUTE TO WARD PATTERSON

HIS UNANIMOUS ELECTION AS PRESIDENT OF O.B.A.A. A RECOGNITION OF HIS SERVICES FOR BASEBALL.

Congratulations are due Mr. Ward Patterson of Peterborough, on the honour that has been paid him in his unanimous selection as President of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, one of the largest organized athletic bodies in Canada.

Mr. Patterson has richly deserved the tribute that has been paid him by the amateur ball clubs and leagues of the province, for he has been untiring in his service on behalf of baseball and has never hesitated to take a strong stand on any question affecting the welfare of the game. To him the great revival in baseball in Eastern Ontario is largely due, a revival that has been marked by the capture of the O.B.A.A. senior honours in 1919 and the intermediate O.B.A.A. title in 1920 by Eastern teams. His popularity with the various clubs is not sectional, for he was not only the only man nominated for the chief executive position with the O.B.A.A. this year, but his name was suggested by organizations in all parts of the province, including the Central League, Toronto, Hamilton, Guelph, Brantford, the Inter-County League and other clubs and bodies, a remarkable testimony to his services in the past and a convincing proof of the confidence of the baseball world in his integrity and ability. He was reluctant to accept the position and had repeatedly announced his intention of retiring from baseball, but the clubs would not be denied and Mr. Patterson is unanimously chosen to head the big baseball organization in what promises to be its banner year. Every fan in Eastern Ontario will be delighted with the honour accorded the Peterborough man.

Women in Holland will vote in the parliamentary election in 1922 for the first time.

WILL ENCOURAGE JUNIOR LACROSSE

EXECUTIVE OF LOCAL CLUB SHOW ENTHUSIASM BY LARGE ATTENDANCE.

Instead of appealing to the public for subscriptions, the executive of the Lacrosse Club decided last night to offer season tickets at one dollar for the local group games. C. S. Cummer, who presided, Dr. N. H. Sutton, Bert Todd, Harry Tudhope and other members felt that sufficient funds could be secured without adopting the method of approaching the supporters of the game with empty hands.

All the executive were present last night, together with a number of the prospective players, making a total attendance of more than twenty. This enthusiasm is an indication of the spirit with which the club is beginning the new season. The first practice will be held a week from Saturday, and there was some suggestion that the players might turn out earlier. Johnnie Sutherland reported that Campbellford had indirectly proposed a game there on May 24, and if an invitation from the Campbellford Club is received it will likely be accepted.

Plans for the formation of a Junior League among the school children were outlined, and members were appointed to meet the principals in an effort to enlist their support. Dr. Sutton called attention to the signs of a general revival of the game throughout Canada this year, and stated that Peterborough should not fall behind. Lacrosse, he said, deserved to be restored to its position as the Canadian national game. Prominent men everywhere were encouraging it, but the first steps should be among the school children. New sticks will be bought and placed at the disposal of those boys who will take up lacrosse, but this move will depend somewhat on the attitude of the principals of the schools. In the meantime, an order for eighteen new senior sticks was placed with Peter Regis. These are specially priced, and made by the Caughnawaga Indians near Montreal. The executive will meet every Wednesday night until the organization work is completed.

JIMMY RICE COACH BROCKVILLE CREWS.

Competed With Hanlan, O'Conner and Other Oarsmen.

BROCKVILLE, March 31.—Officials of the Brockville Rowing Club have secured "Jimmy" Rice as club coach for the coming season. He will take charge of the crews in June.

In 1900, James C. Rice, then a promising oarsman in competition against Hanlan, O'Connor and other celebrities, came to Brockville as coach for the blue and white, and in the two years he handled the megaphone the B.R.C. four broke the mile and a half records at Toronto and Boston in competition against the best oarsmen the continent of America could produce. A short time later he went to Columbia University as coach and has been there for the past fifteen years turning out some of the best oarsmen that United States has.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

To students of Shakespeare, "The Merchant of Venice" which the eminent actor John E. Kellerd is to present at the Grand on Friday and Saturday of this week, holds tremendous interest. The part of Shylock is one of the very best of this skilled actor's characterizations. "Shylock" is not one of Shakespeare's inventions, but is based, as so many of his characters are, on historical records. The very name "Shylock" he seems to have borrowed from an ancient pamphlet called "Caleb Shillocke, his prophecy, or the Jew's Prediction" on which, in 1607, a Pepysian ballad was founded. Indeed no other play of Shakespeare allows the student so clearly to trace its sources. The choice of the three caskets is taken from the "Gesta Romanorum"; the argument in the trial scene comes from Silvayn's "Orator" who declaims "of a Jew who would have for his debt a pound of flesh of a Christian"; while the elopement of Jessica has been traced to the Fourteenth Tale of Massaucio di Salerno. It is plain from the human qualities with which Mr. Kellerd invests the character of Shylock that he has made a close historical study of the play and that he has imbued his supporting company with the fine literary and historical traditions.

AT THE ALLEN

"Twin Beds," which opened its engagement at the Allen yesterday, is a film version of the farce comedy stage success of the same name by Margaret Mayo and Salisbury Field. Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven are sponsoring as well as starring in the production, and they have produced a truly refreshing and hilariously funny comedy in transferring the play to the screen. The picture interprets the abounding humor of the piece more satisfactorily, even than the stage play, possibly by reason of its ability to follow the action more closely.

Mr. DeHaven, with a master hand, has drawn forth every bit of comedy from the character of Signor Monti, a role admirably suited to his talents, and in which he makes a long stride to the fore as a screen comedian. Mrs. DeHaven is demure and lovable as the innocent young Mrs. Hawkins, and wins the full sympathy of her audience in her precarious situation. A noteworthy cast is in support of the DeHavens, which indeed, makes the picture very nearly an all-star production. William Desmond, who is himself one of the stellar system, contributes a very jealous and a very loving Mr. Hawkins, while Helen Raymond, who created the role in the original stage production, gives a perfect comedy portrayal of Signora Monti.

The picture has been elaborately and painstakingly staged, and every situation developed for all it is worth, interest being sustained at highest pitch throughout by the rapidly moving action. The scenario, which has been written to conform closely to the original plot of the stage play, has made use of every possibility. "Twin Beds" is a wholesome, highly interesting and screamingly amusing comedy picture, and above all it is clean.

THESE COMEDIES HOLD RECORD FOR BREVITY OF THEIR TITLES

Makers of Mermaid Comedies believe in sort titles. Eleven letters are the most that have been used in titling, and this was in the first, "A Fresh Start." The second was "Duck Inn," the third is "Dynamite" and the fourth will be "Nonsense." Short titles are desirable because less electric light space is occupied and better newspaper display possible. Mermaids are said to hold the record.

"Dynamite," which features Lloyd Hamilton of "Ham and Bud' fame, is built around the experiences of a country boy in an explosive factory. It comes to the Allen Theatre on Friday.

We extend a special invitation to you and your family and friends to attend our showing of George Ade's newest, and one of his brightest comedies," which will take place at the Allen Theatre beginning Friday.

It's a story which moves with all the rapidity and zip that distinguishes the work of this famous humorist and you'll get an idea of the originality of the plot when we tell you that the suspense and love interest centre about pickles. In addition to this it's a Jack Pickford picture. We feel sure you'll like it. That's why we're asking you to come.

AT THE EMPIRE.

UNUSUAL CONTRAST IN "THE LAW OF THE YUKON."

Characters Sharply Drawn and Full of Heart Interest.

What proves to be one of the big heart appeals in "The Law of the Yukon," which is the principal attraction at the Empire Theatre, is the psychological study of two types of women.

Mrs. Meredith is the wife of the only doctor in Gold City, a tent town in the Yukon country, in the early days of the gold rush. She is "a lady of quality," cultured, refined and coddled. Transplanted from the hot-house of civilization into the midst of nature's very own, "where only the strong survive," her innermost soul is tested. She hates the land where men are as rugged, gruff, and hard as nature itself; where creature comforts are only mere incidents in life's battle, and the conventions of society are unknown. Her husband's great work means nothing to her. In selfpity she loses sight of her husband's great love for her. Attention is what she demands, no matter what the price she must pay for it.

Tiny Tess is just a dance hall girl. She earns her living by dancing with the miners and inducing them to spend their gold. Everyone in Gold City knows that she is the abject slave of Melford Deaney, one of life's wasters, who came to the Klondike, a misfit and a failure. She loves him and makes every sacrifice for him. She considers their relationship holy before God, and proves it.

The contrast between these two women is sharply drawn and full of heart interest. If "The Law of the Yukon" held nothing else, this alone would make it a great picture.

This is the Law of the Yukon, that only the Strong shall thrive;
That surely the Weak shall perish, and only the Fit survive.

This is the Law of the Yukon, and ever she makes it plain:
Send not your foolish and feeble; send me your strong and your sane—
Strong for the red rage of battle; sane, for I harry them sore;
Send me men girt for the combat, men who are grit to the core.

Send me the best of your breeding, lend me your chosen ones;
Them will I take to my bosom, them will I call my sons.

GRAND CENTRAL TERMINAL IN NEW YORK BOUGHT BY RESTERATEUR, WHO LATER CALLED THE POLICE.

ARREST THE "AGENT"

NEW YORK, March 31.—Confidence men who used to sell Grant's Tomb, the Aquarium and Brooklyn Bridge have recently taken to trafficking in the Grand Central Terminal, according to a complaint to the police by Gregory Pantazi, a restaurant keeper in West Seventieth Street..

The possibilities of making large returns from an investment was first pointed out to him, he said, by a young man who introduced himself on the street. The restaurant keeper had only $2,000 to spare, but he confessed that he would like to multiply that several times in a year. The young man said that he could not buy the whole of the Grand Central Terminal for $2,000, but that that sum would buy a large section of it. He promised to introduce him to the owner.

The "owner," a large dark man, happened to be pacing the corridors of the Hotel Newton, at Broadway and Ninety-sixth Street, when Pantazi and his young business adviser, after discussing the scheme for several days, called at the hotel to complete it. The big man, who looked ever inch the owner of the Grand Central Terminal, drew out a gold case and offered cork-tipped cigarettes.

The Grand Central Terminal property, it seemed, would be invaluable for a bootblack stand, beauty shop, grocery, antique shop, museum of freaks, motion pictures, imported millinery ,old iron or Shakesperiana. Pantazi did not have time to decide what lawful calling he would pursue at this desirable location before the documents had been put before him and signed.

Pantazi then handed over $1,200. The "owner" was angry that his time had been consumed by the kind of a man who brought only $1,200 for a $2,000 deal. He uttered some reproaches and was on the verge of cancelling the whole transaction, when the remaining $800 was promised. Pantazi hurried off to get it.

When he returned the pair were missing. Neither man was known there ,according to the hotel employes. Pantazi went with his story to Detective Fitzpatrick and Love. They thought that the description of the fat man resembled that of the operator who used to rent the Judges' Chambers in the Criminal Court Building to strangers and collect in advance.

The detectives did not identify the young man from description, but last night Pantazi picked out a young man on the street, and demanded his arrest as the consulting real estate expert. The prisoner, who was locked up in the West Forty-seventh Street Station, gave the name of Christopher Nicholas, 21 years old, a clerk.

This was the first sale of any part of the new Grand Central Terminal that has been reported to the police. The old structure used to be sold from time to time by "Grand Central Pete," who is credited by Bartlett's with the authorship of "There's a sucker born every minute."

THOSE NASTY LITTLE PIMPLES

THAT COME ON THE FACE ARE CAUSED BY BAD BLOOD.

Many an otherwise beautiful and attractive face is sadly marred by the unsightly pimples and various other skin troubles, caused wholly by bad blood.

Many a cheek and brow cast in the mould of a beauty, have been sadly defaced, their attractiveness lost, and the possessor of the "pimply face" rendered unhappy for years.

Their presence is a source of embarrassment to those afflicted as well as pain and regret to their friends.

There is an effectual remedy for these facial defects and that is Burdock Bitters, the old reliable medicine that has been on the market for over 40 years.

It drives out all impurities from the blood and leaves the complexion clear and healthy.

Mrs. James Williams, Waterford, Ont., writes: "My face was covered with pimples for nearly a year. I used different kinds of remedies to get rid of them and finally thought there was no relief. A friend dropped in one day and told me I should try Burdock Blood Bitters. I did so and used three bottles and found the pimples were all disappearing from my face and now I have a clear complexion again."

We will be glad to show you that the difference between Lowe Brothers and other paints is more than a mere difference of opinion. Ask for color card and interesting literature.

WANT TO RAISE MICHIGAN-ONT. LEAGUE STATUS

PROSPECT OF MONTREAL AND OTTAWA OBTAINING FRANCHISES.

PORT HURON, Mich., March 31.— Several cities are inquiring about obtaining a berth in the Michigan-Ontario League since Port Huron took over the Battle Creek franchise, Montreal and Ottawa have long been interested in gaining admittance to the circuit, and the latest applicant is Akron, who recently lost their International League franchise to Newark.

President G. H. Maines of the leagues is making an investigation of the Akron offer, and it is rumored two cities now in the International circuit have signified their willingness to consider joining the new organization, provided Montreal, Ottawa, Akron, Hamilton, Flint and London make up the balance of the league.

This would insure Class A rating in the National Association with a combined population of more than two and a half millions in the eight cities. One of the best circuits in organized baseball would be possible.

DATE OF BOUT TO BE ANNOUNCED ON APRIL 9---RICKARD

PROMOTER SAYS EVERYTHING IS READY FOR DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER BATTLE.

NEW YORK, March 31. — The place, date and all details of the Dempsey-Carpentier heavyweight championship bout will be announced in this city on Saturday, April 9. This statement was officially made by Promoter Tex Rickard here to-day.

In making the announcement Rickard said that while he was not prepared to definitely designate the site of the contest at this time he had finally decided to hold the match in the United States, and that all offers from points outside of this country had been carefully considered and rejected.

While the date of the contest has been semi-officially fixed for some time as Saturday, July 2, the place and the general conditions to govern the bout have never been authoritatively stated.

Rickard said to-day that he had been in conference with Manager Kearns, representing Dempsey, and with the American representative of Carpentier, and that all parties to the contract had agreed upon April 9 as the date for the disclosing of the site of the contest.

IN TRAINING CAMP LEAFS SCORE WIN

AUBURN, Ala., March 31.—With "Larry" Doyle again out of commission the Leafs made it two straight over the Auburn Collegians, the score being 5 to 2. Fortune and Woodgate pitched nne ball. Between them they accounted for sixteen strike-outs, the former "fanning" two men in each of the five innings he worked, and until the fifth allowing no student to reach first. He passed the first man to face him in that session and an out and the only hit, a scratch, with Davis out of position, permitted a score. Fortune, who had tremendous speed and a fast breaking ball, then struck out the next pair.

CUTE CRISIS RESULTS FROM KARL'S ACTION

COUNCIL OF AMBASSADORS PROTESTS WHILE "LITTLE ENTENTE" MOBILIZES TROOPS ON BORDER.

HUNGARY ITSELF QUIET

STEINAMANGER April 1. —Former Emperor Charles declared here this morning that his departure from Hungary would be conditioned upon permission to issue a proclamation to the Magyars explaining the unfavorable circumstances compelling his withdrawal and saying that he, as king, temporarily transferred the Regency of Admiral Horthy. The former ruler made this declaration upon receiving a refusal from Admiral Horthy, Regent, that he be allowed to return to Budapest, coupled with a threat of military measures against him.

PARIS, April 1. — (Canadian Press). — Resolutions protesting against the restoration of former Emperor Charles in Hungary, and warning the Hungarian Government of the consequences of such an act, would be disastrous, were adopted by the Council of Ambassadors here to-day. The resolutions were presented by Jules Cambon, acting in the name of the French government.

ALL IS QUIET.

PARIS, April 1. — (Canadian Press). —The French Charge D'Affaires in Budapest telegraphed to the Foreign Office here to-day that he was unable to confirm various press reports of Hungarian troop movements, adding that absolute calm prevailed in the Hungarian capital. Count Telsky, said the message was at present in conference with Charles, for whom a safe conduct had been demanded of the Austrian Government.

The Foreign Office has failed to receive any confirmation of the reports that Charles was heading an army marching on Budapest. Its latest despatches declared that all is quiet at Steinamanger, where the ex-Emperor now is, except among a certain portion of the troops. Charles, advices state, is to be taken some distance from the camp to the castle of Prince Batthyani, at Kormend, south of Steinamanger, with Count Telsky accompanying him.

Roumania, Jugo - Slavia and Tscho-Slovakia have notified the Hungarian Government that the return of Charles to the Throne will be considered a casus belli. Roumania is concentrating troops on the Hungarian border, and the Jugo-Slavs, who have mobilized five divisions, crossed the border yesterday, later withdrew. Central Europe, despatches say, is like a volcano, which may burst into eruption at any time.

JUDGE LINDSAY FACES JAIL RATHER THAN REVEAL SMALL BOY'S CONFIDENCE AT TRIAL

DENVER, COLORADO, April 1. (Canadian Press.) — Judge Ben B. Lindsay, of the juvenile court, must appear in criminal court here on Saturday to hear the order for execution of sentence as the result of his conviction of contempt of court. A fine of $500 and costs with a year in jail, as an alternative, faces the judge, since the Supreme Court refused to review his case.

Judge Lindsay was found guilty of contempt for refusal to reveal the confidence of a small boy in the custody of his court during a murder trial. In a signed public statement some time ago, the judge said he would go to jail rather than pay the fine, and he has refused offers of friends to pay it for him.

Like a Page Out of History Reads Coup of Exiled Emperor

SMUGGLED ACROSS BORDER IN DISGUISE, CHARLES MADE A DRAMATIC ATTEMPT TO REGAIN HIS FORMER THRONE.

SICK OF DEPRIVATION

BUDAPEST, April 1.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—After an agitated conference with friends and friendly opponents at the home of Bishop Count Mikes in Steinamanger, former Emperor Charles has the authentic account of his trip from Switzerland and unexpected appearance in Hungary.

Charles, who had been advised by his followers that the Hungarian people were eagerly awaiting him, left Prangins, Switzerland, Friday afternoon accompanied by Counts Erdody, Hunyady and Almassy. With an officer as his chauffeur, the former Emperor sped unnoticed acros sthe border in an automobile near the Austrian frontier. Charles was diguised as a Tolean tourist.

When the automobile with the former monarch and his four companions left Swiss territory, a military car was waiting to take them to Count Erdody's estate in Austria, near Steinamanger. Charles passed the Hungarian border Saturday night in a simple village's car and arrived at Steinamanger where Bishop Mikes concealed him in his castle.

Premier Teleky was hunting in West Hungary with Count Sigray. Bishop Mikes reached Teleky late at night and said to him: "Come at once to Steinamanger. A great misfortune has occurred."

Charles Sick of Deprivation.

Teleky and Sigray arrived at the castle early in the morning and found Charles, highly agitated, walking to and fro. To Bishop Mikes Charles had exclaimed:

"I have had enough of exile and deprivation and now am coming back as your Liege Lord. I am convinced the population will receive me enthusiastically and rally round my banner."

Premier Teleky tried to dissuade Charles from his viewpoint by pointing out the resentment of the Allies toward the Hapsburgs. But Charles insisted that he was going to Budapest in order to see who was courageous enough to touch the King's annointed person. He said he had received word from M. Briand, the French Premier, that the Allies henceforth would consider the question of the throne an internal one to Hungary.

Arguments were useless, and Charles, accompanied by Premier Teleky started Sunday morning for Budapest. The three cars of the entourage stopped early in the afternoon before the Premier's palace. The porter recognized the former sovereign and saluted him reverently.

Charles went to the Premier's apartment and washed and changed his civilian dress to a General's uniform and attached the Hungarian colors to his sword.

Then he proceeded on foot to the neighboring royal palace, demanded the key to the king's private rooms, which had been closed since Charles left Hungary.

The appearance of Charles created consternation when he was shown into the guests' waiting room.

"I want to see Admiral Horthy" (the regent) said Charles. "Call him to me."

To this demand Horthy sent back the word:

"At present I am head of the Hungarian State. Nobody has a right to speak for me."

UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION IS IMPROVED NOW

MANAGER OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT BUREAU HERE OPTIMISTIC AS TO OUTLOOK

TEXTILE MILL RESUMES

The unemployment situation is easing slightly, according to Hugh Robertson, who is in charge of the Ontario Government Employment Bureau here.

Several of the factories have taken on more men, and quite a few workers have been sent to other centres where unemployment is less general.

Is Optimistic.

Mr. Robertson is quite optimistic as to the next few months. One or two communications received already predict that a large number of river drivers will be wanted by the lumber companies. Then, too, the work on the roads throughout Ontario will call for large gangs of men. The factories are anticipating steady business, once prices of raw material reach a firm level, and on all these apparently reliable signs he bases his optimism.

Female Help in Demand.

One of the local textile mills has taken on many of its female workers who were laid off during the winter, and Mr. Robertson said there were not so many factory girls out of work as formerly. Capable domestics are still a rarity, and little difficulty is encountered in finding positions for dependable cooks and maids.

ADMITS HE MADE OFFER OF $3,000 TO CABINET MINISTER FOR CONTRACT

ROY A. REYNOLDS, BEFORE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE OF LEGISLATURE, TELLS OF ALLEGED DEAL BY WHICH HE AND L. C. PARKIN WERE GIVEN $117,899 CONTRACT.

SAYS "WHOLE THING WAS CROOKED"

TORONTO, April 1.— (Canadian Press.)—Before a fully attended session of the Ontario Legislature committee on Public Accounts to-day, Roy A. Reynolds gave his evidence on the story of the sale of motor trucks to the value of $117,899 to the Ontario Department of Works by L. C. Parkin, of Dundas, Ont.

Seven members of the Ontario Cabinet were present at the session this morning, either as members of the committee or as auditors.

Mr. Reynolds said that Parkin and himself had been in conference with the Minister, Hon. F. C. Biggs, about the deal. They had agreed, he said, that something was coming to Biggs for putting the deal through. Parkin had asked him, "What do you figure we should give Biggs?" He had replied that he thought three thousand dollars would be right."

"The three of us," said the witness, "were to keep our mouths shut. I did and Parkin did not."

On being reminded by R. L. Brackin of Chatham, who was cross-examining the witness, that Parkin had testified that when he drove Biggs from Hamilton to Dundas on December 29 the deal was not discussed, Reynolds denied saying that they were so full of the idea of the contract that they could not go to sleep for thinking of it..

Mr. Brackin said "Was this to be a bribe to the Minister of Public Works for giving you this contract?"

"We both figured he had something coming to him," said Reynolds. He further said that before the $3,000 was mentioned Parkin had suggested giving Biggs a car but Reynolds said:

"If we give him a car we will be in bad. We must be careful."

"Why did you say it would look bad?" asked Brackin.

"I thought there would be trouble," replied Reynolds. "I knew the whole thing was crooked."

EARLY RUSH FOR CONCERT TICKETS

THIS MORNING'S CROWD AT THE GRAND "AUGURS" WELL FOR MALE VOICE CHORUS.

The public's interest in the Peterborough Male Voice Chorus, and their concert next Tuesday, was demonstrated by the rush for tickets at the Grand Opera House this morning. Long before nine o'clock the lobby was filled, and so large a crowd had gathered that the wicket was opened at ten minutes to nine. The first applicant arrived at twenty minutes to eight o'clock, shortly followed by others, who soon stretched out into a line that was reminiscent of the demand for some of the biggest attractions that have come to the Grand. Some of the Executive of the Chorus have stated that there are a few good seats left, but that they should be taken at once. Tuesday night's concert promises to be an outstanding event in choral work in Peterborough. The members have been practicing faithfully all winter, and have prepared a programme which, it is believed, will make a deep impression upon the music lovers of the city. In order to avoid disappointments, tickets should be procured to-morrow.

NEW MARCH RECORD FOR THE STUDEBAKER

Messrs. Eastwood & Stock, local distributors for Studebaker cars, report phenomenal sales for the month of March. Their order book shows entries for the sale of ten Studebaker cars and one Reo waggon. In addition eight used cars were taken in on trade. This is said to be, so far as is known, the sales record in Peterborough for any car in this price class.

From a reliable American source it is learned that "after swinging around the show circuit and witnessing the enthusiasm at the Boston Show, Harry Biggs, vice-president and general manager of the Studebaker Corporation, expressed the belief that 1921 is going to be some year in the motor business. He stated that the fatcory would this year produce over 150,000 Studebaker cars. He said when he left South Bend the factory was producing 50 per cent. of its normal, but since this had increased to 75 per cent., with the plant running on full time."

SACCO IS GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

FINDS JURY AT WELLAND—SENTENCE LATER TO-DAY.

ST. CATHARINES, April 1. — (Canadian Press).—A jury at Welland returned a verdict of manslaughter against Rosario Sacco, charged with murdering Dominic Sarafino at Thorold November 26, 1917.

Sacco was arrested at Bowmanville three months ago. Sacco, on the witness stand, declared that Sarafino was killed in a scuffle that ensued after he had found Sarafino threatening his wife with a stilletto at her throat to force her into agreeing to an improper proposal. Sacco's wife corroborated his testimony. Justice Masten will sentence Sacco this afternoon.

SPRING'S PRETTIEST STYLES AT SUKLOFF'S

Saturday shoppers are invited to call in during the day or evening and see the special spring displays of ladies' and gentlemen's apparel, now on view at N. Sukloff's Store, 293 George Street.

For ladies, the new spring outfits are shown in Smart Suits, Coats, Skirts, Dresses, Waists, Corsets, Hosiery and staple goods. Charming Millinery, particularly worthy of inspection. Our own clever milliners have developed many lovely hats, adapting some of the extreme style tendencies in a delightful manner. Even the straws take on an unusual beauty this season, chief of which are Lisere, Tagel and finest of Milan Chic. Shapes are of all kinds — pokes, small and medium; close-fitting turbans, turned off the face models; roll brims, narrow brims, and large hats.

For the men, we are proud of our line of Spring Suits, which are shown in various good, up-to-date styles, all marked to sell below the regular clothing stores. Several new lines of men's Trousers, Overalls, Hats, Caps, Underwear, Shirts, Hosiery and Ties, lowly priced.

For youths and boys, we invite parents to see the best lines of juvenile clothing we ever had, surprisingly low in price.

One Million Miners Are Idle in Britain and Mines in Danger

NEWSPAPER THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM

"It may seem strange, but the people believe what they see in the newspapers. That's what makes advertising in the newspapers so valuable," said Mr. H. C. Lytton, president of The Hub, one of Chicago's largest and most successful stores for men, in an interview given out on the 32nd anniversary of the store's beginning. "I have tried advertising on bill boards, in street cars, in the magazines, but the newspapers proved by all means the best, and I kept everlastingly at it." In his thirty-two years of business, Mr. Lytton has spent over 5 million dollars in newspaper advertising, and he is still going strong.

CITY'S NEW MOTOR TRUCK HERE SOON

CITY ENGINEER PARSONS EXPECTED IT TO BE SHIPPED FROM HAMILTON TO-DAY.

The motor truck which the city ordered from the Beaver Motor Company of Hamilton, will be delivered some time next week, City Engineer Parsons told the Examiner this morning. He expected that it would be shipped today. Mr. Parsons recently examined the truck at the factory and was thoroughly satisfied with its appearance and equipment. It will be used for flushing and oiling the streets and also for carrying materials required by the Board of Works department in the construction of sewers and other street operations. There is no pressing need for the truck until the season is further advanced, although it may be called upon to show its wares as a flusher at once before the "Anti-Dust" and other such contributors to the "Voice of the People" are heard from in their annual spring blurbs.

The order for this truck was the subject of a short and sharp controversy in the council and also in the columns of the Examiner about a month ago. Mr. C. R. Banks objected that tenders should have been called for by advertisement The order was placed with the Hamilton company on the recommendation of the Board of Works, but before it had been formally approved by the council.

BELGIANS ARREST HUN COMMUNIST

FOR INCITING STRIKE OF 30,000 WORKMEN.

CREFELD, Germany, April 1.—(Canadian Press).—Leading Communists in the Crefeld district, to the number of 281, were arrested last night and early to-day by the Belgian military authorities. The latter hold the Communists responsible for ordering the strike of thirty thousand workmen and inciting rioting.

ONLY AT FIVE COLLIERIES HAVE WORKERS CONSENTED TO REMAIN AT POSTS AND OTHERS ARE FLOODED.

ORDERS GO TO U.S.

LONDON, April 1. — (Canadian Press).—Approximately one million two hundred thousand coal miners were idle to-day when work ceased in the coal mines of the United Kingdom at midnight, with the exception of a very few districts, as a result of a controversy over the wage issue.

In only two colleries in Yorkshire, one in Northumberland, one in Scotland and one in North Wales, the men have promised to continue at their posts without prejudice to any terms that may be agreed upon, but all other pit workers, including mechanics, pump men, ventilating men and pony men came out with the miners.

The danger that the mines may be flooded threatens, and many may be ruined. Strenuous efforts are being made to enroll volunteers. Yorkshire pump men have decided to remain at work, and the hope was expressed to-day that others would follow their example.

The first effect of the strike has been the placing of orders with United States coal merchants. Advices from New York state that a flood of orders from European countries, which normally have formed the British market, have been received there.

SECURE CAPITAL TO CARRY ON.

Beaver Truck Company Float a Loan.

HAMILTON, March 31.—At a recent meeting of its creditors, the Beaver Motor Truck Company of this city outlined a plan whereby the company might secure sufficient working capital to carry them over. The company has apparently engaged in a more ambitious programme than its capital warranted for, despite the calling together of creditors an auditor's statement indicated assets twice the size of liabilities. The plan outlined called for the issue of $50,000 bonds, which, it was stated, had already been tentatively subscribed with the object of providing necessary working capital.

The further statement is made that A. E. Martin, treasurer of the Hamilton Bridge Company, and Guy Long, a Hydro commissioner, have been elected to the board.

They have held regular meetings on the 1st and 3rd Thursday of every month. Their officers were: President, Alfred Maun, Vice-Pres., Mr. C. H. Harris; Sec.-Treas., James Benor; Advisory Committee, Mr. J. A. Humphries and Mr. Sam Clegg; Past Pres., C. A. Mills.

Their past programmes were: October 7, Election of officers. Oct. 21, Lecture on birds by C. A. Moore. November 4, Debate. Nov. 18, Free-for-all. Dec. 2, Lecture by C. L. Owen. Dec. 16, Ladies' evening and social evening. January 6, Evening of soprts. Jan. 20, Concert. February 3, Entertainment by ladies of the W. W. society. Feb. 17, Debate, resolved that "it is more pleasant and instructive to travel by water than by rail." Mar. 3, Lecture, "Prospecting in the North Country" by C. A. Morris. March 17, Open evening, with special programme. Mar. 31, Musical evening and refreshments.

The above items were only a part of the programme for each evening. In addition to these there will be specialties arranged by Programme committee, also games, music, etc. The aims of this club were to further the brotherhood of men in Campbellford. To make for a better citizenship. To give social recreation.

Good Programme.

Last evening Mr. C. H. Harris was acting chairman and a large number of men were present. The programme was:

A selection by the C.S.E.T. band.
Violin solo by Mr. John Maynard.
Reading by Mr. C. H. Harris.
Song by Mr. Geo. Toffin.
Reading by Mr. A. J. Jenkins.
Mandolin selection by Mr. McDowell.
A selection by C. S. E. T. band.
A series of funny stories by Dr. Watson.
Mandolin selection by Mr. McDowell.

A fine lunch was served, and after this some of the members made short humorous speeches.

Mr. C. H. Harris gave a short humorous reading and Rev. Mr. Clarke read an article on a new American religion which was more amusing than uplifting. He also explained the purposes of the men's club and hoped for a strong executive for the club when it would be re-organized. He thought that the club had been a success and that there was no reason why the C.S.E.T. football club should not be a success if it was backed by the Men's Club. He said that the club had been a source of wholesome amusement and interesting programmes during the past year and hoped that this could be continued next year. He thanked those who had assisted with the programmes, etc.

Mr. Harris said that he considered the club a success and hoped for greater success next year. The annual meeting will be in September for the re-organization of the club and election of officers.

Mr. Maynard and Mr. Jenkins made short addresses and a vote of thanks was extended them for the assistance and work in the preparation of programmes.

All present sang God Save the King and the meeting adjourned.

"CHARLIE" DAVIDSON.

The genial Reeve of Campbellford, has a regualr set of initials to his name (his formal signature is C. H. Davidson) but everyone just naturally calls him Charlie. He has served twelve years in the town Council, one year as Deputy-Reeve and two as Reeve. He believes in things and people. That is doubtless the reason why he is always willing to help every worthy cause, why he is active in many community affairs, and also why he has so many friends. He is Chief of Campbellford' Volunteer Fire Department and President of the Baseball Club. Between times Reeve Davidson sells McLaughlin and Chevrolet cars and conducts one of the busiest garages in the Trent district.

PROBABILITIES.

Fair, not much change in temperature.

MEN'S CLUB OF CHRIST CHURCH HELD FINAL MEETING OF SEASON— CAMPBELLFORD NEWS OF INTEREST.

Mr. G A. Hay conducted a sale yesterday for Mrs. Henry Dunk, of the 7th concession. Notwithstanding the bad weather the sale was a very successful one. Six cows sold for good prices. One horse brought $70, one $136 ,and one $138, and the machinery also sold well.

Amos Green.

The news of the death of M. Amos Green at his residence, yesterday morning came as a shock to his friends and the townspeople generally.

The late Mr. Green was the eldest son of the late Ira Green of Seymour township ,and was engaged in cheesemaking for a number of years, having made in Meyerburgh Campbellford and Stanwood, and was always known for his integrity and honour.

The deceased is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Doxsee, and four brothers, William of Campbellford, Samuel and Harvey of Seymour, and Silas of Havelock, and one sister, Mrs. William Landon.

The deceased was deceased was 74 years of age, a most devout and faithful member of the Methodist church. The funeral will be held on Saturday and will be conducted by the pastor Rev. H. B. Kenney.

Give a Lecture.

Dr. Hincks, of the Dept. of Mental Hygiene, Toronto University, will give an illustrated lecture under the auspices of the Social service Council in the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening, April 12th.

The Social Service Council are indeed very fortunate in securing such talent for their second public meeting.

PETERBOROUGH WINS ROUND

WOODSTOCK, April 1.—(Canadian Press) — The intermediate championship of the Ontario Basketball Association was won here last night by the Peterborough Y.M.C.A., who, despite all reports to the contrary, played a far stronger game than the much-tooted St. Catharines' team. The new champions deserved victory. The game was a close-checking affair, with the visitors playing strong defensively. A five man defence faced the locals on every attempt they made to score baskets and so strong were the visitors defensively that it seemed next to impossible to score.

The score was 26 to 20 in favor of Woodstock, but Peterborough won at Peterborough by 39 to 14, making the score on the round 59 to 40 in favor of Peterborough.

EX-MAYOR OF LINDSAY PASSES AWAY

Robert Maw Beal, of the R. M. Beal Leather Co., and ex-Mayor of Lindsay, died after an illness extending over several months at the family residence, 53 Adelaide Street, on Tuesday afternoon.

The deceased, who was in his 73rd year, was one of Lindsay's most prominent citizens, and he built up a Dominion-wide business for the Beal Leather Co., which employed a large number of hands.

The late Mr. Beal was born in Whitby, Ontario, and for a number of years was in business in Toronto, under the firm name of Beal Bros. In 1899 the deceased removed to Lindsay and started operations in Lyall's Tannery, across from Horn Bros.' mill. Later the big tannery on the bank of the river was erected by the deceased, in order to handle the rapidly increasing business. The old Robson Tannery at Wellington Street Bridge, now used as a factory, was also purchased.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to the Riverside Cemetery, Lindsay.

SLIGHT BLAZE BROKE OUT IN LEGISLATURE

DOCUMENTS AND SUPPLIES BELONGING TO DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS WERE DESTROYED.

SOON EXTINGUISHED

TORONTO, April 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Fire broke out in the basement of the Parliament Buildings shortly after six o'clock last night. An alarm was rung in to the fire department, but by the time the men arrived all danger had passed. The damage was slight. Defective wiring is thought to have been the cause.

The fire was discovered when volumes of smoke were noticed pouring up the elevator shaft and stairway at the west end of the buildings. An emergency hose was brought into play and soon had the blaze out. The damage was almost entirely to papers, maps, reports and blue prints belonging to the Public Works Department.

ACTRESS MRS. MARKS LOST HER WARDROBE

KINGSTON, March 31.—Mrs. George Marks, of the Marks Bros. Dramatic Company, played under difficulties when the company appeared in Sacket's Harbor Monday. Her entire wardrobe for the production was lost somewhere in Watertown while on her way to Sacket's Harbor in a taxi. She was obliged to appear in street costume.

AN EXPLANATION TO SUBSCRIBERS

Reports from the suburban circulation territory indicate that many subscribers of The Examiner, who are receiving the noon edition, are laboring under the misapprehension that it is the issue of the previous day.

The edition which is distributed outside the City of Peterobrough now, is a NOON EDITION, containing the latest district, local and telegraph news up until noon. Five pages are made up of news breaking from the time of the closing of the regular afternoon edition the previous afternoon until noon of the day of publication. The remaining pages contain news from the regular afternoon edition of the previous day, in order that there may be no gap between editions.

MONAGHAN HAS A BIRD SANCTUARY

ONE HUNDRED OR MORE WILD GEESE REST IN THEIR MIGRATION ON SEVERAL FARMS.

A numerous flock of wild geese are sojourning in North Monaghan, dividing their attention beweetn ponds on T. Lillico's farm and a nearby property. Reeve McIntosh says they have been there several weeks and are apparently the regular semi-annual visitants that appear every spring and fall resting between migratory flights northward and back again to the south. The farmers do not molest them as they feed in the low lands which they evidently have come to regard as a preserve and sanctuary. They remain for a short time until they receive some occult sign that beckons them onward, and a morning comes when the temporary feeding grounds a few miles from the city are deserted.

INTERVENTION IN HUNGARIAN AFFAIRS NEXT

RUMANIA MOBILIZING TROOPS AND JUGO-SLAVIA SAID TO HAVE DELIVERED ULTIMATUM TO AUTHORITIES.

TROUBLE BREWING

BUDAPEST, April 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Countries neighbor to Austria are watching with most intense interest the events in that country. It was learned yesterday that the Roumanians are concentrating troops at Groswardein on the Hungarian border and at Temescar, farther south to be ready in case armed interference should be necesasry. The Jugo Slavs, who have mobilized five divisions, crossed the Hungarian frontier at several points, but withdrew yeterday. The Jugo Slav diplomatic agent here, M. Milojesevitch, is said to have told the authorities. Our question is will Charles depart within 24 or 48 hours.

Regent Horthy yesterday sent a wireless message to King Alfonso of Spain inquiring if preparations had been made for the reception of former Emperor Charles in Spain. The Austrian government was also sounded as to whether it was willing to pass Charles freely through Austria, the latter country to take the responiiblity for his safety. If Austrai refuses, the Regent plans to remove the ex-Emperor to Spain in a Hungarian military airplane.

VIENNA, April 1. — (Canadian Press.) — The Hungarian Charge D'Aaffires has notified Austria that former Emperor Charles will return to Switzerland. The Swiss Minister declares that Switzerland will agree to his return.

A LAST REMINDER.

If you want to vote on the referendum on April 18th and your name was not on the last lists, you have only one more opportunity to make sure that you will have a chance to register your opinion. The Revising Officers complete their work tomorrow, so that Saturday is the last day for receiving additions to the list. No one else can put your name on—that is a detail you must look after yourself—and there is not much time left. Mr. Strickland, who is revising the lists from A to M, may be found in his office in the Crown Building, and Mr. Widdifeld, who is in charge of the lists from N. to Z, is located in his office in the Bank of Commerce Building. Both officials will be on duty from 10 to 12 p.m. and from 2 to 5 p.m. tomorrow, affording a last chance for those not on the lists to add their names. There has been ample notice given the public, and those who find themselves without a vote, need not go far to locate the cause. The issue is surely important enough to make it worth while to ensure a place for your name on the official lists. If you have not already done so, bear in mind that to-morrow is the last chance.

HYDRO RATES.

The attempt that is being made by the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario to persuade Premier Drury that he should introduce a flat rate of Hydro power charges in Ontario is, it is to be hoped in the interests of the Province, doomed to failure. The proposal is so obviously unreasonable and impossible that its advocacy, even by such a journal as The Farmers' Sun, furnishes cause for amazement. It is manifestly ridiculous to claim that power should be sold in all parts of the Province at the same rate, making no allowance for the varying cost of transmission. Districts close to the source of power necessarily have cheaper power, and the cost of transmitting electric energy to a block of city consumers living side by side, is, of course, less than would be the expense of carrying power to widely scattered rural residents. With the desire of the farmers to share in the benefit of Hydro power there is every sympathy, and the Provincial Government would be justified in granting liberal bonuses to assist in the construction of rural power lines. To go further than that, however, and attempt to make the people of the cities and towns pay more for their supply of power in order that the rural sections could enjoy cheaper rates, would be not only totally unfair but would prejudice the success of the whole Hydro scheme. Premier Drury would be well advised to turn a deaf ear to the dubious counsel of The Farmers' Sun.

THE RENTAL SITUATION.

As was to have been expected, the Rollo Fair Rentals Bill is arousing the opposition of property-owners everywhere in Ontario, and there will be vehement protests from the people who are landlords. The measure, it is true, may be too drastic and has not perhaps been carefully drafted, but, at least, it is a move to correct a situation that is fast becoming intolerable, and the interests who oppose the Rollo Bill, should have some alternative legislation to propose as a substitute for the measure under attack. That the scarcity of houses is being used by many property-owners to exact rentals that are beyond the bounds of justice, is a fact that tenants in every part of the Province have painful reasons to corroborate. It is true that the cost of repairs has during the past few years increased abnormally; it is true, also, that taxes and assessment are higher, but landlords of the profiteering type have jumped the rental of their houses far above the point necessary to protect them against the increased expenses involved in the ownership of their property. They have simply used the old argument of the law of supply and demand to exploit the situation until, in some cases, they are asking over 100 per cent. more than they were before the war. If their greed is beyond the control of their own conscience, it is time that some other check should be put upon them, and the Ontario Government will have earned the gratitude of the mass of the people of this Province if it succeeds in remedying a condition that is the biggest factor at the present time in the cost of living. The fair landlords—and thank heaven there are not many of them, or the crisis would be infinitely worse—should welcome legislation that would sort out the profiteers and put an end to their shameless money-grabbing at the expense of their fellow citizens, many of whom risked their lives and faced all the horrors of modern warfare in defence of the selfsame property that is now being used as the basis for extortion of the rawest type.

UP TO THE PEOPLE.

Neither friends nor enemies of daylight saving can have any quarrel with the City Council, because that body has given the electors a chance to express their opinion on the scheme by means of a referendum, to be taken next Wednesday. It is the most satisfactory way of disposing of a question that has been the source of more or less controversy in recent years. The issue is up to the people themselves. If they want daylight saving, all they have to do is to vote for it next week; if they don't want daylight saving, they have the chance of defeating the scheme. As to the merits, or otherwise, of the summer time plan, it is idle to waste time in discussing the subject, which has been argued from every angle until every citizen must be familiar with the points in favour and the objections raised against the scheme. It is desirable that there should be a large vote on the question, however, in order that there need be no doubt as to the wishes of the majority of the people. The citizens of Peterborough are the jury on this case and their verdict is final; there can be no appeal.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

There is uncertainty as to what is to be done aobut daylight saving time in Canada this year. Some time ago the Railway Association proposed that municipalities should bring summer time into force on the same date, that confusion might be avoided when the railways changed their schedules to conform to it. On another occasion the Association stated that daylight saving time would not be adopted by the railways this year since it was not to be adopted by the whole country through act of Parliament. It has not been explained whether or not this means that the train schedules will not be altered as they were last year.

Some cities have already made provision for the independent adoption of summer time, while others are still undecided as to their course. Having experienced the benefits and advantages of summer time, the majority of urban communities will probably advance the time by local enactment. But what a pity it is that groundless opposition to the change in time on the part of sections of the farming community should stand in the way of a full measure of daylight saving free from the confusion incidents to independent local action. The farmers' grievances against daylight saving time are very largely fancied. The farmer, who is so little governed by the clock, who is, in fact, free from the confusion incident to inas to his rising and retiring, says to the city dweller that if the latter wants to enjoy an extra hour of daylight in the summer he doesn't have to change the clock but can get up an hour earlier—that a general change in time is not required. Of course, this is a thoughtless argument. The farmer can and does do this, so that it makes little difference to him what the clock-time may be, but the city dweller is obliged to regard the clock because he must conform his hours of business or labor, of eating and sleeping, to the hours of others. A uniform time must be observed in the city.

The independent local adoption of daylight saving time results in some inconvenience and confusion, but the benefits of the extra daylight afford compensation. All of us might have the benefits without the inconvenience and confusion if the farmers, or those of them who register opposition and thereby influence Parliament, which dislikes to offend the farmers, would be less unreasonable. —Ottawa Journal.

Revised Version of Dickens.

Amid the rumble of trumbels, the jeers and bloodthirsty cries of the mob and the pealing of wild bells, Sidney Carton mounted the steps of the guillotine. His pale features were set in stern lines, his head was high, his footstep firm.

"Have you anything to say, cursed aristocrat?" croaked the executioner, leering, laughingi

Sidney Carton turned his flashing, fearless eyes upon the howling rabble. With a quick motion of his head, he adjusted his sansculottes, and throwing his tricoteuse back from his square shoulders, he said in a loud, clear voice:

"It is a far, far better thing that I do than I have ever done. It is a far- far better rest that I go to than I have ever known. But the best of it is that I won't have to pay my income tax."

And the guillotine zunked.

LAMP EXPLODED IN THE CHICKEN BROODER.

Valuable Birds and Part of Home Burned as a Result.

PORT HOPE, April 1.—When a lamp in his chicken brooder exploded on Wednerday, W. J. Colwill suffered the loss by fire of forty-five three-weeks-old chicks—all thoroughbreds, destined to be used as show birds. Considerable damage to the kitchen also resulted before the flames were extinguished. The brooder was situated in the cellar.

Mr. Colwill estimates the loss at $800.00, covered by insurance.

BREACH OF CONTRACT IN BUYING BOOKS

ASSESSED $49 FOR NOT ACCEPTING WORK AS PER AGREEMENT.

Judge G. M. Roger recently gave judgment at Cobourg in a case of peculiar interest to people buying books by instalments. It appears that Mr. Carl Schiveickert, of the Casmas Chemical Co., contracted with the Sales, Limited, Toronto, for the purchase of a set of books entitled "Times' History of the War." The set was to include not less than sixteen volumes, and the cost was to be eight dollars per volume. Four volumes were shipped to Mr. Schweickert but he had returned them as he had decided not to make the purchase.

Mr. Chisholm, representing Mr. Schweickert, contended at the last Division Court that it was simply a breach of contract and the company was entitled to damages. The agent for the Sales Limited had admitted that the books were a marketable commodity, and Mr. Chisholm pointed out that the only damages that could be allowed would be the difference between the market price at the time of the contract and the time of the breach.

The amount claimed by the Sales Limited was $176.00. The judgment is as follows:

Reasons for Judgment.

Here the contract is for the sale and purchase of a set of 21 or more books at a price of $8.00 per volume, deliverable and payable by instalments, subject to the provision that the title in the books is not to pass "until the full amount has been paid." "Terms payable $15.00 every three months after delivery of volumes made without interest." Delivery of a portion of the goods, according to contract was duly tendered, by the seller, and acceptance thereof was without examination or reason given refused by the buyer. Neither the claim filed nor the evidence submitted on behalf of the plaintiffs discloses what portion of the goods was tendered. The defendant without just cause simply refuses to carry out his contract and submits the questions of the right and liabilities of parties to the judgment of the court. As the matter now stands at present, therefore, the position of neither party before the court is entirely satisfactory. With the view of terminating the matter at this stage by compromise, if possible, there will be judgment for the plaintiffs for forty dollars ($40.00) damages and costs, the same to be in full of all claims under the contract, subject to the right of either party to a new trial herein if applied for within the usual time.

Dated at Cobourg, Ontario, this twenty-eighth day of March, A.D., 1921. G. M. ROGER, Judge.

The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers, give the little ones Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for constipation. Acts mildly and gently. Formula on the package.

THE alert mother, ever anxious to find something better for her children's health, will interest herself in learning what is best to give them when they are constipated, have a headache, cold or fever, are bilious or dyspeptic. It stands to reason that the remedy that might be suitable for you, at your age, might be too drastic for a child.

By all means do what you can to regulate the diet, giving preference to the light, easily digested foods. But when diet fails you will have to help Nature with medicine. It would then be well for you to avoid the harsher cathartics and physics, castor oil, calomel and such, even if disguised in tablets or pills, for they weaken the child and make it irritable.

A better plan is to give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts mildly and gently and does not gripe or weaken. It has the unusual merit of being safe for the tiniest baby yet equally effective for grownups. The formula is plainly on the package, and a sixty-cent bottle is sufficient to last an average family many months.

There is nothing better or safer than Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for stomach, liver and bowel troubles, and as it contains no narcotics or mercurials, mothers can feel safe in giving it to any member of the family needing a constipation medicine. It is syrupy and delightfully pleasant to take. It must meet the taste of the majority, for last year over eight million bottles were bought in drug stores, the largest sale of the kind in the world.

Buy a sixty-cent bottle today with the understanding that if for any reason it does not do exactly as claimed your money will be refunded. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin has been on sale in drug stores for thirty years so you would not be experimenting with anything new.

Try It FREE

There are heads of families who will want to prove to their own satisfaction that my Laxative Syrup Pepsin is as effective in constipation, as mild and gentle in action, as plensant-tasting and safe, as I claim. Let such write me for a sample. It will be sent postpaid. Simply say, "Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front St., Bridgeburg, Ont.: Send a free trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to—" and give your name and address. I will see that the rest is attended to promptly.

LEONARD TALKS OF THE CASE.

Chapter 16.

We sat for a long time before the genial glow of the burning logs. A flare from a fallen ember would suddenly light up the far recesses of the room and project Leonard's profile sharply against the dark cushions of his big morris chair.

I liked to see him this way—his big body and strong features happily relaxed and a meerschaum pipe hung easily between tightly pressed lips.

A few tears, a kiss, and every trouble had seemingly dissolved. Effects were sometimes so much greater than the cause of things

I was glad I had cried. I smiled to myself at the memory and unconsciously pressed my handkerchief to my eyes. Leonard's gaze was towards the open fire and I was glad he did not notice me. A little feminine weakness was quite acceptable to a man—in fact, I knew that it was really essential—but never a overdose.

Leonard moved forward and poked the logs musingly. Hundreds of tiny bright glittering sparks crackled and rushed up the chimney.

"Darwood is a slick article," he spoke forcibly between intermittent jabs of the poker. "As soon as he suspicioned action against him he shipped his secretary east. It's difficult to lay your hands on him."

I kept very quiet. It was the first time Leonard had broached the subject of the Darwood separation case in many months. I wanted him to go on. I hated the case, but silence between us on that subject proved dangerous.

"You remember I told you some time ago that the co-respondent was doing some malicious talking?" he went on.

"Yes," I said softly and with all the genuine interest I could possibly put into my voice.

"Well, it's holding things up." He hesitated—"Mrs.—er—we—don't want a nasty scene, you know."

"I saw he could not bring himself to speak Mrs. Darwood's name.

"You mean at the hearing?" I asked, trying to follow his thoughts.

"That's it exactly—she would make things very disagreeable. It might divert sympathy from our case." He held the bowl of his meerschaum firing in the palm of his hand, and gazed intently into the fire. "We are holding off—trying to get counteractive evidence—and—and alibis."

I imagined he flushed slightly as he made this last remark—or was it the glow from the fire?

He went over to his smoking cabinet and refilled his pipe—pressing the tobacco down firmly with his thumb.

I watched him with a mingling of love and fear in my heart. I knew I would not force any decisions that were not arrived at by his own deductions. No one would. Leonard's will was absolutely self-governed. If he found Mrs. Darwood to be—not all he had been thinking her, it must be in his own time and by his own discovery.

"Of course Mrs. Blare, that's Darwood's secretary, is just as likely to tire of Darwood the next minute and seek diversion elsewhere. That kind are likely to have other interests. They're flighty." He was talking more freely now. Telling me about it was giving him evident relief.

I said little but sat watching his every changing expression.

"Mrs. Darwood," he went on boldly, "threatens to sue Mrs. Blare for alienating her husband's affections. I won't let her do that—it would be foolish," he said decidedly

A little superior smile turned up the corner of his mouth

"Jealousy is so apt to get a woman in trouble," he reflected.

Little memories of past acts stirred up twinges of self-consciousness in my breast. But women are not the only dealers in jealousy, I thought to myself.

"Have you seen this Mrs. Blare?" I ventured.

Leonard drummed his fingers nervously on the arm of his chair.

"Yes. She was in to see me two days ago. Very sporty type—lots of nerve. Claims she knows some things I would be over-joyed to hear," he answered.

"What's her object, dear?" I ventured again.

"Trying to hold those things over my head so I won't use her name too freely," he explaines. "You can't be sure whether it's a bluff or really something to it. They're a wise lot and brazen."

In that minute I wished sincerely that my husband had chosen some other profession.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your paper to say a few words concerning the fowl of our city, which, like every other spring, have taken a fancy to stray away from their own back door to that of their neighbor's and make themselves a general nuisance. Now, as we have a new Chief of Police and a good dozen of policemen, I think they might find a litle time to make the people keeping hens live up to the by-law enforced last year, and make them keep same hens at home, as it is getting time to fix up flower beds and lawns. You don't want them all scratched up again.

If a man's dog runs at large he is made pay; or if a man breaks the by-law by riding his bike on the sidewalk he is brought up in court and fined, but it makes no difference what damage other people's hens do to your gardens, it's all right, there's nothing done about it.

I do hope Chief Newhall will see that the hen by-law is enforced and the nuisance got rid of.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this space, I remain,

T. BLODGETT.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In reading some of your editorials, I notice you appear to have a special delight in having a bang at the farmers. While we don't mind being criticised a little, just enough to keep our blood in circulation, we don't like to be knocked too much. We appear to get it more since the Farmer Government was formed, which you are pleased to call a class Government. Now, I don't see that the farmers are trying to be in a class by themselves any more than any other class of people. You say they called a convention and selected a candidate without the city people having any say in it, which they had a perfect right to do. How much say had the farmers in selecting the Grit or Tory candidates. None whatever. True, the farmers could go to their conventions, but what say had they? The men were picked on before the convention, and the farmers were not consulted either, the same as it has been for so years past. They select their man, and then send out their old call: Get in line, you old hayseed, you old clodhoppers, and support our man. But that don't work any longer. Some city people seem to think that about as high as a farmer's ambition rises is pushing a wheelbarrow around a cow stable; but if they will stop and look around, they will see some of the smartest men and women we have were raised on the farm. The small vote Mr. Campbell received in the city shows how much use they have for the farmers. Suppose the farmers took a notion to rent a warehouse at the station and ship everything they are now taking to the market, how long would it take ot close it up? But we don't want to do that—far from it. What we want is to get the city people and the farmers more together, have more confidence in each other. Let the city people take more pride in the farming country around them and let the farmers do the same with the city, and everything will go better. Mr. Burnham stated at Ottawa last winter that the farmers were a greedy, selfish class of people. Well, perhaps some are, not all. I have travelled a lot around among the farmers, and I never found one so greedy and selfish but was trying to make a little home of his own and have it made as cosy as he could, so that his wife and family were quite willing to live with him. Hoping from now on you will give the farmers a little more encouragement.

BEWARE OF BRONCHITIS

Bronchitis is generally caused by neglecting a cold, or exposure to wet and inclement weather. It begins with a tightness across the chest, difficulty in breathing, and a wheezing sound comes from the lungs. There is a raising of phlegm especially the first thing in the morning. This is at first white, but later becomes of a greenish or yellowish color and is occasionally streaked with blood.

On the first sign of bronchitis you should check it immediately by using Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup thereby prevent it becoming chronic and perhaps developing into some more serious lung trouble.

Mrs. Brice Culham, Sheffield, Ont., writes:—"In December, 1919, I was very sick with bronchitis, and had to stay in the house all winter. One day I saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised, so I got a small bottle which helped me very much; I then got a 60c. size, and it completely relieved me. I cannot praise "Dr. Wood's" enough for what it did. Two of my neighbours are now using it for colds."

Don't accept a substitute for Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, price 35c and 60c., manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ECZEMA You are not experimenting when you use Dr. Chase's Ointment for Eczema and Skin Irritations. It relieves at once and gradually heals the skin. Sample box Dr. Chase's Ointment free if you mention this paper and send 2c. stamp for postage. 60c. a box; all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

1,500 MOTOR LICENSES ARE ISSUED HERE

NEW RULES FOR CONTROL OF LIGHT FLARE—CHIEF NEWHALL HAS POOR OPINION OF NUMBER PLATES.

Over 1,500 licenses have been issued by H. P. Lindsay, local issuer of motor vehicle licenses, to date this year. This number corresponds closely with last year's total. Chief of Police Newhall said to-day that this season the licenses had been taken out more expeditiously than in the past, and not one report was made of a car using the 1920 number. He drew The Examiner's attention to instructions received to strictly enforce the following sections of the Motor Vehicles Act regarding non-glare lights:

Motor Vehicles Act.

"It shall be unlawful to carry on a motor vehicle any lighting device of over four candle power, equipped with a reflector, unless the same shall be so designed, deflected or arranged that no portion of the parallel beam of reflected light, when measured seventy-five feet or more ahead of the lamp, shall rise about forty-two inches from the level surface on which the vehicle stands.

"Any device for the elimination of glare, approved from time to time by the Minister of Public Works and Highways, when in proper adjustment and having a lamp of candle power not in excess of that authorized by the Minister for such device, shall be held to be in conformity with the next preceding sub-section."

Must Be No Glare.

Chief Newhall stated that it made no difference how the glare was overcome, whether by painting part of the glass or using a frosted bulb, so long as the light conformed to the Act.

Worst Markers Yet.

Asked by The Examiner if the new markers were easier to read than the old ones, the Chief declared they were the worst the department had ever issued. The orange and black blend together and the numbers are so small to be almost undistinguishable at a distance. The dash, aping the American plan, he believed an improvement. The difficulty of reading the narrow plates, he said, was accentuated because the tail light in most cases fails to illuminate all of the plate, due to its length. And unless motorists so arrange their tail light to illuminate all the number, prosecutions will follow.

Cover Up Numbers.

Many motorists, too, Chief Newhall said, disobey the Act in covering up the rear number with tires—sometimes thoughtlessly, sometimes thoughtfully—but in either case a contravention is committed. Neither by bumpers, spare tires or any other way should the number be hidden or partially concealed.

SELF-WINDING CLOCK.

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press).—A self-winding clock, corrected daily by wireless impulses from Washington, has been perfected by T. S. Casner, mechanical engineer. It will make possible the synchronising of timepieces all over the continent by wireless. The apparatus, which is capable of controlling any number of secondary clocks, is corrected by the one signal flashed at 12 noon daily.

Growing Old Gracefully

Are you growing old gracefully? Who wins in the race of life? Is it the man who is thin-blooded, weak, tired all the time?

An athlete trains for every race. A man is as strong as his blood and as old as his arteries. Make your blood redder, your health better by taking that old fashioned blood tonic—sold fifty years ago and still "good as gold"—namely, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Sold by all druggists, or send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package.

CHATHAM, ONT.—"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble, and I tried many remedies, but they seemed to be a failure—I seemed to be getting worse instead of better. One day I came into possession of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and took it, and my stomach trouble seemed completely cured. I have great faith in this medicine, and hope any sufferer that reads this will give the 'Discovery' a trial. Once tried, you will never be without it."—C. TITUS, JR., 28 Duke St.

SAYS PROHIBITION IS NOT A METHODIST MOVEMENT, BUT SUPPORTED EQUALLY BY ALL CHURCHES.

DISCOUNTS "BLUE LAWS"

TORONTO, April 1.—(Special to The Examiner.) — "How do you think the Methodist people will do in the referendum campaign," Dr. S. D. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist church, was asked. "I think exceedingly well and all the more so because a dead set appears to be made upon the Methodist church by the anti-prohibition forces for the purposes of defeating a favorable vote. The purpose is evidently to prejudice the case by making the public believe that the prevention of the importation of strong drink into the province is largely a Methodist movement. They wish to divide the allied forces and conquer. To this end they are circulating a falsehood as to the attitude of the Methodist church concerning such habits as tobacco, smoking and other comparatively minor matters in the hope of making the public believe that if liquor is banned other and more innocent indulgences will be attacked later and an era of blue laws brought upon the country."

'In the first place the Methodist church disclaims the honor of giving anything like sole leadership to the referendum campaign, the provincial leader is a Presbyterian minister, and all through the country, mingled with the Methodists, and taking a worthy part in the campaign, are adherents of all the churches."

BUY TWO-THIRDS CANADIAN BONDS.

$223,084,000 Worth to American Investors.

NEW YORK, April 1. (Canadian Press.) Of the total Canadian bond sales of $324,914,567 in 1920, more than two-thirds, or $223,084,000 were bought by investors in the United States says the National City Company, in a booklet just issued on the subject of "United States and Canadian Equivalent Bond Prices."

"Purchases of securities from Canada," says the booklet, not only provide the investor with an exceptionally high type of investment, but his interest return is greatly increased without implying any qualities detrimental to the security itself—that is the combinations of circumstances that makes such purchases possible is related in no way to any situation in Canada which would reflect adversely on the quality of the bond purchased. It is simply due to the abnormal conditions of international trade still remaining as one of the by-products of the war, and it will disapear just as soon as normal times again appear."

MANUFACTURERS AND MERCHANTS DEMAND REPEAL AND TAX REFORM.

TORONTO, April 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Resolutions regarding business and revenue taxation by the government were drawn up yesterday afternoon by the Resolutions committee of the manufacturers and retail merchants' convention at the Prince George hotel. These resolutions were presented to the Assembly and were endorsed with slight opposition. The first resolution was that the business profits tax should not be re-enacted. The second was that the income war tax be repealed, the third that the present excise tax on confectionery, etc., be abolished, while the fourth and last was that the present sales tax be adjusted so as to provide additional revenue needed by the Dominion government. These were unanimously carried, although at first there was some discussion as to the interpretation to be put on certain points.

TONS OF CHEMICAL AND ORE PRODUCE GRAM OF RADIUM.

United States Producing 90 Per Cent. of World's Supply — What Mrs. Currie Will See at Pittsburg.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The production of radium on the largest scale in the world, at Pittsburgh, will be one of the sights shown to Mme. Marie Curie of Paris, the famous scientist who discovered the wonder-element, when she makes her first visit to America next May as the guest of leading American women, who will present her with one gram of radium worth $120,000.

Leads in Production.

A fact not generally known is that the United Staes is now producing more than 90 per cent. of the whole world's radium, the former small European production having fallen to negligible proportions. The bulk of the American output originates from the vast deposits in the wildernesses of Colorado and Utah of "carnotite" ore, which is shipped via pack-mules, wagon freighters, motor trucks and railroads to Pittsburgh, where it is reduced and treated by complicated and little known processes to produce the fabulously-valuable radium salts.

The ore is shipped to Pittsburg by hundred tons and the finished product of radium is delivered by mail.

What a Gram Means.

Mme. Curie will see in Pittsburgh at the plant of the Standard Chemical Company 500 tons of "carnotie" ore and 1,500 tons additional of chemicals and coal used to produce the single gram of radium (about a thimbleful or one-twenty-eighth of an ounce)—that she will be presented with by American admirers. Six months' work is required from the mining of the "carnotite" ore until the delivery of the pure radium, and the single gram for Mme. Curie represents nearly a month's output of radium by the greatest of radium-producing plants at Pittsburgh.

A western trip that will take Mme. Curie to Colorado, where within an area of about 400 square miles engineers estimate there is enough "carnotite" ore to produce radium to meet the world's increasing uses for years to come, is scheduled on the tentative itinerary of the distinguished woman scientist, who expressed the wish to visit the Grand Canyon as well as Pittsburgh. The coming of Mme. Curie is the result of a visit to her in Paris last summer of Mrs. William Brown Meloney, editor of "The Delineator," who found that the discoverer the priceless boon to humanity not only had never profited thereby, but that she was supporting herself by the small income of a scientific instructor at the Sorbonne University and did not herself own a bit of the precious radium that she gave the world.

Of Would Value.

When asked what she would choose if the whole world were laid at her feet, Mme. Curie answered: "Only this; enough radium to carry on my work here at the Institute. I should like to have a gramme of radium which would be not for hospital use or any other use than experimentation."

American women quickly organized to arrange for the gift; prominent Americans responded and subscriptions were invited to the "Mme. Marie Curie Radium Fund," of which the Equitable Trust Company in New York is the depository. America's most promiitent women, distinguished scientists and leading organizations will join in paying honor to Mme. Curie, who will be accompanied by her elder daughter, Irene, also a scientist.

American Methods.

At Pittsburgh special preparations will be made to demonstrate the latest American methods by which the bulk of radium is being added to the world's supply. The entire world's annual production of radium is about one ounce, or 28 grams, of which the Pittsburgh plant produces 18 grams. The world's total supply of radium produced since its discovery by Mme. Curie in 1898 up to the close of 1920, is estimated at 140 grams, or about five ounces, of which the Standard Chemical Company plant at Pittsburgh has contributed 70 grams.

Inasmuch as radium is practically indestructible and non-perishable, losing but one-half of its activity in 1700 years, all production adds to the world's permanent supply, and though its successful use in treatment of cancer and other malignant diseases has tremndously increased the demand, its wide distribution in recent years and discovery and development of the great ore tracts of the West by persistent search and toil, together with increased capacity of the chemical laboratories, assure ample supplies.

The rays of radium are the most powerful known and it is 200,000 times more valuable than pure gold.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Mixed Sulphur With It to Restore Colour, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn grey, streaked, and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked, or grey. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all grey hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft, and luxuriant.

Perhaps the heaviest leading lady in pictures is Grace Marvin. She weighs 250 pounds and is proudly claimed by the comedians, Lyon and Moran.

THE REAL AMERICAN ATTITUDE IS REVEALED

Mr. E. V. Stevenson, formerly curate in St. John's Church here, now in New York, writing to his friend, Mr. H. Rush, encloses the following poem and editorial from an American paper, as serving to show the friendly attitude of American people and then protest against the hostile and seditious actions of a violent sections against the Allies.

The editorial is as follows:

A Patriotic Protest.

"The veterans who were with Pershing and Galbraith and Donovan at the great patriotic rally in Madison Square Garden last Friday will associate the fervor and thrill of the demonstration with the sacrifices and achievements of the American Army. An inspiring meeting it was, with the service men packed to the roof; the disabled, a thousand of them, honored by their comrades as they moved to their places; the whole assemblage rising with bowed heads as the mothers of the dead appeared. The strains of 'The Star Spangled Banner' awoke the echoes of the building which has known so many mass meetings, but none that has made a stronger appeal to the national spirit.

It was a great protest against the hostile and seditious proceedings of those who had assembled in the same place three weeks before in an attempt to alienate America from France. That was an amazing performance, but loyal Americans have the satisfaction of knowing that it provoked a revival of the patriotic zeal which possessed the United States all through the war. German mentality undergoes no change. Because the Treaty of Versailles had not been ratified by the Senate, and because the American people had changed their Government, the German mind, abroad and here, misconstrued events and concluded that the spirit which sent America into the war had vanished and that the time had come to create a public opinion which would aid Germany to escape in great measure her just penalties. The pro-German agents and their principals know better now. They can read the temper of the American people in the speeches made at the American Legion meeting and in the spontaneous acclaim with which they were received, in the patriotic outbursts from the great audience, in the vigorous resolutions adopted and in the tumultuous enthusiasm of the overflow meetings in the streets."

The poem is as follows:

A Drinking Song.

Germany, lift up the chalice—drink
the bitter potion down!
And, while drinking it, remember that its brewing was your own!

Blood and iron—so you brewed it
—flavored it with blood and sweat—
Though you brewed it for another,
your own lips shall drain it yet!

Quaff the cup of reparation to its dregs—aye! do not shrink!
Drink your years of preparation—to your dream of empire drink!

Drink the flower of earth's young manhood, lying low within the grave,
While above them blow the blossoms of the lands they died to save!

Drink the ruined towns and cities, tortured towers, shattered
shrines,
Silent bells of old cathedrals, wasted forests, flooded mines!

Drink the martyred babes and mothers, prisoned priests and ravished nuns,
Whose one crime was to be living in the pathway of the Huns!

Toast the little maiden mothers—drink the dead beneath the sea!
And the stately ships that bore them,
sunk in shameless perfidy!

"Ah!" you say, "it is too bitter"— and you turn your head away!
Bitter?—Aye! but so you brewed it,
when 'twas lifted to "The Day"!

Drink your cup of reparation—drink,
now, to another day!
Night has passed, with all the horrors that you dreamed—come,
wake and pay!

CHARGE MURDER OF NEGROES BY WEALTHY PLANTER

Amazing Story of Virtual Slavery—Modern Simon Legree Confesses.

11 BODIES FOUND.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 1st. — Searching parties armed with picks and spades, and with grappling hooks, hunted through the underbush of John Williams' plantation today, and plumbed the muddy depths of the Alcovy and Yellow Rivers.

They were seeking further evidence against Williams, wealthy planter, who is held on a charge of murdering negroes who tried to escape from the virtual slavery in which they were held on his farm.

Eleven corpses already have been brought to light. Federal and State officials joined in the prosecution following the confession of Clyde Manning, who said he, as Williams' "Simnton Legree" had assisted in slaying several negroes. Manning said he killed them at Williams' command, when they tried to give the Jasper County officials information about the alleged peonage on Williams' "murder plantation."

The latest bodies discovered were found in the Alcovy River, chained to rocks. Their heads had been crushed. It is alleged that some of the negroes were forced to dig their own graves. The total corresponds with the number stated in the confession of Clyde Manning, who told the authorities that he had aided Williams in the murders. He admitted that he had killed five of the men himself by hitting them in the head with an axe. The bodies were found at the places indicated in the confession. Two of them are said to have dug their own graves. One report is to the effect that twenty-one bodies are yet concealed.

Sweeping Inquiry.

Stirred by the revelations the authorities have turned the matter over to the Grand Jury, which meets here this week, and there is a determination to make a sweeping inquiry into the whole peonage question. Governor Dorsey has been asked to place the matter in charge of the Attorney-General.

The bodies of four negroes buried on the Williams plantation and two buried on the Campbell place, also operated by Williams, were disinterred yesterday by a gang of five negro convicts, and all were placed in separate coffins provided by Jasper County. They were later reburied in the Pauper Cemetery near here. All the negroes wore shoes that were soled with automobile casings, the same as in the case of the three negroes found in the Yellow River two weeks ago. The automobile casing soles appear, in the opinion of county officials, to have been a sort of mark of identification used by Williams to keep tab of his negro employes.

Thrown in River Alive.

The bodies found in the Alcovy River were those of a man known as "Little Bit" and John Brown. They were chained together and weighted down with sacks of rock and iron attached to their heads and feet. Efforts to recover these bodies previously failed, because the drag hooks broke. The coroner's jury expressed the opinion that both these negroes were thrown into the river alive. The two bodies were within four feet of the point where the body of Charley Chisholm was found on Saturday. Charley was a "trusty" on the Williams plantation, according to Manning.

Information of a startling nature was disclosed before Coroner Thad Cheeks and his jury at the inquest over the eight bodies found in this county. It has intensified the feeling against Williams, but there was nothing brought out in the investigation that implicates the three sons of Williams in the killings; hence the warrants for their arrest were returned to the Governor's office in Atlanta. Williams now is in jail pending the result of the investigation.

Williams worked 150 plows, planted 4,000 acres of land, and was one of the most prosperous men in the county.

At the inquest held over eight of the bodies a verdict was returned declaring the negroes came to their death at the hands of Manning and naming Williams as an accessory.

The Coroner's jury conducted the inquest over John Williams, same name as the owner, whose grave it is alleged was dug by himself. The jury was informed that the negro was sent to a pasture in a ravine to dig a post hole. After digging the hole Manning's confession is said to show that he struck Williams over the head with an axe, pushed the body into the hole and covered it up.

Johnny Green was number two. He was sent to the same pasture to bring sows back to the stable. Manning is said to have confessed that he killed Green in the same way, but had to dig the grave.

William Givens was referred to as number three. He was said to have been killed on his way to a country store, in the same ravine, but Charley Chisholm was named as the negro who killed Givens.

Fletcher Smith, body No. four, was sent to dig a well and when he had dug deep enough to receive his body, Manning's confession, as repeated to the jury, showed he killed him with an axe and buried him in the hole.

In case number five, known as "Big John," Manning was held responsible. In the cases of numbers seven and eight, "Little Bit" and John Brown, the jury held that the negroes, Manning and Chisholm, and John Williams, the plantation owner, were responsible.

The verdict for number six, Charley Chisholm, read: "We, the jury, find that Charley Chisholm met his death at the hands of Clyde Manning and John S. Williams."

Around March 1, two Department of Justice agents came to Jasper County to investigate alleged peonage practices on the Williams plantation.

They called on Williams, among others, but it is said, that Williams gave a satisfactory explanation of his methods.

Kingdom of Torture.

The murder plantation was Williams' kingdom of torture. Manning declared in his confession. He described in a monotonous tone, the details of Williams' rule of horror over his slaves: How Williams had whipped them with black snakes, starved and abused them and yet held the iron hand over them because they were afraid to "squeal." Discovery of the alleged horror rule of Williams was only an accident, Manning said. If the bodies had not been discovered by outside parties Williams' uncanny power over his black slaves would never have been broken. Manning said they even feared to speak in Williams' presence.

Williams led him to assist in the murders. He described how Williams had forced him to carry out them down to the river, and after chaining them carefully to huge rocks; roll them into the muddy the bodies of dead negroes; drag them down to the river, and after chaining them carefully to huge rocks, roll them into the muddy streams. He said he was forced to kill some of them before Williams who, he said, gloated in their suffering.

Williams' power was so absolute, he declared, that even negroes of the neighborhood outside Williams' reign, who had heard of alleged cruelties and murders on the plantation, feared to talk of the affairs except in a whisper.

HOW TO DISMANTLE ENGINE OF MOTOR CAR

Be Sure to See All Parts Put Back in Proper Places.

In order to look over the parts of an engine and to restore the worn or defective components it is necessary to take the engine entirely apart, as it is only when the power plant is thoroughly dismantled that the parts can be inspected or measured to determine defects or wear. If one is not familiar with the engine to be inspected, even though the work is done by a repair man of experience, it will be found of value to take certain precautions when dismantling the engine in order to insure that all parts will be replaced in the same position they occupied before removal. There are a number of ways of identifying the parts one of the simplest and surest being to mark them with steel numbers or letters or with a series of centre punch marks in order to retain the proper relation when reassembling. This is of special importance in connection with dismantling multiple cylinder engines, as it is vital that pistons, piston rings, connecting rods, valves and other cylinder parts be always replaced in the same cylinder from which they were removed, because it is uncommon to find equal depreciation in all cylinders.

Some repair men use small shipping tags to identify the pieces. This can be criticized because the tags may become detached and lost and the identity of the piece mistaken. All parts should be thoroughly cleaned with gasoline or in the potash kettle as removed, and wiped clean and dry. This is necessary to show wear which will be evidenced by easily identified indications in cases where the machine has been used for a time, but in others, the deterioration can only be detected by delicate measuring instruments.

The Home Circle Column

There is nothing so divine as the rapt expression often seen on a child's face; for instance, on that of a little cherub singing zealously in Sunday school: "Will there be any stars in my crown?" Yet two times out of three this child is wondering: "Will there be any ice cream for dinner?" or "Will Willie come over to play this afternoon?" There is no consciousness of irreverence in the child's mind. It is just that his attention flits here and there. Hence there is no guile in his angelic expression.

This is just the difference between innocence assumed and unassuming. A man who commits a wrong unintentionally is virtually innocent. Somehow, there is never an air of guile about such a man. But there are other tricky men, skillfully concealing their crimes, and brazening it out, although everyone know them for what they are—whose guilty expression betrays them. As far as the law is concerned, there is no distinction made between these two men when their guilt is up for trial. Although the law has a long arm, it is not always a just arm.

There may be a great deal of talk about the man higher up, but he hasn't half the following of the woman higher up. She arouses wide publicity every time she makes a drive—in a new limousine. When she lectures on the second maid, or Parisian models, everyone votes unanimously without the trouble of amendment. Her philanthropics are so well directed that the proceeds actually exceed the expenses of the campaign, often by a small margin, it is true. This lady does not have to wait for the fame of a belated marble memorial. Her supporters claim the tribute of making her their living model, in hope that they may outstrip her some day. Oh, well, the man higher up is often a scoundrel. What about the woman?

Many of us who live in a small town or even a moderate sized city, are straining every nerve to acquire the latest in fashions, to attend everything of prominence, to cultivate all who are in the public eye, for fear you may be accused of provincialism. If that's the case you are well on the way toward attaining it. Provincialism is not based on a lack of these things, though it often includes that. The term embraces a lack of culture formed by an interest to do or a capacity to understand worth-while things.

The really big people dress in a natural way, which emphasizes their individuality, often very charming. It may be that they realize that we can not all be perfect 36's. They permit themselves to attend to only as many things as they can digest at a time. They do not care to become mere sieves through which everything slips with equal ease. Instead they build up a background which first catches, and then sifts each new thing. As to cultivating people, only those are accepted on intimate terms who are worth knowing. It may be easier for some to know that this practise is fashionably exclusive also. Suppose you take stock of these qualities for just a minute, no matter where you live, and see just how provincial you are.

Speed, more speed! "Step on the juice,—turn on the jazz—let 'er fly," may be unrefined slang expressions of the day, but they furnish an accurate description of the tempo of modern life. We live in much the same way that some automobiles are driven. When a beautiful car is slipping along a smooth road faster and faster, it's a very different thing from that same car bouncing and hurtling over a sudden rough stretch. The hard period of life slips upon us as unexpectedly as that.

Then, too, continuous traveling of bad roads at high speed so abuses a car that it can not travel any better over a smooth road. Thus if you, yourself, do not slow down cautiously when the occasion demands, you will be compelled to bump uncontrollably through that period of your life demanding rest. The engine, or your will power, may be alright, but the wracked body cannot respond.

* * *

So many people make the dreadful mistake of never stopping to enjoy life until it is too late. A very fortunate few have acquired the knack of thoroughly enjoying each day as it comes of being interested in the people they meet and of finding dozens of amusing incidents every day. These are the people who never grow old. But most of us lack the ability to feel interested sufficiently in our fellow beings to gain this trait. A stranger is a stranger like dozens of other strangers to us; a clerk is a clerk; school schildren are school children. "We plod along each day doing the things we did the day before, seeing the same people and thinking that everything is the same. It behooves such people to completely change their surroundings once in a while so that they really may see entirely new objects and people, and get their minds out of that deadly groove. Every one is of us has some trip we have been planning to take before we amble off this earthly coil, but how few of us take it. We wait from year to year, thinking that perhaps next year we can better afford it, and we never get there at all. Take your time and your money now and go. When you come back you can make it all over again twice as fast with a mind and body refreshed and eager. Do it now.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind incombustible ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomainelike poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before breakfast each morning drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the bowels the previous day's poisons and toxins, and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

PAY MEMBERS BRITISH HOUSE COMMONS GET.

Four Hundred Pounds a Year Salary—No Free Travelling.

LONDON, March 24—(Canadian Press)—Some interesting reading is furnished in the report of the Committee which has been enquiring into the expenses of members of the British House of Commons. Members receive at present £400 a year as salary, or sessional allowance, and there is no relief at present in the way of free travelling allowance or free postage. The Committee agree that if £400 was necessary in 1914, it is inadequate today, but they do not recommend at present any alteration in the figure, although they advocate the grant of free postage, and free first-class travel to members' constituencies.

Mr. Dan. Irving, Socialist M. P., for Burnley, told the Committee that out of his £400 he pays £105 for a third-class railway pass.

"I cannot afford to give up my home," he explained. "An M.P's. situation is very precarious; it may last some years, it may not last even months—you never know. Therefore, I have to keep two homes. It is not that I elect to keep two homes going, it is because I must."

His home at Burnley, he said, costs £3 a week, and in London it costs him about 55s or 56s a week for single-room lodging, food, postages.

"Those items alone," he proceeded, "bring me up to £370 a year. That does not give me a penny piece for clothing, either for myself or my wife."

Mr. W. Adamson, M. P. (until recently chairman of the Labour party), expressed the opinion that the salary should be £800 in addition to an open railway pass. His first-class railway pass, he said, cost him £186 a year, and that did not provide for extras. If he used a sleeper, for instance, it would cost him another £2 a week.

There were also hotel expenses, and keeping those down to bedrock figures it meant another £160. Postage he put at £15 a year. The figures totalled £376. Mr. Adamson proceeded:

To a working man with no knowledge of the way money goes when living in London and travelling about the country, as a Member of Parliament has to do, £400 a year may seem a large sum; but, when he begins to try and divide that up, he very quickly realizes where he is.

It is currently reported that "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" cost a cool million. Just $250,000 per horse.

FROM SCHOOL TEACHER TO HEAD OF BIG BRITISH INDUSTRY IN ENGLAND

"HARRY" SMITH, OF CAMPBELLFORD, AFTER SERVICE WITH ROYAL FLYING CORPS, CLIMBS TO FRONT RANK IN BUSINESS WORLD.

It is not such a very far cry from the plain pine desk of a prairie school teacher to the solid mahogany barricade of the business mogul; from a dental student, whose future appeared to be mapped out as staidly as a church sexton's; or from earnings of but a few hundred dollars a year to an income of four figures, judging by the rapid climb in the English business world of J. Harry Smith, of Campbellford. This one-time country school teacher and dental student is now General Manager of Road Guides, Ltd., a strong English company with headquarters in old London—and he is only yet in his twenties. Some folks say he has been lucky, others concede he was always a "go-getter," and that perserverance and steadfastness of purpose, coupled up with a more-than-ordinary intelligence, explains his success.

Born in Deseronto.

Everyone in Campbellford knows the subject of this sketch as "Harry" Smith. His sisters, in their cosy sitting-room in Campbellford, confided to The Examiner that he was Christened "John Henry," but no one ever called him that. J. H. Smith claims nativity in Deseronto, about the year 1893 or 94, and he is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Smith, now of Campbellford. The family finally settled in this pretty little town on the Trent River, and here Harry received his education, following it up with a course in Peterborough's Normal School some ten years ago. Later we find him teaching school in the West, and it was here he met the four men who have made his present position possible—Ernst Josef, President of the National Mileometer Co. of Detroit, his two brothers and father—all of whom took a liking to the Canadian boy, and when he went to study science and dentistry in the university at Ann Harbor, Mich., their interest in him did not slacken. Harry assisted these gentlemen in perfecting their mileometer device, which is, from description, a map in the form of a tape unrolling from one spool to another fixed on the instrument board of a car, in a glass dial, in full view of the driver, and showing in a 4 inch space features of the highway being travelled. The position of the car is indicated on the glass dial, and the road, with symbols for hills, culverts, bad turns and so on, shown for a mile in advance.

Mr. Harry Smith was greatly interested in this guide for motorists and he clearly saw its possibilities.

In Royal Flying Corps.

The drums of war were sounding, however, and in 1916, giving up his studies, he enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps, going overseas, where he saw almost continuous service in France and England as pilot until the armistice was signed. During his air fighting he "bagged" no less than nine German airplanes and one balloon, and the squadron to which he was attached had the distinction of bringing down "Reichtoffen," the famous German ace who displayed a skill and daring that was the admiratoin and envy of friend and foe alike.

Returns Home.

Aviator Smith served as instructor in England after the armistice, returning home in July, 1919, when he brought home many splendid water-colour paintings (his own work while in hospital) of air battles and scenes from above the labyrinth of trenches. These paintings show considerable artistic skill and are exhibited with pardonable pride by Mrs. J. M. Smith to visitors.

Sent to England.

After he had only been home a week, the Josef Brothers, whose business had been growing during the war, conferred with Harry Smith on the prospects in the British market, into which he had been looking. On the strength of a most optimistic report, Ernest Josef and Smith went to England within a month of the latter's return home.

Appointed Manager.

In England, British capital became interested in the mileometer. Therefore, abandoning their original scheme or organizing a company in the Old Land, patent rights in England for the American mileometer were sold to the British Motor Trading Co., a large concern, which organized a subsidiary company to confine its attention solely to the device known as Road Guides, Ltd. Mr. Smith was appointed General Manager of the company, and to him largely fell the tack of introto him largely fell the task of introvative England.

Success Greets Company.

Judging by the favourable report of the mileometer in "The King's Highway," an English motor journal, business has doubled and treblal scheme of organizing a company on J. Harry Smith in London. Under his personal supervision, roads have been mapped and prepared on interchangeable tapes of the principal routes in England and Wales, the French battle area, as well as in Germany; and the mileometer has been installed on thousands of cars, including those of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, his cousin, the Earl of Meding, Queen Alexandria, Hon. Winston Churchill, and other famous figures in England. Then Mr. Smith has been appointed to map and tape all the routes for the Royal family.

His Father Ill.

One year ago Mr. Harry Smith was united in marriage to to Miss Muriel Davis, daughter of the Chairman of his company, and when he returns to Campbellford in the near future, his wife will accompany him.

His father has been in failing health for some time past, and the son is hastening home as soon as possible; in fact, he may be crossing the Atlantic even now.

LEADING AUTHORITIES NOW SHOW JUST WHAT TANLAC REALLY IS

Physiological Action of Principal Ingredients of Celebrated Medicine On the Human System Is Explained.

SUPREMACY CLAIMS WELL SUPPORTED

Many of the Medicinal Elements Have Been Known and Used Since Civilization First Began

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results throughout this country and Canada, is composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to science. The formula is purely ethical and complies with all National and State Pure Food and Drug Laws. Altogether, there are ten ingredients in Tanlac, each of which is of recognized therapeutic value.

Many of these ingredients have been individually known and used since civilization first began, and some of them have been used and prescribed by leading physicians everywhere, but until they were brought together in proper proportion and association, as in the Tanlac formula, humanity had not heretofore realized their full value and effect.

In referring to one of the more important ingredients of Tanlac, the Encyclopedia Britannica says: "It has been the source of the most valuable tonic medicines that have ever been discovered." In referring to others of the general tonic drugs contained in Tanlac, the 13th Edition of Potter's Therapeutics, a standard medical text book, states that "They impart general tone and strength to the entire system, including all organs and tissues."

This same well-known authority, in describing the physiological action of still another of the ingredients of Tanlac, which is of value in treating what is commonly known as "a run-down condition," uses the following expression: "It is highly esteemed in loss of appetite during convalescence from acute diseases."

There are certain other elements in Tanlac which, because of their influence upon the appetite, digestion, assimilation, and elimination, improve the nutrition and vital activity of the tissues and more important organs of the body, and produce that general tonicity which is called Health.

The United States Dispensatory makes the following comment regarding another ingredient: 'It may be used in all cases of pure debility of the digestive organs or where a general tonic impression is required. Dyspepsia, atonic gout, hysteria and intermittent fever are among the many affections in which it has proven useful."

There are certain other ingredients described in the Dispensatory and in other standard medical text books as having a beneficial action upon the organs of secretion, whose proper functioning results in the purification of the blood streams passing through them. In this manner objectionable and poisonous ingredients of the blood are removed and the entire system invigorated and vitalized.

Tanlac was designed primarily for the correction of disorders of the stomach, liver, and bowels. At the same time, however, it is a powerful reconstructive tonic and body builder, for it naturally follows that any medicine that brings about proper assimilation of the food and a thorough elimination of the waste products must, therefore, have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system.

Although Tanlac's claims for supremacy are abundantly supported by the worlds leading authorities, it is the people themselves who have really made Tanlac what it is. Millions upon millions have used it with gratifying results, and have told other millions what it has done for them. That is why Tanlac has become the real sensation of the drug trade in this country and Canada, and that is also why it is having the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world to-day.

GIVEN UP FOR DEAD SOLDIER TURNS UP.

Home in Vancouver — Found in Scotland Suffering From Lapse of Memory.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 30.—The intensely dramatic and moving story of Sergt. Alfred McBay, a popular member of the Western Irish Battalion, who, buried only in the tomb of his own lost memory instead of under the sod of France, and mourned as last for the last three and three-quarter years, may perhaps shortly be back in Vancouver to receive from his wide circle of friends a welcome home such as falls to the lot of a few to experience has aroused general interest.

Last seen on April 9, 1916, by his comrades in the course of the great Vimy Ridge struggle administering aid to a wounded officer, Sergt. McBay was, in due course, reported to the War Office as killed in action on that date, and a certificate of death to that effect, together with his war medal and other effects, is in the possession of his widowed mother, and probate of his will in the settlement of some Vancouver property was duly granted by the Vancouver courts.

Now, according to a letter from his overjoyed mother to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McBay, of 1912 Second avenue west, he who was "dead" isalive, found only ten miles away from his birthplace, Johnshaven, Scotland, in the famous mental institution of Sunnyside, Montrose.

"The Lord has spared my son to me," writes the thankful mother, "and I am wearying every hour of the day to see him. He has been very bad with his memory, and also very run down in body, but is improving every day. It has been marvellous what the short time at Sunnyside has done. We are getting him home. It hardly seems true. How proud many mothers would have been to share my feelings, and I thank God for His goodness. I couldn't be convinced for a long time, thinking it impossible."

The cause of Sergt. McBay's loss of memory—whether shell shock or otherwise—has not yet been revealed.

MUTILATED TREES IN JACKSON PARK DUMBLY PROTEST

WILLOWS HACKED AND TORN TO PROVIDE A TOUCH OF SPRING FOR HOMES OF FEW THOUGHTLESS PERSONS.

It is an understandable and perhaps an excusable impulse that prompts residents of the city who ramble along the county roads in the first of spring to break off the willow trees burgeoning with their silver grey "pussies." Behind that act is the desire of catching and keeping something of the elusive spirit of the season and to bring it into our homes. But when the trees selected for sacrifice are the willows that skirt the lake in Jackson Park, where every citizen should enter with feelings of proprietorship and of gratitude that this place of beauty has been spared to them, surely it calls for a protest against the hacking jacknife and the too ready despoiling hands. Thoughtlessness and not vandalism is the kindest explanation them up are stripped of that much trees that mark the trail of some persons who have already enjoyed the expansive quiet and the soothing spirit of nature that abides in the last remnant of wild wood that has been vouchsafed for Peterborough through the generosity of the late Charlotte Nicholls. The presence of these early visitors presumes a love for the park, and yet the destruction they have left behind it strangely at variance with the disposition of those who truly appreciate it.

The pussy willows make seasonable and decorative captives for a living-room jardiniere, but they soon wither and die and are cast out of the house. But the trees that gave them up are stripepd of that much foliage for the all too brief summer months and the colorful autumn when the first frost gilds the leaves for the woodland pageant of October. Some times it seems that the trustees of Jackson Park are too lenient in permitting the public free access to its walks and shade. Discrimination would be difficult, but the sight of jagged stumps of branches ruthlessly torn and broken warrants some restrictions upon admission. There is no intention in these comments to exaggerate the damage that was recently observed. Fortunately, it is comparatively slight, but the contention is that in such a public place where the people should feel that they are in a sense trustees and custodians, there should be no signs of destructiveness whatever. And if boys must throw stones and play that old game of "duck on the rock," let them betake themselves to one of the nearby fields. If every person chose to gather willow branches and early flowers in Jackson Park, and were permitted to do, it would soon become a desolate place. The late Sergeant Joyce Kilmer's poem entitled "Trees" should be pondered by those who visit public parks. The last lines are particularly demonstrative to the thoughtless or the wanton despoilers:

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

OUTFLOW AND INFLOW

SALE GOODS LEAVING AND NEW GOODS ARRIVING IN ENDLESS VALUE AT CHESLER'S.

As an illustration of how to wipe out a stock of goods, Chesler's sale in the Elliot Store has been phenomenal. No stock could stand such a steady stream of outflow and not be very rapidly diminished. However Mr. Chesler has visited Canada's greatest style centres and stocked up with ladies' ready to wear in suits, coats, dresses, skirts, waists, shoes, etc, that are the latest word in excellence of material, beauty of design and genuine excess value, and these beautiful lines are now on display and priced on an equally low basis at the sale prices on the former Elliot stock A visit to the store will be an eye-opener as to where the big bargains are.

EXPORTS CANADIAN WHEAT AND FLOUR TO UNITED STATES.

Thirty-Nine Million Bushels Sent Across the Line in Five Months.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(Canadian Press.) —Net imports of wheat and flour into the United States from Canada between September 1, 1920, and February 12, 1921, amounted to 39,000,000 bushels, which was added to domestic supply of 950,000,000, according to the U. S. Bureau of Markets.

The bureau says that in the above period 69,000,000 bushels came into this country, 30,000,000 of which were in bond for export and were cleared from U.S. ports.

About 3,000,000 bushels came in form of flour, 57,000,000 bushels by water before closing of navigation, and 9,000,000 by rail to Duluth and Minneapolis.

No returns are made by U. S. customs officers of Canadian wheat entering this country in bond, it being regarded as 'in transit" for clearance at the seaports . But every office keeps a record of such wheat, and when cleared, returns are made. Wheat not in bond is reported as imported.

Between Sept. 1, 1920, and Feb. 12, 1921, customs offices reported 36,000,000 buhels of wheat and 3,000,000 as flour imported. In same period Canada reported 69,000,000 bushels exported to the United States. The U.S. custom of not reporting the "in transit" wheat in bond accounts for the discrepancy.

Shall He Have A College Course?

THE question is often debated: — Is it worth while for the young man to spend four years in college? Does the expense of a university training pay?

Statistics show that while only two per cent. of the people of America are educated at college, no less than seventy per cent. of the leaders of the nation in politics, commerce and the church come from that little two per cent. of the people—"the college-trained group".

We all know that a college education is necessary for the adequate training of engineers, chemists, clergymen, actuaries and astronomers, but the evidence is also overwhelming in proving that the college-trained man wins in every other line of business endeavor.

Shall your boy become one of the leaders?

The answer depends very largely on his education.

He cannot get that vital college training without your help and encouragement.

"Are you going to send me to College?"

To make sure that the boy will obtain a college education, take out a policy of insurance on father's life that will mature at the age when the son will be ready to enter college. It is not hard to save the money for the college course in installments spread over ten to fifteen years.

There are Ten Year and Fifteen Year Mutual Life Policies that are ideal for this purpose. Ask the Mutual Life Agent about them.

PLENTY ROOM ON SEAS FOR BOTH NATIONS.

No Reason For Friction Between U.S. and Britain.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Sir Ernest Raeburn, formerly Director General of the British ministry of shipping in the United States, who has returned, recently, to the Old Country, sees no reason for friction between the British and U. S. shipping interests.

In an interview given to the Wall Street Journal before he sailed on the Olympic, Sir Ernest said there was plenty of room on the seas for the ships of both nations and when shipping conditions improved there would be business enough for all. "Just now we are in a cycle of bad trade," he said. "It would not be easy to tell how long the period of depression will last, but it will end some time.

"The friendly relations between the British Ministry of Shipping and the United States' Shipping Board and other American official bodies during the past year augurs well for the future," Sir Ernest continued. "Rivalry will exist between the private shipping concerns of both nations, but rivalry is a good thing for shipping if both sides play fair."

A new musical production, the scenes of which will be placed on the deck of an ocean steamship, will be opened in New York this spring by A. L. Erlanger, Fred Jackson has written the book.

Every member of the Christie organization was born in the United States except the Christies themselves. They saw the light of day in London, Ont.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

A THREE MILL ROADWORK TAX

TO BE LEVIED ON SOUTHERN TOWNSHIPS AND VILLAGES WHICH HAVE ADOPTED THE SCHEME HERE.

BUILDING DISCUSSED

A special rate of three mills to meet the cost of this year's road work will be levied on the southern townships and villages which have adopted the scheme in Peterborough county. This rate was fixed at a meeting of the Roads committee of the County Council on Thursday afternoon. Reeve Nicholls, of Smith, presided, and the other members present were: Reeves Eason, McIntosh, J. Scott of Asphodel, Coughlin, Holland, and Deputies Wilson, Lawrie and Middleton.

John McVicar, district engineer of county roads, discussed the local plans with the committee and will take back to the department several suggestions that were proposed during an informal conference prior to the meeting. Reeve Coughlin of Douro, wishes to have the river road from the city to Nassau included in the system, and a motion embodying this request was adopted.

Wages For Road Work.

The wage scale for county road work this season offers 30c. an hour to labourers, 60c. to teamsters and $4 a day for overseers. According to the opinions expressed yesterday the reeves expect no difficulty in securing on this basis all the labour they require.

The question as to whether the municipalities should buy tractors was debated at considerable length. Duncan MacFarlane, the county's road superintendent, said he was offering $22.50 a day for the rental of one now in use. This rate covered all supplies and incidental wages of the drivers. He believed he could obtain at least three machines.

Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr. Eason, that the purchase of tractors be left to the individual reeves and Mr. MacFarlane. This means that if any township wants a tractor it will have to buy it out of its appropriation raised by the three mill levy. It will be for the sole use of that township, which shall own it.

Mr. Wilson mentioned one machine, second hand but almost new, which could be bought for about $1,000. Mr. Scott moved that no tractors be bought this year, but he withdrew it when Mr. Wilson proposed that each municipality be allowed to decide its own course of action.

Hold Up 200 Emigrants For America.

CHERBOURG, France, March 31 —The detection by the American Consul here of false passports vised for the United States has resulted in the stopping thus for of 200 intended emigrants and has put the police on the trail of what is believed to be a well-organized agency, catering chiefly to Greeks, for the supply of bogus vises.

The French authorities have begun a number of prosecutions as a result of the discoveries

TAKES BULLET OUT OF BRAIN

SURGEON, HARDLY ABLE TO STAND, REMOVES BULLET BELIEVED TO HAVE CAUSED CRIMINAL TENDENCIES.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Dr William L. Chapman, of 552 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn, made an incision in the skull of Roman Leondoski in the hospital in Sing-Sing Prison yesterday afternoon, and then, with his forefinger, he loosened from the brain tissue a bullet, flattened and jagged, that had been inside the man's head for almost four years, and moved it along the roof of the skull and out through the opening made by the surgeon's knife.

It is too early to tell if the operation was a complete success, but Dr. Chapman and the surgeons wso assisted him believe it was. If so, it is expected that suicidal and homicidal tendencies from which Leondowski has been suffering will be removed, and the man will be released from prison after being confined for almost two years after the expiration of his sentence.

Dr. Chapman himself has been ill for some time, and under ordinary circumstances would not have performed the operation. But he had been so interested in the case and the possibilities involved that although he was not able to stand, he went to Sing-Sing and removed the bullet.

CENTENARIAN OF DUMMER IS DEAD.

Peter Storms Passes Away Aged 104 Years.

Aged one hundred and four, and probably the oldest person in Central Ontario, Peter William Storms recently passed away at his home north of Norwood. For the past forty years, this centenarian had resided in Dummer Township, having previously lived in Blairton and also near Napanee. He was one of those loyal Canadians in Upper Canada called out to quell the McKenzie Rebellion in 1837, and often told interesting reminiscences of that campaign, 84 years ago.

The late Mr. Storms is survived by his widow, one son, William, and a daughter, Mrs. C. Lee, of Centre Dummer.

You Can Work Wonders with Paint and Varnish —We Recommend Martin-Senour's

Senour's Floor Paint, An Exceptionally Fine Product, with a reputation for standing up well under constant use. It dries very hard with a high lustre, and has sufficient elasticity to give under pressure rather than crack. Its use on soft wood floors will permit the use of rugs and enhance the beauty of any room.

Wood-Lac, the Wonder-Worker, improves the new, renews the old. It is a combination dye and varnish product for use in brightening up the odds and ends of furniture which have become marred through use. Try it on that shabby wicker chair or table that you were going to dispense with. It will make it just as good as new. It is made in different finishes to correspond to natural hard woods and will impart to less expensive woods the appearance of the more costly ones.

Neu-Tone, the Ideal Flat Wall Paint, especially prepared in a harmonious selection of colours from selected ingredients secured for the sole purpose of producing a flat oil paint for interior decoration that gives absolute satisfaction to the user. It is ultimately the most economical method of interior wall decoration. It is undoubtedly sanitary, as it can be washed, ensuring at all times a clean, wholesome, sanitary home.

Varnoleum, a Varnish for Linoleum and Oilcloth. This is a preservative, as well as a beautifying finish, and adds to the wearing qualities. A thin coat only is required. It drys over night with a high lustre and will not spot or crack.

AGED EIGHTY, WAS THROWN FROM HORSE

Lay Two Hours in Swamp With Injured Limbs Before Assistance Arrived.

PORT HOPE, April 1.—While going through a swamp about half a mile from his home at Rossmount, the horse John Barkwell was riding from one of his farms to another shied, throwing Barkwell to the ground. His left leg was so badly injured in the fall that, being unable to walk, he remained in the swamp for over two hours before his cries for help brought Wilfred Gaynor and Walter Moon to his assistance. They conveyed the injured man home, when Dr. Beatty was called and pronounced Barkwell to be suffering from a broken bone in the left leg and a sprained left ankle. He is eighty years of age and feels the effects of his exposure in the swamp.

RESERVED JUDGMENT IN BELMONT CASE.

Havelock Standard: County Magistrate Langley reserved judgment at the conllusion of the case of Dr. Thompson vs. Reeve Griffith, for a breach of the Health Act, which was heard in the Town Hall on Thursday afternoon of last week. F. D. Kerr of Peterborough was the counsel for Mr. Griffith, but Dr. Thompson pleaded his own case. Dr. Thompson, who is the Medical Officer of Health for the township of Belmont and Methuen, said that upon a complaint being laid before him that he and the Sanitary Inspector, Mr. Sid Cole, had visited Mr. Griffith's premises at Old Havelock and found in the cellar of his house a cow and poultry. They notified Mr. Griffith that such a condition of affairs must be cleaned up and gave him four days in which to do so. After the time limit had expired, they found that while the cow and its excreta had been removed, the poultry still remained, hence the action. The defense, who called Dr. Sutton of Norwood and Dr. Holdcroft of town, as witnesses, endeavored to show no violation of the Health Act, and claimed that service on defendant was faulty. The medical witnesses stated that, in their opinion, keeping poultry in the house in cold weather, wasn't injurious to health.

JUDGE HUYCKE TO FIX SALARY.

Not satisfied with the salary allowed him by the township of Belmont and Methune, Dr. A. S. Thompson, M.O.H. for those united townships, has appealed to His Honor Judge Huycge for adjustment. The case will be heard in the Judge's chambers, Peterborough, on April 7th. The doctor declines acceptance of $150 a year offered him by the Township Council on the ground that it is not adequate for the duties entailed by his office.

ANOTHER CONCERT ON SUNDAY NIGHT AT OPERA HOUSE

Sunday evening will see another of the evening concerts in the Grand Opera House, which have become so popular with Peterborough's music-lovers, for a constant good attendance and universally favorable comment may be considered an evidence of public opinion in this as in other regards. The comfortable house, with its fine seating capacity and good heating apparatus, is a pleasant place in which to spend an hour or so on Sunday evening, and a gathering of this sort seems to bring together, in the true spirit of Christian fellowship and musical appreciation, men and women from all classes and representing all the different religious sects in the city. If there are numberless easy chairs deserted for these Sunday concerts, there are just as many street corners minus a lounger or two and a few secluded streets deserted by the usual Sunday evening strollers, so that many good causes are served by attendance at one of these concerts. Those who like good music will hear nothing better anywhere than the band which supplies most of the programme, and the local talent which adds so much to the evening's enjoyment is also some of the best that the city affords. The spirit which prompted the idea for these gatherings was one of brotherly kindness, and those who attend have the pleasant realization of helping along a good cause.

POLICING FAR EAST A DIFFICULT TASK.

Allied Armies Faced Many Handicaps in Peace Efforts.

An idea of the fine work which has been accomplished by the allied armies in the Black Sea district since the signing of the Armistice and the big efforts they have put forth in the interests of humanity are told in a despatch from General Sir G. F. Milne, commander-in-chief, which appears in the January supplement ot the London Gazette. General Milne points ou that in their relief work the allied armies have had the co-operation of the American Relief Association, and he gives considerable credit to them for the interest they have taken in the big task of restoring peace to that troubled section of the world. The General's report tells in detail the difficulties of holding the passages of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus and of occupying sections of Turkey, according to the terms of the peace treaty; it shows the difficulties the allied armies encountered in convineing some of the Turkish armies that they must really disband, and it tells the ticklish situation which developed in handling the Turkish army of 400,000 with comparatively small allied forces without precipitating further struggles. The task of disarming the Ottoman army presented peculiar obstacles, as the main armies were many hundreds of miles distant and were withdrawing into the great tangle of mountains which make up the interior of Asia Minor. One of these armies had never been defeated on the field, but had recently carried on a victorious campaign in the coveted Moslem territories of the Caucasus. However, by the use of much diplomacy, the allied leaders avoided conflict.

Built Up Police.

Then came the big job of policing Constantinople and other sections of Turkish territory. This work also presented difficulties, as the allies found that they must raise first the status and morale of the Turkish police, improve their methods and avoid undue interference. Then there was the control of the Ottoman railways, which was not a simple matter, and which necessitated the appointment of a commission of French and British directors to regulate tariff, wages and other points of dispute. At times, it was necessary to post detachments of British troops at the main stations to give protection to the staffs who were mostly Christians and who were a bit nervous as to their future in a subject country. The Greek occupation of a portion of Smyrna was also a somewhat ticklish thing owing to the ancient grudge which existed between the Greeks and the Turks, and General Milne points out that tactful treatment of the situation was essential. The development of the National Turkish Movement further complicated matters, and there were times when the allied forces appeared to be sitting on the edge of a volcano which was only too eager to break out.

Breaches of the armistice became of almost daily occurrence, the report points out, and in consequence of obstruction and bad faith on the part of the Ottoman Minister of War and other high Turkish officials, an ultimatum had to be issued by the Allied High Commissioners. There were secret hostile activities of the Ottoman War Office, and the effective military occupation of Constantinople became necessary. Even yet, though there has been a certain amount of fighting in a small way, the Nationalists are not entirely satisfied, as they are roaming about looking for trouble.

Saved Oil Fields.

In the Caucasian and Trans-Caspian regions there was further trouble owing to the massacre of the Armenians and the activities of the Bolsheviki. At the time of the signing of the armistice there was a Turkish force estimated at 73,000 in occupation of the Caucasus and the north-west of Persia, and this whole force had to be cleaned out, by peaceful means or otherwise. It was mostly accomplished by peace. But there were also the Russian forces at Baku and the remnants of the Russian fleet in the Black Sea which was dominated by those with radical leanings. On the arrival of the British at Baku, the reports state, the oil situation was chaotic, and this industry had to be put back on it sfeet. Labor troubles were continued, and the pumping of oil had ceased, but these troubles were finally overcome by careful handling under British management and by the advance of money to pay the workmen, and this in spite of local obstruction. The oil industry was thus saved from apparent ruin. The oil fuel supply to the railways of the Caucasus and Persia was assured and a reserve supply was built up for the use of the Royal Navy in the Black Sea.

Reconstructed Vessels.

The shipping, which had been nationalized, had to be denationalized, and through the reconstruction of this industry there was a merchant fleet of 147 vessels which had to be repaired and put into commission. When the military evacuation of the Trans-Caucasia took place in the Fall of 1919, the records showed that in addition to the 147 vessels repaired, five ships had been salvaged, and 63,000 refugees were repatriated. Possibly the most important function of the British army in this district was its frequent interventions between various States and factions. General Milne pays a high tribute to the naval and military forces which assisted in the work in the Black Sea district, and points out that their work, difficult as it was, was made still more difficult by the lack of comforts and accommodations.

Cow For President.

Washington, March 31.—A cow has been offered President Harding by an Illinois man who in a letter received at the White House said it was his hobby "to raise very good Jersey cows and to place them where they will be most appreciated." During the Taft regime, "Pauline," prize Guernsey, furnished milk for the White House table.

Saw Her on Screen.

Pittsburgh, March 31.—The disappearance last August of a 17-year-old Pittsburgh high school girl has been partly solved. Her mother, Mrs. J. A. Wattkins has reported to the police that she has viewed a motion picture in which the missing girl played the part of a "stenographer."

Refused More Pay.

Mount Vernon, N.Y., March 31.—Rev. Otho F. Barthelow, pastor of the First Methodist Church here, has refused a salary increase of $1,000 a year. He explained that his $6,000 salary was sufficient.

A GREAT ART FIND.

Liverpool Weekly Post: Sir Robert Thomas, M. P., the well-known North Wales shipowner, has come into possession of an old master of extraordinary interest. He bought the picture from a second-hand dealer for £25, and sent it to be cleaned. In this process the picture developed remarkable qualities, and the cleaner telephoned Sir Robert offering him £500 for the work. He declined, and was then asked to name his price. He refused to sell, and when the picture was back at his home it was seen by experts, who gave the opinion that it was Raphael's "Madonna del Pozzo" ("The Madonna at the Well"), which is said to have been missing since it formed part of the collection of King Charles

MISTAKES IN TEXT BOOKS.

No matter what care is taken in preparing school text books, the difficulty in avoiding mistakes is extreme. In illustration of this task, J. E. Wetherell, M.A., editor of text books for the Ontario education department, says: The present public school arithmetic had two authors, and each author was supplied with three assistants to check every question and answer. Yet, in spite of all these precautions, the department is receiving notices indicating several mistakes in the book. When authors and editors who have time at their disposal make mistakes it is not surprising that blunders and inaccuracies are sometimes found in newspapers, on which the work is done in such a hurry that there is but little time for revision.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OLD, SHE LIVED THROUGH REIGNS OF FOUR SOVEREIGNS

MRS. MARY ROGERS, OF LINDEN VALLEY, CELEBRATES HER CENTURY BIRTHDAY---INTERESTING REMINISCENCES OF PIONEER DAYS NEAR PETERBOROUGH.

"The days of our years are three score years and ten." So wrote the Psalmist long centuries ago. But to live for five score years, to live during the reigns of four British Sovereigns (William IV., Victoria, Edward VII. and George V.), to help hew out a home in the virgin forest and to help clear a farm, and then to live continuously on that farm for for eighty two years, to see your great grandchildren's children, to live for a whole century, and still be in possession of all your faculties, is a privilege and an acomplishment which very few people enjoy in this world. Yet this is the unique experience of Mrs. Mary Rogers, who on Tuesday, March 1st, celebrated her one hundredth birthday, at her home in Linden Valley.

This birthday party will be long remembered by all those who were present. Seated in her arm chair, surrounded by friends from her own neighborhood, Lindsay, Oakwood, and from as far away as British Columbbia, Grandma Rogers, for such she is called by all her friends, with the clearest memory related many of the interesting events of her long life.

She was born at Gwilliumbury township, near the town of Bradford, on March 1st, 1821. In 1837, father, Mr. John Cruess and family, moved to the township of Mariposa, which was then a virgin forest. Here in the midst of a dense wood her her father, John Cruess, and family, chopped the clearng for his farm When a ittle girl, she and her little brother, who years after became John S. Cruess, M.P.P., (now deceased) walked a trail through the woods to what is now the town of Lindsay to purchase supplies at the first little log store kept by a man named Murphy. Some years later the family purchased their provisions from the late Mr. James Watson, who had opened a store, because as Grandma said, "he had the reputation of keeping the best tea that was to be had." It was a quality known as gunpoweder tea. For years she road horseback to Lindsay through the woods to purchase the supplies for the families. She had a favorite horse, which in the spring when the swamps were flooded would step from log to log in the floating corduroy roads, if she would throw the reins over his back and let him have the free use of his head.

On another ocasion when a very little girl she and her brother, John, accompnied their father to pick cranberreis, near Goose Lake. After they had been there for a while a terrific thunderstorm came up and the father thought that they had better start for home as their mother would be anxious about them. The sun being totally obscured they lost their way in the dense woods. They walked and walked until she felt she could walk no longer, and suggested that she would stay there all night. Her father said, "No; the wolves would get you before morning," so taking his little girl on his back and soon came to the trail leading to Lorneville. Soon they met a man who gave them the right direction. After a time they heard the large tin horn which their mother was blowing to guide them home if they heard it. Answering the sound by shouting they finally reached home almost exhausted.

In 1839 she married the late Wm. Rogers. Immediately they started to clear a home for themselves and build a home on lot 21, 11th Concession of Mariposa, now the beautiful farm known as "Maple Shade' farm. Here for eighty two years she has lived continuously. Her husband died twenty five years ago. They had a family of four boys and four girls, namely: John (deceased) Mrs. Agnes Weldon, Lnidsay; James in Ohio, Mich.; Hannah, deceased; David and Elihu, Oakwood; Mrs. Elizabeth Cody, Lemons, Alta.; Mrs. John Monse, Port Perry.

Grandma Rogers has been a consistent member of the "Society of Friends' all her life. Her father, in the early days held service in his own house until the meeting house was built He also took a leading part in establishing the public school and building the road.

Those who listened to Grandma Rogers relate the story of her life were filled with feelings of awe and majesty. There she sat, a dear,saintly old soul, a veritable link between earth and heaven. Seated beside her was her only surviving sister, Mrs. Elihu Rogers, Sr., who is now 91 years old. As one looked upon the scene ,the thought came, Of Grandma Rogers it can be truly said:—"Length of days is in her right hand and in her left hand riches and honor." "Yes,' she said, "I have lived a good long life; I have seen many, many changes; I have had a lot of good earthly friends, but I have had one Friend who has always been good to me all my life, who has never forsaken me. Some of these days I will be going to that better world, where He has prepared a place for me. I have many many friends there, and I hope that we shall al meet there.

After partaking of dainty refreshments and having the great honour of enjoying a piece of the beautiful birthday cake, which was suitably inscribed 1821-1921—100 years, we came away with the words from "Rabbi" Ben Ezra uppermost in our minds:

"Grow old along with me,
The best is yet to be.
The last of life, for which the first was made,
Our times are in His hand,
Who saith "A whole I planned,
Youth shows but half,
Trust God, see all, nor be afraid."

American claims against Germany for injuries caused from the world war are estimated at $180,088,324.

HEARTBURN LIVER TROUBLE

When the liver becomes torpid and inflamed, it cannot furnish sufficient bile to the bowels, thus causing them to become constipated.

The stomach is also affected. In the case of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach, attended by disturbed appetite, caused by great acidity. Whenever too much food is taken it is liable to ferment, and become extremely sour, vomiting often occurs; and what is thrown up, is sour and sometimes bitter.

Other liver troubles symptoms are pain under the right shoulder, yellowness of the skin and eyes, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, foul breath, water brash, jaundice, constipation, etc.

Keep your liver active by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no heartburn or other liver troubles. Being purely vegetable they do not gripe, weaken or sicken like the old-fashioned purgatives generally do.

Mrs. Mary Strome, Glasnevin, Sask., writes: —"I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and they have cleared me of heartburn and liver trouble. I don't think they can be beaten by any other medicine and I can highly recommend them."

IRATE ARKANSANS USE GUNS TO GET ROAD TAX RELIEF.

Appeal to Court Failing, Mob in One County Forces Commissioners to Quit.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 30.—In Craighead County the irate taxpayers of Arkansas got at least temporary relief from the burden of the special taxes for road projects, over which there is a State-wide protest. They took the law into their own hands, and at the point of the gun forced the Commissioners of a road improvement district to resign before work was commenced on a stretch of road which was estimated to cost $50,000 a mile through territory where the land is valued at only from $5 to $10 an acre.

The Commissioners were first asked to suspend their plans. They refused. They were then asked to resign. They likewise refused, and went on with their plans. The taxpayers of the districts were aroused to such a pitch that mob violence was openly threatened, but their lawyers urged against violence, so a suit to enjoin the Commissioners was filed in the Lake City Chancery Court, with Judge Wheatly presiding.

From the tenor of the hearing, during a morning session of court, the taxpayers became convinced that they would lose. Their lawyers frankly confessed that they had no case, legally. So just as the court was adjourning for a noon recess, a body of taxpayers marched into the court-room and presented typewritten resignations to the Commissioners and to the attorneys for the Commissioners as well, and with the business ends of revolvers motioned for the Commissioners to sign. The Judge tried to quell the disturbance, but the taxpayers kept their guns drawn until the resignations were duly signed. They then marched out.

ECONOMIC PROBLEMS IN THE STATES

AN ARTICLE FROM THE NEW YORK HERALD ON THE SITUATION ACROSS THE LINE.

In the economic jam which grips this country like a vice the labour union leaders are showing no realisation of the gravity of the industrial crisis. They did everything in their power, when the wild work of inflation was afoot, to make it worse by driving costs of production on up with higher and higher labour charges. Now, when the Government, when manufacturers, merchants, and distributors, when all managers an demployers are struggling to lower those costs of production as the absolute essential to lower cost of living and the re-employment of the millions of idle wage-earners, the labour union leaders fight every inch of the way down.

If production costs are not brought back to a peace basis, however, we must be a fenced-in nation unable to trade in the outside world because our costs of production are higher than the costs of production in other countries. With no markets for our exports, which recently have run billions of dollars a year, American industries which have been supplying those foreign customers must shut down and our hundreds of thousands of workers in those industries remain out of employment.

And all this unemployment must so weaken the purchasing power of the American market that still other industries will have to put up shutters and still other workers go off the payrolls.

The railroads have learned that excessive traffic rates cut down the freight shipments by a massive tonnage, and check passenger travel by the hundreds of thousands. Manufacturers have learned that the public will not buy and wear the usual quantities of clothes when the price is too dear. Even the farmers have learned that American families will not eat as much as they did before, now that it costs so much. Our industrial and business men for the most part are doing their level best to get production costs down so as to stimulate consumption at the low prices thus made possible.

But there is a limit, and a very near limit, to reducing production costs without the help of labour. Labour is the great cost factor in nearly all production, all distribution from railroad transportation and wholesale handling to local retailing and delivery. The labour cost from first to last runs according to the industries and the number of re-handlings all the way from 50 to 70, 75 and 80, sometimes 90 per cent. So in the great majority of price inflation cases the mark down can go only a short distance if labour costs stay up. It could and would go down to a peace basis with speed but without shock if labour costs ere immediately readjusted.

But the labour union leaders thus far have refused to co-operate with the owners and managers of industries and business and with independent groupings of labour itself to bring down the production costs in the only way they can be brought down so as to make much lower prices in the very interest of idle wage-earners first of all.

Yet when this is the only way to get them back to work, by stimulating consumption, which will call for more production, start the industrial machinery of the nation humming, increase the business of railroads, and crowd the stores with buyers, nevertheless the union leaders fight the necessary deflation to the limit of their capacity. If they continue thus to ignore all economic laws which will not be denied, to be indifferent to the widely extending masses of unemployment and to be defiant of the public's demand that the cost of living come back still further—come all the way back, in fact, to a peace basis—these unyielding, unseeing obstructors will be singularly lucky if they do not bring their own union organisations toppling down upon their heads.—New York Herald.

By Mme. Frances

The Famous Creator of Fashions

AND now is the winter of our discontent made glorious summer"—in the winter resorts at least—where fashion flocks to enjoy itself on sunlit strands, forgetful of snow flying fast before the north wind.

In the winter resorts are staged the try-outs of fashion that become general for the following summer. Many features are definitely settled in the minds of designers before launching the January openings that display winter resort models. What Florida and California wear in mid-winter will also be good style on the Jersey and New England coasts next summer.

Although ideas favored with success at the winter resort, by the following summer are frequently developed into something different, in the main the same fashions prevail. The ready-to-wear manufacturer lands on the ideas featured for resort wear in mid-winter and putting the vast machinery of his factory to work turns out wholesale copies or near copies of the models adopted by ultra-fashionables as correct expression of the winter resort modes. These models become summer fashions for the general public.

For Sports Wear

Silk and wool sweaters of every hue still gladden the eye with colorful variety at the winter resorts. White skirts are the standbys for sports wear and for spectators who merely watch the others play. Lustrous satin, heavy crepes in novel weaves, launched by American silk manufacturers who have achieved the greatest perfection in this art, wool fabrics, particularly the twilled gabardines, tricotines and serges, and soft suede-like duvetynes are making effective white skirts that will also be worn next summer.

Cotton fabrics, woven in imitation of linen, still so hard to obtain, novelty piques and organdies are also observed in wash skirts.

Silk poplin in brilliant hues and navy blue is the fabric de luxe for the tailored sports coats and slip-on blouses designed for wear with white skirts. Homespun in colorful shades is employed for jackets that resemble Norfolk coats and striped flannel blazers are popular sports accessories. Sports coats are both box and belted. Many of the belts show the introduction of leather. White kid and patent leather predominate.

White tailored suits will be extremely smart for resort wear, made up in broadcloth, flannel, homespun, tricotine, gabardine and serge.

Organdie and the soft voiles, plain and figured chiffons and Georgette crepes, charmeuse satin and crepe meteor develop attractive afternoon models. The modest gingham, no longer a modest price, and the English prints are especially featured for morning wear, relieved with trimmings of white organdie and finely twilled pique. Striped dimity, so popular on account of its exquisite coolness, is also favored for morning one-piece dresses.

Evening Gowns

Evening gowns are little different from those worn "at home." The bouffant skirt of sheer tulle or chiffon displaying the Spanish silhouette or the draped brocades are the most observed types of evening dresses.

On the beach one may let her love of color find full sway. Swimming suits of black jersey and satin are still the most modishly correct of all beach apparel, although the younger element flaunts colors that are so becoming that we forget to regard them as conspicuous. Jade green, rose, old blue, hyacinthe blue, and even mauve crepe meteor and charmeuse are picturesquely fashioned in bathing suits that hold their color amazingly well both in and out of the water.

The beach capes of rubberized silk lined with Turkish toweling, or Terry cloth as it is called, decorated in floral motifs of brilliant color, are delightfully picturesque beach accessories.

The bathing suit illustrated is of the decorative variety that will give a charming spot of color to a vivid beach scene.

Made of jade green charmeuse satin, the one-piece slip-on blouse is bound with blue violet charmeuse. The lines of this suit are especially adapted to swimming. The skirt is slashed on the side to give plenty of freedom in the "kick," and the sleeveless armholes give plenty of room for any stroke, breast, side or Australian crawl. The waist is tied with a band of hyacinthe blue charmeuse. The open bloomers are bound with hyacinthe blue. The turban that accompanies this picturesque suit is black satin, and the decorative cape is green rubber lined with Terry cloth, figured in lemon-yellow and green flowers. What could be more charming on a modern Venus, beautiful and born of the sea?

A sports suit of the spectator type is made of white gabardine. An interesting contrast is achieved by the coat lining of black charmeuse satin. The deep cuffs are faced with black satin and display black bound buttonholes. White pearl buttons trim the coat. The skirt is accordeon pleated. The soft girdle is black satin and the white silk blouse wears a brilliant tie of cerise ribbon. The youthful hat worn with this suit is natural colored straw enveloped in a picturesque veil of purple lace.

For Afternoon

In contrast to this tailored costume is an afternoon gown of white organdie made over flesh pink meteor. The underslip of meteor clings to the figure beneath the flared skirt of organdie. The camisole bodice is pink crepe meteor. It shows in the centre front as a tiny "V" beneath the lines of a deep circular fichu. A tiny pink tie is posed at the centre front. The fichu is hand tucked, and a Wall of Troy design is worked out with tiny folds of flesh pink charmeuse satin. The edge of the fichu is bound with pink charmeuse. The wide blue girdle is pale blue satin. The peplum ruffle below the girdle is edged with lace. The full skirt shows a series of lace inserts, and flesh colored satin folds, running straight around and in the Wall of Troy line. A flesh colored cording is set around the hips and the sides of the skirt are distended. The picturesque leghorn hat bound with pink and trimmed with pink faille ribbon completes an effective afternoon costume.

The evening gown illustrated must be described as having the charm of an autumn leaf in its coloring, because it suggests nothing so much as a brown leaf tinged with the flame of autumn woods. Brown tulle is combined with copper lace in this model. There is a clingingly draped dropskirt of brown charmeuse satin and the camisole bodice is softly relieved with brown tulle. Over the shoulders are laid two fichu-like draperies of tulle that run beneath the girdle back and front. Bands of copper lace run in bands across the shoulders and the edges of the tulle are bound with charmeuse and a fold of charmeuse is set in a right angle design on the sleeves. The girdle of brown is centred with a vermilion red ribbon that ties at the left side and gives the flame touch. The full skirt of brown tulle continues the lines of copper lace that are run over the shoulders. Below the hip line is a broader band of copper lace edged with brown fur. Narrow folds of brown charmeuse are set on the tulle spaces of the skirt in a right angle design that is very decorative. Bows of brown charmeuse satin are set down the front.

Latitude of Variety

Again it is to be remarked, and commentators on fashion will note the fact with interest, the variety of acceptable designs open to the choice of the modish, was probably never wider. In fact, it may be concluded, without unreasonable optimism, that fashion has formed an established habit of wide freedom of selection. Personality has its rights, and it is in the interest of good art always to consider them.

The Fashion Forecast

Pleats will be characteristic of the spring suit skirt. Knife, accordeon and box pleats in double and triple tunics will appear as well as the straight pleated skirts.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(Canadian Press).—The Stock Market was under renewed selling pressure at the outset of to-day's trading. Shorts evidently based their operations on the more unfavorable tenor of overnight advices. Steels, Oils, Motors and Rails constituted the heaviest features. Crucible and Bethlehem Steels, Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum and Reading forfeited large fractions to 1¾ points. The few gains were confined to fractions, aside from Atlantic Gulf, which showed marked firmness! The reaction became more general within the first half hour, Mexican Petroleum increasing its loss to almost three points.

The selling of Oils assumed wider proportions dufing the morning. Pan-American, Petroleum, Common and Preferred B issues, were 1 1-4 to 2 5-8 points lower. Losses in Royal Dutch, General Asphalt, Texas Company and Pierce Oil Preferred averaged a point each. Motors and their specialties were influenced by the heavier tone of Oils, Studebaker, Pierce Arrow and Keystone Tire losing 1 to 1 1-2. Steels continued under pressure and Sumatra Tobacco, American Woollen, Central Leather Preferred and Sears Roebuck average losses of one to 1 1-2 points. Harvester was almost alone in showing pronounced strength, rising 3 3-4 points. Call money opened at 6 1-2 per cent.

A six point advance in Laclede Gas and a 4 1-2 point decline in Atlantic Gulf reflected the conflicting movements of later dealings. Motors and Steels hardened on supporting orders. The close was irregular.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Sterling Exchange heavy, Demand 3.91 1-2, Canadian Dollars 11 5-16 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 1.—All deliveries of wheat, corn and oats tumbled down to-day to new low record prices for the season. Liquidation on the part of holders developed again in the wheat market after shorts had covered at the opening and had left the market without one of the usual sources of support. The increase of bearish sentiment was ascribed in a considerable degree to nervousness regarding the European political and economic affairs, especially the British coal miners' strike. Opening prices which varied from unchanged figures to 3-4 higher were followed by moderate general gains and then by sharp breaks all around.

Corn sagged with wheat. After opening a shade off to 1-2 advance it made little more but then descended well below yesterday's finish. Oats were depressed by the downward tendency of other cereals, starting 1-8 to 1-4 to 1-2 up and later scoring material losses. Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions.

Rallies were feeble. The wheat market closed weak ⅞ to 1¼ net lower with May 59½ to 59⅝ and ¾.

Bearish crop estimates attracted considerable notice in corn. On the break in prices, fresh export demand became evident and had some temporary effect in rallying the market. The close was heavy, 3½ to 5¼ net lower with May 1.34¾ to 1.35 and July 1.14½ to 1.14¾.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Conflicting sentiment led to considerable irregularity in trading on the Toronto Exchange this morning although price changes were comparatively insignficant. Trading branched out later and a larger number of issues were dealt in than has been the case for several days. C.P.R. after a weak opening at 127 moved up one point before the close, while Duluth Superior augmented yesterday's gain by 1-2. The bid at the close was 19 and 20 asked. General Electric started promisingly at 112 1-2, but dropped 1 1-2 points before the noon close. Steel Corporation and Atlantic Sugar were fractionally lower at 43 1-4 and 32 respectively.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR JOE

I approve of your idea of exposing the baby to music while he is very young and thus getting his ear acclimatized before it becomes callous. I agree with you that my singing voice isn't accurate enough to be much help to him, but Hilma the new Finnish maid has been singing some Finnish songs to him and of course they are just as serviceable as English songs would be, considering the fact that the baby don't know one language from another and is consequently as much at home as the other.

But I think the best plan will be to buy a phonograph and in that way the baby will become so hardened to music that finally he will carry a tune all by his little self, first inwardly and then aloud. Maybe some day for all we know he will become a great composer like Michael Angelo or John Philip Sousa, or else compose wonderful operatic selections that will be as easy as pie for him to think up and almost impossible for ordinary people to play.

I went into the phonograph store to price a few and they're pretty expensive Joe, but the man told me that as a special favor he would let me have a $100 machine for practically a mere song, namely $10 a month for 12 months. I don't think he was trying to flirt or anything either Joe, I think he really meant it. I imagine it must be very educational to work in one of those phonograph stores and hear all the latest records till you're sick of them.

The baby is asleep now in spite of the noise Hilma is making dropping dishes as she dries them. Just because she don't speak English that's no excuse for her to constantly drop so many dishes, is it Joe? Maybe she's trying to speak broken China! Haw haw, do you see the point Joe? It's wonderful how much a baby can sleep and still continue to enjoy it. Well Joe so long and love

TESSIE.

DEAR TESSIE:

In answer to your idea of spending good money for a phonograph to egg on the baby's ear for music, would say that phonographs are great institutions and the only thing I've got against them is that I don't like them. Of course you might say when you get tired of hearing them you can turn them off, but does that apply when you're out calling and your host insists on showing you a good time by unleashing the canned jazz? Answer, it does not. It would be just as practical to think of tying a sofa cushion over your hostess' mouth when she starts to unwind her favorite and longest story that you've only heard her tell about 50 times.

So lay off the phonograph idea, although I see they've got out a new attachment now that winds them by electricity. All you have to do is press a button and feel like the conquest of mind over matter. So at that rate pretty soon they might make the world safe for guests by bringing out an attachment that will make them soundless.

Some unfortunate crime waver snitched my sample case in the train yesterday. By the weight of it he must have thought it was gold nuggets, and when he found he had staggered home with two dozen cans of Daisy Canned Soups he must have felt simply awful. Not that I want to knock D. C. Soups and thus make it unanimous, but they're the last things in the world I'd want to steal, though I might take a limited number of cans as a gift if I was stranded on a desert island. Nobody ever said I wasn't broad minded.

The strange part about it was that I got more orders without my samples than I ever got with them, which may have been only a coincidence or on the other hand may have a deep significance. Love to you and the little son and heir, principally son.

G.W.V.A. BAND RE-ORGANIZED

GRADUAL ADDITIONS TO ITS RANKS AND INCREASED EFFICIENCY THE RESULT.

AFFILIATE WITH 4TH

The G.W.V.A. band has recently undergone a re-organization and "broadening out" that should bear good fruit this summer in increased efficiency and gradual additions to the ranks. They have become affiliated with the 4th Machine Gun Brigade for whom they will play in parades and on other military occasions. By this arrangement it is understood that the Veterans' band will not lose its identity, but will co-operate in the building up of the machine gun brigade and at the same time continue in their original allegiance to the rest of their comrades.

Looking to the future, the band has also decided to open classes for beginners, and youths and young men who desire to learn to play a band instrument will have an opportunity of acquiring that ability doubtless on the understanding that they will join the Veterans' band when they are qualified It is hoped by this method to develop young players and gradually to increase the strength of the band and also its musicianship. The first concert since its re-organization will be given on Monday night in the G.W.V.A. hall under the direction of Conrade William Peryer. Although nothing definite has been decided upon as to what course the band will follow this summer there is a strong sentimen among the members that the public should be entertained in the parks as usual in spite of the council's clumsy attempt by withholding their grant to starve the bands out and force them to amalgamate.

ESCAPED FROM FLAMES IN NIGHT CLOTHES

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE OF HALIBURTON WIDOW WHEN HOME BURNED — SUFFERING FROM EXPOSURE.

HALIBURTON, April 1. — Little hope is held for the recovery of Mrs. Robert Stothart, who is hovering between life and death, the result of exposure and injuries received when her home was completely destroyed by fire on Wednesday.

Mrs. Stothart was aroused from her sleep early in the morning to find her house (a frame structure) in flames. She was unable to make her escape down stairs through the flames, and had no time to dress, so jumped through an upstairs window. In doing so she broke both ankles and suffered excrutiating pain. She lay on the ground for over an hour in the chilly atmosphere, watching the destruction of her home, and finally made an effort to crawl to the home of John Bain, over a mile away. She was unable to crawl over a stone fence, however, and lay on the ground until 8 o'clock, when her cries were heard by Mr. Bain's children. Mr. Bain hitched up a horse and went to her aid. She was taken to his home and every attention given her. Both her legs were frozen and she was found to be suffering severely from the shock. Little hope is held out for her recovery.

Mr. Stothart, her husband, died about two months ago.

INTERVENTION OF LEAGUE IS ASKED

WEST HUNGARIAN COUNCIL WOULD THUS SETTLE DISPUTE.

VIENNA, April 1. — The West Hungarian Administrative Council which is functioning in Vienna, pending settlement of the dispute over the strip of territory along the border line between Austria and Hungary, has petitioned the Austrian Foreign Office to memorialize the League of Nations for the immediate occupation of the region in question by Entente troops.

TO INVESTIGATE A SEVEN CENT FARE

"Is this a war tax or a strangers' tax?" asked a couple of visitors to the city last evening as they boarded a George Street car and were confronted with a seven-cent fare. It is understood that an effort will be made locally to determine the legality of the increase from five to seven cents without first submitting the question to the people. The increase was authorized by resolution of the City Council. Mr. T. Tooms, M.P.P., is interested in the matter, and he is of the opinion that the increase was granted contrary to the provisions of the franchise under which the railway operates. Mr. Tooms intends to continue the enquiry and obtain the opinion of legal authorities.

ATTEMPT TO BREAK INTO CUSTOM HOUSE

LINDSAY, April 1—On Tuesday night an attempt to burglarize the Merchants' Clearing House was made. Some person had evidently started to cut a light of glass out of the door with a diamond, but, surprised by a passer-by, they left the job unfinished.

THE THREE-ACT CONCERT WAS A BIG SUCCESS

PARK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH COMRADES' CLASS GAVE AN EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT.

A very large and appreciative audiene filled the Victoria Hall last evening to hear the 9.2 concert party of the Park street Baptist church, give a splendid three-act concert, that was opened with a trench scene by the entire company. The effect was very realistic. The songs and choruses in this item were well balanced and full of excellent harmony.

Act II.

The minstrel scene was opened with the two end men, Mr. Neil Porter and Mr. E. Ainsley, producing some excellent jokes that took well, because they gave something new all the time in their cross talk.

Mr. Maurice Dunkley gave a monologue and song "Smoke Cloud" and "Down the Traill" in a nice tenor voice.

The interlocutor, Mr. R. Joliffe, handled his position well, and his two songs, "Like a Gipsy," and "An Old Fashioned Mother" was very apropriate in the act.

The song "My Little Bimbo," sung by Mr. J. Beekerman, had a nice going tune that appealed to the audience, with "Naugnty Waltz," an extra.

Comic duet singing by George Moore and Neil Porter, in "Oh, By Gingo," kept the house full of merriment that an encore had to be given. In fact the entire company did their parts with the precision of experienced men.

Act III.

The last act was a dramatic play called "Snobson's Stag Party" with the following gentlemen taking their respective parts:

Cast.

Nicholas Snobson, M. Dunkley.
Clarence (nephew), T. Taylor.
Snowball (colored servant), E. Ainsley.
Julius Duikelspiel, T. Edwards.
Timothy Doolihan, N. Porter.
Travis Spagetti, J. Beekerman.
Henry Hawkins, B. Batley.
Mrs. Chickenstealer, B. Martin.
Mrs. Moriaty, R. Joliffe.
Jim Schapper, H. Knowles.
Alfonso Heavyweight, Wm. McDougall.
Bill Ballotbox, J. Haw.

During the intervals excellent music was provided by the 20-piece orchestra of the Park street Baptist church under the direction of Mr. W. Forde.

MARCH CUSTOMS SHOW INCREASE

BLUE RUIN NOT MANIFEST IN THE RECEIPTS.

The March customs receipts at the local Customs House show an increase over February of $2,504.69. In March the total receipts were $72,671.36, in February $70,166.67.

Receipts Show Increase

The government fiscal year ended last night at midnight and today the total customs receipts at Peterboro for 1920-21 were announced at $1,065,075.30. In 1919-20 the total was $1,001,560.87. The $63,514.43 increase should tend to put a damper on the cry of "blue ruin" disseminated so widely in Peterboro in the last six months the figures plainly show that during the last year more imports were made in this district than in the fiscal year 1919-20, in which year pessimistic individuals declared Canada enjoyed greater business prosperity than it ever would again. The customs figures repuliate this narrow view.

HALT BOLSHEVIK DEMOBILIZATION

See the "Leader's" attractive offerings for Saturday on first page of to-day's paper.

LIGHT DAY IN LEGISLATURE

DELAYS GRANTED IN CASES OF TWO MEASURES.

TORONTO, April 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Strong opposition developed in the Legislature yesterday against the bill of Hon. Harry Mills to amend the Mining Act. It was maintained that the measure would greatly injure the mining industry of Northern Ontario and greatly interfere with prospecting. The Premier was agreeable to a few days' delay, however, as he explained, a study of the bill would remove any misapprehension that it might injure the mining industry.

The Government's bill for the establishment of a control board in connection with the controlling of the levels of the water on the Lake of the Woods was also left over at the Premier's suggestion so that the members might have more time to become familiar with it. Peter Keenan, Liberal member for Kenora, said there was strong opposition to the measure and it was through him that the bill was allowed to stand.

A check up of survivors arriving on the Westhartland disclosed the fact that nineteen persons carried on the passenger and crew lists of the Governor were not accounted for.

WEDDING BELLS

CAMPBELL—DALGLEISH.

An unusually interesting wedding ceremony was celebrated at the home of D. H. Campbell on Wednesday of last week, when Miss Sadie Louise Dalgleish, formerly of Bolsover, Ont., and sister of Mrs. Campbell, was united in marriage to Mr. James Campbell, of Hanna, by Rev. H. J. McKay, of Delia.

The bride, charmingly gowned in a navy blue suit of tricotine, with hat to match and mink stole, the gift of the groom, entered the room on the arm of her brother-in-law, D. H. Campbell, to the strains of Wagner's Wedding March. During the signing of the register, Mrs. MacKay sang "O Promise Me."

After hearty congratulations, the bridal party went to the dining-room which had been prettily decorated with pink carnations for the occasion, when a sumptuous wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will reside in Hanna.

Mrs. Campbell is a niece of Mrs. P. Glover, East City, and lived in Peterborough for a time before going West.

EDMISON—MANN.

More than fifty guests were assembled at Lakeview Farm, Smith Township, on March 29th, when Miss Martha Mann, daughter of Mrs. Thos. R. Mann, was united in marriage to Mr. Alexander Edmison, only son of Mr. Percy J. Edmison. Miss Beatrice McGregor played the wedding march. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. M. Fraser, of the Gilmour Memorial Church. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Fred. Mann, was beautifully attired in a dress of white georgette over satin, and wore a veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses. While the register was being signed Miss Florence Scott sang "At Dawning," Miss Mary Scott playing the accompaniment.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmison left by a late evening train for Montreal, and on their return will be at home to their many friends.

NICHOLSON—DUNLOP.

At 438 Park Street, Peterborough, on Wednesday, March 30, by Rev. G. Greatrix, Emma, daughter of Mr. James Dunlop, of this city, and Henry Joshua Nicholson, of South Monaghan, were united in marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson will reside in South Monaghan.

Would Be Generous.

Albany, N.Y., March 31.—Artificial limbs should be provided at least every three years by the state to members of the militia who have lost a leg while in the service of the state, Assemblyman Joseph A. V. McKee believes. He has placed before the legislature for its consideration a bill carrying an appropriation of $5,000 so that the artificial limbs can be given to disabled men.

A bill has just been introduced into the New York Legislature to prevent the stranding of theatrical companies. The bill calls for the finding of a bond by any producer who sends a theatrical company out of the State, the amount of the bond to be $250 for each member of the company, and the bond is to be forfeited if return transportation is not provided the players.

BOUNTIES ARE ATTACKED AND ARE DEFENDED

SIR GEORGE FOSTER REPLIES TO CRITICISMS OF THE OPPOSITION.

OTTAWA, April 1 (Canadian Press).—Bounties on linen, yarn, and crude petroleum occupied the House yesterday. For the greater part, the House was in supply on the trade and commerce estimates, and the discussion followed a placid course.

A. R. McMaster (Brome) charged that the petroleum business was profitable, and there was no need to assist it with bounties.

"It's rank, raving lunacy," Mr. McMaster declared.

"But," retorted Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, "the policy of paying bounties to producers of crude petroleum was inaugurated by a Liberal Government."

"Then," rejoined Mr. McMaster, "conditions were no doubt different when the policy was inaugurated" The item for bounties, which amounted to $8,000, was laid over to enable Sir George Foster to get information as to whether any, and if any, how much of the bounty was paid to the Imperial Oil Company.

The next item taken up was the bounty of $26,000 on linen, yarn spun in Canada from Canadian flax.

There was some opposition criticism that the farmers had been encouraged to grow flax and now found themselves with a crop on their hands. What advice, it was asked, had Sir George to offer?

Sir George held he would be a pretty bold man who would take the responsibility of giving advice in such a case. The producer must decide for himself. There has been direct intention on the part of the Government to encourage farmers to grow flax. The bounty has been given to encourage the production of linen thread during the war. He thought the farmers had grown flax rather because of high prices than because of the bounty.

SAYS SOCIETY IS CURSE OF BOSTON.

Married to Saleslady—H. H. Davis Stirs Up Four Hundred.

BOSTON, April 1.—The "Four Hundred" here are considerably stirred up by Harold H. Davis' elopement with and marriage to Miss Alice Troy, formerly a saleslady in a Boston department store, followed by his message to society friends that it's nobody's business whom he marries but his own. Davis is a scion of a wealthy Boston family, member of several exclusive clubs, and a graduate of Harvard University. The couple were secretly married by a Supreme Court Judge in Providence, R. I., on March 17.

From Buzzards Bay, where they are spending their honeymoon with Mr. and Mrs. James Garland, who recently attracted widespread attention by refusing their share of an estate of several million dollars left by Mr. Garland's father, Harold Davis sent the following message to his friends in Boston:

"You can tell them I'm happier with my South Boston bride than if I'd chosen her from Beacon Street or Commonwealth Avenue, and we'd attended the same social functions all our lives.

"When Beacon Street marries South Boston it is usually Beacon Street that gains. Beacon Street's over conservation is the curse of Boston, and social distinctions are usually idiotic."

"I am proud of the wife I chose, and who chose me. We are ultimately going to California and I am going to start a stock farm. My wife likes the idea. Neither of us takes society with a capital 'S' seriously."

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

GRAFT IS EXPOSED IN BUILDING TRADE.

Investigators Told Criminal Combinations Extort 35 Per Cent. in Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Amazing revelations of the graft, corruption and terrorism which are responsible for throttling the building industry in Chicago have just been made before the joint investigating legislative committee. The Federal Government and the county and municipal officials have representatives at the hearings and all of these forces will be combined to crush the criminal rings and combinations which are said to make the recent exposures in New York look crude.

One man who had built more than 1,000 cottages and bungalows, building them honestly and selling them at what he considered a fair profit, testified that he was finally bankrupted and driven from the city because he would not add $1,000 to his price. After testifying he hastened out of the city, fearing vengeance at the hands of hired sluggers of the combination.

Testimony has been given that graft enters into every building transaction from the minute the first spadeful of dirt is removed until the building is turned over to the owners. It is said this graft averages 35 per cent. of the cost of the structure, running into many thousands of dollars. The legislative committee has been told that this graft is collected by four men, one building contractor and three union business agents, and disbursements are made by them to the smaller fry.

Even after the building is completed and the contractor and owner have met every demand and "fine" the business agents can think of, there remain the grafters who, for 10 per cent. of the cost of the structure, will insure the owner against the smashing of windows, tearing out of electric light fixtures and other damage.

LONG SERVICE

This is the 68th season men and young men, and boys, too, have bought their Spring outfits at Grafton's, and our steadily increasing volume of business through all these years is the surest proof of the supremacy of our clothing in quality, style, value and serviceability. We have built our clothing business on foundations that endure—sincerity and service—and our success has been cumulative. Each year more people realize the worth of our clothing prices. We make the best clothing it is possible to make, and we sell it on a maker-to-wearer basis, which eliminates the customary middleman's profit, enabling us to offer equally good and better clothing at lower prices than others ask. The Grafton clothing service was never better prepared to fill your every need than this 1921 Spring season. Call and inspect our Spring offerings in men's and young men's suits at $25, $28.50, $35, $38.50 and $45, compare them with what others are asking far more for—then you'll readily understand why Grafton's hold the supremacy in the field of clothing. You owe it to yourself to investigate. Grafton & Co., Limited, the big double store.

MUCH DISTRESS IN TRANSVAAL.

Starvation Reported in Western District.

JOHANNESBURG, April 1. — (Associated Press.)—Economic distress prevails in the Western Transvaal on account of the great diamond slump, says the Central News. Starvation is reported in some cases.

The government officials are powerless to diminish the distress for the few special allowances which the government have granted have been swallowed up without appreciably relieving the situation.

Although the living is comparatively cheap, the money-less diggers are unable to purchase any goods. Stones formerly worth £40 a carat are gladly sold for £7 and tiny stones are gladly swapped for a bucket of maize or meal. Some of the diamond diggings are deserted as the inhabitants have gone to the towns where they are overcrowding the slums.

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

TWO GAMES AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON AT 3 P.M.—REFEREES, AND OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The Peterborough football schedule opens to-morrow afternoon at the Exhibition grounds under league auspices with the Canadian General having the Canadian Woollens as their guests on the east end pitch. Another very interesting game will be played on the west end pitch between the Caledonians and the comrades.

Both games must start at 3 p.m. prompt, if not, the home team will be fined $500 for first five minutes and $1.00 thereafter. The referee for C.G.E. and Woolens game will be Mr. J. Howarth and for Comrades and Caledonian game Mr. J. Clark, who made a creditable debut during last season as a referee. Mr. Howarth's previous experience was gained in England under the Amateur League.

The Canadian Woollens team for to-morrow will be: C. Fenner, goal; W. Chambers and J. Cridland, fullbacks; R. Monkman, S. McMillan and H. Frost, half-backs; J. Swan, R. Jones, M. Shaw, J. Shaw and R. Roberts, forwards. Reserves, J. Clark and J. Montgomery. Every member is requested to be on hand at 2.30 p.m. prompt.

The Executive of the Peterborough Football Association are looking forward to a good time to-night at their dance in the G.W.V.A. hall. It is an opportune time for the players and officials of all clubs to get together at the opening of the 1921 season. The secretary states that it promises to be the most successful season Peterborough has ever experienced in the soccer game. Let us have a greatly rally to-night and boost things along by your attendance.

All memebrs of the Great War Veterans' team are requested to attend a practice game on Saturday afternoon at the Exhibition grounds at 2.30 p.m. prompt. Any player desiring to get into a good team will get a hearty welcome because the Vets need the players.

The Scotsmens team for Saturday will be J. Wright, goal; W. R. Service and Sam McMillan, full-backs; R. Brown, J. Moir and Alex. Morris, half-backs; R. McDougall, J. Dingwall, Wm. Calder, A. Burgess and R. Hannah, forwards. Reserves, Ralph Brunton and J. McFeat.

The Comrades team will be: G. F. Poste, goal; T. Kitchen and F. Mallinson, full-backs; R. Joliffe, H. Cowie and T. Bolan, half-backs; W. Warman, M. Dunkley, E. G. Hardie, W. McDougall and C. Hopkins, forwards. Reserves, J. P. Roberts and F. J. Rockwell.

The C.G.E. team will show a few changes from last season, but the Canadian Woollens will have, practically speaking, many new faces in Caledonian players who have gone over to them, viz.: Matt. Shaw, James Shaw, Stewart McMillan, C. Fenner and Herb Frost. They have also signed on another Scotsman, J. Swan, who lately arrived from the old country. So the football fans can look forward to a good game to-morrow.

Local football enthusiasts will be glad to learn that Mr. Charlie Thorpe is making satisfactory progress towards recovery. He will be out of the game for a long time.

The De Laval team will have to honour of opening the new football field of the Canadian Woollens on April 16th, which is being put in splendid condition.

Just a little reminder to all the clubs—it must be understood that no team must carry any more than 25 players at any time. To exceed this number will leave an opening for a protest.

Now that the City Council is submitting a daylight saving by-law before the ratepayers on April 6th, every football player will have to become a "booster" for daylight saving, otherwise they will have the same difficulty as last year, when they had to finish the game in darkness in the evening games.

Two Caledonian players, Mr. E. G. Hardie and Mr. J. Roberts, have been transferred to the Comrades, who have had a little difficulty in getting a good team together.

Many a time when at the football games you will notice a number of spectators who overlooked the visitor with the collection box when making the round. Gentlemen, do not forget the collection, because every team needs the finances, which no doubt should be fruitful to-morrow.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterboorugh Football Association will be held in G.W.V.A. rooms on Monday evening, April 4th at 7.30 p.m. Representatives, please note time and place.

On Saturday evening the G.W.V.A. football executive are holding a dance in the G.W.V.A. Hall so as to get some finances that will assist them during the season.

Word has been received from Winnipeg that the Scottish football team, which is to tour Canada and the United States this summer, will sail from Liverpool on the Cameronia on May 11th, arriving in New York about 17th May. They will open the tour with a game in Ottawa on May 21st. This looks as if the games in Quebec province have been cancelled owing to the action of the O.F.A. in refusing to handle any of them for the D.F.A.

STANLEY CUP SERIES EVEN

VANCOUVER DEFEATS OTTAWA 3 TO 2, NECESSITATING A DECIDING GAME SATURDAY.

VANCOUVER, April 1.—(Canadian Press.)—Playing the Easterners at their own game, six man hockey, Eastern rules, Vancouver last night evened up the Stanley Cup series by defeating the Ottawa team in the fourth game by three goals to two. This necessitates a fifth and deciding game, which will take place Saturday night.

SPORTSMANSHIP

And How to Cultivate it For the Good of the Grand Old Game.

Football is not quite so clean as it might be. Better than it was fifteen or twenty years ago it certainly is, but there is still room for improvement. That we shall ever get it absolutely clean is perhaps too much for us to hope. Human nature being what it is we shall I fancy have always transgressions on the field of play—always have the player, who without thinking, will lose his temper and commit an indiscretion, and be genuinely grieved about it afterwards.

But there are others—and a wide distinction must be made between them and the player who does pardonable faults, more or less, on the spur of the moment—there are others, who, I am sorry to say, take a delight in deliberately violating the rules of the game. Fortunately they are not many. Now, it is that unsporty spirit which I should like to see broken and destroyed. Therefore my advice to the present generation of players is to strive to play clean—to play football pure and simple, to never resort to a dirty trick, to never commit an action against an opponent which they would not like to be committed against themselves.

The True Spirit.

The spirit of true sportsmanship is the spirit which needs to be cultivated closely in order to cut out of the game things which are not—well, which are not "cricket." You know what I mean. The deliberately dirty player ought to be driven out of football. He disgraces the game, he degrades it; he tries to do by dirty, low down actions what he cannot accomplish by clean, clever play. He cannot bear to be beaten, because the true spirit of sportsmanship is not in him He has not endeavoured, he will not endeavour, to cultivate it.

In my my time I have known a few very brainy players who often were guilty of dirty work. But they were the exception which proved the rule—the rule that men who deliberately violated the laws of play were generally second or third raters, and introduced their hooligan tactics to cover up their lack of skill.

I recall a brilliant centre forward, and an equally brilliant centre halfback. One Saturday afternoon they were opposed to each other in an important match. For one reason or another the centre half set himself to deliberately foul the centre forward whenever a chance occurred. The latter bore the unjust and cruel infliction as long as he could, playing a clean and clever game, notwithstanding the unfair embarrassment.

Several times was the centre half caught in the act and penalized, but the referee did not see all that occurred. And at last the suffering centre forward marched off the field. A minute later he was seen marching on again. In one hand he held an open knife. The blade was long and lean and slightly curved at the point. It was a cruel, murderous looking weapon which glistened and gleamed as the sunlight fell upon the steel.

A Dramatic Moment.

With measured step, he strode toward his antagonist. The crowd quit shouting as they watched him advance. The referee stopped the play. The players stood spellbound—it was a moment tense with excitement, a moment charged with tragic possibilities, a very dramatic moment indeed. A yard from the centre half, the centre forward stopped. The other players drew closer.

"You see this knife?" said the forward, in a stern voice.

The centre half was silent, wondering what was to happen next. In the hand of his opponent lay the ugly weapon. Twenty seconds passed. A deep hush had fallen. The crowd with parted lips and straining eye, gazed at the strange scene in the middle of the arena. At last the centre forward spoke again.

"Well," said he, "take it and kill me—kill me with one swift stab. I prefer to die suddenly by your hand, than to be slowly kicked and hacked to death by your feet."

And he offered the knife to the centre half

A smile rippled around the group standing near. It grew into a wave of laughter, which burst boisterously. The crowd joined in, not knowing exactly what they were laughing at. But none laughed more heartily than the centre forward and the half back.

The game was resumed and there was not another foul. There was not a cleaner nor a better player among the twenty two than the man who had by his dirty tricks provoked the curious and unique action which I have tried to describe. The centre forward in question used to be very well known in Yorkshire.

Play the Game.

Now let me drive home a few simple truths. Be a sport on the field in word and in deed. Play the game every time and all the time. Don't lose your temper. If you play the man play him fairly, but remember that to play the ball is the main thing. Charging is really unnecessary in football. Brains should always be able to beat brawn Tripping is the resort of the beaten and cowardly player. Deliberately kicking the ball out of play, unless there be nothing else for it, is almost as cowardly. Stand up to the foe. Be a thorough sportsman. Play the game as a man and a Briton. And strive to realize that there is nothing to gain, but much to lose, by resorting to spuroiusmethods of play.

S. BLOOMER.

AUSTRALIAN GOLFER AFTER CHAMPIONSHIP.

An ambidexterous professional golfer from Australia, Joseph H. Kirkwood, gave an exhibition of trick shots in Chicago and departed for Philadelphia and Pinehurst on his way to England and France to wrest laurels at the open championships. Kirkwood, who is open champion of Australia, represents the Riverdale Golf Club of Victoria. While just 24 years old he won the Australian championship with 290 strokes over a 6,400-yard course. Among the trick shots was one which might be called the boomerang. He puts so much back spin on a full mashie shot that the ball rises high in the air so perpendicularly that he is able to catch it without moving. In another stunt he drives a ball from beneath a man's foot and with equal facility picks one from the toe of a shoe.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

John E. Kellerd, the eminent actor who is to play an engagement at the Grand on Friday and Saturday of this week, has had a remarkable career. Before becoming a star he had played no less than eighty-three leading parts, including every kind of role in the spoken drama from Oedipus of Sophocles—of which he stands as the only impersonator in the American theatre—to the lightest modern comedy. In point of service, though not in age, he is the oldest living "Hamlet," having impersonated that character as a child at the King's Cross Theatre, London, in 1879, being then less than ten years of age. His celebrated run of that tragedy for 102 consecutive performances on Broadway, New York City, at the Harris and Garden Theatres in 1912, established him as the foremost tragedian of his time. His impersonations of "Shylock," "Macbeth," "Othello," "Benedick," "Malvolio," "Romeo" and "Marc Antony" are known and admired from coast to coast. A man of broad cultivation, a scholar of the highest type, he has been endorsed by the press of the country as the finest reader in the profession.

JOHN E. KELLERD as SHYLOCK, in "The Merchant of Venice," at the Grand To-day and To-Morrow.

AT THE ALLEN

JACK PICKFORD IN IDEAL ROLE

Irene Rich Also Admirably Cast in George Ade Comedy, "Just Out of College."

Irene Rich, the Goldwyn actress whose comedy ability is so laughably revealed in "Stop Thief!" a Tom Moore picture in which she played the bride, is given an excellent comedy vehicle as Miss Jones, the pickle queen in the Goldwyn Picture, "Just Out of College," which comes to the Allen Theatre for 2 days, commencing to-day. Jack Pickford is the leading man, and his work in this fascinating George Ade film play is par excellence.

As Ed Swinger, the youth who closes his college career with $20,000 in his pocket, a resolve to double it in 60 days, and not the ghost of an idea how to go about it, Pickford has found his ideal role. How he makes good his promise and more than doubles his money—gives many a laugh.

MOST UNIQUE OF FISH TALES CLAIMED FOR FILM COMEDY

A new record for fish stories is promised in "Dynamite," the third of the Mermaid two reel comedies which comes to the Allen Theatre to-day and to-morrow, with Lloyd Hamilton, of "Ham and Bud" fame who was the star in "Duck Inn."

"I predict that every fisherman will go away pledged to tell no more big stories, says Manager Furlong. "In this picture Ham catches fish without rod or line or net, but still he uses flies for bait. He neither sits on the bank or a dock, and does not use a boat. It would be spoiling the fun to tell how he does catch 'em, but I'll promise more laughs than any fish story on record ever got."

AT THE REGENT.

ZANGWILL PLAY HERE WITH SHIRLEY MASON

Lively interest has been aroused by Shirley Mason's latest picture to be presented here, not only because of the success recently attained by this young Fox star in "Her Elephant Man," "Love's Harvest," and "The Little Wanderer," but also because of the world renown of the play in which she is to appear. This is "Merely Mary Ann," the great stage success by Israel Zangwill. It ras been made into a motion picture by Fox Film Corporation and will be shown at the Regent Theatre to-day.

"Merely Mary Ann" tells the story of a poor little maid-of-all-work in a cheap London boarding house, who fell in love with one of the boarders, a musician who had given up a fortune and ease for his art. Later on Mary Ann showed that she was willing to give up a fortune for his love. Miss Mason it is said, never has had a better fitting or more appealing part.

The leading man is Casson Ferguson, and the cast also contains the well known names of Harry Spingler, Georgia Woodthorpe, Babe London and "Kewpie" Norgan. The direction is by Edward J. Le Saint.

Voice Of The People

To the Mayor and Council, but especially to the Mayor.

Sirs and Gentlemen,—I would respectfully call your attention to the fact that the birds are beginning Sunday concerts in the parks. The Almighty has made enough mistakes in allowing mankind to go on the rampage, without this kind of thing being permitted also. It is quite apparent that the moral constitution of the universe is all wrong, and I would ask you to call a public meeting so that we can get it straightened out, at least in Peterborough. Whatever the Creator may do let your skirts be clear.

THE O.A.B.A. INTERMEDIATE TITLE IS WON BY LOCAL "Y" FROM WOODSTOCK

DEFEATED WOODSTOCK IN RETURN GAME LAST NIGHT 30 TO 26, WINNING THE SERIES BY 69 TO 40—CONFLICTING REPORTS OF GAME AT FIRST GAVE IT TO WOODSTOCK.

PETERBORO OUTCLASSED THE WESTERNERS

The majority of the Y.M.C.A. basketball team arrived home at noon to-day from Woodstock, where last night they won the intermediate championship, making their victory clean-cut by beating Woodstock on their own floor by 30 to 25, thus giving them the round by a total score of 69 to 39.

The report supplied the Canadian Press and the Toronto morning papers of the score was utterly wrong. The Woodstock account announced Woodstock as winners of last night's game by the score of 26 to 20, whereas as a matter of fact the Petes captured the battle by 30 to 25. The attempt to rob the Peterborough team of credit for a well-earned victory seems to have been deliberate, for the score was never in dispute last night. Peterborough led practically all the way, flashing in front after the first few minutes had been played. They led by 9 to 8 at half time and in the second half increased their lead until they had a five point margin at the finish. It was a fast, hard-checking battle, not any too clean, for Woodstock tried desperately to break down the defence of the Petes and to take command of the scoring.

Wire From Woodstock.

This morning the Examiner wired Woodstock for the correct score and received the following reply:

Woodstock, Ont., April 1st, 21.

Correct score, Peterborough 30, Woodstock 26. Peterborough round by 29.

A wire to the Y.M.C.A. at Woodstock answered as follows:

CALEDONIANS WERE OFF FORM AND LOST CHAMPIONSHIP.

Great interest prevailed last evening in the Great War Veterans' Billiard Rooms when the Caledonians were defeated by the G.W.V.A. team after a very poor exhibition of billiards played by the Scotsmen.

The War Veterans' team were in excellent form and played a good game with a composition ball, and now are the Peterboro billiard champions:

FIGHT RAVAGES OF DREAD CANCER.

Paris Votes $2,500,000 For This Purpose.

PARIS, March 31.—Purchase of two grams of radium for 2,500,000 francs has been voted by the Municipal Council of Paris. The radium will be used in fighting the ravages of cancer.

Deaths from this disease have increased from 3,073 in 1910, to 3,619 in 1919. Since that time the death rate from cancer has been growing.

Brought Back Speech.

Boston, March 24.—Administration of ether to Ernest Young, former British aviator, under detention here pending an investigation as to his citizenship, brought back his lost power of speech. After being shot down behind the German lines Young became speechless. He subsequently recovered the use of his tongue while in a prison camp. He tumbled from his bed here recently and physicians found that again he could not talk. Dr. Albert Murphy, attached to the medical staff at a Long Island institution, conceived the idea of ether treatment after he had learned some of Young's history. Young began to talk as soon as he came out of the ether.

PROMOTION FOR MR. T. H. GLOVER

LOCAL CUSTOMS OFFICIAL BECOMES ASSISTANT INSPECTOR.

Mr. T. H. Glover, who has been appointed assistant inspector of this Customs district, known as 4A, leaves in a few days to assume his new duties with headquarters at Kingston. Anticipating an early departure, as his appointment dated from April 1, the staff of the local Customs Office presented Mr. Glover with a club bag, and expressed in an address, read by G. T. C. Lang, not only their congratulations on his promotion, but also regret at severing their pleasant relations as daily office associates.

The Address.

The following address was read by Mr. Lang, and Mr. William Lang made the presentation:

Peterborough, March 31, 1921.
Mr. T. H. Glover.

Dear Friend,—We your fellow-employees of His Majesty's Customs in Peterborough wish to extend to you our heartiest congratulations on your appointment as Assistant Inspector of Customs, and hope that you may have many years of success in your new field of labor. You will be very much missed from this office, but we feel that you will fill the position which you have been elevated to with the same ability that you have always shown here, and while we regret your departure, we assure you that you will have our confidence as well as that of the Department. It is a distinction coming to an old Peterborough boy, which we are satisfied will bring honor not only to yourself but also to the training you have received locally.

We cannot allow this opportunity to pass without some expression of our goodwill, and ask you to accept this club bag in remembrance of the days spent among us.

Long Service.

Mr. T. H. Glover has been on the staff of the Customs Office for 13 years, and the many people who have met him in a business way, as well as a wide circle of intimate friends, will learn with interest of his well-merited promotion in the Customs service.

STATISTICS FOR PAST MONTH

The stork was unusually active during March. He ushered into Peterborough households forty-nine youngsters. Cupid coupled up eighteen males and females "for weal or woe," the same number as he did in February. In March there were only 24 deaths as compared with 37 in February and 52 a year ago.

The little archer is 4 down from February of last year. Births are nine more than in February, but are considerably below the high figure of 61 in March, 1920.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir: By reading last night's paper, Mr. Dobbin does not think Peterboro too dear a place to live in; one can hardly call it living these days. We are all quite aware of the big bill that has to be paid. There will be no end to this bill if the town is going to let the council go on spending our money in the way they are doing. For instance, take the Hunter street bridge: Could not the bridge have been built by Conroy Bros., the same as the Smith street bridge, when the late T. A. S. Hay was engineer? When that bridge was finished his worthy name could be put on the name plate. Can the same be done now. The town is paying for an engineer, but when the bridge was to be built an outside engineer had to be brought to the town—and what is the price that has to be paid now?

When the filtration plant is to be built who is going to be the next to be brought to town for another large expense. When our Mayor helps to raise one's salary for the work of the town he can hardly expect the town to pay extra for an outsider to do the work.

The sewage disposal plant—has that not been long enough under discussion, or is it going to be like the bridge to linger on, for the town to keep voting more money for to go toward the endless bill. I guess we all hope things some day will take a change. Thanking you sir, for this space in your valuable paper, yours respectfully,

E. J. Ferguson.

SCREEN NEWS

On the "lot" of the Buster Keaton studio in Hollywood is an extra who is a habitual borrower. Regardless of his salary, he usually tries to make "quick touches" toward the end of each week. Buster Keaton, the serio-comic, can be numbered among the many who were "placed on the cuff" by this affable actor.

Coming back a second time, this actor, approaching Buster, asked:

"Can you let me have ten until Saturday?"

"Certainly," Keaton replied, "but I must have security. What have you?"

"Well, I can give you an I.O.U."

"Never mind the O.U.—just give me your eye."

Needless to remark the exchange wasn't made.

Colleen Moore, who has been recently on location in the wilds of Canada, has written her impressions of life in the great waste spaces. "I like my cows and chickens in the back yard," she says. "I guess I'm no prairie flower. I must be an asphalt tiger-rose. And I'm so afraid of snakes, and bugs and spiders. I'm doing a regular Lord Mayor of Cork act. As a wild mountain girl I'm a failure. When it comes to talking about the wild free and grand life of the prairie, I'm out."

In the London Daily Express is found a rather interesting sidelight into the seriousness with which the writers of news concerning the drama over there change. Under the heading, "Two American Views," the following items are quoted—the first from the New York Tribune:

"It is reported on reliable authority that Barrie wrote 'Mary Rose' with his left hand, but an error may have crept in during the transmission of the rumor. The left foot seems much more likely."

The second is from another New York publication:

"These English-made pictures may be fine for England, but to us they are funnier than Chaplin, although they were made as high class screen dramas."

Then follows the withering insult, which belongs to the Express:

"Pity Columbus died before he had time to repent!"

WILHELM WORRIES AT MARK'S VALUE.

Makes Purchase of Furniture in Holland Impossible

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, March 31.—Apparently the low value of the German mark in Holland is causing ex-Kaiser Wilhelm some trouble. Quite recently it made the purchase of furniture in Holland impossible and the former Emperor instructed his advisors to write asking the Government to allow the following articles to be sent to him: 12 pairs felt slippers, 12 cane-bottomed chairs, 12 curtain rods, 11 dining-room chairs, 12 swinging electric lamps, 12 ceiling electric lamps, 2 washstands, 2 cupboards for brooms and dusters, 6 night tables, 6 small tables, 12 lamp shades, 1 electric, 2 petrol and 12 oil lamps.

It was explained that the articles asked for were purchased by him in 1888, were still in Berlin, and constituted his personal property. The Prussian Government sharply refused his demands, and for so doing brought down on itself the anger of the Junkers

A CLOSER TOUCH WITH DOMINIONS.

Will Result From Separate Ministry.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., March 31.—Cordial approval is expressed here of the suggestion that the question of the creation of a separate Dominions Ministry shall be remitted to the Conference of Premiers in London this summer. The Press generally predicts that the proposal will be approved, not because the present control is unsatisfactory, but because the change will result in closer formal touch, conforming with the greater actual unity.

Opinions in regard to Mr. Churchill's appointment reflect doubt regarding his relationship with the Dominions and his attitude towards them, but the new Colonial Secretary is welcomed as a man of action.

EXTEND U. S. RELIEF WORK

(By Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.)

BERLIN, March 31.—To supplement the work of the American Relief Commission, the German Cabinet has voted 50,000,000 marks for the benefit of underfed children.

MR. BORIS HAMBOURG, VIOLONCELLIST.

One of the assisting artistes for the concert of The Peterborough Male Voice Choir next Tuesday in the Grand Opera House, is the Russian violoncellist, Mr. Boris Hambourg, who is to-day recognised as one of the greatest 'cellists since the days of Alfredo Piatti. Born in the year 1884, he has been reared in a musical atmosphere, and from his eighth year has been studying music —first at the piano, preferring later the 'cello. And his professional concert career has been a series of unbroken successes.

This visit to Peterborough is one of only three or four in Canada Mr. Hambourg is making prior to sailing next month for a concert tour in Europe and Great Britain. He is due to give several concerts in England, at least, three to be held in the Crystal Palace, London.

So Peterborough, and the Male Voice Choir, are highly honoured in the fact that this engagement has been arranged by the executive; and his numbers for that evening are of a very high order.

"Dream Street" will be the new D. W. Griffith production and work on the picture is now going on at the Mamaroneck studios. The production was originally named "Flaming Lamps."

"Dream Street" will be completed in a week or so and its release may be expected soon afterward. Carol Dempster of "The Love Flower," who visited Boston during the winter, plays the principal role. Others are Ralph Graves, Tyrone Power, Edward Peil, W. J. Ferguson, Charles Mack, Agnes Fleming, Charles Slattery, Betty Hilburn, Kathleen Ardell, George Neville, Porter Strong and Vivia Odgen, the latter now appearing in "Way Down East." Mr. Griffith had already used 42 different "sets" for the production.

Peterboro Gets a Big Boost in Ottawa From the New Member

THE CITY DESCRIBED AS "WITHOUT A POOR MAN" TO OTTAWA KIWANIS CLUB.

ATTENTION TO HEALTH

OTTAWA, April 2. — (Special to the Examiner).—As a publicity man and booster for his constituency, G. N. Gordon, M.P. for West Peterborough, made an excellent impression in his address to the Ottawa Kiwanis Club here yesterday, and his speech received a hearty ovation.

He described the Electric City as "a city without a poor man," dwelling enthusiastically on its possibilities, orderliness and efficient civic management, handling his topic neatly and in a manner which made it a popular one with his hearers, who were mainly young business men.

With regard to Peterborough's development, Mr. Gordon declared that special attention had been given to public health features, that efforts had been guided to ensure the balancing of a demand for labor, and that prominent and professional men fairly had been encouraged to hold public office. A number of the shrewd business men constituted the public Utilities Commission, while prominent merchants and employees had been elected to the Council. The people had evidently confidence in the ability and integrity of these men and supported them in their decisions. The ordinary office seeker had been largely eliminated. The physicians of Peterborough had given their services at regular intervals for the treatment of patients in hospitals who could not readily pay for the service, and a Better Babies' Clinic had proved to be a valuable feature. Inspection of milk was rigidly carried out, and there was a Public Health Bureau, which undertook various measures to improve the living conditions. The expenses for this Bureau were raised through the holding of an Annual Motor Show. Small playgrounds had been established in various parts of the city in preference to one or two large parks.

When industries developed which required considerable small female labor, steps were taken to have manufacturing enterprises which would provide employment for male heads of families and men generally. This arrangement had worked out advantageously, as Peterborough had suffered little from unemployment, except for a short period during the past winter.

Mr. Gordon has "caught on" in the capital remarkably fast, and already is very popular with those who have met him or had the pleasure of hearing him speak. He spoke to the Women's Liberal Reform Club here a short time ago, and paid a graceful tribute to the overwhelming majority in his election to the House.

The talk to the Kiwanis yesterday was perhaps his first important appearance before the business men of Ottawa, and many expressions of praise for his interesting address were exchanged. Altogether, Mr. Gordon will find himself a busy man in his spare time during the House sessions, and future invitations to have him speak in Ottawa are most likely to be numerous.

GREAT CORPORATION LAUDS ADVERTISING

Ten failures are caused by too little advertising to every one that is caused by too much advertising, members of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce were told at their annual meeting and banquet by S. F. Fannon, one of five experts sent through the country by the National Cash Register Company to deliver addresses on the "Troubles of the Retail Merchant and How to Stop Them." "One of the axioms of modern business is that advertising pays," said Mr. Fannon. "Continuous advertising, newspaper advertising in the same newspaper space steadily are best."

ACQUIRING OF G.T. DELAYED

UNFAVORABLE CRITICISM AT GOVERNMENT CAUCUS WHICH CONSIDERED IT.

ARBITRATION UNFINISHED

OTTAWA, April 2. — (Canadian Press) — Canadian National and Grand Trunk railway affairs were under discussion at yesterday's caucus of government supporters in the senate and House of Commons. Particular attention was given, it is understood, to the application of the Grand Trunk Railway for an extension of time within which acquisition of the system by the government is to be completed.

Under the legislation as it was passed by parliament the transaction should be consumated by April 9, that is a week from today. The board of arbitrators which has been sitting in Montreal, however, has not yet finished hearing the evidence upon questions which have to be considered in determing the value of the stock. Before the government can take complete control of the system the report of the arbitrators must be secured, outstanding Grand Trunk stocks must be transferred to government and in payment thereof new four per cent. non-voting stock must be issued by the government on the basis of the findings of the arbitrators.

In the caucus various views of the application for an extention of time were expressed. There was naturally some objection, it is said, to the delay which would increase the cost of acquisition of control of the system and postpone for at least a brief period, co-ordination of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National systems.

MONTH'S EXTENSION OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

From Toronto, where they succeeded in persuading the Provincial Board of Health that Peterborough was determined not to be bound by the order to install the activated sludge system of sewage disposal, the deputation of the Council turned eastward, dropped City Engineer Parsons here, and picked up Ald. Phelan and went through to Ottawa, where they had arranged an interview with Senator Robertson, the Minister of Labour.

Mayor McIntyre and Aldermen Whitehouse, Phelan, and Gordon urged that the Government's co-operation in the temporary relief of unemployment be continued.

Senator Robertson agreed that the conditions warranted further assistance to those who have been unable to secure work, and approved of the continuance of the Government's share toward the relief for at least another month.

EXTENSION OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF PERIOD

ASKED BY DEPUTATION TO OTTAWA — PETERBOROUGH IN NEED OF MORE FUNDS FOR THESE.

SPENT NEARLY $5,000

Mayor McIntyre and Ald. N. Phelan, chairman of the Unemployment Relief Committee, have not yet returned from Ottawa, where they went yesterday as part of a deputation to endeavor to have an extension made of the Government's grant to unemployment relief.

The period for relief ended on March 31. Mr. F. W. Miller, Relief Officer, yesterday in relief given, depended on the city backing him up. The money expended in this city on relief in January, February and March, he said, would be between $4,000 and $5,000, of which the city pays one-third, about $1,500. So far, no money has been received from the Government, the city meeting the entire bill.

HEINTZMAN HALL RECITAL CROWDED

ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME CONCLUDED SPECIAL BRUNSWICK WEEK.

The musicale at Heintzman Hall last night provided an interesting entertainment for a large audience that occupied all the available accommodation, and crowded even the doorway. The local musicians who contributed to the programme were Mrs. Maurice Park, who sang two numbers and was enthusiastically encored, Mr. Harold Jones, tenor. Mrs. Clark, contralto, Miss D. Gillespie, and Mr. F. E. Walden, organist of Knox Church.

Mrs. Park sang "All the Roses in June," "The Hills of Kerry," "Happy Song," and "Tommy Lad," and although singing in the salesroom at Heintzman Hall, every one of her numbers as given with fine effect.

The programme included seven selections on a Brunswick phonograph —a beautiful "Stratford" model of Queen Anne design. The special features of the Brunswick, and the clearness of its reproductions were admirably presented These numbers included the Waltz Song from Romeo and Juliet, sung by Galli-Curci, the Mocking Bird by Alma Gluck, and "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," by Warenrath. Other Victor artistes chosen for this entertainment were Heifetz, Elman, Caruso, and Scotti, and the Peerless Quartette.

Mr. Harry R. Braid, of Toronto, a representative of the Brunswick Company, stated that the concert in Peterborough, which was arranged by Mr. W. Lawson, was second to none of the series given throughout Ontario from Windsor to this city.

Mr. Braid took occasion to return thanks for the large and appreciative audience, stating that it was the most successful recital of the kind he had secured during this Brunswick week, and was pleased to state on behalf of the manager of Heintzman Hall that they would be repeated during the summer. There was one note of comment heard as the audience was retiring. It came from an enthusiastic Scot, who worships at Knox's: "I, it was a' very guid; but I was a wee bit disappointed that Willie Lawson did na gie us a skirl frae Harry Lauder. I was waitin' to hear "Roamin' in the Gloamin."

REGISTRATION FOR REFERENDUM CLOSED

The registration in Peterborough for the prohibition referendum concludes to-day, and according to Mr. C. R. Widdifield, the number of names added to the voters' list has been fairly large. Mr. J. F. Strickland, who had charge of the register of those whose names began with letters in the second half of the alphabet, had nearly seventy on his sheets this morning.

COMMITTEE ON RAILWAYS AND MARINE MOVED

GOVERNMENT TO SUPPORT IDEA PROMULGATED BY HON. A. K. MACLEAN IN RESOLUTION.

TO SOLVE PROBLEM

OTTAWA, April 2. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Meighen announced in the Commons yesterday that the Government proposed to move for the appointment of a Standing Committee of the Commons on national railways and merchant shipping.

The organization of such a committee is proposed in the motion of which Hon. A. K. MacLean gave notice some time ago. The idea put forward has been that such a committee would provide better opportunities than at present exist for constructive discussion of the railway problem.

BABIES CLINIC HELD A MEETING

At the meeting of the Board of Management of the Well Babies' Clinic, held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Kendry, Water street, on Thursday evening, a very interesting report of the work of the preceding quarter was read by Mrs. G. S. McCartney, the Clinic nurse. The open meetings, at which a local physician gives an address on matters pertaining to child welfare, followed by a nurse's demonstration, were all very successful, both in point of attendance and the interest manifested in the practical work. On Jan. 25th, Dr. Sutton spoke on "Feet, Shoes and Stockings,' and nurses from Nicholls Hospital showed how to erect a croup tent at home with equipment kindly loaned by the Hospital for the purpose. On Feb. 22nd, Dr. Yelland lectured on "Bronchitis and Colds," and the nurse, Miss M. Morrison, explained the proper method of making and applying poultices and compresses. On March 22nd Dr. Ray Scott gave a talk on the "Causes and Treatment of Indigestion," and Miss Morrison gave a demonstration on the proper care of rubber goods.

During January, February and March, the nurse made a total of 160 calls, 5 minor operations were performed, during January, 33 babies were registered at the City Hall and 39 in February, deaths in February were 7 and 2 in March.

The examinations of infants at the Clinic meetings for the quarter were as follows: Feb. 1st, 18 examined, 4 follow-up cases. Feb. 8th, 8 examined, 1 follow-up case. Feb. 15th, 9 examined, 3 follow-up cases. March 1st, 11 examined. March 8th, 12 examined. March 14th, 11 examined, 1 follow-up case. March 29th, 12 examined, making a total of 81 babies examined during the period.

The Baby Welfare Clinic, which is held every Tuesday from three to five o'clock in the G.W.V.A. Hall on Murray street, is free to everyone, and all mothers interested in the work are invited to attend.

Viscount French Succeeded By Lord Edmund Talbot; Big Change in British Ministry

VISCOUNT FRENCH THE MAN WHO BARRED THE HUNS FROM CALAIS

Viscount French was appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1918. One of his great achievements was in the famous battle of Ypres the winning of which barred the Channel ports from German occupation and saved England from invasion. His rule in Ireland never proved a happy one because of his strong stand against the Radicals, and his declaration that a Sinn Fein Republic would never be established there. In December of 1919, an unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Viscount French, while he was motoring in Ireland.

INHOFF SYSTEM SEWAGE DISPOSAL MAY BE ADOPTED

After insisting for a year or more that Peterborough must adopt the activated sludge type of sewage disposal plants, the Provincial Board of Health has at last consented to the installation of the Imhoff system for which City Engineer Parsons and the City Council had fought since investigations had raised a doubt of the success of the activated sludge method.

The concession gained by the city was virtually wrested from the Provincial Board by a deputation composed of Mayor McIntyre, Aldermen Whitehouse, City Engineer Parsons, Mr. T Tooms, M.L.A. They met the Hon. Walter Rollo, Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Provincial Health Officer, and Mr. Dallyn, the Board's engineer.

A statement that Peterborough was delaying the building of a sewage disposal plant in an evasive way was warmly repudiated by Alderman Whitehouse. It was pointed out that this city's objectons to the activated sludge system, which Board had ordered to be employed here, were based on the fact that it was still in the experimental stage.

The members of the deputation declared that they wished to co-operate with the Board of Health, but on this question they held that they should not be compelled to use the activated sludge system instead of the older and better known Imhoff method.

Hon. Mr. Rollo and Dr. McCullough discussed the matter with the deputation at considerable length, and in a very friendly way acceded to Peterborough's wishes.

This means that City Engineer Parsons, supported by the Council, has won the last round in the dispute with the Provincial Board, and also that the city has no further reason for postponing the commencement of the sewage disposal plant.

500 RUSH SEATS

Only a few good reserved seats for The Peterborough Male Voice Choir concert remain unsold. Those who have not yet secured their reservations are advised to do so at the Grand Opera House without delay.

To meet the unusual demand, 500 rush seats in the gallery are being offered on Monday and Tuesday at 50 cents. It is hoped that in this way an opportunity will still be given to a large number who wish to hear the initial concert of the choir, to secure seats. Bup them at the Opera House on Monday and Tuesday next.

BRITISH COAL MINES RUINED

SIX MINES LEFT TO MERCY OF WATER THOUGHT TO BE PERMANENTLY WRECKED.

SEQUEL TO STRIKE

LONDON, April 2.— (Canadian Press.)—Six British coal mines left to the mercy of inrushing waters by the strike of the miners and pump men have already been flooded and some of them are said to be in such a condition that they may be permanently wrecked. Four of these mines are in South Staffordshire, one in the Forest of Dean, County of Gloucester, and one in Flintshire, Northeastern Wales.

Convene Parliament.

LONDON, April 2.—A minor sequel to the coal miners' dispute is that the House of Lords will reassemble eight days before the time stipulated for them to do so. The House of Commons had adjourned until April 4 and the House of Lords until April 12. Under the emergency proclamation the Government is bound to convene Parliament within five days. Hence a Royal proclamation was issued last night convening both Houses for Monday. Lively debates are anticipated.

PREFERENCE FOR WEST INDIES IS URGED ON HOUSE

FREDERICTON, N.B., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—In the Legislature yesterday Hon. Fred. Magee gave notice that he would move a resolution favoring preferential trade relations with the British West Indies, provided trade was carried on through ports.

Sir Robert S. Horne, President of the Board of Trade, has been appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer, in succession to J. Austen Chamberlain. Stanley Baldwin, Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasury, will become the new President of the Board of Trade. These changes necessitated considerable reconstruction of the Ministry. Peterboro Gets a Big Boost in Ottawa From the New Member

THE CITY DESCRIBED AS "WITHOUT A POOR MAN" TO OTTAWA KIWANIS CLUB.

ATTENTION TO HEALTH

OTTAWA, April 2. — (Special to the Examiner).—As a publicity man and booster for his constituency, G. N. Gordon, M.P. for West Peterborough, made an excellent impression in his address to the Ottawa Kiwanis Club here yesterday, and his speech received a hearty ovation.

He described the Electric City as "a city without a poor man," dwelling enthusiastically on its possibilities, orderliness and efficient civic management, handling his topic neatly and in a manner which made it a popular one with his hearers, who were mainly young business men.

With regard to Peterborough's development, Mr. Gordon declared that special attention had been given to public health features, that efforts had been guided to ensure the balancing of a demand for labor, and that prominent and professional men fairly had been encouraged to hold public office. A number of the shrewd business men constituted the public Utilities Commission, while prominent merchants and employees had been elected to the Council. The people had evidently confidence in the ability and integrity of these men and supported them in their decisions. The ordinary office seeker had been largely eliminated. The physicians of Peterborough had given their services at regular intervals for the treatment of patients in hospitals who could not readily pay for the service, and a Better Babies' Clinic had proved to be a valuable feature. Inspection of milk was rigidly carried out, and there was a Public Health Bureau, which undertook various measures to improve the living conditions. The expenses for this Bureau were raised through the holding of an Annual Motor Show. Small playgrounds had been established in various parts of the city in preference to one or two large parks.

When industries developed which required considerable small female labor, steps were taken to have manufacturing enterprises which would provide employment for male heads of families and men generally. This arrangement had worked out advantageously, as Peterborough had suffered little from unemployment, except for a short period during the past winter.

Mr. Gordon has "caught on" in the capital remarkably fast, and already is very popular with those who have met him or had the pleasure of hearing him speak. He spoke to the Women's Liberal Reform Club here a short time ago, and paid a graceful tribute to the overwhelming majority in his election to the House.

The talk to the Kiwanis yesterday was perhaps his first important appearance before the business men of Ottawa, and many expressions of praise for his interesting address were exchanged. Altogether, Mr. Gordon will find himself a busy man in his spare time during the House sessions, and future invitations to have him speak in Ottawa are most likely to be numerous.

GREAT CORPORATION LAUDS ADVERTISING

Ten failures are caused by too little advertising to every one that is caused by too much advertising, members of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce were told at their annual meeting and banquet by S F. Fannon, one of five experts sent through the country by the National Cash Register Company to deliver addresses on the "Troubles of the Retail Merchant and How to Stop Them." "One of the axioms of modern business is that advertising pays," said Mr. Fannon. "Continuous advertising, newspaper advertising in the same newspaper space steadily are best."

ACQUIRING OF G.T. DELAYED

ARBITRATION UNFINISHED

OTTAWA, April 2. — (Canadian Press) — Canadian National and Grand Trunk railway affairs were under discussion at yesterday's caucus of government supporters in the senate and House of Commons. Particular attention was given, it is understood, to the application of the Grand Trunk Railway for an extension of time within which acquisition of the system by the government is to be completed.

Under the legislation as it was passed by parliament the transaction should be consumated by April 9, that is a week from today. The board of arbitrators which has been sitting in Montreal, however, has not yet finished hearing the evidence upon questions which have to be considered in determing the value of the stock. Before the government can take complete control of the system the report of the arbitrators must be secured, outstanding Grand Trunk stocks must be transferred to government and in payment thereof new four per cent. non-voting stock must be issued by the government on the basis of the findings of the arbitrators.

In the caucus various views of the application for an extention of time were expressed. There was naturally some objection, it is said, to the delay which would increase the cost of acquisition of control of the system and postpone for at least a brief period, co-ordination of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National systems.

MONTH'S EXTENSION OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

From Toronto, where they succeeded in persuading the Provincial Board of Health that Peterborough was determined not to be bound by the order to install the activated sludge system of sewage disposal, the deputation of the Council turned eastward, dropped City Engineer Parsons here, and picked up Ald. Phelan and went through to Ottawa, where they had arranged an interview with Senator Robertson, the Minister of Labour.

Mayor McIntyre and Aldermen Whitehouse, Phelan, and Gordon urged that the Government's co-operation in the temporary relief of unemployment be continued.

Senator Robertson agreed that the conditions warranted further assistance to those who have been unable to secure work, and approved of the continuance of the Government's share toward the relief for at least another month.

EXTENSION OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF PERIOD

ASKED BY DEPUTATION TO OTTAWA—PETERBOROUGH IN NEED OF MORE FUNDS FOR THESE.

SPENT NEARLY $5,000

Mayor McIntyre and Ald. N. Phelan, chairman of the Unemployment Relief Committee, have not yet returned from Ottawa, where they went yesterday as part of a deputation to endeavor to have an extension made of the Government's grant to unemployment relief.

The period for relief ended on March 31. Mr. F. W. Miller, Relief Officer, yesterday in relief given, depended on the city backing him up. The money expended in this city on relief in January, February and March, he said, would be between $4,000 and $5,000, of which the city pays one-third, about $1,500. So far, no money has been received from the Government, the city meeting the entire bill.

HEINTZMAN HALL RECITAL CROWDED

ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME CONCLUDED SPECIAL BRUNSWICK WEEK.

The musicale at Heintzman Hall last night provided an interesting entertainment for a large audience that occupied all the available accommodation, and crowded even the doorway. The local musicians who contributed to the programme were Mrs. Maurice Park, who sang two numbers and was enthusiastically encored, Mr. Harold Jones, tenor, Mrs. Clark, contralto, Miss D. Gillespie, and Mr. F. E. Walden, organist of Knox Church.

Mrs. Park sang "All the Roses in June," "The Hills of Kerry," "Happy Song," and "Tommy Lad," and although singing in the salesroom at Heintzman Hall, every one of her numbers as given with fine effect.

The programme included seven selections on a Brunswick phonograph—a beautiful "Stratford" model of Queen Anne design. The special features of the Brunswick, and the clearness of its reproductions were admirably presented These numbers included the Waltz Song from Romeo and Juliet, sung by Galli-Curci, the Mocking Bird by Alma Gluck, and "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," by Warenrath. Other Victor artistes chosen for this entertainment were Heifetz, Elman, Caruso, and Scotti, and the Peerless Quartette.

Mr. Harry R. Braid, of Toronto, a representative of the Brunswick Company, stated that the concert in Peterborough, which was arranged by Mr. W. Lawson, was second to none of the series given throughout Ontario from Windsor to this city.

Mr. Braid took occasion to return thanks for the large and appreciative audience, stating that it was the most successful recital of the kind he had secured during this Brunswick week, and was pleased to state on behalf of the manager of Heintzman Hall that they would be repeated during the summer There was one note of comment heard as the audience was retiring. It came from an enthusiastic Scot, who worships at Knox's: "I, it was a' very guid; but I was a wee bit disappointed that Willie Lawson did na gie us a skirl frae Harry Lauder. I was waitin' to hear "Roamin' in the Gloamin."

REGISTRATION FOR REFERENDUM CLOSED

The registration in Peterborough for the prohibition referendum concludes to-day, and according to Mr. C. R. Widdifield, the number of names added to the voters' list has been fairly large. Mr. J. F. Strickland, who had charge of the register of those whose names began with letters in the second half of the alphabet, had nearly seventy on his sheets this morning.

COMMITTEE ON RAILWAYS AND MARINE MOVED

GOVERNMENT TO SUPPORT IDEA PROMULGATED BY HON. A. K. MACLEAN IN RESOLUTION.

TO SOLVE PROBLEM

OTTAWA, April 2. — (Canadian Press).—Premier Meighen announced in the Commons yesterday that the Government proposed to move for the appointment of a Standing Committee of the Commons on national railways and merchant shipping.

The organization of such a committee is proposed in the motion of which Hon. A. K. MacLean gave notice some time ago. The idea put forward has been that such a committee would provide better opportunities than at present exist for constructive discussion of the railway problem.

BABIES CLINIC HELD A MEETING

At the meeting of the Board of Management of the Well Babies' Clinic, held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Kendry, Water street, on Thursday evening, a very interesting report of the work of the preceding quarter was read by Mrs. G. S. McCartney, the Clinic nurse. The open meetings, at which a local physician gives an address on matters pertaining to child welfare, followed by a nurse's demonstration, were all very successful, both in point of attendance and the interest manifested in the practical work. On Jan. 25th, Dr. Sutton spoke on "Feet, Shoes and Stockings,' and nurses from Nicholls Hospital showed how to erect a croup tent at home with equipment kindly loaned by the Hospital for the purpose. On Feb. 22nd, Dr. Yelland lectured on "Bronchitis and Colds," and the nurse, Miss M. Morrison, explained the proper method of making and applying poultices and compresses. On March 22nd Dr. Ray Scott gave a talk on the "Causes and Treatment of Indigestion," and Miss Morrison gave a demonstration on the proper care of rubber goods.

During January, February and March, the nurse made a total of 160 calls, 5 minor operations were performed, during January, 33 babies were registered at the City Hall and 39 in February, deaths in February were 7 and 2 in March.

The examinations of infants at the Clinic meetings for the quarter were as follows: Feb. 1st, 18 examined, 4 follow-up cases. Feb. 8th, 8 examined, 1 follow-up case. Feb. 15th, 9 examined, 3 follow-up cases. March 1st, 11 examined. March 8th, 12 examined. March 14th, 11 examined, 1 follow-up case. March 29th, 12 examined, making a total of 81 babies examined during the period.

The Baby Welfare Clinic, which is held every Tuesday from three to five o'clock in the G.W.V.A. Hall on Murray street, is free to everyone, and all mothers interested in the work are invited to attend.

Viscount French Succeeded By Lord Edmund Talbot; Big Change in British Ministry

VISCOUNT FRENCH THE MAN WHO BARRED THE HUNS FROM CALAIS

Viscount French was appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1918. One of his great achievements was in the famous battle of Ypres the winning of which barred the Channel ports from German occupation and saved England from invasion. His rule in Ireland never proved a happy one because of his strong stand against the Radicals, and his declaration that a Sinn Fein Republic would never be established there. In December of 1919, an unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Viscount French, while he was motoring in Ireland.

INHOFF SYSTEM SEWAGE DISPOSAL MAY BE ADOPTED

After insisting for a year or more that Peterborough must adopt the activated sludge type of sewage disposal plants, the Provincial Board of Health has at last consented to the installation of the Imhoff system for which City Engineer Parsons and the City Council had fought since investigations had raised a doubt of the success of the activated sludge method.

The concession gained by the city was virtually wrested from the Provincial Board by a deputation composed of Mayor McIntyre, Aldermen Whitehouse, City Engineer Parsons, Mr. T Tooms, M.L.A. They met the Hon. Walter Rollo, Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Provincial Health Officer, and Mr. Dallyn, the Board's engineer.

A statement that Peterborough was delaying the building of a sewage disposal plant in an evasive way was warmly repudiated by Alderman Whitehouse. It was pointed out that this city's objections to the activated sludge system, which Board had ordered to be employed here, were based on the fact that it was still in the experimental stage.

The members of the deputation declared that they wished to co-operate with the Board of Health, but on this question they held that they should not be compelled to use the activated sludge system instead of the older and better known Imhoff method.

Hon. Mr. Rollo and Dr. McCullough discussed the matter with the deputation at considerable length, and in a very friendly way acceded to Peterborough's wishes.

This means that City Engineer Parsons, supported by the Council, has won the last round in the dispute with the Provincial Board, and also that the city has no further reason for postponing the commencement of the sewage disposal plant.

500 RUSH SEATS

Only a few good reserved seats for The Peterborough Male Voice Choir concert remain unsold. Those who have not yet secured their reservations are advised to do so at the Grand Opera House without delay.

To meet the unusual demand, 500 rush seats in the gallery are being offered on Monday and Tuesday at 50 cents. It is hoped that in this way an opportunity will still be given to a large number who wish to hear the initial concert of the choir, to secure seats. Buy them at the Opera House on Monday and Tuesday next.

MARK ST. CHURCH.

The morning subject will be "The Altar in the River Bed." In the evening, "The Citizen and the Referendum."

BRITISH COAL MINES RUINED

SIX MINES LEFT TO MERCY OF WATER THOUGHT TO BE PERMANENTLY WRECKED.

SEQUEL TO STRIKE

LONDON, April 2.— (Canadian Press.)—Six British coal mines left to the mercy of inrushing waters by the strike of the miners and pump men have already been flooded and some of them are said to be in such a condition that they may be permanently wrecked. Four of these mines are in South Staffordshire, one in the Forest of Dean, County of Gloucester, and one in Flintshire, Northeastern Wales.

Convene Parliament.

LONDON, April 2.—A minor sequel to the coal miners' dispute is that the House of Lords will reassemble eight days before the time stipulated for them to do so. The House of Commons had adjourned until April 4 and the House of Lords until April 12. Under the emergency proclamation the Government is bound to convene Parliament within five days. Hence a Royal proclamation was issued last night convening both Houses for Monday. Lively debates are anticipated.

PREFERENCE FOR WEST INDIES IS URGED ON HOUSE

FREDERICTON, N.B., April 2.—(Canadian Press).—In the Legislature yesterday Hon. Fred. Magee gave notice that he would move a resolution favoring preferential trade relations with the British West Indies, provided trade was carried on through ports.
